Mrs. Burke was one of the oldest residents of West Quincy, and the widow of John Burke.

Some ten days ago she took a violent cold which developed into pneumonia from which she died. She leave four sons and a daughter.

Her sons are Commissioner of Public Works, Thomas F. Burke, ex-Representative James F. Burke; Tobias H. Burke, financial clerk at the Quincy post office, and John Burke. Mary Burke, the daughter, lived at home.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church.

Hollowe'en Parties Held Last Night

Halloween festivities galore were in evidence at the Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday night. The celebration was arranged for the benefit of the men who live in the dormitory rooms. After ten o'clock a rousing log fire was built in the fire place and the men were summoned from their rooms by a brass band, which paraded the corridors and serenaded each roomer.

After popping corn, and roasting apples over the fire, the competitive sports were commenced. Bobbing for apples, doughnut eating contests, peanut races, all brought forth close and exciting contests.

The last event on the program was a grand obstacle race between two relay teams. The course was a very difficult one under tables, over benches, etc. The winning team, captained by Mr. Long covered the course in 9 min., 32 seconds, and the two teams were only 6 feet apart at the finish.

Refreshments were served in the hall under the supervision of Gilbert Miller, and after the singing of songs, telling stories, the crowd dispersed at midnight.

This occasion is the first of a series of such socials which are being planned for the men in the dormitories during the coming year.

NEGLECTED DUTY

Guild Again Asks Moran to Discuss His Record

FAIRBANK IS DEFENDED

Governor Says Charges Are but a Snarl--Moran Wants New State Auditor to Hunt For What He Terms Forgeries

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 1.—City hall was crowded last night when Governor Guild addressed a Republican rally there. Congressman Tirrell related a number of stories and devoted some attention to the abortion bill proposed by John B. Moran. Congressman Lawrence discussed national issues, and then, turning to the state campaign, declared that the main issue was good government. In his speech, Guild said in part:

"Mr. Moran began his campaign with great promises as to what he proposed to do as President of the United States. He ends it abusing a tried and trusted public servant on no better evidence than the snarl of a disgruntled office-seeker." Referring to the Fairbank case, the governor said:

"I do not propose to give you another chance, Mr. Moran, to cry 'immunity bath' in this case. Your assistant intimates that the publication of the evidence at your disposal might embarrass the prosecution. You have the report of the hearing before the attorney general and you also have the documents I read last night showing that goods which you said were stolen were, as a matter of fact, stored; that a full inventory of them is, and has been at the state house; that they are stored where they are stored with the full knowledge of the state commission responsible for them, and, finally, that the expense incurred is borne by the man you would have the public believe to be a thief.

"You deceive yourself if you think that the people are going to be deceived by the exploitation of such malicious charges as these into excusing you from a discussion of your record in the district attorney's office.

"Why don't you pick up the official papers that have laid on your desk since Dec. 28 showing suspected graft to the extent of $385,000 in connection with the Fenway scandals in Boston?

"You have had an absolutely unlimited office force at your disposal since June. You have had all your predecessor ever had until that date. You have spent your whole time in advertising at the expense of respectable citizens, and to do this you have steadily neglected the plain duties of your office.

"You had time to delay the grand jury by hauling before it every prominent Democrat who was opposing your nomination on trumped-up charges which the jury promptly dismissed, but you haven't had time in nine long months to consult the criminal court docket and to take up a transaction by which a helpless little child has been beggared. Why? Whose displeasure were you afraid to incur by non-action?"

Governor Guild mentioned several cases which, he alleged, had been neglected by the district attorney.

"FORGED ORDERS"

Moran Wants New Auditor to Go Over Books of the State

Boston, Nov. 1.—District Attorney Moran addressed rallies last evening in Everett, Waltham, Somerville and Malden. He was received in each of his appearances with cheers and all the meeting places were crowded.

In Everett, where he spoke in Everett hall, the attendance was the largest ever known at a Democratic rally in the city. Moran devoted much attention to his challenge to Governor Guild for a platform debate. He also discussed the various planks in the Democratic platform, as he has done in previous speeches. "The gambling fraternity and the corporations," he said, "are all with Guild, who pretends to have dignity, but stoops in this campaign to a level lower than Boston's lowest ward politician."

Referring to his charges against Mr. Fairbank of the Lewis and Clark Exposition commission, Moran declared that Guild was protecting Fairbank from public condemnation. Moran said there should be a new state auditor who should go over the books of the state for 10 years back and ascertain how many forged orders had been cashed, how many thousands of dollars stolen, as there was "no knowing how many cases similar to that of Fairbank existed."

Ex-Congressman Williams arraigned the newspapers of Boston as being in a conspiracy against him, saying that they had not printed any of the arguments which he had presented during the campaign. "I am eliminated entirely from the morning papers," said Williams.

E. G. Brown spoke on labor topics exclusively, characterizing Guild as "the incarnation of the evils that labor has to contend with." He declared in discussing the relations of Lieutenant Governor Draper to labor that the latter's system of paying his employes makes white flesh cheaper than black flesh was before the war."

In Waltham, Moran again discussed the planks in the Democratic platform and also his charge regarding Fairbank. [illegible] Guild [illegible] he remarked "you should remove this man from the Jamestown Exposition commission. I say upon the testimony of the girl stenographer and of Mr. Perkins, the secretary of the Lewis and Clark Exposition commission, he is a forger. I ask you, Governor Guild, how long are you going to keep a criminal on the commission to represent this state in Virginia?"

Hustling in the Empire State

New York, Nov. 1.—With election day less than a week away, the two candidates for governor of New York are making their last appeals to the upstate voters and today will see both Mr. Hughes and Mr. Hearst headed toward Greater New York, where the final arguments will be made. Both are voice-worn from frequent out-door speaking, but neither rain nor snow has dampened the enthusiasm of the crowds that gathered everywhere to greet them.

In this city the feature of the day was the action of Hearst in appealing directly to Judge Rosalsky of the court of general sessions to take vigorous measures against the board of elections for their alleged criminal negligence in failing to prevent the loss or destruction of Independent League nominating petitions. District Attorney Jerome, when Hearst's requests was laid before him, decided that the matter should first be submitted to a magistrate for a thorough inquiry. Hearst also has offered rewards aggregating $50,000 for the arrest and conviction of persons guilty of election frauds on Nov. 6.

The publication of a cablegram from Richard Croker in Ireland to P. H. McCarren, Democratic leader in Kings county, reading: "Congratulate you on manly stand you have taken, win or lose," caused some excitement in Democratic headquarters. McCarren has consistently opposed Hearst since the Buffalo convention.

Famous Case to Be Retried

Boston, Nov. 1.—The famous fight over the million left by the late Jennie P. Chase of Swampscott is to be reopened. This was decided yesterday in the supreme court when it was agreed that issues should be framed for a trial before a jury upon the two appeals, one being from the decree which disallowed the will of Mrs. Chase, and the other from the order revoking the decree under which Mrs. Chase adopted the son of Dr. Horace Chase, husband of the deceased. One of the most stubborn legal battles over the allowance of a will ever tried in the courts of this state is expected.

Two Women and Man Killed

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 1.—Three persons are dead and two wounded as the result of a murder here, followed by an exchange of shots between the murderer and policemen. Manuel Rodriguez killed his wife when she returned home and found him in company with another woman. Rodriguez and the woman with him were killed and Detective Harold and a negro were wounded in the fight that ensued.

Great Racket at Pittsburg

Pittsburg, Nov. 1.—Erstwhile clowns, chorus girls, policemen, convicts and football players thronged the streets of this city last night in the celebration of Pittsburg's annual Hallowe'en carnival, which was one of license and liberty, with no police restrictions beyond destruction of property or personal injury. Until after midnight the din of horns, cowbells and rattles kept up.

Steam Kills Five Persons

New Orleans, Nov. 1.—Five persons were scalded to death by a column of escaping steam from a broken boiler drum in a sugar house near Vacherie. A hole two feet square burst in the boiler drum. The sugar house was filled with steam and when found the victims were still alive, but fatally burned and in intense suffering.

Coughed Up Buckshot Before Death

Portland, Or., Nov. 1.—In a violent fit of coughing, shortly before his death at a local hospital, H. L. Mills, nephew of General Robert E. Lee, raised from his lungs a buckshot that he had carried in his body since the Civil war, when he fought against the army commanded by his mother's brother.

Large Bequest For Missions

Cincinnati, Nov. 1.—Three hundred shares of stock of the First National bank of this city (present market value $76,500) was left to Rev. Frank H. Nelson, rector of Christ Episcopal church, as trustee, by the will of Mrs. Charles Cassilly. The bequest is for "home and foreign missions."

Expert to Examine Books

Havana, Nov. 1.—Mr. Terrill, formerly auditor for the government, has arrived here to examine all the governmental financial departments. Terrill is also to recommend reforms in departmental methods. It is expected that his investigation will not be a prolonged one.

Fulfilled Suicide Threat

Calais, Me., Nov. 1.—Andrew Kaye, 48 years old, who was under jail sentence for disturbing the peace of his family, committed suicide last night by hanging himself in his cell. Kaye leaves a wife and 10 children. He had declared he would end his life.

When Your Liver Goes Wrong

—the bowels become clogged, bilious headache sets in, the appetite fails and the stomach sickens. All these troubles come from a lack of bile, which the liver cannot secrete unless it is kept in an active and healthy condition. Bile is the natural cathartic of the bowels, and all is well so long as the liver is able to supply it in sufficient quantity. When the liver becomes sluggish there is a lack of bile and a dose or two of is needed to furnish gentle exercise for the liver, give it the needed assistance, and to strengthen the bile glands to resume their important work. The bowels then act, the kidneys are stimulated, all poisonous matter is carried off through the natural channels, and liver, stomach and bowels work together again in healthy harmony.

Few medicines can bring about this happy condition, but Beecham's Pills are doing it everyday for thousands. They have been the peoples' remedy for over half a century. No surface work about Beecham's Pills. They are a constitutional tonic that supplies the sluggish liver with power to secrete the bile, and their far-reaching properties quickly

CAPTURED PONIES

Troopers Stole a March on Ute Indian Herders

RESULTS IN A SKIRMISH

Fully Armed Renegades Did Not Fire and Succeeded In Getting Animals Back--Guides of Soldiers' Perhaps Treacherous

Sheridan, Wyo., Nov. 1.—A skirmish occurred yesterday between a band of renegade Ute Indians and a troop of the Tenth cavalry on Bitter creek, according to word brought by a special courier. The troops had captured 50 Ute ponies, severely frightening five Indian herders.

As the troopers were driving away the ponies, 100 Utes, fully armed, surrounded the cavalrymen and the ponies, stampeding the ponies with revolver shots and war whoops. The Indians recovered all the ponies but five that were killed by the troops in an effort to stop the stampede.

The Indians did not fire at the soldiers. The soldiers desisted from attacking the Utes, as the redskins greatly outnumbered the troopers.

Troopers say that, as far as they can ascertain from rumor and observation, the Indians will fight with little provocation.

Another detachment of the Tenth cavalry that left Sheridan Monday night ran across a wandering band of 100 Crow Indians, under command of Chief Sweet Mouth. The troopers drove the Crows back toward the Crow agency. The Crows said that they were hunting and denied any intention of joining the Utes.

Still another squad of the Tenth cavalry fell in with a band of Cheyenne Indians, who, on representation that they were hunting, were allowed to go in peace.

Settlers charge that Indian guides, employed by the federal troops, are acting treacherously and leading the troops on false trails to keep the soldiers from overtaking the Utes. These settlers mention among the wily scouts Woman's Dress, American Horse and White Cow Bull.

Noted Judge Passes On

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Judge Joseph E. Gary died suddenly at his home in this city of heart disease. He had been a member of the Cook county bench for 43 years. Gary presided over the anarchists' trials in 1886. He was repeatedly threatened with death by anarchists' sympathizers, and showed wonderful physical as well as high moral courage during a very trying experience that continued for many months after the anarchists had been executed. He was born in Potsdam, N. Y., in 1821.

Reservation Will Remain Open

Washington, Nov. 1.—Further reports from agents of the interior department who superintended the opening of the Walker Lake Indian reservation in Nevada have convinced Secretary Hitchcock that the infractions of the regulations governing the opening were not serious enough to warrant a recommendation in favor of invalidating it.

No More Victims of Wreck

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 1.—The third and last car of The Thoroughfare wreck was lifted from the water late yesterday. When placed on the mud bank the car was in such a condition that it fell apart of its own weight. A diligent search was made for any bodies that may have been wedged in the car, but none were found.

Killed With Ham Tester

New York, Nov. 1.—Joseph Murelo, a young Italian, was stabbed and almost instantly killed with a long needle-like tool known to butchers as a ham tester during a fight last night on the East Side. The police arrested Joseph Dalleslo on the charge of having murdered him. The police believe that the men quarreled over a woman.

Temperance Women Adjourn

Hartford, Nov. 1.—The national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was brought to a close last night. Among the resolutions adopted was one asking President Roosevelt to mention in his annual message to congress the liquor traffic as "one of the evils that menace our nation."

Russian Diplomat Sues Countess

Brest, Nov. 1.—Alexander Greger, the Russian diplomat who was accused by the Countess Rodellec du Porzic of stealing a diamond ring from her while visiting in Brittany, has brought suit for slander and defamation of character against the countess, who on Oct. 8 withdrew her complaint against Greger.

DISEASED CATTLE

Condemned In Vermont and Then Shipped Away For Food

TEN JURY INDICTMENTS

Two Former Members of State Cattle Commission, as Well as Rendering Companies, Furnish Bonds For Appearance In Court

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 1.—Sensational charges were made in 10 indictments which were returned by the Chittenden county grand jury in connection with the sale of diseased cattle in the state and in the sale of which, according to the indictments, two former members of the state cattle commission participated with a full knowledge that such cattle would be used for food purposes.

Four of the indictments were against the Consolidated Rendering company, and they contained 400 counts. Four were against L. E. Brigham, manager of the Burlington Rendering company. This company is controlled by the Consolidated company and the indictment against its manager, which also contains 400 counts, is identical with that returned against the Consolidated company.

The most sensational disclosures, however, were made in the indictments which were returned against Dr. F. A. Rich, a veterinary of this city, and Victor I. Spear of Randolph, both of whom were members of the state cattle commission. Spear's term expired about one year ago and he was not reappointed. Rich was removed from the commission by Governor Bell just before the latter retired from office.

The indictments against the Consolidated company and Brigham charge the sale of diseased meat in the state and also the shipment of such diseased meat out of the state for the purpose of putting it on sale. Rich and Spear are charged with selling to the rendering companies diseased beef which they had previously condemned.

According to the state law, Rich and Spear were empowered to travel throughout the state and inspect the stock of farmers. When diseased cattle were found they were condemned, the owner being paid a sum for the loss of his stock. The indictments returned yesterday charge that the two commissioners, instead of destroying cattle affected with tuberculosis, sold them to the rendering companies, knowing at the time of the sale that such cattle would be sold as food. All of the defendants furnished bonds for their appearance at the March term of the Chittenden county court.

Before the grand jury reported Judge Rowell imposed a fine of $3000 on the Consolidated Rendering company for its failure to produce before the grand jury certain papers and memoranda which had been demanded. The defendant, in contesting the charge of contempt of court proceedings, maintained that the papers had been destroyed prior to the investigation. Judge Rowell overruled the motion to dismiss the case and he imposed the fine.

In explanation of his failure to make the fine the maximum allowable under the statutes, the judge stated that in fixing the penalty he had in mind the fact that there are further means of punishing the company. It was learned later that the Vermont law provides that a company found guilty of the charges which are pending against the Consolidated company may be permanently prohibited from doing business in the state.

Laurier Administration Endorsed

Liverpool, N. S., Nov. 1.—The Laurier administration won a notable victory in a bye-election held in the Queen-Shelburne district to fill the vacancy in the federal parliament caused by the unseating of W. S. Fielding, finance minister and Liberal leader in Nova Scotia, for irregularities committed by his agents in the general election. Feilding was re-elected by about 1000 majority over R. C. Weldon, the Conservative candidate. The contest was bitterly fought.

Dog Saved Lives of Family

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Nov. 1.—John Dolan, his wife, two daughters and a son were saved from burning to death by their dog. Dolan was first aroused by the dog's howling, but told the animal to "shut up" and went to sleep. The dog next jumped onto the bed and seized Dolan by the arm. This thoroughly awakened Dolan and the family gained a place of safety just as the roof was falling in. It was with difficulty that the family escaped.

Millionaires' Prosecution Urged

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the death of the strikers killed in the riots at MacLaren's mills recommended criminal prosecution of Albert and Alexander MacLaren, the millionaire lumbermen. The verdict declares they are responsible for the death of their men because they brought the detectives here who fired the fatal shots.

Rioter Convicted of Murder

Atlanta, Nov. 1.—Alexander Walker, on trial for the murder of Policeman Heard, was found guilty with a recommendation of mercy and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Walker was indicted with 58 other negroes for the murder of Heard during the September riots here, his being the first case to be tried.

ENFORCING BAIT ACT

Newfoundland Defies the British-American Agreement

St. Johns, Nov. 1.—The colonial government has decided to test the validity of the modus videndi. It has issued an official notice enforcing the bait act, which forbids Newfoundlanders to fish on board foreign vessels within colonial waters, and it intends to prosecute one or more colonial fishermen who have been shipped by Americans outside the three-mile limit after these men have been paid off by the American vessels on which they are serving. After this the supreme court or the privy council will determine whether or not the modus vivendi overrides colonial enactments.

The government furthermore calculates that this threat of prosecution will deter the colonists from going beyond the marine boundary to join American vessels and that the latter will therefore be unable to secure crews to catch herring.

As this would nullify the spirit of the modus vivendi, which agrees that nobody shall be penalized for joining American vessels, it is expected to result in trouble between the cabinets at London and Washington, as the latter probably will demand that Great Britain make good the pledge embodied in the modus vivendi.

Federal Express In Collision

Shafon, Mass., Nov. 1.—The engine of the Federal express, bound from Boston to Washington, had a side-on collision here last night with the engine of a local freight train at a crossover. Both engines were thrown from the rails and John Keeler, engineer of the express, was pinned under his machine but extricated later and will probably live. None of the passengers on the express were injured, although every one was shaken up, and the train crew of the freight also escaped. Although none of the railroad officials would comment on the accident, it was learned that when the express approached the crossover the signals for the switch were set at safety.

Castellane Divorce Proceedings

Paris, Nov. 1.—The case of Countess de Castellane for divorce from her husband, Count Boni de Castellane, was begun yesterday afternoon. Lawyer Cruppi presented the plea of the countess for absolute divorce and the custody of the children. This plea was made upon documentary evidence. The great lawyer spoke for 4½ hours. The case was adjourned before Cruppi's argument was finished. The lawyer painted Count Boni in the blackest of colors, declaring him to be rapacious, brutal and licentious, while the countess was held up as the long-suffering and innocent victim. Nothing was spared and nothing was glossed over.

PETITION TO GOVERNOR

Maine Citizens Think Shiloh Colony Should Be Investigated

Portland, Me., Nov. 1.—The text of a petition, which is being readily signed by the clergymen and prominent professional and business men of this city, including three former governors of Maine, asking Governor Cobb to investigate conditions at the Holy Ghost and Us colony at Shiloh, was made public last night. It is as follows:

"In view of the persistent and seemingly well-authenticated reports of gross evils existing in the Sandford community at Shiloh, resulting in suffering and injury to members of the community, especially little children, we, the undersigned citizens of Maine, respectfully petition your excellency, if at all possible, to take such measures as your wisdom may dictate to ascertain the exact facts and abate the evils."

The petition will be circulated in Androscoggin county and other sections of western and central Maine. It was drafted as a result of the conference of Portland clergymen with Mrs. Alice Phelps of Kansas City, who has been unable to persuade or force her daughter to leave the colony.

Doctor Held For Girl's Death

Bellows Falls, Vt., Nov. 1.—Dr. J. M Ryder of Bellows Falls was held for the county court after a hearing last night on the charge of causing the death of Miss Iva Martin of Proctorsville. He was remanded to jail in default of bonds of $2000. Miss Martin came here Tuesday from her home and went to the office of Dr. Ryder. Four hours later the authorities were notified that she had died in the office. An autopsy was held by four physicians, who testified in effect that they found evidence that a criminal operation had been attempted.

Diver Was In Danger

Gardiner, Me., Nov. 1.—Scott Tibbetts, a diver employed by the Eastern Steamship company, which has a crew of men and a lighter removing obstructions from the bed of the Kennebec river here, nearly lost his life by drowning because of an explosion of dynamite. The lighter was overturned by the force of the explosion and a hole was blown in the bottom of it. The men readily reached a place of safety, but before they were able to rescue the diver he was almost overcome.

Death Viewed With Suspicion

Lincoln, Mass., Nov. 1.—Michael Kennedy, an aged farmhand, was found dead in his stable in South Lincoln under circumstances which do not clearly indicate the cause of death. Kennedy lived alone. An examination of the body showed that the skull had been fractured and that there were several cuts on the head. Near the body was found a pitchfork with two of the tines broken off. It is thought possible that Kennedy may have been kicked by a horse.

No Vessels Caught In Storm

Boston, Nov. 1.—The last day of October brought a heavy northeast gale to the New England coast. Fortunately the greater portion of the coastwise sailing fleet reached their destinations earlier in the week, so that very few were caught in exposed localities and no serious accidents have been reported. The storm backed a tremendous tidal wave up on the coast and some damage was done to the beaches and along the water front in the cities.

Not Certain Man Is a Leper

Boston, Nov. 1.—According to Dr. Durgin of the board of health, there are grave doubts whether Thomas W. Beals, a young man sent to Gallup's island yesterday, is afflicted with the dreaded leprosy. Symptoms of what was believed at first to be leprosy were discovered at the Massachusetts general hospital, where the young man had gone for treatment for another complaint, and every precaution was at once taken to isolate him.

West Will Not Leave Princeton

Boston, Nov. 1.—Professor West of Princeton university, who was offered the presidency of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology two weeks ago and who has since that time had the matter under consideration, has declined to accept the office. His duties as dean of the graduate school of Princeton university, of which he is the dean and founder, impose claims upon him which, he says, he cannot ignore.

Advocates of Dangerous Doctrine

Boston, Nov. 1.—Without the slightest reluctance, two witnesses for the defense in the trial of an Italian accused of a murderous assault on two of his countrymen admitted that they were anarchists and that all loyal members of their order had an utter disregard for the laws of God and man, and that they believed violence was the wisest and best policy.

Would Preserve Our Forests

Boston, Nov. 1.—At a meeting held in this city of persons interested in the preservation of the forests of New England a committee of three was appointed to arrange for a general conference of representatives from all the New England states. The committee will meet next week to outline the work of the convention.

Serenade on Pleasant Street

The blowing of fish horns and the burning of red fire startled Eugene DeMerritt, the popular manager of the Fleichman Yeast Co., and the whole neighborhood in the vicinity of 55 Pleasant street, Tuesday evening, the occasion being a serenade by several of his friends, celebrating his marriage which took place in Dover, N. H., a few days ago.

After realizing what had happened, they invited all into the house, and they became acquainted with Mrs. DeMerritt. A social and general good time was enjoyed for several hours. During the evening Luther Nason rendered several vocal selections which were highly appreciated. The report of the trip, and the good time, was after a great deal of coaxing told by Gene.

James Moorhead, Jr., was called upon for remarks, and in a few chosen words in behalf of those present and some friends unable to be there, presented Mr. and Mrs. DeMerritt with a beautiful marble clock. It was a great surprise to both, and Gene was lost for words for a while, but finally recovered and thanked all for their gift and hoped that it may serve to mark for them only the happy hours. But may the foot of time be light as if it trod on flowers.

During the evening refreshments were served. As the wee small hours drew nigh, all took their departure, wishing the happy couple a happy life and hoping that all their troubles would be little ones.

Take Hall's Family Pills for conspitaion
There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Hallowe'en Party.

The Sunshine club of St. Chrysostom's church held a Hallowe'en party Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock in the parish rooms. The club consisting of over thirty members played many kinds of games and did stunts suggestive to All Hallows Eve.

At five o'clock a light supper in charge of Mrs. H. R. Barham and Mrs. George E. Rundlett was served, consisting of sandwiches, prize cakes, fruit punch, and candy.

At 5.30 the children went joyfully to their homes, saying it was the best party they had had since the club started.

Rev. E. N. Hardy of Bethany church was one of the speakers on Wednesday at the Congregational conference at Middleboro.

NEW MASTER

Large Gain In Membership By Rural Lodge The Past Year

The annual meeting of Rural lodge of Masons was most encouraging for the members. The reports showed a large increase in membership during the year a larger balance in the general fund, and a larger charity fund. The years during which Worshipful Joseph P. Prout has been in the chair have been phenomenal ones. During these years the lodge has moved into commodious and beautiful quarters, and certainly has taken a new lease of life.

Rural lodge now has 266 members, and a large number of applications are received at each meeting.

It is customary for the master to serve but two years, so promotions were in order and the following officers were elected:

W. M.,—Hartley L. White.
S. W.,—Charles Simpson.
J. W.,—Albert M. Parker.
T.,—Alexander Falconer.
S.,—Walter E. Simmons.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a public installation of the officers elect and appointive, which will probably be held in December.

Many Conversions At Revival

Well attended revival meetings are being held this week at St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church on Fort street, Rev. S. L. Carlender pastor, and will be continued next week. They are conducted by Evangelist H. Gambert of Pittsburg, Penn.

The subjects for this week were as follows:

Tuesday,—"The deserter."
Wednesday,—"The man who missed it."
Thursday,—"The road, lost, made and found."
Friday,—"The master hath need."
Saturday,—"A poor exchange."
Sunday morning,—"The separated life."
Sunday evening,—"The compassion of Jesus."

Mr. Gambert is a gifted young man, 22 years of age, and about forty people have already confessed conversion during the revival. The services are in English, and every one is welcome. The services are held at 7.30 P. M.

Sudden Death On the Street

Shortly before midnight persons passing through School street had their attention attracted to a woman seated on the sidewalk opposite Summer street.

She was taken to the office of Dr. D. B. Reardon where she expired. She was a woman about 60 years of age. Among her effects were: a card with the name Kate Brennan, 3 Auburn street, Lowell; a gold watch marked "B," and a white handkerchief with letter "B," in the corner.

Medical Examiner Jones was called and gave the cause of death as dilation of the heart.

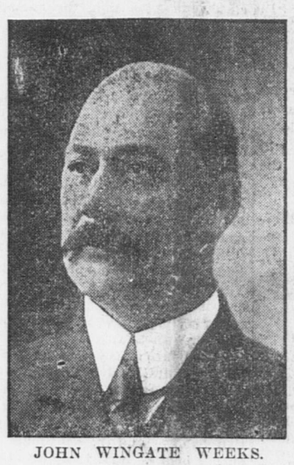

It was learned that the woman came from Neponset on a late street car. Word was sent to Lowell, and this morning a message was received by Dr. Jones that the woman was probably Kate Brennan, and that friends would come to Quincy to see if they could identify the body.

This noon the woman was positively identified by relatives who came from Lowell as Katherine Brennan. For the past seven or eight months she had been employed as a domestic at the parochial residence of St. John's church. She has sisters in New York and Lowell. The body was taken in charge by a Lowell undertaker and removed to that city for burial.

—What a difference there is between the society woman in the city, who paints her cheek, and the farmer's wife up in the country, who paints the hen house.—Somerville Journal.

Congressman Tirrell Will Also Speak

Congressman Charles Q. Tirrell will also be one of the speakers tonight at the Republican rally at Quincy Music hall.

JOHN WINGATE WEEKS.

With Congressman Weeks and Tirrell, Representative Luce and Congressman-to-be Callender as speakers there should be a good rally.

Democratic Candidates Heard

Rallies in the interest of Joseph O'Connell were held Thursday evening at St. Mary's and Quincy Music hall. Both were largely attended.

William T. Shea presided at the West Quincy meeting and addresses were made by Candidate O'Connell, ex-Mayor McNamee of Cambridge, Alderman Hennessey of Boston, and Councilman James M. Flaherty, candidate for Representative.

Councilman Charles J. McGilvray, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, presided at the Music hall meeting. The speakers were Candidate O'Connell, ex-Mayor McNamee of Cambridge, Alderman Hennessy of Boston, T. F. Daly, candidate for Senator, Charles M. Cooney of Boston, and Alexander C. Smith, candidate for Representative.

Ground Broken For New Schoolhouse

This morning, although it was a Friday, a large gang of men, commenced work excavating for the cellar of the new 12-room brick schoolhouse to be erected by the city at Atlantic, on the corner of Newbury avenue and Botolph street.

The lot is in every way a very desirable one and cost the city $10,500. The appropriation for the schoolhouse was $61,000, the contract being awarded to Marr Bros. a little under this sum.

It is to be hoped that Atlantic will not have a repetition of the delay at the High school. The start has not been auspicious, as it was on July 2 that the appropriation order passed the City Council.

HOW TO DRESS CHILDREN.

This is No Simple Matter for Persons Whose Purses Are Not Long.

Mothers of large families are among the most frequent contributors to the Household Department of the Boston Daily Globe. Skilful managers, they have some time left from housework, which they generously devote to answering questions sent in by less experienced sisters. Among the subjects they will tell you how to dress your children and save money. Ask them any question you wish.

LITTLE BUILDING

About One-Half The Average Of New Houses The Past Year

The Assessors of 1906 found during their travels about the city in May that only 84 dwelling houses had been erected in Quincy during the year 1905-1906. This was 56 less than in the preceding year, and 122 less than in 1904.

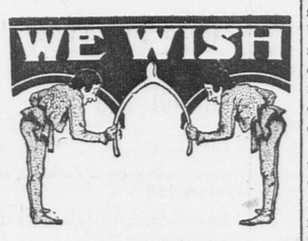

In the year 1888-1889 there were built in Quincy 314 houses, nearly four times as many as last year. The average for the last seventeen years has been over 164, twice as many as last year.

The increase in houses is shown below, year by year, according to the Assessors' returns, and over half of the houses in Quincy have been built since we became a city in 1888.

Year	Houses	Gain
In 1889,	2,453	—
In 1890,	2,767	314
In 1891,	2,935	168
In 1892,	3,169	234
In 1893,	3,336	167
In 1894,	3,486	150
In 1895,	3,643	157
In 1896,	3,764	121
In 1897,	3,940	176
In 1898,	4,176	236
In 1899,	4,277	101
In 1900,	4,404	127
In 1901,	4,527	123
In 1902,	5,725	198
In 1903,	4,822	97
In 1904,	5,028	206
In 1905,	5,168	140
In 1906,	5,252	84

There are several things which contribute to the stoppage of building, viz: the high prices of material, high wages and short hours of labor; high taxes and high water rates; assessments for sewers, sidewalks, etc., and the small returns for money invested in houses.

There is a great demand in Quincy for houses, a demand which is far in excess of the supply, but with conditions as they are building will not be active.

Object to Being The Financiers

Editors Daily Ledger:

The communication in Saturday's Ledger written by "Quincy Buyer" will doubtless cause much amusement to the Quincy business men, so far at least as it refers to advertising by the giving away of money for the purpose of financing fairs, social affairs, amateur theatricals and dances.

The business men of Quincy are a class of men who aim to furnish the people of the city with merchandise equal or superior to Boston goods at Boston prices or less. "Quincy Buyer" says that his trade will go to Boston if the Quincy business men do not respond to the continuous demands for donations for various purposes.

If he does this he will find that his Boston friends will not contribute to an alarming degree to any program or dance order. If he does not believe so, let him approach some of the heads of the Boston retail houses.

I say approach, because I do not think he would get as far as an interview. The Boston people advertise in the papers, donate their good money for advertising where "Quincy Buyer" and his friends can see the perpetual display of bargains (?), but for contributions they send them to the easy Quincy merchants.

I have personally contributed to several supposedly worthy causes with the understanding that the affair was to be given in Quincy, to later find that the fair, dance or party was given in Boston for the benefit of the few that collected the money.

The Quincy business men see more strange faces each week among the solicitors of contributions of various kinds than in any other way. People come for miles around for donations. We hope they do their trading here. To worthy causes we are always ready to contribute, but the financing of private dances, parties and fairs has gone far enough. A Quincy Seller.

Faulty Construction In Public Works

Editor of Daily Ledger:—

A sorry, and one would think a rather embarrassing statement, to those primarily concerned, is that relative to the High school building, made by Mayor Thompson at Ward Three Republican caucus Monday evening, "that when recent changes were made looking to the reconstruction of the front wall of the building it was found to be very unsafe, there being no ties between the bricks and the wall, which faulty construction rendered the structure very dangerous." The inquiry may pertinently be made, to whose incompetency, or lack of supervision or graft can this condition of affairs be imputed?

If our city authorities would find time to use seasonable proper vigilance in the construction of our public buildings, there would be no such further faulty and reprehensible construction of "brick walls" and "stone foundations" necessitating later putting in iron beams for suitable support.

The same may be said of the like conditions of the Fore River Bridge. Where does the fact come in, and to whose door can it be charged, that a steel bridge exceeding $100,000 first cost, that the deplorable story must be told that "the approaches to the bridge have got to be rebuilt," "that the concrete piers are going to pieces" and likewise "have got to be rebuilt."

Perhaps the unearned one hundred dollars per day compensation received by each of the commissioners was insufficient to ensure their proper oversight of the construction of the bridge.

Bridgeport Pleased.

The Bridgeport Standard of Bridgeport, Conn., had an interesting column report last week of the address of Col. Edward Anderson of this city delivered before the Seaside club on John Brown, the American abolitionist and anti-slavery leader. The Standard says:

"Colonel Anderson spoke as an eye witness of John Brown's activity in Kansas, related many experiences between them, told of his high moral traits, and he held the strictest attention of his audience through his lecture which was a remarkably fine oratorical effort, historically accurate and containing many hitherto unknown facts concerning the great American abolitionist who died a martyr to his beliefs.

A Fighting Chance.

A dramatic critic says of the play to be presented next Tuesday by the King's Daughters: "A fighting chance; or by the blue or the gray" is an agreeable variation of the usual theme of these plays, the author having succeeded in constructing a strong and interesting play without employing the usual "long-lost daughter" as a dramatic factor. The characters are good and varied. Irish and Negro low comedy characters, a French character part, a little Quaker, a German dialect part and type of girls from both North and South give an exceptional variety of character interest. The story of the piece is original, and its interest strong and well sustained. Can be recommended to the best taste.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

As a reliable family tonic, in all complaints of the stomach, liver or bowels, especially constipation, Dr. True's Elixir stands without an equal; it is a pure vegetable compound with a wonderfully successful record since 1857. Adults as well as children are troubled with worms. The symptoms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; foul tongue, offensive breath, hard and full belly, with occasional gripings and pains about the naval; eyes heavy and dull, itching of the nose, short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth, starting during sleep; slow fever, and often in children, convulsions and bed wetting.

A few doses of Dr. True's Elixir will expel the worms if there are any: if not it acts as a gentle laxative tonic, clearing the stomach and bowels of all waste matter, leaving these organs sweet and clean—it increases the appetite, causing pure life-giving blood to flow through the body, thus invigorating the whole system with rugged, robust health. If taken regularly it will prevent coughs, colds, fevers and worms.

Sold by druggists, 35c, 50c, $1.00. Write for booklet, "Children and Their Diseases."

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Because of the prominence of Representative Luce in reform measures, especially with reference to elections, caucuses, and temperance, many will want to hear him tonight at the Republican rally.

A demand continues for the Wednesday eight-page Daily Ledger with the verbatim report of the address of Dr. Edward Everett Hale at Quincy, and also a good half tone of the venerable clergyman. Had the Herald read the address it would not have made the error below:

"Edward Everett Hale still persists in repeating that unique bit of advice that we should speak to some one every day whom we know to be our intellectual superior. And it is always good. The only difficulty in trying to follow it is that our superiors are generally so busy that they don't have time for conversation. It is the inferiors who have an abundance of leisure."

Now Dr. Hale did not say "intellectual" superior. The practical working rules for every day life which he promulgated and explained were in these exact words:

1.—Live in the open air all you can.

2.—Touch elbows with the rank and file.

3.—Speak every day to somebody you know to be your superior.

The address is one which should be read to every child, and carefully reread by all adults. Keep the Wednesday Ledger for future reference, and profit by the every day rules which Dr. Hale in his wisdom has so kindly given us.

FARLOW'S DENIAL

No Probing Into Financial Affairs of Mrs Eddy

RUNS HER OWN AFFAIRS

Fortune Made by Legitimate Wage For Services as Teacher and Profits on Her Books--No Interference From Lawyers

Boston, Nov. 2.—Alfred Farlow of this city, head of the Christian Science publication bureau, last night issued a statement concerning the financial affairs of Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy. The statement is, in part, as follows:

"The New York World of today publishes the following statement: 'The World is in a position to say positively that Boston lawyers were today consulted by fair-minded Christian Scientists who were convinced of Mrs. Eddy's collapse, and will force Calvin A. Frye and others in actual control of Mrs. Eddy to tell what has become of her big fortune, estimated by those who should know, at nearly $15,000,000.'

"I have just returned from Mrs. Eddy's home and am pleased to inform The World that she is well and happy and is at her desk, giving instructions to her secretary, Mr. Frye, and conducting her own affairs.

"The church has nothing whatever to do with Mrs. Eddy's fortune, whether it be large or small. It is her own property and consists of a legitimate wage for her services as a teacher of Christian Science and the legitimate profits on her books. Mrs. Eddy is not a trustee for any church funds, and therefore has no accounting to render to Christian Scientists. The church has no jurisdiction over her private holdings and therefore no more right to know what disposition she makes of them than they have to inquire about the private affairs of any other citizen.

"I hold in my possession an affidavit made by Edward L. Pride, the auditor of the books of the Christian Science church, which states that Mrs. Eddy has never received any money from the Christian Science church with the exception of $5000, which was tendered her by the directors of the church for services rendered during the erection of the extension of the mother church in Boston. Mr. Pride is not a Christian Scientist.

"No Boston lawyers or any other lawyers have been consulted by Christian Scientists with reference to interfering with the duties and accomplishments of Mrs. Eddy's faithful secretary, nor has there been any talk of such an action nor any occasion for talk on the subject."

A Woman District Attorney

New York, Nov. 2.—Miss Mary G. Quackenbus, a lawyer of this city, has been appointed a special assistant United States district attorney by United States District Attorney Stimson. Miss Quackenbus is the first of her sex to be selected for such a position. The case she will especially prosecute is against Sigmund S. Schwartz, proprietor of an employment bureau in this city, who is charged with peonage.

Almost a Miracle Indeed

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 2.—By almost a miracle the teachers and pupils at the Gallity pubic schoolhouse escaped from being crushed to death. Just as they left the building and the last teacher was closing the outside door, the walls began to bulge and in a short time the structure was in ruins. The building was a temporary one in use pending the completion of a new structure.

Shipmate of Noted Men

Pittsburg, Nov. 2.—Guy Samson, an insurance broker and shipmate of Admiral Sampson and Admiral Dewey during the Civil war, died here as the result of a bullet wound through the heart. Whether he committed suicide or was accidentally shot has not been determined. Samson was born in Hartford 66 years ago. He had been an engineer in the navy.

Won't Grant Switchmen's Request

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Railroad managers have informed the Switchmen's union that their demand for a raise of 10 cents an hour will not be granted. The railroads declare that the switchmen will be given an increase of 2 cents an hour or nothing. It is stated that the advance of 2 cents an hour will not be satisfactory to the men.

Corpse Stood on River's Bed

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 2.—The body of H. N. Burch, another victim of The Thoroughfare disaster, was recovered from the mud near the scene of the wreck. The body was found in an upright position, leaning against a piling of the bridge, and had apparently been sucked into the mud feet first.

UNFAIR, MALICIOUS ATTACKS.

Democratic Newspaper Resents Hearst-Brown Falsehoods Regarding the Draper Company.

Says the Great Army of People at Hopedale are Prosperous and Happy —Eben S. Draper a Real Benefactor.

The following is from the Milford Daily News, a Democratic newspaper edited and publishhed by William D. Leahy, a member of the Democratic state central committee. Milford is situated next to Hopedale, the site of the extensive manufacturing interests of the Draper company, and many of the workmen of the Draper company reside there. Mr. Leahy writes with a thorough knowledge of conditions and expresses that local sentiment which resents a attack upon an industry which has done so much for Milford, Hopedale and the state. He says:

"The frequent attacks made by Hearst's Boston American on our neighbor, Lieutenant Governor Eben S. Draper of Hopedale, and the stories published concerning labor conditions in Hopedale, the wages paid, treatment of employes, etc., in the great hive of industry of which he is one of the heaviest stockholders, are the most malicious, unfair and unwarrantable that human mind could devise.

"It is not our intention to attempt to uphold and defend E. S. Draper from a political standpoint, for we are not of the same political faith, and we disagree on certain important questions of public policy. But we do feel that, as a citizen of Milford, for which Mr. Draper has done, and is now doing, so much, it is our duty to nail a few of the many falsehoods that are being circulated—for political purposes only by political highwaymen—about Hopedale's honored son and Milford's benefactor and friend.

"Notwithstanding the dark pictures printed in the diabolical Hearst organ about Hopedale and its citizens, we know from 20 years' observation at close range, and so does everybody residing within a radius of 10 miles of the great Draper company plant, that these pen pictures are fearfully overdrawn and quite the reverse of the facts and real conditions.

"The untarnished truth is the people of Hopedale are prosperous and happy. The great army of employes of the Draper company enjoy steady work. Good mechanics receive good wages, and others are paid according to their worth. To our knowledge, scores of men from this and vicinity towns, who cannot find employment elsewhere, because of advanced age or infirmity, are provided with easy jobs at Hopedale at sufficient remuneration to enable them to support themselves in the autumn of life, to be independent of relatives and friends, and to avoid the necessity of calling upon the cold hand of public charity for aid and assistance.

"But where some 2500 men, of various skill and talents, are employed practically under one roof, it is only natural that there would be a few who are not satisfied. Some men are never satisfied. Even W. R. Hearst, with his inherited millions, is not satisfied and wants more, and is endeavoring to monopolize the newspaper business of the country. But nine-tenths of the employes of the Draper company are perfectly satisfied and contented. They have clean and healthful shops to labor in, they dwell in handsome, modern houses, and reside in one of the prettiest and best kept towns in the commonwealth.

"These are the facts, and all the abuse, vituperation and slander that W. R. Hearst's lieutenants can write and print about Hopedale and the Draper company will be accepted only as such by the people in this section of the state."

TUMOR ON THE BRAIN

Ends Life of Congressman Hoar, Son of Late Senator

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2.—Congressman Rockwood Hoar, son of the late Senator George F. Hoar, died last night at his home here after an illness of about five weeks. He was taken ill on Sept. 26 and since that time he has been confined to his bed. At the time of his renomination his written letter of acceptance was presented to the district convention.

The illness of Hoar was diagnosed by physicians as neuralgia of the head and was not thought at first to be of a serious nature. Later, however, the symptoms became alarming, the patient growing steadily weaker, and five days ago an operation was performed as a last resort. In spite of this operation, the patient continued to fail and during the last few days his condition had been regarded as practically hopeless. A tumor on the brain was the cause of death.

Congressman Hoar's nomination for congress followed very closely the death of his father in 1904. He had been previously district attorney in Worcester county and had held various offices of political preferment. He was born in Worcester in 1855. His wife and two daughters survive him.

Victim of Terrible Disease

Boston, Nov. 2.—Dr. Wright, bacteriologist at the Massachusetts general hospital, has decided that Thomas W. Beals has leprosy. An expert examination showed that he has the bacilli of the dreaded disease in his person. The Boston board of health transferred Beals to the charge of the state, and he was taken to Penikese island. Beals lived with his wife at Hyde Park. A few days ago he was removed to the Massachusetts general hospital, suffering from what was believed to be at the time a minor non-contagious disease.

Murder Suspect Arrested

Lincoln, Mass., Nov. 2.—Edward Winmill, a farmhand employed at South Sudbury, was arrested early this morning on suspicion of being involved in the death of Michael Kennedy, an aged farmer, who was found dead in his stable here. Winmill denied being concerned in Kennedy's death, but acknowledged being with Kennedy for the greater portion of Tuesday. He left him at 10 o'clock Tuesday night. Winmill was taken to Concord and locked up.

Storm Holds Up Coasters

Boston, Nov. 2.—Wednesday's storm dragged after it yesterday a typical northwester, with blustering snow squalls and a cold wave. The offshore gale kept the coastwise sailing fleet hugging windward shores and safe harbors, and only powerful steam craft ventured out. How many vessels were caught by the gale and blown to sea will not be known for several days. Accidents were surprisingly few.

Murder Story Was False

South Norwalk, Conn., Nov. 2.—As the result of police investigations into the report of the finding of the body of a murdered man between here and Saugatuck, the report was traced to Marie Fabri, whose father stated that the story was an invention by him and that he had told it to his daughter for the purpose of keeping her from going into the woods for chestnuts.

Murder In First Degree

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 2.—Henry G. Bailey, a farmhand, charged with causing the death of George H. Goodale on July 6 last, was last night found guilty of murder in the first degree. Bankrupt Concealed Assets

Boston, Nov. 2.—A verdict of guilty, returned by a jury on an indictment charging Max Matthews of the Standard Overall Manufacturing company with concealing assets from his trustee in bankruptcy, gave the government a victory in the first criminal prosecution for violations of the bankruptcy law. The case occupied two weeks in trial.

Bigamy Charge Against Woman

Newport, R. I., Nov. 2.—papers in a suit for divorce have been served on Mrs. Aurel Batonyi by her former husband, J. Burke-Roche of England, who alleges bigamy as the ground for his suit. Why Adulterated Paint is Dear

A maker of adulterated white lead sneered "Why should paint be pure? No one eats it."

True, but when white lead is adulterated with barytes, sublimed lead, gypsum, whiting, etc., it loses the qualities which make pure white lead the best paint pigment.

And when these imitations are sold as white lead, the consumer is deceived into paying white lead prices for worthless substitutes.

FAIR TREATMENT

Moran Says He Has Not Had It From Hub Newspapers

LAWSON LETTER COMING

District Attorney Says It Will Prove Interesting Reading--Guild Says Questions to Opponent Remain Unanswered

Marblehead, Mass., Nov. 2.—Addressing a political meeting here last night, District Attorney Moran of Boston charged that the Boston newspapers, particularly those which claimed to be Democratic, were treating him unfairly. Moran stated that he did not care if the papers did not mention his name, but if on that account he is defeated this fall he will continue to be a candidate for governor until he is able to have his voice heard in every city, town and hamlet in the state, and that he will be elected governor eventually in spite of the daily press. As an illustration, he referred to his campaign for the district attorneyship last fall when, he claimed, the entire Boston press was arrayed against him.

Mr. Moran stated that he did not have the money to devote to campaign work that is at the command of the Republican machine, but he had just received, he said, a letter from Thomas W. Lawson of Boston, in which Lawson said that he had engaged a half-page space in a Boston paper for next Monday and that the matter printed therein would be most interesting to the newspaper reading public.

The speaker then devoted his attention to answering some of the questions which had been propounded on the stump by his opponent, Governor Guild. In reference to the query why the district attorney had not prosecuted the case of Flanagan, who was charged with maintaining a bucket shop, Moran said that J. J. Quinlan, the real head of the concern, had given testimony before a legislative committee and was therefore immune from prosecution.

Mr. Moran declared that the lobbyists at the state house were in the habit of gambling with members of the legislature at various hotels in Boston and that the members of the legislature were accustomed to winning. As a favor to the losers, Moran said, the legislators would support measures which the lobbyists desired to have enacted into laws.

The hall, which has a capacity of 1200, was crowded and Moran's speech was received with enthusiasm. He spoke for 40 minutes. He came here from Salem and at the conclusion of his address left for Gloucester, making the same address in all three places.

"PERSONAL ABUSE"

Guild Says Moran's Tactics Are to Hide His Public Record

Boston, Nov. 2.—A whirlwind automobile tour of the city of Boston was made last night by Governor Guild, Lieutenant Governor Draper, Attorney General Malone and State Treasurer Chapin. The governor made eight speeches in all. The other members of the state ticket made speeches at each of the rallies. Governor Guild made practically the same speech at each rally, saying:

"This campaign was started by my opponent with a declaration of the great reforms that he proposed to effect when he should be elected President of the United States. It has ended with a stream of muddy abuse of everybody who has dared to criticise him.

"I have called his attention night after night to his utter failure to prosecute grafters, bribe givers and other criminals. He has no answer to make; he can make no answer.

"I have touched only his public record; I have never used an epithet toward him; I have not touched his private life. He is endeavoring to conceal his own public record by bitter epithets and personal abuse. He has no other answer. I suppose at the prestime, while I am speaking these words, he is making some further misrepresentation of me on the stump. I shall not similarly attack him.

"He takes the ground that a governor should appoint all officers except judges and clerks of court only on condition that they give their resignations in advance. On that theory, a new district attorney appointed by a governor would be simply the willing tool of the governor, and would work the district attorney's office in accordance with the political schemes of the man who occupied the governor's chair.

"It may interest you to call attention to the fact that my opponent's plan of making appointments, requiring the resignation of appointees in advance, is the very scheme employed by the bosses in Pennsylvania, as disclosed by an investigation carried on by the National Civil Service Reform league. In Pennsylvania the bosses were thus able to compel the employes to divide with them a part of their salaries and to compel them to do political work on behalf of the bosses.

"Whether that is my opponent's motive or not, I do not know, but it is interesting to know that what he advocates is exactly the scheme already used in another state for the most brutal and shameless rule of bossism ever known in this country. I ask you that the shame of Pennsylvania be not introduced into Massachusetts."

SCATHING WORDS

Hearst Bitterly Denounced by Secretary of State Root

OPINIONS OF ROOSEVELT

Had Hearst In Mind When He Spoke of Assassin of McKinley In His Message--"A Violent and Unworthy Demagogue"

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 2.—A bitter denunciation of William R. Hearst, which, the speaker said, had the full and complete endorsement of President Roosevelt, was delivered in a public address here last night by Secretary of State Root. At the same time, Root paid an eloquent tribute to Charles E. Hughes and announced that he was authorized to say that the president greatly desires the election of Hughes as governor of New York.

"I say to you with President Roosevelt's authority," said Root, "that he regards Hearst as wholly unfit to be governor, as an insincere, self-seeking demagogue, who is trying to deceive the workingmen of New York by false statements and false promises, and I say to you, with his authority, that he considers that Hearst's election would be an injury and a discredit alike to honest labor and to honest capital, and a serious injury to the work in which he is engaged of enforcing just and equal laws against corporate wrongdoing.

"President Roosevelt and Mr. Hearst stand as far as the poles asunder. Listen to what President Roosevelt himself has said of Hearst and his kind. In President Roosevelt's first message to congress, in speaking of the assassin of McKinley, he spoke of him as inflamed by the reckless utterances of those who, on the stump and in the public press, appeal to the dark and evil spirits of malice and greed, envy and sullen hatred. The wind is sowed by the men who preach such doctrines and they cannot escape the responsibility for the whirlwind that is reaped. This applies alike to the deliberate demagogue, to the exploiter of sensationalism, and to the crude and foolish visionary who, for whatever reason, apologizes for crime or excites aimlessly discontent.'

"I say, by the president's authority, that in penning these words, with the horror of President McKinley's murder fresh before him, he had Mr. Hearst specifically in his mind. And I say, by his authority, that what he thought of Mr. Hearst then he thinks of Mr. Hearst now."

Characterizing Hearst as a violent and unworthy demagogue and a persistent office-seeker, Root declared that, as a congressman, he had proved a worthless public servant; that while professing to favor an independent judiciary, he had made a deal with Tammany Leader Murphy for the nomination of a judiciary ticket in New York; that while inveighing against corporations, his own corporate management shows the insincerity of his profession; that it is not calm and lawful redress of wrongs which he seeks, but the turmoil of inflamed passions and the terrorism of revengeful force; that he is guided by selfish motives, and that he is "not guiltless of McKinley's death."

Mr. Root declared that Hearst was indeed an especially dangerous specimen of skilful demagogue because he is enormously rich by inheritance and owns "a number of sensational yellow journals" of large circulation, and he can hire many able and active men to speak well of him and praise him in speech and in print and in private conversation. From no community in this state, said Root, does there come concerning Hearst that testimony of life-long neighbors and acquaintances to his private virtues, the excellence of his morals, and the correctness of his conduct.

"How stands Mr. Hearst's record as to political purity? Why, he comes to us covered all over with the mark of Tammany and Tammany's leader, Murphy, whom he himself had denounced as a scoundrel and a thief; he comes to us nominated by his own procurement, through as shameful a deal with the boss of Tammany as ever disgraced the political history of the state.

"How stands his record as a legislator? During the three years that he has been in congress there have been 185 recorded votes by yea and nay; he was present and voting at but 23, and present without voting at 2; his voice was heard in that congress in these years but once and that for 10 minutes in a personal explanation regarding an article published in the New York American.

"But the worst of Hearst," said Root, "is that with his great wealth, with his great newspapers, with his army of paid agents, for his own selfish purposes, he has been day by day and year by year sowing the seeds of dissension and strife and hatred throughout our land." Continuing on this subject, Root said:

"Only once has this method of incendiary abuse wrought out its natural consequence—in the murder of President McKinley. For years, by vile epithet and viler cartoons, the readers of The Journal were taught to believe that McKinley was a monster in human form, whose taking off would be a service to mankind. Let me quote some of these teachings:

"'McKinley condones the treacherous murder of our sailors at Havana and talks of his confidence in the honor of Spain. He plays the coward and shivers white-faced at the football of approaching war. He makes an international cur of his country. He is an abject, weak, futile, incompetent poltroon.'

"'McKinley, bar one girthy Princeton person, who came to be no more or less than a living, breathing crime in breeches, is therefore the most despised and hated creature in the hemisphere; his name is hooted; his figure is burned in effigy.'

"'The bullet that pierced Goebel's chest
"'Cannot be found in all the west;
"'Good reason it is speeding here
"'To stretch McKinley on his bier.'

"And this, in April, 1901:

"'Institutions, like men, will last until they die, and if bad institutions and bad men can be got rid of only by killing, then the killing must be done.'

"What wonder that the weak and excitable brain of Czolgosz answered to such impulses as these," said the speaker. "He was answering to the lesson he had learned that it was a service to the interest of mankind to rid the earth of a monster. And the foremost of the teachers of these lessons to him and his kind was and is William Randolph Hearst and his yellow journals."

Mr. Root urged his auditors to return a majority of Republicans in the house of representatives to work with President Roosevelt in the next congress and concluded with an earnest appeal for the election of Mr. Hughes.

Murphy Criticised by Croker

New York, Nov. 2.—The comments of Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany Hall, upon the gubernatorial campaign in New York is an interesting incident of political developments. Croker, in an interview at Dublin, took occasion to criticise severely the action of Charles F. Murphy, present leader of Tammany, in bringing about the nomination of Hearst at Buffalo and predicted that "if Hearst is elected and carries out his program the effect would be to paralyze capital and thereby paralyze labor." He characterized Murphy's action at Buffalo as an "astonishing and unprincipled performance" and asked if it "would not be better for Tammany to be defeated fighting for principle than to dishonor itself by outraging the principles of Jefferson."

Vermont Solon Unseated

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 2.—Marshall J. Hapgood of Peru, a member of the house of representatives from that town was unseated by a vote of 185 to 11, being declared ineligible owing to his having held the position of postmaster of Peru at the time of his re-election by the Republicans to the house. Hapgood had forwarded his resignation as postmaster the day previous to election, but his letter of resignation failed to reach Washington until the day after election.

Republican Figures on Congress

New York, Nov. 2.—Congressman Loudenslager of New Jersey, secretary of the Republican congressional committee, has issued the following estimate regarding the complexion of the next house of representatives, the members of which are to be elected Tuesday: Sure Republican, 222; sure Democratic, 130; doubtful, but probably Republican, 21; doubtful, but possibly Democratic, 13.

Vacancy Quickly Filled

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2.—The Third congressional Republican district committee, which was in session at the time of Congressman Hoar's death, last night nominated Charles G. Washburn to fill the vacancy. Washburn has accepted and his name will take the place of Hoar's on the official ballot.

"Friends Insist" on Candidacy

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Senator Clark of Montana was in this city on his way west and was asked if he intended to be a candidate for re-election. "I had about made up my mind," said Clark, "not to be a candidate for the senate again, but my friends insist I shall be."

Gardner Won't Meet Schofield

Hamilton, Mass., Nov. 2.—Congressman Gardner, who has been ill since the middle of October, will not be able to attend to business for three weeks. The doctor has forbidden his patient to meet his opponent, Senator Schofield, in joint debate, as proposed.

Daring and Successful Ruse

St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—Six revolutionists, disguised as a sergeant and five privates, drove up in a wagon to the government powder stores at Okhta, a suburb of St. Petersburg, and presented a formal order for the delivery of 575 pounds of pyroxylin and 150 pounds of smokeless powder. The material was delivered and the six men loaded it on their wagon and drove away. They have not been captured. The powder stores were guarded by an entire regiment of infantry at the time of the theft.

Metcalf Begins Investigation

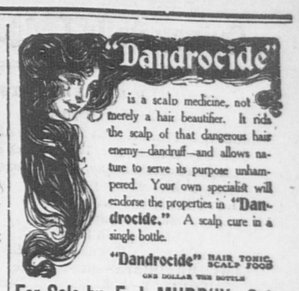

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 2.—Secretary Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor went to San Francisco yesterday afternoon and opened headquarters. He has made an appointment with President Altman of the board of education, who will report on the action of the board in establishing a separate school for Japanese.

Trampled to Death

Southbridge, Mass., Nov. 2.—Frightened by a trolley car near Lensdale last night, a pair of horses jumped on Stanislas Koski, killing him instantly. Koski was 40 years old and was returning from work.

Hallowe'en Party At Atlantic

With a huge black cat in the window of the front door and within a ghostly presence to greet the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miles of Squantum street, made Hallowe'en lively for twenty-four of their friends. The occasion was one of triple interest, being the birthday of both Mr. Miles and his daughter Bertha, and the eleveuth anniversary of the coming of Dr. Maria Drew to take up her abode with the family.

The party was a delight to lovers of unique entertainment. All during the evening unseen musicians played softly, and among the pretty decorations lurked goblins of such stuff as dreams are made. Games of fortune were entered into by one and all, and at the spread which followed it would seem that the mystic evening caused "good digestion to wait on appetite, and health on both." Guests were present from Worcester, South Framingham, Roxbury, Ashmont, Upham's Corner and Atlantic.

The Heart Can't Stand Rheumatic Acid Poisoning

To Free and Correct the Blood a Uric-O Treatment is Advised.

There is great danger in those sharp shooting pains through the chest around the region of the heart. It means that poisonous uric and rheumatic acid are there ready to spring and grip tightly the muscles controlling the heart's action. Don't neglect these warnings, they are the danger signals Nature flashes to you for help. You must neutralize and drive these dangerous poisons from the system, or sooner or later they will overcome you.

The only true way to cure Rheumatism is to get at it from the inside with Uric-O. It acts with marvelous swiftness upon the muscles, kidneys and blood. Clears out the sand-like deposits in the muscles, forces the kidneys to perform those duties for which they were designed and neutralizes the acid within the blood.

Your physician will admit that this is the only true way to cure Rheumatism permanently, and should know that Uric-O is the one remedy that will do it successfully and permanently. Uric-O is a liquid taken internally, 3 times daily and does not contain a drop of alcohol, opium or other dangerous poisons. It is good for Rheumatism in any form. Sciatica, Muscular, Inflamatory and Articular Rheumatism all yield readily to Uric-O. The store of E. J. Murphy is the home of Uric-O in Quincy, and if you call on him, he can tell you of many wonderful cures that Uric-O has made right here in your own home city. He sells it for 75c. and $1.00 the bottle or you can obtain a trial bottle free by writing to the makers of Uric-O, the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

—Robert Treat Paine observed his 71st birthday Sunday at his summer home on Beaver street, Waltham. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

The Landlord Pleads Guilty

The county and city treasury have received $280 as the result of the very successful raid early Sunday morning in a building owned by Albert Keating and rented to Timothy Coffey at the corner of Washington and Canal street.

In the past Mr. Keating has expressed surprise at criticism concerning his buildings and their tenants, the frequent fires, etc., but in court this morning Mr. Keating plead guilty to letting the building for illegal gaming; Timothy Coffey also plead guilty to keeping a gaming house.

On Monday two plead guilty to engaging in an unlawful game on Sunday, and one other was found guilty. Eleven also plead guilty to being present at an unlawful game.

The fines aggregated $280 and the police are to be complimented. It should be a warning to all these men, and also to others. Gambling and Sunday card playing should be stopped. It may be news to some landlords that they are liable in such cases.

Accidental Death At West Quincy

Mrs. Rachela, wife of Gaetano Fabrizio of 8 Hayden street, died suddenly Thursday, the result of an accident. ANARCHISTS IN COURT

Created a Scare When One of Their Number Became Violent

Boston, Nov. 2.—Wild rumors that bombs would be thrown, guns fired, and knives of all descriptions drawn caused all sorts of excitement around the superior criminal court yesterday afternoon and so well founded were the rumors and so frightened were the court officials that all objectionable and suspicious characters were excluded from the courtroom, where Valentine Di Petro was being tried for an assault with attempt to kill two fellow Italians.

Di Petro, who is an anarchist, started the trouble by jumping to his feet while Officer McCaffrey was testifying, and in a dramatic and excited manner calling the officer a liar. Di Petro waved his arms in a threatening manner at McCaffrey, and in an instant the score of anarchists who have been in the case as spectators and witnesses were on their feet.

By the coolness of the court officers a fight was averted and quiet was restored. This put the officers on their guard and no more of the anarchists were allowed in the courtroom.

The jury took the case and returned a verdict of not guilty on the charge of assault with attempt to kill, but brought in a verdict of guilty on the indictment charging Di Petro with carrying a loaded revolver.

During the morning seven men took the stand in defense of Di Petro, and declared that they were anarchists; that they did not believe in God, and that if it was necessary they would take up arms against this country to get what they desired.

Rails Sometimes Out of Gear

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 2.—The inquest into The Thoroughfare disaster was begun yesterday by Coroner Gaskill and, after the examination of several witnesses, an adjournment was taken until Monday for the purpose of summoning additional witnesses and to also give the experts who are to testify an opportunity to prepare papers. Bridgetender Stewart testified that the grooves in the rails over the drawbridge did not always connect, this being the case in hot weather, and it was then necessary to knock them in place.

Banker and Funds Missing

New York, Nov. 2.—Police reserves in Brooklyn were called upon to quiet a crowd of angry Italians who were threatening to wreck a building in Navy street, where Angelo Competiello, a banker, had for three years conducted a savings bank in connection with a steamship ticket agency. Competiello and his family had suddenly disappeared. Investigation showed that the banker had the safe and fixtures carted away early yesterday. It is estimated that the total amount of the deposits was $18,000.

Could Not Find Missionary

Washington, Nov. 2.—Carelessness in sending money through the mails is commented upon in a bulletin just issued by the postoffice department. One case is given where the dead letter office received a letter from abroad which had been addressed to a missionary in Africa. His name was given, but no postoffice address. The letter had been handled in various postoffices in Africa and Europe and then returned to the United States. It contained $100.

A Remarkable Case--If True

Louisville, Nov. 2.—A special from Columbia, Ky., says: Herchall Grider, aged 63 years, who lives near Rowena, fell asleep 12 years ago and all efforts to awaken him have proved unavailing to this day. During that time he has been fed on liquid nourishment twice a day. The man's pulse and physical condition are said to be normal and his muscles are more supple than those of a man who has had exercise.

Trains Crash at New York

New York, Nov. 2.—The Boston and Albany express, which left Boston at 4 p. m., and was due at the Grand Central station in this city at 10:22 last night, became stalled in the Bronx. The Stamford local, following it, ran into the rear car of the express, smashing part of the last car. The passengers in the express train were severely shaken up, but no one, so far as learned, was fatally hurt.

Won't Publish Result of Probe

London, Nov. 2.—War Secretary Haldane, replying in the house of commons, said the government did not intend to publish the report of its agent who went to the United States to inspect meat supplies for the British army shortly after the packing scandals. The British army still has about 3,250,000 pounds of American canned meat, costing $400,000.

Couldn't Fool the President

Richmond, Nov. 2.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt and Dr. Rixey started on a hunt yesterday for wild turkeys. Some of his neighbors, it is reported, turned a flock of domestic turkeys of the mammoth bronze variety into the woods and drove them so that they would fall a prey to the presidential gun, but Mr. Roosevelt scented the ruse in good time.

The Social Realm

When your heart is warm with love,
Even for your enemies;
When your words come from above,
Not from where the venom is;
When you see the man entire,
Not alone the faults he has;
Find a somewhat to admire
Underneath the paltry mass—
Not till then, if you are wise,
Will you dare to criticise.
—Amos R. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Pollock of 32 Bigelow street observed the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage last evening by entertaining about fifty friends. The occasion was enjoyed socially, and with an impromptu musical program, both vocal and instrumental. Refreshments were served in the dining room which was prettily decorated in pink. Ice House Burned At Midnight

The large ice house of the Meadow Brook Ice Co., situated near what is known as Wendall's quarry, Quincy Neck, was totally destroyed by fire at midnight last night. The cause of the fire is unknown, but is suppose to have been of incendiary origin.

The man who first discovered the fire is not known, but he supposed the fire to be in Braintree and rang in an alarm from Box 29. When the Braintree department arrived at the scene they found the fire to be in Quincy. Chief Whitmarsh was unable to reach the fire from the Braintree side with a line of hose.

One of the firemen was then sent through the woods to Quincy, and sent in an alarm from Box 173. This box sounded at 12.30.

Firemen at the Quincy station had seen the fire and telephoned to Braintree to see what it was.

Braintree informed them that it was Wilkin's hay barn, and the Quincy firemen went back to bed.

When box 173 was pulled they made a quick run in response but the building was flat when they arrived.

The building is situated quite a way back from the street, which probably accounts for people residing in the neighborhood not discovering the fire.

Mr. Patch estimates the loss at $2,000. Insured.

SUIT FOR $50,000

Outcome of Charges Made on the Stump by Moran

FAIRBANK THE PLAINTIFF

Alleges That Moran and Perkins Slandered Him In Regard to Manner of Handling Funds of Commonwealth

Boston, Nov. 3.—At 6:15 last night, at the Quincy House, District Attorney John B. Moran was served with papers in a $50,000 slander suit brought by Wilson H. Fairbank, the Massachusetts commissioner to the St. Louis exposition and to the Lewis and Clark exposition. Mr. Fairbanks also brought a similar action for the same amount against James M. Perkins, the secretary of the Massachusetts commission at the above-named expositions.

The bringing of the suits is the outcome of charges made by Moran while on the stump, and the statements of Perkins in regard to the manner in which Fairbank handled the commonwealth's funds at the Lewis and Clark exposition.

Mr. Perkins charged Fairbank with having requested Miss Ethel Rich, the stenographer of the commission, to sign for another a certain receipt of $77, which was turned over to the state auditor.

Mr. Moran took cognizance of the matter and alleged on the stump that the alleged forged receipt had been removed from the state house, and has been persistent in his demands that Fairbank be removed as chairman of the Jamestown exposition commission.

In a public statement issued by Auditor Turner, that official claims that Fairbank gave his personal check of $77 in return for the receipt which has figured so prominently in the case.

Meanwhile, during the heat of the gubernatorial fight, Moran's assistant, Michael F. Dwyer, is making a complete investigation of the matter and, according to a statement made by him last night, he will have the case in such shape that he will present it to the grand jury during the coming week.

Although considerable has been said about the vouchers and other documents being photographed by the district attorney, no such action has been taken. Dwyer stated last night that he did not resort to photography in the matter as he did not think it necessary.

The news that Fairbank had brought action against the district attorney caused much comment in the courthouse. At the district attorney's office nothing could be learned about the suit.

London Back to Toryism

London, Nov. 3.—The triennial elections of the London borough councils have resulted in an overwhelming victory for the municipal reformers. The victors were formerly known as Moderates and represent the Unionist party, and the progressives the Liberal and Labor parties. After several years of progressive regime, during which, it is contended, the taxes were increased to abnormal figures, the borough councils are once again great strongholds of Toryism.

Congestion In Freight Traffic

New York, Nov. 3.—Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: Colder weather has removed one of the drawbacks to seasonable distribution of merchandise, but there is still much complaint of traffic conditions. A much heavier tonnage of freight is delayed than usually, although there is always a car famine at this season. Retail trade shows improvement in nearly all sections, and mercantile collections are more prompt.

Americans Beat Big Competitors

Rome, Nov. 3.—The order for 2100 tons of armor plate, valued at $1,000,000, for an Italian man-of-war, which was given to the Midvale Steel company of Pennsylvania, has been approved by the council of state. The Midvale company was in competition for this contract with five European firms, including the Krupps.

Tuberculosis In the Navy

Washington, Nov. 3.—Tuberculosis has made alarming inroads upon the personnel of the navy and marine corps. The annual report of Surgeon General Rixey shows that, in 1905, the number of tuberculosis cases in the service was 243, or 6.1 for every 1000 men. Practically all the cases are pulmonary tuberculosis.

Almost Four Hundred Renegades

Sheridan, Wyo., Nov. 3.—The Ute Indians, now almost 400 strong and with 1100 ponies, are still camped on Little Powder river in Montana, 35 miles northeast of Moorehead. The general belief is that the Utes will refuse to accept any terms looking to their return to Utah.

Insurance Company Bankrupt

Berlin, Nov. 3.—The Lokal Anzeiger's Hamburg correspondent says that the Hamburg-Bremen Allgemeine Reinsurance company has gone into voluntary bankruptcy. This company is said to have lost heavily through the recent San Francisco disaster.

Great Battleship For Japan

London, Nov. 3.—The Daily Telegraph says it is reported that Japan has decided to begin the construction of a battleship exceeding the displacement of the Dreadnought by 3000 tons.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

What the world needs is not more secular knowledge nor more scientific skill, but a more thorough enlightenment concerning God and its relation to him.—Rev. R. E. Williams, Evangelist, Butte, Mont.

Sacramental Point of View.

All things about us, all phenomena, even capital and labor and its contentions, can be considered from the sacramental point of view and spiritual lessons drawn from them.—Rev. T. F. Seymour, Episcopalian, Peoria, Ill.

Proof.

Men talk much of proof, but it is a cheap thing. You can only prove hard, dead things, like mathematics. The warm, live things can only have degrees of probability.—Rev. Frank Crane, Congregationalist, Worcester, Mass.

Doing Good.

There is a large place in the world for the man who goes about doing good. The man who knows the good and does it not commits a sin against society and imperils his own life.—Rev. W. H. Pound, Congregationalist, Chicago.

Hindrances to Success.

The things that block the way to success in this world are inertness, irresolution, cowardice—the failure to meet life's issues like a man. And it is the same lack of manly and womanly qualities that produces failure in the Christian life.—Rev. P. S. Henson, Baptist, Boston.

Source of Perfect Freedom.

The man who serves self thinks he has liberty of action and is free to do as he pleases. He is in reality in the thrall of a bondage which is ever becoming more galling, while it is only in the service of God that perfect freedom is found.—Rev. John D. La Mothe, Episcopalian, Washington.

Religion That Is Pure.

Pure religion begins with a change of heart, wrought by the Holy Spirit, and a new dedication of the life to Christ. It begins within and moves outwardly, and it grows only as day by day it is fed from the secret sources of heavenly grace.—Rev. W. S. P. Bryan, Presbyterian, Chicago.

Christ's Spell.

We are under the spell of Jesus Christ, however materialistic our age. I do not say that all of our civilization is permeated with an appreciation of his character, but I do mean to say that you cannot date a letter without recognizing his birth; you cannot write 1906 without admitting that something extraordinary happened about 2,000 years ago. You cannot get away from Jesus Christ.—Rev. E. L. Powell, Disciple, Louisville.

God's Great Plan.

God has a great plan for the great brotherhood of men. He intends to make this world more beautiful, to spread universal intelligence and effect a complete moral reformation. His plan includes the co-operating help of his children. He wants men to help him make this physical world better fitted to their need. He furnishes the raw material, and men are to transform it into articles of use and beauty.—Rev. Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, Methodist, Cleveland, O.

The Limit Not Reached.

If we are to achieve the better things for the future let us remember at the outset that we have not reached the age limit yet. The man, the nation, the church, which supposes that there is nothing better to be attained farther on becomes only a derelict floating upon the great ocean of life and a hindrance and a menace to all real life. God spare us from the man who supposes he or his church or his party possesses all wisdom and that there is nothing better to be attained a little farther on.—Rev. C. C. Pierce, Baptist, Los Angeles, Cal.

License and Enjoyment.

Some people don't discriminate between license and enjoyment. The difference between license and enjoyment is this—it is in the aftermath. When you have license with a thing the aftermath is sorrow; when you have enjoyment with a thing the aftermath is song. That is the difference. There is no sorrow after enjoying God's earth. There is always sorrow after using license with God's earth. Enjoying a thing gives one the sense of weariness, and weariness is wholesome, for it inviteth slumber. License with a thing giveth wakefulness and the red eyeball and the poisoned heart. So, then, this is God's world. He made it. And then it is our world, for he made it for us and gave it to us. And then it is ours to enjoy.—Rev. William A. Quayle, Methodist, Chicago.

Value of a Growing Life.

It is the growing life that gets the most treasure out of the days. The mind is the eye of the soul, but the eye must be trained and educated. The astronomer strengthens the eye by his telescope and brings distant stars near. Education is a kind of glass that brings unseen and unknown truths into sight. Education in geology brings the history of stars near. When the youth is made wise toward plant life all the trees and tropic growths of distant continents pass before his vision. To be educated in history is to have a glass so powerful that we behold afar off Xenophon's ten thousand marching up and down the hills of Asia Minor, we see Virgil's hero tossing on the sea, we see Odysseus battling against the suitors in his palace, while men do not dream that the beggar is the long lost king wearing a disguise. What the microscope can do for the eye education can do for the intellect. Sleep is the brother of death, but ignorance is the half brother. College men are the scouts going on in advance of the army, but the scout is only a few hours in advance of the regiment.—Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

MYSTERY IN QUAKE

Buildings Jarred and Bells Jingled In Andover and Vicinity

Andover, Mass., Nov. 3.—Residents of this town were awakened at 12:40 this morning by a sound like that of an explosion. Buildings were jarred, windows were rattled and bells were set jingling by the disturbance.

The origin of the sound has not been determined. Many persons recalled the explosion of a powder magazine in Tewksbury several years ago, and were inclined at first to think another accident of a similar nature had occurred. Inquiry showed that the noise was heard in Ballardvale, Wilmington Junction and Lowell Junction, being particularly noticeable in the latter place, but the cause of it could not be ascertained.

A number of panes of glass were shattered in some houses in Andover. The telegraph operator at Lowell Junction reported that the building where his office is located shook so violently that he feared it would fall. He thought the disturbance resembled an earthquake rather than an explosion.

Did Not Hear Explosion

Boston, Nov. 3.—Lowell and Acton, where there are powder works, report that no explosion was heard there this morning. Reading, Haverhill and several other points in that section of the state make similar reports. The territory in which the explosion was heard was apparently confined to the section along the western division of the Boston and Maine railroad.

Agitation Over Water Question

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 3.—A meeting of the citizens of Burlington was held last night to vote on the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $75,000 for the construction of a filtration plant. The meeting was so largely attended that it was found impossible to determine from a yea and nay vote the wish of the majority, and it adjourned until next Tuesday, when the vote will be taken by ballot. The state board of health has issued an order directing people not to use the supply of water from Lake Champlain because it was alleged that an undue amount of sewage was allowed to find its way into the lake.

Fined For Contempt of Court

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 3.—An order of execution has been issued against the Consolidated Rendering company of Burlington for $3000, the amount of the fine imposed upon the company for contempt of court in the recent proceedings brought by the state against it. Another order which has been issued summons the rendering company to appear and answer to the diseased beef charges, growing out of the company's alleged disposition of cattle condemned by order of the Vermont cattle commission under the tuberculin test.

Gale Puts Shipping In Peril

Boston, Nov. 3.—There seems to be no apparent change for the better in the weather. Blinding snow squalls swept across Massachusetts bay at intervals during yesterday. Incoming steamers were hours late and many craft were tied up in the harbor. Mountainous seas swept over smaller vessels, causing much damage, while the fishing schooner Manomet lost her mainmast by pitching in the heavy seas of the bay.

Prison Not New to Him

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 3.—William J. Currier was convicted of uttering forged checks and was sentenced to five years in state prison. Currier is now serving a two months' term for larceny at Deer Island. His appearance to answer to yesterday's charges was obtained on a writ of habeas corpus. Currier confessed to serving several terms in prison in various parts of the country.

Seizure of Fine Handkerchiefs

New Haven, Nov. 3.—Deputy United States Marshall Parmelee seized 5358 fine linen handkerchiefs which were received here recently by the customs house authorities and held under bond. The consignment was shipped from Syria. The handkerchiefs were supposed to be cotton, but they are fine linen and valued at twice the amount given in the declaration, which was $500.15.

Drowned Himself From Boat

Reeds Ferry, N. H., Nov. 3.—John O'Keefe of St. Albans, Vt., who has been staying at Manchester for some time, jumped out of a boat here last evening while being rowed across the Merrimack river and was drowned. He fought his companion, who tried to pull him back into the boat. He is said to have been drinking.

No Trace of Mrs Dorman

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 3.—Search has been renewed for Mrs. Burton H. Dorman, wife of the superintendent of Mountain Grove cemetery, who left her home strangely on Oct. 15. Her husband is inclined to believe the woman is a monomaniac on the subject of religion and has gone to some city to take up missionary work.

Three Years For Assaulting Girl

Boston, Nov. 3.—Joseph Beasley, the negro who was recently convicted of felonious assault upon a girl of 14, was sentenced to a term of three years in the house of correction by Judge Bond, in the superior criminal court.

Twenty-Three to Be Held For Murder

Atlanta, Nov. 3.—Nineteen negroes indicted in connection with the murder of Policeman Heard during the September riots were ordered released by Judge Roan. The evidence against these defendants was considered insufficient to warrant holding them for trial. Twenty-three of the indicted negroes under arrest will be held for trial for murder.

TO LOSE HIS THRONE

King of Annam Has Gone Far Enough In Awful Work

Paris, Nov. 3.—M. Millien-Lacroix, minister of the colonies, has decided to summon the Annam state council and depose King Thanh-Thai.

A dispatch from Marseilles Oct. 17 said that Thanh-Thai had been adjudged insane and that the French authorities had made him a prisoner. Previously the king had ordered seven of his wives to be executed and looked on with delight while they were slowly tortured to death. After killing one of his wives he had the body cooked and served for dinner, forcing the members of his court to eat by threats of death. Some of the king's wives were bound, burned with boiling oil and subjected to other cruelties, and naked women were thrown into the cages of wild animals, where they were devoured in the presence of the king.

When Thanh-Thai was made prisoner by the French authorities they released the terror-stricken inmates of the palace. Some of them were terribly mutilated, their faces being slashed and their tongues cut out, while others had been suspended by pincers attached to the fleshy parts of their legs.

Missing Clergyman Heard From

Red Bank, N. J., Nov. 3.—Rev. G. O. Poolton, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Navesink and Oceanic, who has been missing since Oct. 10, has been heard from. A leter stating that he is in London was received from Poolton by Rev. J. B. Haines, presiding elder of the New Brunswick district. Poolton is evidently suffering from mental collapse, brought on by severe nervous attacks. Mrs. Poolton will join her husband in England as soon as possible. She and her husband were born in England.

Newfoundland Making Sure

St. Johns, Nov. 3.—In order to avoid the possibility of any legal defect or technicality vitiating the proposed test cases which the Newfoundland government intends to bring against colonial fishermen employed on board American herring vessels to determine whether the modus vivendi arranged between the United States and Great Britain is valid or otherwise, the government will send legal counsel to the west coast to arrange for these prosecutions and to oversee the enforcement of the bait act.

Charged With Rebating

New York, Nov. 3.—Judge Holt has signed an order summoning the American Sugar Refining company and the New York Central railroad to appear and stand trial on two indictments charging rebating. The indictments specify that $26,000 was given or received by the offending companies on west-bound shipments to Cleveland in 1902. Both companies have pleaded not guilty.

Queer Disease In Guam

Washington, Nov. 3.—An infectious and painful and repulsive disease is reported as being prevalent in the Island of Guam. Naval surgeons are studying and treating the disease, which has so far been confined to natives. It is a sort of ulceration that destroys the nose and upper part of the face. At present there are about 200 cases on the Island.

Higher Wages For Railroad Men

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—The Public Ledger says: The wages of all employes of the Pennsylvania railroad system on lines east and west of Pittsburg are to be increased. Nearly 150,000 men will be affected. The monthly payroll of the system averages about $10,000,000 and an increase would mean the additional payment of $1,000,000.

Rockefeller's Offer to Baptists

New York, Nov. 3.—John D. Rockefeller has made to the American Baptist Home Mission society a conditional gift of $75,000 toward the rebuilding of destroyed and injured Baptist churches in and about San Francisco. The condition is that the society shall realize as much more by April next.

Murdered and Robbed

Pittsburg, Nov. 3.—The police are baffled in their search for clues to solve the mystery of the murder and robbery of James A. McMillan, aged 65 years, a wealthy business man, who was found dead with his pockets rifled near his residence in the East End.

Policeman Kills Himself In Morgue

Rochester, Nov. 3.—Patrick Hurley, a policeman, walked into the morgue here and, after a brief conversation with the man in charge, clapped a revolver to his head and pulled the trigger. Death was instantaneous. Ill-health is given as the cause.

THE CAMPAIGN.

Crowds Which Greet Moran Much Like Bryan Year.

SOME CASES WHERE HE FAILED.

Has Had More Assistance Than Any Former District Attorney.

The gubernatorial campaign in Massachusetts is now at its height. Both candidates for governor are making a strenuous canvass and nearly every night both are upon the stump.

It has been thus far a campaign unusual in many respects. Governor Guild has made splendid addresses and wherever he has appeared has been given an extremely cordial greeting. The crowds which have attended the Moran rallies have been extremely suggestive of the crowds which appeared in Massachusetts in 1896 wherever William Jennings Bryan spoke in his contest for the presidency against William McKinley. The strength and following of a candidate is not always indicated by the attendance at his rallies. Governor Guild has asked Mr. Moran a good many embarrassing questions and pointed to his record as district attorney with telling effect.

Among the various promises which Mr. Moran has made with such prodigality, one would suppose that there was one set at least that he would keep.

He has promised that the poor man should be protected and the rich criminal fearlessly pursued.

Has He Kept His Word?

Has he kept his word? Take these cases as an illustration. The worst enemies of the poor are those swindlers who start fraudulent companies and sham banks to rob the poor of their little savings. In the last year or two these vermin have been particularly active and some of them have been pretty thoroughly exposed.

There were the Ubero companies; the Hanover bank case; the Provident Securities case; the Preferred Mercantile company; the Haight & Freese case; the cases of the Italian banks in the North End of Boston, and many others less notorious.

Here if anywhere is a class of cases where, if the district attorney really cared for the poor man, he could have put in some good work.

What has Mr. Moran done in these cases? Since he became district attorney, one swindler of this class, and one only, has been put behind the bars. That was Borges, whose indictment was found by Mr. Sughrue, and the work of preparing and trying the case was done outside the district attorney's office by Frederick H. Chase, Sughrue's first assistant. And yet Moran denounced Sughrue as incompetent and corrupt.

In all other cases Mr. Moran has done simply nothing. In the Preferred Mercantile case, where in a little over a month twelve thousand dollars were stolen, in addition to thousands of dollars before, the two Stillings brothers, who were at the bottom of the swindle, pleaded guilty in the United States court for fraudulent use of the mail. A part of this testimony against the Stillings brothers has been in the district attorney's office ever since Mr. Moran came there and he has not stirred in the matter.

Here Is the Record.

The same thing is true in the other cases. In the matter of Haight & Freese, where over a million dollars was stolen and the victims were numbered by thousands, he announced during his campaign for district attorney in a letter dated Aug. 4, 1905, which was printed in the daily press, that if Sughrue did not prosecute this case he would do so, but to date he has made no move to carry out his promise.

In the Hanover bank case the directors stuffed the bank's assets with worthless securities and bled their depositors to the tune of thirty thousand dollars, over twelve thousand of which was in small deposits. The facts have for months been open to Mr. Moran as they have to all the world, but again Moran has done nothing.

The story is the same in the Provident Securities case. There the swindlers got away with about one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars, the property of seven thousand persons. Receivers went to Moran months ago, begged him to press his criminal investigation, and have kept urging him to do so ever since. But Moran has done nothing.

After much pressure from the receivers he finally did appoint a lawyer to investigate the case, but that investigation has languished week after week and month after month. Meantime the poor depositors are kept waiting for their money.

Mr. Moran says that the receivers are trying to get him to use the district attorney's office to collect debts. This is a wilful perversion of the truth. The receivers have only asked Mr. Moran to investigate a criminal case and to prosecute the guilty parties. This he has not done.

In the case of the Italian banks, the story is the same. Nothing whatever has been done. Not one criminal has been brought to justice.

John B. Flanagan's Case.

The case of John B. Flanagan is another case of the same kind. John B. Flanagan was indicted April 7 for keeping a common game house, practically for keeping a bucket-shop. Shortly afterwards he testified before the committee on rules of the general court. And then Moran announced with a great flourish of trumpets that it would be impossible for him to prosecute Flanagan, as he had been given an immunity bath by the legislature. Mr. Moran makes himself a judge of whether Flanagan is immune or not. Good lawyers think that Flanagan would not be immune and that it is not the district attorney's business to go about setting up immunity for the protection of criminals. It is the criminals' business to prove they are immune.

If John B. Moran were a fraction of the man he pretends to be, he would push the Flanagan case for all it is worth and put it up to the courts to proclaim him immune, if immune he is.

Does he care little for the enforcement of the law? It looks so. What he wants is to get what advertisement he can for himself, and when he had once used Flanagan for an advertisement he naturally ceased to care about his case.

If Flanagan was given an immunity bath, it was not by the legislature, but by John B. Moran, and while that bath was given the man who held the soap was Tim Coakley, Moran's most prominent political supporter and brother-in-law to his late assistant, Joe Dennison, and Mr. Flanagan's personal counsel. His appearance for him in the criminal case is on file in the superior court.

He Has Plenty of Excuses.

Mr. Moran retorts to all statements like these that the legislature wouldn't give him enough assistants. As a matter of fact the legislature gave him an additional district attorney and in order that he might secure more competent men the salary of all his assistants was increased. Furthermore, it was provided that the "district attorney for the Suffolk district may, if in his opinion the interests of the commonwealth so require, employ additional legal assistants with the approval of the chief justice of the superior court."

So it will be seen that the excuse of lack of proper facilities is merely an excuse and has no foundation in fact. A man who has time to run for governor, who has time to get into successive controversies with the police commission, board of aldermen, legislature, governor, political committees and politicians of all degrees, who has time to bring before the grand jury a petty scuffle between a Harvard student and a policeman, has plenty of time to do his duty if he chooses and the truth seems to be that he does not want to.

When Mr. Moran was elected district attorney his only idea was to use that office to make himself governor. He has already announced that if he is elected governor he will use that office to make himself president.

Unfortunately the people are saddled with him for another year as district attorney. There seems nothing in the way in which he has used his office of district attorney, to encourage the people to elect him governor in order that he may run a campaign for the presidency.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Some things come and go. Some things come and stay. The Quincy Co-operative Bank came in 1889 and has been a most worthy contributor to the thrift and well being of our city. Its career has been without sickness of any kind, and continues to interest people who believe in longlevity for institutions which care for savings for the prudent. Shares are now on sale as per notice in another column.

Before 9 A. M. today the Daily Ledger received by telephone an emphatic command to take out the following advertisement:

WANTED—Two Smart Girls, handy with needle. Apply at once; plenty of work. QUINCY KNITTING MILLS, 41 Baxter street. Nov. 2-3t

The "ad" appeared but once in the issue of yesterday and was ordered for three times, but when Mr. Quinn arrived at his office this morning there was such a long string of applicants that he was embarrassed in selecting but two.

Mr. Quinn says it pays to advertise.

The following item in Thursday morning's Boston Post caused considerable amusement at the board meeting of the Quincy Women's club Thursday and they are wondering who the club women refered to are:

"So many drunks are being arrested in Quincy that the women's club of that place are making a final effort to keep them away. The people who are honored by having among their ancestors Presidents of the United States are indignant that the historic city should be made the unloading place for so many inebriates."

Addresses on China.

Over one hundred Junior Endeavorers gathered at Bethany chapel yesterday afternoon at their regular meeting and listened with great interest to addresses on "China," given by Donald and Gardener Tewksbury. These boys are sons of Rev. Edward G. Tewksbury, missionary to China, are 14 and 12 years old respectively, and were born and have lived in China all but a few months of their lives. Their addresses were exceedingly interesting and beautifully illustrated by 70 stereopticon views. Few of our American educated boys could have done as well.

Seriously Injured.

Henry Coram, the well known West Quincy newsdealer, met with a serious accident yesterday afternoon. He was driving on Copeland street, and when near the corner of West street the wheel of his wagon caught in the car tracks and Mr. Coram was thrown out. He landed heavily in the street, striking on the back of his head, which with his back was bruised. He was attended by a physician and removed to his home.

Galahad Brotherhood.

The Galahad Brotherhood of Christs church will hold its weekly meeting on Sunday noon, in the choir room. Mr. Ambrose Newcomb will be the soloist for the day, and Rev. W. E. Gardner will give the fourth address in the series "The church and State." The entertainment committee is making plans for an entertainment and social, to be held in the parish house, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 13.

No-License Rally.

A no-license rally will be held at the Finnish Temperance hall, corner of Nilson street and Suomi road, on Sunday, Nov. 4th, at 6.30 P. M. The benefits of no-license and temperance will be discussed by the several speakers in the Finnish language.

Rev. K. F. Henrikson, M. Riikimaki, Herman Tuori, and A. Hanninen are to speak. A large attendance is expected.

On behalf of the committee,
C. E. Stenman.

Dramatic Night.

The following ladies are in the cast of characters of "A Fighting Chance" to be presented by the King's Daughters next Tuesday evening: Mrs. S. I. Wood, Miss Dulah C. Miller, Miss Hattie E. Sargent, Miss Corinne Hayward, Miss Ruth Packard, Miss Ella Packard, Miss Lora Hunt, Miss Annie R. Black, Miss Nina Bates, Miss Blanch Morrison and Miss Helen Kingman.

GOV. GUILD

His Defeat Wold be a Distinct Blow To Morality

Editors Daily Ledger:

Frequent attacks have recently been made upon Governor Guild by a certain clergyman of Boston. They had been so timed as indicate a desire to injure the Governor in his candidacy to re-election. While I do not believe that the attacks will have any appreciable effect upon the campaign, I fear lest they may injure somewhat the general reputation of ministers of the gospel in this community for good sense and fairness. Speaking to my knowledge, for many other clergymen as well as myself, I wish to say that we have a hearty appreciation of Governor Guild's administration as a potent force during the past year in the better life of the Commonwealth.

Against great opposition the Governor has taken a firm stand against pool selling at the races. Since the new Police Commissioner appointed by him has taken office, I have heard no complaint relative to certain abominable and unnamable practices that formerly flourished in low resorts in the neighborhood of Beach street. When the cause of Congo Reform needed a friend, the Governor last spring headed a strong petition to the President of the United States, calling for immediate action of the Government to save a wretched people who were threatened with extermination. He has employed his powerful influence against the illegal employment of minors.

While the Governor is not a prohibitionist, he has proven himself the staunch defender of the real temperance interests of the Commonwealth, in a year when there have been many attempts at adverse legislation. It is due solely to the chief executive that the measure to permit all hotels to sell liquor from eleven till twelve o'clock at night did not become a law.

Having fought this measure before the liquor committee of the legislature for several reasons, I have come to firmly believe that some resonable concession would have to be made sooner or later to bona fide hotels of the best standing, in order to prevent the wholesale opening of the so-called second class hotels for liquor selling from eleven till twelve o'clock with the attendant increase in crime and debauchery.

In my opinion the temperance interests of the Commonwealth are greatly to be congratulated that when the bill permitting such wholesale selling had passed the last legislature, we had a Governor with sufficient courage and humanitarian feeling to block it with the sensible measure which is soon to be submitted to the people in the form of a referendum.

Moreover it should be remembered by lovers of temperance that in certain cases where the legal authorities of well known towns have failed to enforce the temperance laws, the Governor himself has brought about a proper enforcement though the state police.

I am one of the ministers of the down-town population of the largest city of the Commonwealth. I wel know from past experience the need of having a man of strong religious and humanitarian impulses in the Governor's chair. In times of moral peril his help is of the greatest advantage to the highest interests of the whole community. From my association with Governor Guild I know that he is such a man. I should regard his defeat as a distinct blow to the cause of morality and good government in Massachusetts.

For Best Interest Of All People

Editors of Daily Ledger:

Owing to reports which are being circulated in regard to my record on certain bills which were acted on by the last session of the Legislature, I take the liberty of asking you for space enough in your paper to set certain facts before the people of Quincy, whom with my colleague I have had the honor to represent during the past year.

The only printed statement I have seen is the one referred to, your article on the State campaign in the Ledger of October 27. Your article states the facts as they really are, but I would like to refer over my own signature to such statements as the following:

"As a member of the last Legislature he voted no on every bill in the interest of labor, and yes on every bill favoring capitalists."

Whether made orally or in print such statements are absolutely and unqualifiedly false,

I realize that a large part of the people whom I have had the honor to represent were interested in movements to better the conditions of the wage earner, and I tried to the best of my ability to act accordingly. I voted in favor of all labor measures coming up in House except the so called "Picketing bill," of which the Daily Free Press-Tribune of Waltham, an independent paper of high standing, says editorially in its Oct. 27 issue, "The picketing bill was opposed by nearly every chief of police in the State as it was a practical endorsement of rioting."

This gives concisely the evidence offered before the committee on labor in regard to this bill and I do not believe the people of Quincy elected me to vote for "a practical endorsement of rioting."

I had the honor of having charge on the floor of the house for the Committee on Election Laws of the "Public Opinion bill," which provided for an advisory initiative and referendum on the petition of ten per cent. of the voters of any political district.

That is of a city on municipal matter or of a county on legislation affecting a county of the whole state on a measure affecting the Commonwealth. I believed then, as I do now, that some means should be devised for keeping the law making body and the people in closer touch.

The constitution provides, Article XIX. "The people have a right, in an orderly and peaceful manner, to assemble to consult upon the common good; give instructions to their representatives, and to request of the legislative body, by the way of addresses, petitions or remonstrances, redress of the wrongs done them, and of the grievances they suffer."

I made a statement on the floor of the House at that time, that I should consider myself bound by this expression of opinion, unless it was so contra to a principle I believed in so strongly that I would be willing to resign my seat in the House rather than forgo.

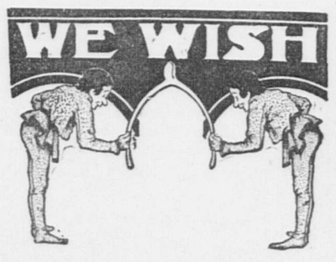

As for the statement, "that I voted in favor of all bills favoring capital," I will refer my critics to the so-called "Merger bill," a measure that every railroad in the state was in favor of. I was as active as any man in the House in defeating.

But why bother your readers farther? I will say by closing that I voted no on amendments which were offered to render the Bucket Shop bill of no avail if it was passed. If my opponents are not able to read the Journal of the House correctly, how are they fitted to have a seat in our Legislature? The only pledge I will make is that if I am re-elected to the Legislature of our Commonwealth that I will act and vote, as I have in the past session, for what seems to me to be the best interest of all the people, without fear of factions, glad of honest advice, tolerant of criticism, but intolerant of misrepresentation by men who in their self seeking are willing to slander and injure a public servant by wilful and malicious lies.

QUINCY'S VOTE FOR GOVERNOR.

"As goes the city so goes the state an d nation" is truer today of Quincy than of Hull. It has been verified in every State election since 1889, and in every Presidential election since 1875.

During these years the State of Massachusetts has gone Republican twelve years and Democratic four years, and so did Quincy. The Nation has gone Republican at six elections and Democratic at two elections, and so did Quincy.

Therefore the Quincy returns next Tuesday night will tell who is elected that day as Governor of Massachusetts. The vote in recent years has been:

Year.	Republican Candidate.	Vote.	Democratic Candidate.	Vote.

NO USE FOR MORAN

Speakers at Republican Rally Term Him An Unsafe Man

A rally in the interest of Edward B. Callender of Dorchester, the Republican candidate for Congress in this district, was held last evening at Quincy Music hall. He had the support of prominent speakers, who not only said kind things of Candidate Callender but also of Gov. Guild and Candidate Hultman. Most of their time, however, was devoted to showing that John B. Moran was an unsafe man to have at the head of the good old Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

President Freeman of the Republican City Committee presided and introduced Representative Hultman, as the first speaker. The address of Mr. Hultman showed that he had a good knowledge of the business of the Legislature. He reviewed new legislation in the interest of labor, and branded as false the statement purporting to be his labor record. He had been a friend of labor measures and did not want mis-representations. He urged Quincy to vote for Edward B. Callender for Congress.

Candidate Callender followed and won the good will of his audience by numerous stories. He asked who will purify Moran after Moran has purified the Democratic party? It would be another case of unredeemed pledges. The speaker predicted the reelection of Gov. Guild.

Congressman Weeks was unavoidably absent because of acute rheumatism, and sent his speech which was read by the presiding officer. He said it was important to Quincy to elect the Republican Congressman favorable to the ship subsidy bill.

Congressman Charles Q. Tirrell the next speaker said he had known Candidate Callender for 30 years, and was glad to advocate his election. He compared the campaign of Moran to the campaign of Gen. Butler. Butler accomplished nothing, and it would be so with Moran. He criticised the stand of Moran on the abortion bill and the divorce bill. National issues were then discussed. It was not a fact he said that the cost of living had increased as rapidly as has wages, and he gave examples. The wager earner is living better than the rich men of years ago, and there should be no check of prosperity.

Representative Luce spoke with some indignation of Moran's attacks on the Legislature. He queried, what will happen if Moran is elected? He cannot control the Legislature, or enact his pet laws. If the voters want a revolutionary Legislature why don't they elect one.

The speaker complimented Representative Hultman, with whom he had worked on a committee. He knew him to be a man who voted for what was right regardless of consequences. Vote for men who do things not men who make promises they cannot fulfill.

Lee M. Freidman of Boston who was a candidate against Mr. Callender for the nomination for Congress, was the last speaker, and urged the election of Mr. Callender. He also criticised the record of Mr. Moran and his appointments. It was our duty to safeguard our coast.

Labor Rally At Hancock Hall

There was a large crowd at Hancock hall last evening at a rally under the auspices of the Wage Earners' club. The speakers of the evening were Alexander C. Smith, the club candidate for representative; James Duncan, secretary-treasurer of the Granite Cutters' union; Dennis D. Driscoll, state secretary of the American Federation of Labor; and a Mr. Bates of Boston. The speakers waged the support of Mr. Smith for representative.

On Wednesday evening at six o'clock a fire broke out in George Bicknell's barn, opposite the Bicknell factory on Congress street, Weymouth. The barn was destroyed. An explosion of cement and naphtha was caused by the lighting of a lamp by a youth. The whole structure was immediately all in flames. The fire department fought the fire with energy and the factory was saved. Webster Pope's house was covered with sparks but was saved. The rain had dampened these structures or the entire corner would have burned.

Representative Aubrey Hilliard entertained a number of Mount Pleasant republicans at his home on Middle street, Thursday evening and had as his guest Louis E. Flye of Holbrook, whose name will appear in the official ballot Tuesday for representative of the eighth district; Braintree, Holbrook and Avon.

Chaplain E. O. Pierson of Post 87, Asst. Dept. Inspector, inspected Reynolds Post 58 of East Weymouth Monday evening. Commander W. L. Gage and Comrade C. M. Marstin were also present.

Between six and seven hundred dollars were cleared at the fair of the social club of the Union Congregational church held at Burrell's rink this week.

Walter L. Gerry and wife were very pleasantly surprised at their home in Lynn last Saturday evening, when a number of their friends from South Braintree and Brockton called upon them unexpectedly. Ice cream and cake were served and the friends departed at a late hour leaving beautiful gifts to commemorate their recent marriage.

The council assembled at the Old North church, Weymouth Heights, to ordain Rev. Edward J. Yaeger to the Congregational ministry, on Wednesday evening, adjourned without accomplishing their object, on account of a technical error in the call for the council by the church. It is expected that the council will be reassembled at an early date.

Sons of Veterans, Auxiliary No. 16, held an enjoyable Hallowe'en party in G. A. R. hall. Of the committee in charge those dressed as ghosts and witches were the Misses Alice Foster, Alice Thayer, Josephine Foster, Grace Loring, Mrs. A. A. Cook and Mrs. Annie Chandler. Many were the charms that were tried, the confession to the nun evoking much laughter. Among the winners of prizes were Misses Annie Witherell and Gertrude Parker, Mrs. Alice Hayden and Messrs. Merrill, Hollis and N. E. Hayden.

The launch will be a private one, only ticket holders being admitted to the yard. The launch will take place at 1.30 P. M. A special train for the company's guests will leave the South Terminal at 12.25 and run direct to the yard.

The Satilla, the first of the fleet was launched Aug. 21.

Quincy Ticket For State Election

In order to vote the complete tickets at the election next Tuesday it will be necessary to make fifteen crosses.

The name of John B. Moran for Governor appears there three times and a cross against any one of the three counts one for Moran. It has been decided that if a voter makes a cross opposite the name wherever it appears it will count but one vote. On the tally sheet used by the election officers the name of Moran appears four times, namely: Prohibitation, Independent League, Democratic and no party. If a voter puts a cross against Moran's name in more than one place, that vote is credited to the "no party" column, whereas if but one cross appears the party against which the mark is made gets the credit of the vote. By this method it will be easy to ascertain if the several parties cast a sufficient number of votes to entitle them to be reorganized as a party.

By the confusion that is sure to follow by having the name appear so many times on the ballot, it is possible that the Prohibition if not the Democratic party may loose its right to be reocgnized as a party.

The majority in Quincy, however, will vote the Republican ticket and make no mistake. The names will appear on the ballots as follows:

The Southworth Sanders Wedding

Mr. Stacy Baxter Southworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Southworth of Greenleaf street, Quincy, and the popular sub-master of the Charles Sumne school at Roslindale, was married on Saturday, Oct. 27, to Miss Jeannette Sanders, at the home of her parents in Wayland, Mass. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were present. The guests were met at the station and driven to an ideal spot for a home wedding. It was a large roomy house on the hillside in front of which was a beautiful lawn.

The hall and stairs were decorated with autumn leaves and the rooms with white cosmos, chrysanthemums and ferns. In the parlor, reaching to the ceiling, was a wall of evergreen and white chysanthemums. There were small rubber plants in front and groups of taller plants and palms at each side. Here the ceremony was performed, with two rings, by Rev. Frank W. Merrick, Ph. D., of West Roxbury.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Frank Southworth of Syracuse, N. Y., and the bride by her sister, Miss Louise Sanders, her brother, Master Eugene Sanders and little Miss Breen as flower girl. The bride was gowned in white silk with lace trimmings and a veil and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party and guests repaired to the dining room, where a bountiful collation was served by Webber of Boston. The beautiful and useful gifts will find a place in the new home, lately purchased by the groom, at No. 18 Avalon road, West Roxbury, where Mr. and Mrs. Southworth wi l be at home to their many friends after January first.

Hospital Aid Association.

At the meeting of the Hospital Aid association at the club house last week, plans were about perfected for the fair in aid of the Nurses' Home. It is to be held on Wednesday afternoon and evening, Nov. 14th, from 2 until 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, 215 Goffe street. Those in charge of the fancy and bag table are: from Ward One, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Mrs. Luther Glover, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon; Ward Two, Mrs. Joseph L. Whiton; Ward Three and Four, Miss Emily C. Wild; Ward Five, Mrs. Richard Freeman; Ward Six, Mrs. Frederick J. Peirce.

Mrs. E. W. H. Bass and Mrs. Wilson Tisdale of Ward One will preside over the jelly table; Mrs. Francis Corey and Mrs. Thomas Lacey of Ward Five will look after the ice cream and cake; Mrs. Walter T. Babcock will have a flower booth; the King's Daughters are to provide the sweets and there will be plenty of home made candy.

On the household table are: Mrs. Otho A. Hayward, Mrs. William B. Rice, Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha, Mrs. Frank S. Davis, Mrs. Henry W. Read. Mrs. Frederic L. Jones is looking after the mystery table and Mrs. A. H. Gilson will have charge of the tea and sandwich booth. Miss Ellen Fottler is preparing a good grab bag and a facinating table will be of dolls of every description in charge of Mrs. Arthur L. Mitchell.

Any one desiring to contribute articles to any of the tables or to help along the cause in any way, are asked to confer with the committee in their ward. Those who cannot attend and help by their presence can secure a ticket and thus contribute their mite.

Hallowe'en Festivities.

The "Cineraria club" an organization of twelve young women of West Quincy, held fourth Wednesday evening at the home of their president, Miss Ethel Burns, 56 Cross street, in the form of a Hallowe'en party.

The guests were bid by "Come on ye Hallowe'en night before ye stroke of eight to ye Witch's house at ye sign of ye Black Cat." R. S. V. P.

At eight o'clock the guests assembled and were met by four ghosts who ushered them into the receiving room where they were received by the members of the club.

Many interesting games were played and with these and piano selections, time passed very rapidly. At eleven o'clock refreshments were served.

The rooms were prettily decorated with jack o'lanterns, and the tables, filled with dainties, were brilliant with flowers and wreaths. After supper fortunes were told and games were continued until a late hour. When the young ladies and their escorts started homeward, all were ready to affirm that they had participated in one of the most unique and interesting Hallowe'en parties on record.

Scandinavian Rally.

The Scandinavian Republican club held an enthusiastic meeting last evening which turned into a rally. While the club was in session E. B. Callender, candidate for Congress, came into the hall and addressed the club. Other speakers were Representatives Luce, Hultman and Sandberg.

A DENIAL BY GUILD

Did Not Try to Procure Defeat of Overtime Bill

THE FAIRBANK EPISODE

Moran Reiterates Charge That Commissioner Is Guilty of Forgery and Larceny and Has Something to Say About Dana

Boston, Nov. 3.—The scene in the gubernatorial contest in Massachusetts was concentrated in one city last night, and Boston was the battleground which engaged the attention of Governor Guild and John B. Moran. Accompanied by newspaper reporters and half a dozen speakers, the two candidates rushed from ward to ward and between them 15 of the 25 wards in the city were visited. Half a score of automobiles were used to convey speakers and reporters to the rallies and the speedy machines attracted considerable attention as they went from ward to ward in the whirlwind tour of the city.

Governor Guild's itinerary took in seven wards, in two of which, wards 10 and 12, he clashed with the Democrats, who held Moran rallies while Republican meetings were in progress. In addition to Guild, the Republican rallies were addressed by Lieutenant Governor Draper, Attorney General Malone and others.

Mr Moran was preceded at the Democratic meetings by E. G. Brown, candidate for lieutenant governor, George F. Williams and local speakers.

Governor Guild, in his address at the local rallies, said: "I have steadily refrained from personal abuse and the use of epithets toward my opponent in this campaign. But I have, as I have a fair right to do, called my opponent's attention again and again to his failure to prosecute men and corporations charged with serious crimes.

"His principal campaign asset is the falsehood of a yellow journal. Two days ago Mr. Hearst's paper, which is my opponent's personal organ in this campaign, announced, with scare heads a foot long, that I had asked two senators to vote against the overtime bill. Both the senators in question have declined to give any interview on any subject to that paper—I will not say newspaper, for it does not print the news.

"It still, therefore, keeps up the steady falsehood that I secretly procured the defeat of that bill. Though a square denial that I ever made any such request for the defeat of the bill has been published in the respectable press over the signature of Senator Buttrick, from whom the alleged story is said to have come, this yellow journal continues to circulate the falsehood on the assumption, I suppose, that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth well told.

"The critical elections this year are for state officers, but their result is to be not local but national in its effect. Massachusetts and New York are to say on election day whether the country is or is not so infected by the feverish falsehood of yellow journalism as to forget the memory of the pure and upright McKinley, or to turn from the progressive leadership of Roosevelt. Once again, in common cause against the common enemy of destruction and disaster, Democrats and Republicans are joined together.

"We shall win against the yellow cause with the yellow flag, fighting for the maintenance of American ideals under the Red, White and Blue."

Mr. Moran was billed to make 11 speeches in Boston and the suburbs, but this number was greatly exceeded, as in many cases he was obliged to address overflow meetings. Moran's speeches varied somewhat in the different places where he spoke, but in the main his addresses were similar. At each place he spoke from 10 to 15 minutes. At many of the Democratic meetings Mayor Fitzgerald, who was with the Moran automobile party, preceded the gubernatorial candidate.

In opening his different speeches, Moran declared that he was not asking for the votes of the people; but, on the contrary, was asking them to reason out the questions at issue and then cast their ballots as their consciences demanded. "I want no office," said he, "unless I am better fitted to fill it than the man against whom I am running."

Referring to the appointment to the superior court bench of President Dana of the Massachusetts senate, Moran said that in previous speeches he (Moran) had declared that Dana's appointment was made by Governor Guild as a reward for Dana's activities in preventing the so-called overtime bill being presented to the governor for final action. "Yet day before yesterday," said Moran, "I was surprised to learn that Governor Guild appointed Dana judge because 'his father and my father were chums, and he and I were friends.'"

Continuing, Moran said: "Now, Governor Guild, there is no doubt in my mind but you and your father's chum's son talked over the overtime bill in secret and the son of your father's chum did exactly what you wished him to do.

"If you favored the overtime bill why did you not refer to it in your inaugural?" Then, addressing the gathering, Moran declared with great heat: "The reason Governor Guild did not refer in his inaugural address to the overtime bill is because his heart is with the corporations and against the women and children who are slaving at night in the shops."

Mr. Moran then discussed Guild's refusal to meet him in joint debate on the ground that it was beneath the dignity of the governor of Massachusetts. "I did not ask you, the governor, to meet me, the district attorney, but I asked you as a private citizen to meet me in a similar capacity and to discuss the issues of this campaign. I wanted to meet Governor Guild face to face. I have disposed of 5100 cases in the district attorney's office within the past 10 months and I was prepared to give him an instant answer to any question he might see fit to put to me. Then I would have asked him some questions. If he had answered 'no' then I would have denounced him. If he had answered 'yes' then I would have clasped him by the hand and said: 'I have made you a convert, for that is a plank in the Democratic platform that was written by me.'"

Mr. Moran then devoted the rest of his speech to Wilson H. Fairbank, commissioner of the Louisiana Purchase, Lewis and Clark and Jamestown expositions. Drawing from his pocket the papers of service in a slander suit in which he is the defendant and which was brought by Fairbank yesterday, Moran said:

"I repeat the charge that he is guilty of forgery and larceny. Put that down, Mr. Stenographer, for all the pear in court at Worcester to defend Boston papers. I am summoned to ap this suit. I will be there and no jury will give him one cent of my money. The evidence against Fairbank will be presented to the Suffolk county grand jury at once.

"While Fairbank remains upon the Jamestown exposition commission he disgraces the honor of the commonwealth and the pure white flag of Massachusetts. I repeat that he is a forger and a thief. I demand, Governor Guild, that you remove that stain from the flag and if you do not I brand you a traitor to the honor of Massachusetts. If they want $50,000 I will answer them with 50,000 plurality."

Washburn's Name Goes on Ballot

Boston, Nov. 3.—The name of Charles G. Washburn of Worcester will go on the official ballot as Republican candidate for congress in the Third district. The certificate setting forth that Washburn has been nominated by the Republican congressional committee, in place of the late Rockwood Hoar of Worcester, has been filed at the state house. The Democratic candidate, Mr. McLoughlin, protested against the appearance of Washburn's name on the ballot, but the ballot law commission last night overruled the protest.

Bryan Favors Hearst's Election

Omaha, Nov. 3.—William J. Bryan, when shown the extract from his letter endorsing the candidacy of W. R. Hearst for the governorship of New York, made public in New York by Bird S. Coler, said: "That letter is authentic. I have been writing letters and giving out interviews all through the campaign to the same effect. I have endorsed Mr. Hearst and I want to see him elected."

Predicts Hearst's Election

New York, Nov. 3.—Mr. Ihmsen, Mr. Hearst's campaign manager, gave out a statement last night in which he said: "Mr. Hearst will carry Greater New York by 150,000 and the country portions of the state by 50,000. I base this statement on a careful canvass and 500 special polls."

Those who have been employed since the strike will be retired from the shops before Monday, but without prejudice as to their continued employment by the company in other places. The wage question will be settled by arbitration.

"Moran is Unfit"

Read What Leaders of John B. Moran's Own Party Say of Him:

"We feel obliged to state our conviction of the fundamental unfitness of Mr. Moran to fill the high and dignified office of governor of Massachusetts. The obligations of good citizenship are superior to those of partisanship; we are citizens of an honorable commonwealth charged with our share of the duty of maintaining and advancing her standards of government even before we are Democrats."—J. A. Sullivan, Josiah Quincy, Arthur Lyman, J. C. Burke, E. L. Arundel, Nicholas J. Skerrett.

Mr. Moran as a Leader.

Congressman John A. Sullivan, a member of Mr. Moran's own party, says that Moran's assumption of leadership is certainly ominous of consequences, and he likens it to being whirled madly about in the delirious circles of the tarentella while in the grasp of a political acrobat.

DO YOU WANT A POLITICAL ACROBAT IN THE GOVERNOR'S CHAIR?

Mr. Moran as a Public Official.

Speaking again Mr. Sullivan says: "If his manner of conducting grand jury proceedings is to be taken hereafter as the official standard in Massachusetts well may those honest citizens who value reputation above all things else exclaim: 'God Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.'"

The secretary of the Boston Bar Association shows that during Moran's term as district attorney the cases pending have more than doubled, the indictments pending have more than trebled. His predecessor reduced the number of cases pending more than one-half. He has released 100 more criminals than his predecessor. Many less cases have come to successful conviction. The expenses of the office have been increased 30 per cent.

Useful Christmas Gifts Made by Deft Fingers

THE woman who depends upon her own skillful fingers to meet the Christmas demands that may be made upon her will do well to copy some of the very attractive cushions here described.

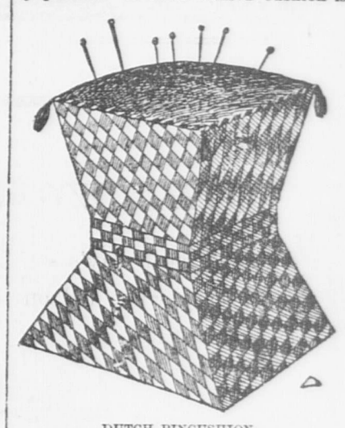

A HANGING PINCUSHION.

First there is the porcupine pincushion, which is easily made and generally admired. The vandyked pattern is worked in two pretty colors of single Berlin wool or filoselle on a piece of rather fine canvas five inches long by seven inches wide. A little bag is made of ordinary cotton material like a bolster and stuffed with bran. This is covered with the worked canvas, the "join" being hidden by sewing over it a piece of narrow ribbon one and a half yards long. Ends are tied together to form a hanging loop, as shown in illustration. Little bows of ribbon are sewed at each end of the bolster to make a neat finish. Pins are stuck in at every point of the vandykes, the heads protruding about half an inch.

Dutch Cushion.

Very quaint and unusual is the Dutch pincushion, copied exactly from one used in the land of dikes and windmills. This pretty article stands about six inches high, although it may be made of any size. The framework is formed of eight pieces of cardboard, covered with silk and neatly sewed together in hourglass shape. Another section of silk covered cardboard is sewed at the bottom, and the case is filled with bran or cotton batting tightly packed. A bran stuffed cushion is deftly fitted into the top, and the whole is finished down the seams with fine cord. A waistband, as it were, is put around the center of the cushion. Old fashioned blue and white checkerboard silk is the quaintest material to use, with the top cushion of a harmonizing blue velvet.

Pretty New Opera Bag.

There is a new idea in an opera bag that is not at all difficult of construction, and, if there are any handsome or dainty bits of silk or ribbon on hand, it will cost next to nothing. The very best foundation would be the stiff covers and back of an old book—just removing the leaves. Both covers and back on one side should be neatly covered with handsome ribbon or brocade. This is for the outside. Inside the covers should have a pocket on each, made full and shirred at the opening. Into one goes the handkerchief. The other serves as a vanity bag. Cord or ribbon handles are now sewed on, when it is ready for the opera glasses, or, rather, the bag for them. Cut a strip of cardboard the length and width of the glasses, then sew a piece of silk all around it, forming a bag and making a heading at the top, run in draw strings and pull up to close. The bag is then set into the covers, the cardboard being firmly glued down to the back of the book, where the leaves were. Altogether it is the most convenient article of its kind that has been seen and is as dainty as possible. Soft rose pink and silver brocade or a pretty piece of pompadour ribbon for the outside and a bit of soft, glossy silk for the pockets and bag certainly suggest a thing of beauty.

Hanging Pincushion.

A clever woman has contrived a pincushion from the effective brass ornaments that often adorn cart horses' martingales and are polished and kept bright with so much pride by the teamster. This ornament fastens to a nail in the wall, and from it depends a trio of small sack shaped cushions, each of a contrasting color, with ribbons to match. These sacks are studded respectively with black, white and colored pins.

PORCUPINE PINCUSHION.

Peary's Dash For the Pole Not Altogether Successful

HE MAKES NEW RECORD

Penetrates Farther North Than Has Heretofore Been Reached --Brief Message Tells of What He Has Done on Latest Trip

New York, Nov. 3.—Commander Robert E. Peary of the United States navy has given to his native country the record of having penetrated "farthest north"—87 deg. 6 min. News of the feat came last night

The intrepid Arctic explorer failed to reach the North Pole, as he had confidently hoped to do with his specially constructed vessel, the Roosevelt, but he penetrated nearer to the pole than the Duke of Abruzzi's expedition, which had held the Arctic record of 86 deg. 34 min.

What Commander Peary did and his experiences during the past year in the frozen north are rather briefly, but certainly vividly summarized, in a communication received last night by Herbert L. Bridgman, secretary of the Peary Arctic club. This communication follows:

"Hopedale, Labrador, (via) Twillingate, Newfoundland, Nov. 2.

"Herbert L. Bridgman: Roosevelt wintered north coast Grant Land, somewhat north Alert winter quarters. Went north with sledges February, via Heckia and Columbia. Delayed by open winter between 84 and 85 degrees. Beyond 85 six days. Gale disrupted ice, destroyed caches, cut off communication with supporting bodies and drifted due east.

"Reached 87 deg. 6 min. north lat. over ice, drifting steadily eastward. Returning ate eight dogs. Drifted eastward; delayed by open water; reached north coast Greenland in straitened circumstances. Killed musk oxen and returned along Greenland coast to ship.

"Two supporting parties driven on north coast Greenland. One rescued by me in starving condition. After one week recuperation on Roosevelt sledged west, completing north coast Grant Land and reached other land, near 100th meridian.

"Homeward voyage incessant battle with ice, storms and head winds. Roosevelt magnificent ice fighter and sea boat. No deaths or illness in expedition. Peary."

After furnishing the contents of Commander Peary's missive to The Associated Press, Mr. Bridgman said that the receipt of any news from the explorer now was quite a surprise to him, because he had supposed it had become too late in the season for Peary to send news of his venture. Bridgman added that the message spoke for itself and that since he did not know more of the results of Peary's effort to reach the pole than the public did, he could hardly comment upon the dispatch. There was little doubt, however, he said, that Peary was coming home. This seems to be borne out by the routing of the dispatch.

Hopedale or Hoffenthal is a Moravian missionary station on the east coast of Labrador. Twillingate is a port on the east coast of Newfoundland.

In an interview before he left New York Peary expressed great confidence in the success of the venture. He explained that nearly all the men accompanying him were members of former Arctic expeditions and thoroughly familiar with the work ahead of them. After outlining his route to his winter quarters, Peary said:

"We will remain in these quarters until Feb. 1, 1906, and then begin the dash for the pole, about 500 miles. In the party that will go with me will be but two white men—one a physician. On the trip there will be a sledge for each Esquimaux and from six to eight dogs to each sledge. Each of the sledges will have 500 pounds of dog food, ship's biscuits and tea. My only instrument will be a traveler's theodolite, a pocket sextant and a chronometer. Although I am convinced there is no animal life in the country, we will carry two light rifles.

"My garb will be deerskin coat and cap, bearskin trousers and sealskin boots. This is my ninth trip to the Arctic and, barring sickness and other contingencies, I will give the pole the hardest try it has had yet. I hope to win. There are three strong points in my favor—first, the Roosevelt, the most powerful Arctic boat ever built; second, my knowledge gained by 19 years in the Arctic, and, third, my knowledge of the Esquimaux and how to handle them."

Asked what good it would do if he found the pole, Peary said: "It will open up 3,000,000 square miles of absolutely unknown regions that have been separated from the rest of the world for countless ages."

Robert E. Peary was born in 1854. He is a civil engineer in the United States navy. His first trip to the Arctic regions was made in 1886. In September, 1902, he reached lat. 84.17 north. His wife accompanied her husband on three of his expeditions as far as the winter quarters.

The previous record for the point nearest the pole was made by Captain Cagni, of the Duke of Abruzzi's Italian expedition, who reached 86.34 north, or within 237 statute miles of the pole. The point reached by Peary, 87.6, places him about 203 miles from the pole.

OUR HOSPITAL

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title – Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

Campden's Shave

By FRANK POWNALL

"Surely you are not going to break our engagement just because I shaved off my mustache?" pleaded Campden. "That isn't just fair, you know. I can grow one again in a few weeks. Don't spoil a lifetime."

"It's not so much the loss of the mustache," said Mabel Devant. "You should know what I mean, though of course you will pretend to be ignorant. I hate duplicity."

"'Oh, what a tangled web we weave,'" he quoted. "You don't mind telling me what particular sin you have found out in me, do you? I admit that I did buy some candy for Miss Travers, if that's what you are making all this talk about. I might add in self defense that it's the littlest Miss Travers; she's five, I believe."

"If you are going to indulge in such brutal joking I shall say nothing further," said Miss Devant haughtily. "I have been singularly patient. If you only had confessed I should have had no more to say. As it is, I can see nothing in your conduct for which I can find the slightest excuse."

"But see here, Mab," he explained, "I haven't been doing anything. I haven't murdered a man for at least a week, and my last bank robbery is two months back. I feel that I have a clean slate so far as this last unhappy week is concerned, and yet you come back from town and want me to confess to a calendar of crimes on the argument that a good husband should tell his wife everything. I don't admit that argument, but all the same if you'll give me a clew to the sort of crime you want me to confess to I'll try to think up something."

Mabel turned on her heel and walked off. It was not a very straight nor steady tread, but she held her head high and tried to keep back the tears until she reached her room. She succeeded until the elevator left her at her floor; then she ran down the corridor, the picture of woe.

When she finally recovered her composure and went down to dinner there was no Harry Campden waiting for her in the hall. Instead she ran into Nettie Braden, who appeared to have been waiting for her and who led her out on the almost deserted piazza.

"I think it's a shame!" began Miss Braden. "That awful man packed up his things and went to town on the afternoon train."

"Harry?" asked Miss Devant comprehendingly.

Miss Braden nodded.

"Without even a goodby," she admitted. "I think it's just too terrible. Come in and have dinner and forget that such a horrid man ever lived."

"I don't feel hungry," declared Mabel, blinking back the tears and seeking her room for the second time.

The next few days were as miserable for her as they were for Campden up in town. He and Mabel were to have been married in October, and while he puzzled his brain for some explanation of the mystery she took refuge in a woman's comfort and went about the beach with an ever ready handkerchief.

The Harrises were giving a house party through September, and Mabel accepted their invitation because she knew that they were not acquainted with Harry and that there she would be safe. For the first time since the break she felt happy as she came down the stairs the morning after her arrival.

The boat had been becalmed, and she had arrived late, but the fresh morning air was a temptation, and she ran down the stairs just as the servants were opening the house.

Out on the piazza she paused a moment to observe a blue coated back; then she advanced with an air of carelessness and made for the opposite end of the porch.

At the sound of the steps the man sprang up, and she gave a scream as she recognized Campden.

"I did not know that you were to come," he began, as he approached her. "I just met the Harrises, and was not aware that they knew you."

"They are very old friends," she said coldly. "I used to go to college with Mrs. Harris."

"That's nice," he observed conventionally. "But see here, Mab, if we are going to be fellow guests for a few days, won't you please tell me what all the row was about?"

"You should know," she said severely.

"I should," he confessed, "but I don't. All I know is that you ran up to town for a week. When you came back to the beach you asked me to confess my sins, and when I said I had nothing to confess except the self evident fact that I had shaved off my mustache you made that the excuse for breaking the engagement."

For a moment Mabel paused, then desire for the truth overcame her reserve. "I wanted to see if you would tell me the truth," she explained. "When I went away you promised to tell me if you had misbehaved. You got into some lovemaking scrape and never told me a word about it."

"So that's it, is it?" he asked. "You want to know why I kissed Beth Connors on the piazza."

"I see you realize at last what the offense was."

"I did not know until just this moment that you knew Nettie Braden. She and Mrs. Harris were schoolmates. So were you. You must all have known each other. Miss Braden was a western girl, and I never supposed you had met her."

"I don't see where Miss Braden figures in this story," she said severely "I believe it concerns Miss Connors."

"Nettie Braden is the heroine," he explained. "The Connors person is just the villainess. Promise never to tell?"

"No, I shall make no promise."

"Very well," he said. "If you don't care, that puts things in a different light." He had half turned away when a hand was lightly laid upon his arm.

"Please go on," said Mabel penitently. "You know I care. I shall not tell."

"You know Miss Braden came the day after you came up to town?" he began, leaning comfortably against the railing. "She was awfully in love with Dick Harrington. I used to chum with Dick a little when I was out west, and I sort of pitied him. Miss Braden was awfully jealous and so lovey dovey that the whole piazza was laughing.

"You know what a little mischief that Connors girl is? Well, the night of the hop she ran into Dick on the piazza just alongside of an open window. Just because she knew that Miss Braden was on the other side of the window she kissed him with a smack that could be heard a block away.

"Dick saw that she saw, but, like the wise boy he is, he never let on. Instead he hunted me up and got me to go upstairs and shave. We looked so much alike that when Miss Braden accused him of flirting he blamed it on me. It would never do to tell her that it was all done out of devilment, you know, just because she had been so mushy. She never would believe that. I thought you never would find out. I bet she knew of our engagement and sat right down to write you. Did she?"

Mabel nodded. "She thought she was doing a kindness," she defended. "You see, she knew we were engaged."

"And that was what you wanted me to confess when you urged me so?" he laughed. "I shall have to tell Dick the trouble he got me into."

"Don't you dare," she pleaded. "Promise you won't."

"On conditions," he offered.

"Well?" she asked.

"First," he began, "that you promise never to be jealous again."

"I promise," she agreed.

"That you take back the ring you gave me the other day and promise to keep it on this time until I add to it a wedding ring."

She stretched out her hand in answer.

"There's a third condition," he insisted.

"That you give me what I did not get from Beth Connors," he teased as he bent his head to her lips.

Marriages That Made History.

The marriage of Ethelbert, king of Kent, with Bertha, the Christian daughter of Charibert, king of Paris, paved the way to Christianity in England. The marriage of Henry VIII. with Anne Boleyn was one of the principal factors leading to the reformation. Etheired the Unready's marriage with Emma of Normandy gave the conqueror an excuse for asserting his claim to the English throne. The marriage of Henry I. with Matilda of Scotland reconciled the people of England to the conquest by restoring the line of Cedric. Henry II.'s marriage with Eleanor of Aquitaine made England the first continental power in western Europe. The marriage of Henry VII. with Elizabeth of York closed the bloody wars of the roses. The marriage of Margaret, daughter of Henry VII., with James IV. of Scotland ultimately led to the union of England and Scotland. Finally the marriage of Sophia with the elector of Hanover put a line of German princes on the English throne.—St. James' Gazette.

Don't Meddle.

One of the most irritating feelings against which the best people need to be on their guard is meddlesomeness. The chances are that by our meddlesomeness we mar more than we mend. The probability is that the cook broiled the breakfast bacon better than we could have done it, and the tailor cut the coat better than if he had followed our directions. No one can ever be happy in this world who fancies himself or herself born to "set it right." It would do us all good at times to sit with the pupils instead of taking uninvited the seat of the master and the critic. One of the most useful lessons any man can learn is to let things alone. Let the chair stand where the maid placed it. Let the dinner be served without protest as the good wife ordered it. And remember that the world will have to get along without us some day; that if we keep hands off from it for a little while it may be learning, as it must learn, to eventually get along without our suggestion or interference.—Temple Bar.

Queer Things About Fishes.

A naturalist describes the ways in which fishes sleep. They are very light sleepers and frequently assume singular positions, but the most remarkable thing is the change of color many of them undergo while asleep. Usually their spots and stripes become darker and more distinct when they fall asleep. Occasionally the pattern of their coloration is entirely changed. The ordinary porgy, for instance, presents in the daytime beautiful iridescent hues playing over its silvery sides, but at night, on falling asleep, it takes on a dull bronze tint, and six conspicuous black bands make their appearance on its sides. If it is suddenly awakened by the turning up of the gas in the aquarium, it immediately resumes the silvery color that it shows by daylight. The naturalist ascribes these changes to the principle of "protective coloration" and points out that the appearance of black bands and the deepening of the spots serve to conceal the fish from their enemies when lying amid eelgrass and seaweeds.

House Warming For Popular Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cowe of 24 Jackson lane had a house-warming and Hallowe'en party call on Wednesday night. The visit was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Cowe for they were quietly enjoying the evening with their children when the commotion of an approaching host alarmed them. Glowering jack-o-lanterns appeared at the windows and there was a rap at the door with a cehemence unusual with ordinary callers. There was as little ceremony about entering. The first one on the doorstep led the way in, and soon the house was filled.

All were cordially welcomed. Mr. and Mrs. Cowe quickly realized that they were the victims of a surprise. Hats and raps aside Mr. Robert C. Allan called the company to order and in the name of the visitors presented Mrs. Cowe with a handsome wicker rocking chair, and Mr. Cowe a pair of white leg horn fowls, a cock and hen. Mr. Allan explained that the party made the visit for the purpose of wishing Mr. and Mrs. Cowe success in their new home, and also for the sake of "auld lang syne."

An enjoyable evening was spent, singing and games taking up a large part of the time. Mr. John Hutchison had his fine new graphophone, which was presented to him some two weeks ago, with him, and his fine selection of records gave much enjoyment.

Refreshments, which the party carried with them ? were served at intervals.

The Hallowe'en pastimes were not neglected, for there was a lively contest for the strung doughnuts, and diving for apples, and snuffing the witch's candle. The small hours of the morning were time enough to be home on such an occasion. There were about fifty in the party.

Hospital Canvass.

The Hospital Weeks returnes are still incomplete, though it is evident tnat the final amount will be a very gratifying one—about $4000. The complete returns and an analysis will be published in a day or two.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITHS THEATRE.

Since she last played in this country Cecilia Loftus, who is to head the bill at Keith's next week, has added greatly to her English reputation through her long engagement in the title role of that beautiful play, "Peter Pan," now being played in America by Maude Adams. "The Crickets" is the name given to the miniature ballet of Geisha Land that Joseph Hart is the sponsor for. It is one of the prettiest acts vaudeville has yet seen. The greatest dancing act of the day and a tumbling act that has no superior will be among the features. They are those of the four Fords, two girls and two boys of the same family; and Hassan Ben Ali's Troupe of Toozoonin Arabs, marvellous acrobats. The Quigley Brothers, George and Bob, in one of their droll Irish comedy skits; Sam Elton, known in England as "The Man Who Made the Shah of Persia Laugh," a great eccentric comedian; Will Mead and his educated dog, "Sparkle;" the Prampin Trio, instrumentalists; the sisters Noble in songs and dances, and timely pictures by the Kinetograph will complete the program.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Musical comedy of the daintiest and most delightful description, under the title of "Mamselle Sallie," will hold the stage of the Boston Theatre all next week and the following week. It will introduce as joint stars that celebrated young English comedienne, Katie Barry, and that droll, diminutive comedian, Jack Slavin, together with such other congenial favorities as George E. Mack, Sidney De Grey, Will Carleton, Jack Henderson, Florence Quinn and Agnes Finley.

Needless to say, John C. Fisher, who does everything well when it comes to the staging of a theatrical production, has given this operetta a magnificent setting, gorgeous in coloring, brilliant in costuming and picturesque in the mountings, stage groupings and tableaux.

The plot of "Mamselle Sallie" has relation to two lockets, the possessors of which, if of the opposite sex, shall share a large estate, provided they marry. The lockets change hands many times and finally are used to unite Mamselle Sallie, a sprightly little hairdresser, and John Joy, a lawyer and her ardent lover. There are Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Again will the unlimited resources of the management of the Castle Square Theatre be tested in the production of "Trilby" at the Castle Square next week. This play, it will be remembered, was dramatized by Paul Potter some ten years ago immediately upon the heels of its great success, as a novel, and it brought a fortune to its authors and management. "Trilby" on Monday will have its first stock company production at the Castle Square, an event long waited for by the many who have read Du Maurier's novel. In the title role Miss Lawton will appear, and it is expected that her personality, her magnetism and her artistic skill will astonish our theatre goers.

Orpheum Theatre.

As the leading feature of next week's bill at the Orpheum Manager Williams has secured the remarkable exponents of the science of Thaumaturgy, the Fays. The remarkable work done by Mrs. Fay in her public appearances has been commented on throughout the country and no satisfactory explanation of the astonishing results shown the public has yet been made. The Fays are to appear at the Orpheum for only a single week and will afford the usual opportunities to the audiences to test the abilities of Mrs. Fay in answering questions put to her.

☞Dr. Everett, like Moorfield Storey, Winslow Warren and others, cannot see how any self-respecting Democrat can do otherwise than support Guild. Such utterances as this are interesting not only as indicating the opposition of conservative Democrats to the regular Democratic candidate, but also as showing how generally and how widely the candidature of that other conservative Democrat, Gamaliel Bradford, is being overlooked in this campaign.—Herald.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

WHY WASTE MONEY?

Much Money Wasted on Skeleton Recipes.

A skeleton recipe, that is to say, one giving only the ingredients, causes a great many inexperienced housekeepers to lose money by wasting valuable cooking material. OGEECHEE LAUNCHED

Large Steamship To Run on the Brunswick Georgia Line

Another successfu launching was held this afternoon at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. Today it was the steamship Ogeechee, a sister ship of the Satilla which was launched Aug. 21, and the second of four that are building for the Brunswick (Ga.) Steamship Co.

Although the launchings have been numerous at the Fore River this fall the interest in them seems in no way abated for there were many gathered along the shores of the Fore River to witness the launch.

The launch was scheduled for 1.30 and it was not far from that time when it took place. The yards were closed to all but holders of tickets to the launch, and there were a few present in the yard outside of the official party. This party came from Boston in special cars that were attached to the 12.25 train. These cars were run over the company private track from East Braintree, leaving the party near the launching stand that had been erected about the bow of the steamer.

The launching stand was gay with red, white and blue bunting, while along the deck of the Ogeechee were strung the flags of international signal code. Suspended from the bow by a ribbon of red, white and blue was a bottle of Mumm's extra dry with which the Ogeechee was christened.

Hardly had the official party arrived when preparations were commenced for the launch. A shrill whistle followed by the rapping of a hundred or more hammers told the spectators that the wedges that lifted the vessel from her keel were being driven home. Then came a pause as the shores were knocked away.

All was now ready and at a given signal the soul pieces were sawed through and the vessel began to move toward her native element. As she started down the ways Mrs. C. L. Dimond, wife of the vice president and General manager of the Brunswick Steamship Co. smashed the bottle of wine on the steel bow of the vessel, and in a clear voice said "I christen thee, Ogeechee."

It was 1.21.30 when the vessel began to move down the ways and inside of two minutes she was riding gracefully in the river, and tugs were making fast to her to tow her to the fitting out dock near the Satilla, which by the way will have her trial on Wednesday.

Immediately after the launch the guests repaired to the mold loft where a lunch was served, after which the party were taken back to Boston in the special train.

The Ogeechee, like the Satilla, is built of mild steel. She is 313 feet long, has a moulded breadth of 40 feet, a depth of hole of 25 feet, and a displacement of 5,000 tons. She is designed to carry the maximum of freight on an unusually light draft.

The propelling machinery consists of one set of triple expansion, surface condensing engines, supplied with steam by two S. E. Scotch boilers, suitable for developing sufficient power to propel the vessel at a continuous speed of ten and one-half knots per hour.

Another Fire at Icehouse.

The icehouse of the Meadow Brook Co., at Wendall's quarry took fire again on Sunday afternoon. Word was sent to Chief Litchfield and he ordered a steamer and relief hose wagon to the scene. The steamer was located so that it could draw from the pond, and for an hour it poured water into the smouldering hard pine shavings. Everything was thoroughly soaked so that there would be no danger of it again taking fire.

Mrs. Lillian N. Ross of Oldtown, Maine, has been renewing old acquaintances in this city the past week.

Church Sunday First Church

Each year the Sunday school of First church observes "Church Sunday" by attending the regular church service, followed by special services during the school session. Sunday, Nov. 4th, was the date this year and a block of seats was reserved for the school. Music was by the church quartet. Rev. E. C. Butler preached a sermon for the children but it was equally good for the grownups.

At the communion service ten or twelve were admitted to the church, the simple service was beautiful and impressive. It was followed by the Lord's supper.

The Sunday school opened with the school repeating in concert the names of the ministers of the church since its formation in 1639. In over 250 years there have been only twelve pastors. Mr. Schumacher read an account of the first meeting house, following out the idea of acquainting the children with the church history, and what it means to them.

Friday evening a rally service is to be held in the chapel when Rev. Mr. Peck of Needham is to speak on Flags. Each child is asked to invite a child to attend who is not already connected with a Sunday school. A penny collection will be taken for a fund for the poor at Thanksgiving. The collection is limited to ten pennies from each child.

Endurance Run Of New Jersey

The battleship New Jersey, built at Quincy, is again in Boston harbor after service in Cuba, and a hard test of her sea worthiness. The Herald says:

After making a 24-hours' endurance test in a fresh northeast gale throughout the run from Hampton Roads to this port, the United States battleship New Jersey, Capt. W. W. Kimball, arrived in port at 5.30 o'clock Saturday night and anchored off Long wharf. The trial board of five members left at once for Washington. Rear Admiral Joseph N. Hemphill, chairman of the board, expresses much satisfaction with the working out trial of the New Jersey.

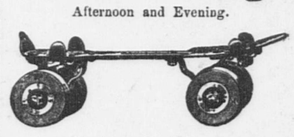

The New Jersey sailed from Hampton Roads at 1 P. M. Thursday. After clearing port she started for a four hours' test of the engines running under full speed. This test was a failure on account of poor lubricating oil. After running two hours at a 19-knot speed against a heavy sea, a metal connection in the engine room melted. The battleship had to come to a full stop.

Repairs were made and the New Jersey started on her 24-hours' endurance run. Throughout this run the warship was running into the teeth of a fresh, northeast gale. Huge seas swept over the forward deck, but she maintained a speed of from 12 to 13 knots an hour, throughout the 24 hours. It was as severe a test as has been made by any of the new war vessels, and for endurance the New Jersey showed herself highly satisfactory. The test ended off Cape Cod.

Admiral Hemphill warmly complimented Capt. Kimball for the fine handling of the ship by the officers and crew through the nasty run up the coast. The New Jersey will stay in port for several days.

City Official At City Hospital

Julius Johnson, one of Quincy's well known builders, and one of the board of Assessors, is seriously ill at the City Hospital. Mr. Johnson was taken sick on Saturday upon his return from Boston, and Sunday morning was taken to the City Hospital with a serious stomach trouble.

A specialist was called in, and it was said that the only thing that could save him was an operation, but that this was not possible owing to the weakness of his heart.

This morning at the Hospital it was said that he was a little more comfortable but still in a very serious condition.

Mr. Johnson who has resided in Quincy for a number of years has always taken an active interest in city affairs. He has been a member of the Ward Three republican committee and has served his ward in the City Council. He has built many houses particularly on Upland road and at the present time has others underway.

Finns Unanimous Against License

The Finnish no-license rally was not held at Temperance hall as announced, but at the Finnish Congregational church. The attendance was about 500, every available space being occupied. The following speakers addressed the meeting: H. Tuori, M. Riihrimaki, M. Kaukola, K. F. Henrikson, J. W. Merilainen, Alex Halonen and A. Hanninen. William Gilotte and Edward Sandberg spoke in English. Music was furnished by the following mixed choruses: "Lilja," "Kantele" and "Savel." The Finns are unanimously in favor of No-License.

Automobile Accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Donna Caswell of Lawrence while returning in their automobile from a visit with Mrs. Caswell's mother, Mrs. Jacob Kolb of Clive street last week, met with rather a serious accident. Mr. Caswell in trying not to run over a dog turned out so quickly that the machine crashed into a post and all the occupants were thrown out, beside the front wheel of the automobile being broken. Mr. Caswell, his friend and his little son Fred escaped unhurt, but Mrs. Caswell was thrown over a fence and was injured quite badly in the back. Reports of her improved health, however, are current this week.

Soccer Games.

The McGregor football team found the Brockton Cricket club a formidable team at Brockton on Saturday. The Quincy boys put the ball through the goal once but the referee decided it was an off-side play. The Brockton team scored one goal and won one to nothing.

The league game scheduled at Roslindale between the Bostonians and Riverdales was not played.

Atlantic Girl Fatally Burned

Little Ellen Golden, the eleven-year old daughter of Patrick Golden of West Squantum street, was terribly burned Saturday afternoon and after living a few hours died of her injuries. The little girl had been watching a bonfire with some of her playmates and it was suggested that they roast apples for a pleasant diversion. Miss Ellen secured the fruit and was in the act of bending over the fire to watch the roasting process when the flames caught her apron strings.

She ran to the house next door in terror, but finding the door locked rushed frantically down the street, her helpless friends following, until she dropped in a heap near the residence of Dr. F. J. Peirce.

Mrs. Golden, when she saw the crowd, thought there must be a fire somewhere and arrived on the scene to find her daughter burned almost beyond recognition. Mr. Golden was summoned and carried the little girl home in his arms.

Dr. Peirce was called, but Ellen was beyond human aid, although she lived until evening in a perfectly conscious condition and cheerfully bid all her dear ones goodby. Just before she passed away, she asked her mother if she might go out and play for a little while. Then she turned her head and closed her eyes forever. Mr. and Mrs. Golden have the sympathy of the entire community.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Don't forget to vote Tuesday. Do it early in the morning.

Japan wants the school door included in her list of open doors.

The King of Anam roasted his wife, but the Duke of Marlborough seems content to keep his in hot water.

The English government has turned against the new soap trust which has apparently failed to appear before the public with clean hands.

It is not the custom of the Daily Ledger to print election extras on the night of the State election, but on Wednesday will give the complete returns by wards for all candidates on the Quincy ticket, and the results in different districts.

The Quincy Young Men's Christian Association has received its first public bequest in the will of Rev. R. H. Harlow, and it will be greatly appreciated. A few more $2,000 will assist greatly in the great work which the association hopes to do for our young men and future citizens.

The prospects were never brighter for the election of two Republican representatives from Quincy than this year. The double district with its opportunities for trades no longer exists, and it is well. Eugene C. Hultman will be handsomely reelected by Wards One, Two and Three, and Edward J. Sandberg will be returned by Wards Four, Five and Six. Candidate Jenney of Hyde Park will receive the full Republican strength for Senator, and will have a big majority in the district.

Last year Quincy gave Gov. Guild a plurality of 537, and the Daily Ledger does not believe it will be one vote less this year. A larger vote and a larger plurality are confidently expected. "As goes Quincy so goes the state and nation," so we in Quincy expect Gov. Guild to be reelected by an increased plurality. The honor of the State is at stake, and the voters are aroused to that fact. The election of Moran would be as great a blow to the Democratic party as to the Rebublican, and hundreds of Democrats in this city will vote for Curtis Guild, Jr., whose long public career is without a blemish.

A Boston paper says: "Mr. Callender's popularity, combined with the many Democratic dissensions in his district, has placed this usually inaccessible district in the doubtful list. Well informed Democrats now freely predict his election.

With a chance of electing a Republican Congressman in this district every effort should be made to swell the vote of Edward B. Callender. It is important because of the ship subsidy bill; it is important because of the Federal building, and other improvements. A Congressman who is of the majority party will accomplish the most.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Inasmuch as I prefer the old doctrines of the fathers to the new doctrines of Hearstism; inasmuch as I prefer the principles of Senator Hoar and Abraham Lincoln to the light of the yellow journal; inasmuch as I choose Curtis Guild rather than the man whose name henceforth will ever be linked with the idea of murder and assassination—I would rather stand on Tuesday next where the conservative interests of the commonwealth stand, on the side of law and order and good government.—Ex-Gov. Long.

☞ I don't believe the time has come in Massachusetts, when the people of the state will set the seal of their approval on such language as Mr. Moran has used to the Governor of this state and the men who make our laws at the state house. We may not be great men, I do not believe we are, but I believe the Governor and his associates have done the best they could, and have given an honest government to Massachusetts, and when the people have a chance to vote they will not vote to elect a man who attacks them in such language as Mr. Moran had done, who had done very little himself, and that little not greatly to his credit.—Eben S. Draper.

ON NAUSET BEACH

New Schooner Wrecked Through Captain's Miscalculation

CREW'S NARROW ESCAPE

Lifesavers Hauled Sailors Ashore In Breeches Buoy, There Being but One Pair of Shoes Among the Six Men

Chatham, Mass., Nov. 5.—The nearly new tern schooner G. M. Cochrane was totally wrecked on Nauset beach at dawn Sunday and her skipper, Captaine Tower, who miscalculated his distance in running down for Cape Cod on his voyage from Parrsboro, N. S., to New Haven, together with five members of his crew, were taken off the waterlogged vessel in the breeches buoy by the lifesavers.

The Cochrane was launched in 1905 and was recently purchased by Captain Tower and several of his friends at Sackville, N. B. The schooner left Parrsboro last week and had fairly good weather down the coast. Saturday night was clear, with a bright moon all night. Tower was on deck during the latter part of the night, heading his vessel southwest. A moderate breeze was blowing at the time from the north-northeast, before which the Cochrane was rolling along at a moderate speed, but in a very heavy sea.

Just before dawn the lookout suddenly discovered breakers dead ahead, but before the helm could be put over and the vessel gybed and the keel struck the outer bar, where she began to pound heavily. Every roller sent her a few feet further on to the beach and with every thump her timbers strained. Soon the water began coming in through the fast opening seams and in half an hour after striking it was found that the pumps could not check the inflow of water. At daylight signals of distress were set in the rigging, which soon attracted the attention of both the Orleans and Nauset lifesaving crews.

The sea was too heavy to permit the launching of the surfboat, so the gun from the Orleans station was hauled to the scene and placed opposite the stranded vessel. By this time the Cochrane had rolled over the outer bar and was 125 yards from shore. The first line landed across the vessel and as soon as the running line had been rigged the breeches buoy was sent aboard and one by one the crew were hauled ashore. The line sagged considerably between the schooner and the beach, although the off-shore end was fastened well up on the mizzenmast. Every one of the shipwrecked sailors was given a drenching in their trip ashore in the breeches buoy and so hasty was their abandonment of the vessel that there was only one pair of shoes among the six sailors when they all finally landed on the beach.

The scene of the wreck was about haf way between the Orleans and Nauset stations, and the exhausted seamen were taken up to the latter.

As the tide subsided yesterday afternoon, wreckers from Orleans and Chatham were able to reach the vessel and begin the work of stripping her. Her deckload of lumber, however, was strewn along the beach for several miles.

The Cochrane was purchased less than a year ago by Captain Tower for $12,000. The vessel was equipped with a gasolene motor and had made several quick and successful trips from the provinces.

Exercise For Troops In Cuba

Havana, Nov. 5.—It is the intention of the provisional government to have the American troops here make extensive practice marches throughout the country. General Bell has enjoined all officers and enlisted men of the American army of occupation to manifest all possible courtesy towards Cubans of all parties, and to take no active part in the suppression of disorder except in extreme emergencies rendering interference for the protection of life and property necessary.

Japs Making Philippine Maps

Manila, Nov. 5.—The story that a Japanese army officer had been placed under arrest here for sketching certain of the fortifications of Manila harbor is denied by General Wood. No such arrest has been made, and no Japanese have taken sketches of the fortifications. It is well known that Japanese have been engaged in making maps of the Philippines. There is no existing law to prohibit them.

Great Meteorite Fell Into Sea

New York, Nov. 5.—Steamer St. Andrew, from Antwerp, reports that on Oct. 30, at 4:30 p. m., about 60 miles east-northeast from Cape Race, N. F., a large meteorite fell into the sea not far from the ship. The fall sent up volumes of spray and hissing steam and as it fell left a trail of red fire in the air.

Wiley's Homecoming Delayed

Havana, Nov. 5.—Lieutenant Wiley of the Fifth infantry, whose discovery on board the transport Sumner with yellow fever caused five hours' delay in the departure of that vessel, has been removed to a hospital. Wiley boarded the Sumner to go home on leave of absence.

KILLED IN GYPSY CAMP

Boys Engaged In Struggle For Possession of a Rifle

Salem, Mass., Nov. 5.—Pierre Savard, 15 years old, the son of Joseph Savard of this city, was shot and killed in a gypsy camp on Loring avenue through the accidental discharge of a small rifle. The Salem and Lynn police, who were at the camp at the time in search of a woman charged with theft, immediately investigated the affair, but decided to make no arrests.

Young Savard, with several companions, went to the camp Sunday, the boy taking with him a 22-calibre rifle. At the camp one of the gypsy boys named Romeo Jacques seemed to be fascinated by the weapon and tried several times to get young Savard to give it to him. Later in the afternoon the boys climbed into a team and as they did so the Jacques boy reached up to grab the rifle. One of the boys in the team tried to snatch it away from him and two or three were involved in a tussle for the weapon. Someone touched the trigger and it was discharged. The bullet entered Savard's hand, passed up through the arm into the head and death was instantaneous.

Peary Had Severe Experience

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 5.—That Commander Peary encountered unusual difficulties in his search for the North Pole was indicated in a telegram received by Morris K. Jessup, president of the Peary Arctic club. Buffeted about in a field of ice, his ship without coal, his dogs poisoned by impure food, and a portion of the interior of the vessel torn apart to provide fuel for the boilers, were some of the trials which the explorer was forced to face. Peary intimated that he would again try to find the North Pole. He was greatly encouraged by the progress made in his latest effort.

Knife Ends Italian's Life

Everett, Mass., Nov. 5.—The police are searching for Michael Perecaro, an Italian, who is charged by witnesses with having fatally stabbed Juan Orliano, aged 22, at the home of the latter. According to the police, the two men quarreled and Orliano slapped Perecaro's face. Knives were then drawn and when a physician arrived about an hour later Orliano was dead. The medical examiner expressed the opinion that had medical attention been given the wounded man sooner his life might possibly have been saved

Fatal Quarrel Over Cards

Boston, Nov. 5.—As he grasped his own weapon, Michale Merluzzo, an Italian, 25 years old, was stabbed through the heart last night by Nicola Leone, a fellow countryman, as a result of a quarrel over a game of cards. The weapon which caused Merluzzo's death was a long-bladed clasp knife, which was found beside him in a deep pool of blood. His own knife was underneath the body. Leone disappeared immediately after the stabbing. Both were laborers and had been in this country but a few months.

Three Fires Perhaps Incendiary

Alton, N. H., Nov. 5.—Property valued at nearly $30,000 was destroyed yesterday in a series of three fires, all of which are believed to have been of incendiary origin. A man giving his name as Fred Hall and his residence as Portland, Me., was arrested at Davis crossing, eight miles from here, on suspicion of being the incendiary. Hall denied that he set the fires, but admitted that he was in Alton Saturday night.

Serious Runaway Accident

Derby, Conn., Nov. 5.—As Eli Carley was driving across the trolley tracks here one of the front wheels of the carriage in which he and Mrs. Lucy Monson, his sister, was torn off and the horse ran away. Of the cases, 141 were for drunkenness, 21 for larceny, 14 for violation Lord's day act, 11 for disorderly conduct on a public conveyance and 14 liquor cases.

Coliseum Rink.

Manager Peter Lamworth of the Coliseum rink has now fulfilled his desire of furnishing to the people of Quincy the finest skating rink in the state of Massachusetts. Four things he declares are essential in a skating rink,—a good floor, good skates, good music and good management. For the management in every detail, and especially for the good order and fair treatment of the patrons, Mr. Lamworth is constantly and alertly responsible. The music by an orchestra of ten pieces is first class. The skates are daily inspected and kept in order by a competent machinist. The floor in all its 12,000 square feet of area has just been surfaced by a powerful five-horse power surfacing machine, and is now as smooth as the top of a piano. Tonight, for the first time, patrons may glide over the completed floor. Manager Lamworth will allow no pumice stone on this floor, it only being necessary on rough surfaces, and ladies can now be assured that no objectionable dust or grime will soil their clothing. Skating on this new floor is now a delight. The effort in the motion of skating is easy and in sharp contrast to the "work your passage" labor which was the experience of skaters on the old floor.

The new management and new conditions at the Coliseum are strong evidences that the healthy and independent sport of skating is to have a strong hold on the attention of Quincy people this season.

LAST ARGUMENTS

Will Be Made In a Series of Rallies at Boston

DOCTOR WATCHES MORAN

Triple Candidate Expected to Be Able to Complete Schedule of Speeches--Republicans Fear Apathy In Western Counties

Boston, Nov. 5.—The final arguments in the Massachusetts political campaign will be made today, and both the leading candidates will make this city the field of their last oratorical combat

Governor Guild, the Republican leader, who is seeking a re-election, will speak to the marketmen at Faneuil hall at noon. His opponent, District Attorney Moran, the Democratic, Prohibition and Independence League candidate, will, if he is able, make a series of short speeches in the 25 wards of the city in the evening. Both will have the assistance of speakers who have been heard frequently on the stump during the campaign.

Mr. Moran, who was obliged to cease his speechmaking campaign Saturday, temporarily at least, spent Sunday at his hotel in the care of a physician. The rest brought renewed vigor and it is stated that there is a prospect of his completing his schedule of speeches today. Guild remained over night on Cape Cod, where he spoke several times Saturday, and came up to the city during Sunday.

Neither side has done much work in the way of sending out literature, nor has there been the broadside advertisement as in former years. One or two of the congressional candidates have resorted to displays to gain votes, but on the whole the campaign has been marked by the absence of advertisements.

While very little work was done by Moran's followers yesterday except by the officials of the Independence League, the Republican state committee labored assiduously in endeavoring to arouse the district committees to the necessity of getting every voter to the polls. The committee had no hesitation in expressing a fear that there might be apathy among the Republican voters and urgent messages were sent to all the leaders outside of Boston to spare no effort in persuading voters to go to the voting booths.

The absence of spirited contests in the western districts for minor officers, such as congressmen and members of the legislature, is regarded with some anxiety by the Republican leaders as effecting the vote for governor and lieutenant governor.

On the other hand, Moran's followers expect that the congressional fight in the Fifth and Sixth districts will bring out a heavy vote, especially in the mill cities of Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill.

Both the Republican and Democratic state committee express themselves still confident of victory.

Mr. Moran issued a long letter addressed to Governor Guild last night in which he reviewed the different issues which he (Moran) has raised during the campaign. Moran charged Guild with failure to answer any of the questions propounded. In conclusion, Moran asked Guild to state where he stood in reference to the planks of the Democratic platform.

The president will have as much privacy as he would have in the White House.

MADE RECORD FLIGHT

Balloon Travels From Pittsfield to Shore of Long Island Sound

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 5.—One of the longest flights ever made in this country by a balloon was accomplished by the Centaur, carrying Leo Stevens, H. W. Hedge and F. M. Butler, which left here at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and landed at Branford, Conn., on the shores of Long Island sound, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, having covered 150 miles of country in less than three hours. The highest altitude attained was 3000 feet and at one time the balloon was blown through the air at a velocity of nearly 60 miles an hour.

The aeronauts reported a thrilling, but enjoyabe trip. When in the vicinity o fHartford a drop was made and messages were sent back through persons living in Farmington. The balloon then rose and kept on until the waters of Long Island sound could be seen glistening in the moonlight. They then decided to descend, but nearing the ground the gale increased and it was only by hastily pulling the ripcord that immediately emptied the contents of the big bag that Stevens and his companions saved themselves from a cold plunge.

Charity Worker Murdered

New York, Nov. 5.—Following an autopsy, a coroner's physician declared that Mrs. Maggie Gordon, aged 23, who was found dead in her apartments Saturday night, had been "choked to death by a heavy hand." Since coming here from Pittsburg Mrs. Gordon has done considerable charity work on the East Side. The coroner committed to the Tombs without bail to await the result of the inquest the dead woman's "common law husband," Alexander Gordon, 45 years old, who described himself as a merchant.

Tourists Are "Trimmed"

Washington, Nov. 5.—According to the annual report of Major Pitcher, acting superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park, the monopoly enjoyed by the Yellowstone Lake Boat company for the transportation of tourists from upper Geyser Basin to the Thumb is becoming a serious proposition. Pitcher recommends that competition be established in some way. The boat company charges $3 a head for the trip, which is 18 miles. Its franchise expires July 21 next.

Suicide Followed a Murder

Abingdon, Va., Nov. 5.—While leaving the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gildersleeve, where she was employed, Mrs. William Garrett, a widow, 35 years old, was murdered last night, a charge from a shotgun almost severing the woman's head. John Hawkins, a neighbor of the woman, committed suicide, following his learning that he was under suspicion for the killing of Mrs. Garrett. Hawkins was 30 years old and leaves a wife and three small children.

Bomb Outrage by "Black Hand"

New York, Nov. 5.—Unsuccessful in their attempts to blackmail Francisco Messina, a prosperous tailor of Brooklyn, members of the so-called "Black Hand" society hurled a dynamite bomb against the front door of the tenement house in which he lives and conducts his business and caused damage of $3000. Scores of persons felt the shock of the explosion, but no one was injured. Detectives made three arrests.

So far no serious disasters have been reported.

Make the Most Of What Is In Us

Col. Edward Anderson was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon. There was a fair-sized audience, composed chiefly of young men. The speaker said in part: "We are too apt to reason that because our abilities are not great it is not important that we should exert them. This is a great mistake. It is our duty to make the most of what is in us. Besides we may have greater power than we realize. The world's greatest men, including Moses, David and Luther, were men of lowly origin who had no reason to suppose at first that their influence would be far reaching.

A young man who attended college with me fifty years ago had so much difficuly with his studies that he was often about to throw up the work. I induced him to presevere and keep at it. He did so, and when he died last year he had reached an enviable place among scholars and scientists.

Do your best and results will take care of themselves. The light-house keeper does not try to peer out upon the dark waters and does not worry about the mariners for whose safety he sits in his tower. It is his duty to look to his lamps and see to it that they give forth the best light of which they are capable. Be your light great or small, remember the scriptural exhortation and "Let it shine."

In Favor at The Shipyard

There has been sent to the shipyard a large number of blank petitions which read as follows:

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Sir:—The undersigned, employed in shipbuilding in the United States, respectfully and earnestly request the immediate passage of the Merchant Marine Commission's shipping bill, which passed the Senate on February 14, 1006. We are interested in the passage of this measure for the reason that it would give us steady work at our several trades, and at good wages, for many years to come, in the United States, instead of having alien labor in foreign countries build the ships required for our imports and exports."

These petitions are being universally circulated, and men who are willing to sign them are given the privilege. It is needless to say that practically every person employed by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company is signing the petition, on account of the prospects of the shipyard receiving contracts which will be profitable if the Merchant Marine Commission's shipping bill is passed by Congress.

Capias Wanted For Mrs. Cox

The Probate court of Plymouth county, says the Brockton Enterprise, has been petitioned to issue a capias, or bench warrant, that will give authority to a deputy sheriff or other proper officer to go to the home in Wollaston of Mrs. Helen Frances E. Cox, arrest her and hold her to produce before the Probate court to testify as to her knowledge, if she has any, concerning the present whereabouts of a cash estate of about $7,000, which belonged to the late Harriet Wilde Butters. It is in many respects a most unusal and interesting case.

Mrs. Cox has persistently refused to obey an ordinary legal summons and on top of this refusal emphatically declined to accept a registered letter from the United States mail, giving her further command, by grace, over the formal summons, to appear before the court.

The petition for the capias was presented Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Brockton court house at an adjourned session of the Probate court, Judge Freeman W. Lothrop of Barnstable on the bench. The court took the petition under advisement. If a capias is to issue it may come this Saturday afternoon, or possibly not until the first of next week.

With the capias a proper officer will have due authority to secure Mrs. Cox at all hazards as a violator of the law which commands obedience to a summons to appear before any duly constituted tribunal of the commonwealth.

A capias from the Probate court bench is declared to be unusual though not altogether a new proceeding, but in this case the petition, as presented by Mr. Barker, adds what may develope into a new and even more startling chapter than all the other strange episodes that have occurred in this long-fought legal battle and before the case got into full swing as a court subject.

Mrs. Lizzie C. Winslow of 11 Waverly street, Brockton, a sister of Mrs. Cox, is the client for whom Mr. Barker acted in petitioning for the Probate bench warrant.

The Doctors Urge Election of Guild

Dr. John A. Gordon of this city and hundreds of other prominent physicians of Boston, Worcester and other parts of the State, have issued a circular recommending Gov. Guild for what has been accomplished this year on health laws. They cite Chap. 502, providing for medical inspection in public schools; Chap. 386, regulating the sale of patent medicine; Chap. 116, to prevent the misuse of milk cans; also Chapters 508, 158, 365, 59 and 96.

In conclusion the circular says: "For the reason that his administration has stood for exceptional achievement in those departments of public activity which come directly within the purview of our profession, we feel justified in urging upon all of our fellow citizens the moral necessity of upholding the hands of a worthy public servant and of further continuing in the service of the Commonwealth, his excellency Curtis Guild, Jr.

Norfolk County Is Assessed

Norfolk county has been assessed $5,000 toward the cost of the new $40,000 bridge built by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners at Hemlock Gorge reservation at Newton. The State pays $15,000, and $5,000 each will be paid by the City of Newton, Town of Wellesley, County of Middlesex, County of Norfolk and Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company. The bridge is not in Norfolk county and Norfolk county people were not interested in it.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

THE NEW COUNCILLOR

Norfolk county will be the home of a member of the Governor's Council next year. Without apy opposition in his party Hon. Albion F. Bemis of Brookline, formerly of Foxboro, has been nominated by the Republicans, and his election is assured. His progress has been step by step, and he is admirably equipped for the position. He is in his 51st year.

QUINCY'S VOTE FOR GOVERNOR.

"As goes the city so goes the state and nation" is truer today of Quincy than of Hull. It has been verified in every State election since 1889, and in every Presidential election since 1875.

During these years the State of Massachusetts has gone Republican twelve years and Democratic four years, and so did Quincy. The Nation has gone Republican at six elections and Democratic at two elections, and so did Quincy.

Therefore the Quincy returns next Tuesday night will tell who is elected that day as Governor of Massachusetts. The vote in recent years has been:

Hot Contest In Braintree

A very large vote was cast in Braintree to day because of the peculiar contest for representative. By the new apportionment, Braintree is no longer with Weymouth in a double district, but with Holbrook and Avon constitute a single district. The Republican committees of these towns agreed that Holbrook should name the candidate this year, but at the Braintree caucus Wallace Wilson of Braintree secured a majority of the delegates and became the party nominee. Louis E. Flye, of Holbrook, who is endorsed by the committees, is running as a Republican Independent, and the Democrats have as a candidate William H. Cronin of Braintree.

At 10 A. M. Braintree had cast 900 votes out of a total of 1,443. In the South Braintree precinct it was thought Wilson and Flye would split even; in the Braintree precinct Flye is leading, and in the East Braintree precinct he is way ahead. Gov. Guild will have a plurality in the town,

The polls closed at Braintree at 1.30 and the total vote was 1185 as follows: 489 at South Braintree, 384 at Braintree and 312 at East Braintree. There are 1443 names on the lists.

Braintrees Won.

The Quincy second team of bowlers went to South Braintree Monday evening and were defeated by the home team two games out of three, viz: 405 to 382, 427 to 422 and 425 to 445. The scores were very good two of the Quincy youngsters getting singles of 106. Dunn of Quincy was high man of the night with 277, beating South Braintrees high man by 13 pins. The totals were: Braintree 1,257; Quincy 1,249. Both teams meet next Monday night at Quincy.

GRADE CROSSING.

At 8.07 a recess was taken until 8.35 at which time a public hearing was held on the petition of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., for permission to build a track across Howard avenue at grade.

J. A. Sedgwick, the treasurer of the company, appeared as representative of the company and spoke in favor of the petition. He said the company owned the Snow property on the southerly side of Howard street and needed it as a place of storage. Only a spur track was wanted, and probably would not be used more than once a day on an average. The street runs to a dead end and there were only four other property holders on it and only three or four teams a day besides those to the shipyard. Could not see where there would be any objections.

Questions were asked by Councilmen Chase, Hall, Gilson and Spargo, which Mr. Sedgwick answered.

Lawyer Norton appeared as a remonstrant, representing four property holders on the street, Messrs. Hayden, Wight, Green and Nay. He claimed that one crossing on the street was bad enough but two would cause a direct inconvenience, especially in winter. That railroad crossings at best were uncomfortable things. The rights of the four were as worthy of consideration as a larger number. His clients further claimed that the company did not live up to the restrictions imposed relative to the present crossing; that the street was not paved as wide as required; that the sidewalk was not paved; and that trains did not come to a full stop before crossing the street.

Questions were asked by Councilman Gross, Bass and Crane.

The order was recommitted to the Committee on Streets, and at 8.55 the Council adjourned to meet Nov. 12.

LARGE VOTE

Indications That Moran Vote Will Be Smaller Than for Bartlett

The weather conditions for the State election today could not be improved. Fair skies and seasonable temperature prevails and there should be a heavy vote.

The indications at noon were that the total would be larger than last year, when but 3,968 votes were cast out of a total of 5,149. In 1904 when there were 5,134 names on the lists, the total vote was 4465, but this was Presidental year. Todays total will be upwards of 4,000.

Last year Quincy gave Gov. Guild 2,063 votes, which has only been exceeded in three years. In 1896 Gov. Wolcott received 2,270; in 1900 Gov. Crane had 2,249; and in 1904 high water mark was reached when Gov. Douglas received 2,289. With the exception of Gov. Douglas, no Democratic candidate for governor has received 1,600 votes in Quincy, and it is not expected that Candidate Moran will receive many over 1600.

COMPARISON OF VOTE.

The progress of the voting today is shown by precinct one of Ward One, where the total vote by hours is compared with the same hour for three years:

Hour.	1903.	1904.	1905.	1906.
7 A. M.	54	68	70	61
8 A. M.	104	119	130	125

2 P. M.	298	360	334	316

NAMES ON LISTS.

Quincy has 5,328 voters this year an increase of 179 over a year ago. The figures by precincts for three years follow:

NUMBER TO VOTE.

During the past three years the number to visit the polls on State election days were:

	1905 Voted	1904 Voted	1903 Voted

WARD ONE.

Over 650 votes had been cast in Ward One at 2 o'clock, out of a total of 993. Each precinct cast over 60 the first hour precinct two taking the lead. At 8, 9 and 10 however precinct one was leading. Before 11 o'clock precinct two made a great spurt and at 12 was 32 ahead.

At that hour precinct one was 26 behind the same hour last year, while precinct two was 25 ahead, a difference of only one in the ward.

The voting was quietly done; there being no excitement at all. The regular election officers of long experience are on duty, but the result of the vote will be two hours later than usual because of the new law relative to counting.

The vote by hours in precinct one is given at the head of the column in comparison with other years.

A prominent Democrat was seen coming out of a drug store this noon wiping his mouth. When asked why, he said that he first went and voted for Guild and then took a drink of soda to take the crow taste out of his mouth.

WARD TWO.

The Quincy Point ward, especially the second precinct, which is known as the Democratic end of the ward, is getting out a large vote today. The voting was unusally heavy during the early morning. Up to 9.30 nearly 200 votes had been cast. Precinct one is about holding its own, and up to 10.30 had cast 137 votes.

After 9.30 it was as quiet as Sunday at both precincts until noon. There were carriages but ward heelers had made their escape. On the whole it is

Here and There About the City

Glorious election day weather.

Thus far the city campaign has been a tame affair.

See Daily Ledger tomorrow for complete election returns.

The furniture store in the Post Office building at Wollaston makes a specialty of antique furniture.

The election returns of the city and the State will be late tonight because of the new law relative to the count.

Many avail themselves of bargain day of the E. E. Gray Co., and watch their weekly "ad" in the Daily Ledger.

The Iroquois club is rehearsing evenings for a minstrel entertainment. Edwin Larkin and Joseph Elcock are to be end men.

Extensive plans are being made by the Point people for the entertaining of the Norfolk County Sunday School Association on Nov. 20th.

The first social of the Wollaston Baptist society will be held this evening in the chapel. There will be a harvest supper at 6.30.

Executors will be appointed at the next session of probate court in Quincy, Nov. 14, on the will of Robert H. Harlow, Martin Pfaffmann and John H. Newcomb.

Mrs. T. B. Pollard's Sunday school class was the banner class of the Quincy Point Sunday school for October and holds the banner during the present month.

Wollaston people have not yet recovered from their surprise of seeing extra cars on Sunday trailing behind the regulars. It should have been thus, sooner, they say.

The Rev. J. C. Robbins and Mrs. Robbins talked at the Baptist church, Wollaston, Sunday evening on their work in the Philippines and were listened to with much interest.

Mrs. Isabelle Davis the reader, has superintended the dramatics to be given this evening by the King's Daughters, which is a guarantee that those who go to Bethany chapel will be entertained.

Archibald F. Macleod and Benjamin R. McQuinn are the new proprietors of the market at 372 Granite street, Brewers Corner. Both are experienced men in local stores, and are worthy of public patronage. Goods will be promptly delivered.

Great interest is being manifest in the meetings of next Sunday evening at the Quincy Point church. There is to be a meeting for men in the vestry, with R. D. Chase of Quincy, president of the Y. M. C. A., for one of the speakers. Upstairs in the auditorium there is to be a meeting for the women.

PROPHETS AT SEA

No Positive Prediction on the Election In New York

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

Wall Street Bets Favor Hughes, but Party Lines Cannot Be Depended Upon to Deliver Vote --Up-State Is Doubtful

New York, Nov. 6.—Predictions cannot be said to throw any helpful light on the political situation in this state. Republican state headquarters confidently expect a plurality of not less than 200,000, while the managers of the Independence League and Democratic joint campaign anticipate 150,000 votes to spare in Greater New York and to which they add a plurality of 50,000 above the Harlem river.

The political thermometer in Wall street has varied from odds of 3½ to 1 on the election of a Republican governor to 5 to 1 and back to 4 to 1, at which figures the greater number of bets on the curb were placed.

In spite of the confidence expressed on both sides, none will deny that never before could party lines be less confidently depended upon to deliver the regular vote.

Mr. Hughes, named by the Republicans for governor, has received the endorsement of many old line Democrats who objected to the action of the Democratic convention at Buffalo. On the other hand, Mr. Hearst, the candidate of the Independence League and of the Democratic organization, has invaded the up-state strongholds. That he will draw from the Republican vote in certain sections is generally conceded.

The Republicans have always counted upon the up-state counties to roll up a vote to more than offset the Democratic plurality in Greater New York, but this year up-state can hardly be described as pitted against the metropolis.

In this city the minor issues are so involved and the candidates so many that the official ballot, 2,000,000 copies of which were printed, is literally a blanket sheet.

Elaborate police arrangements have been concluded, inspectors and captains being instructed to insure a fair election at all hazards. The police are armed with no less than 2000 warrants directed against those who are alleged by the managers to have illegally registered and these men will, if they attempt to vote, be arrested. All parties will be represented by counsel in the vicinity of the polls.

The most astute of political observers are reserving their opinion until some definite idea can be gathered from the early voting. Never before, it is conceded, has there been greater danger to the reputation of the careful prophet in making any positive prediction on the election.

The final word of each standard-bearer last night was a promise to his supporters of a great victory.

Late last night State Chairman Woodruff gave out this final message from Republican headquarters: "A glorious victory will have been won if every voter does his duty as well as Mr. Hughes and his associates on the anti-Hearst-Murphy-Conners state ticket have done during the campaign."

Chairman Ihmsen of the Independence League state committee at a late hour last night issued the following: "I have no reason to change my mind as to the result of the election. Mr. Hearst will be elected governor of the state of New York by 200,000 plurality. Our friends up the state are not at all dismayed by the great sums of money that the Republican managers have sent up there."

Conners' Great Claim

Buffalo, Nov. 6.—Chairman Connors of the Democratic state committee said last night: "I have no reason to alter or revise the figures previously given out. Hearst will be elected by approximately 200,000 majority. A landslide is in store for the Republicans and it will sweep into office Democratic members of congress and the legislature in districts which have been regarded as unalterably Republican."

Conflicting Claims In Ohio

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—Interest in local fights and in the contest over the congressional delegation have combined to take attention away from the state tickets, minor offices only being voted for. Democratic Chairman Garber claims a plurality of 19,000 for his ticket, with gains in the congressmen, while Chairman Dick of the Republican committee maintains that his party will not only retain all its congressmen, but will also keep the Democratic districts won two years ago.

The Missouri Contest

St. Louis, Nov. 6.—Both the Republican and Democratic managers claim victory in Missouri. Republicans predict that the party will carry the state for the general ticket by a majority of 10,000 or 15,000. Democrats assert that they will carry the state by at least 30,000 majority.

Both Sides Confident In Nebraska

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—Republican State Chairman Rose says: "Nebraska will elect the entire Republican state ticket, will send a good working majority of Republicans in both houses to the legislature and will send a Republican congressman to Washington from each district. Chairman Allen of the Democratic state committee says: "The Democratic state ticket will be elected. We will also elect a majority of the legislature and four out of the six congressmen."

Doubt In Keystone State

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—"Edwin S. Stuart will be elected governor of Pennsylvania by at least 50,000 majority," says Chairman Andrews of the Republican state committee. "Lewis E. Emery, Jr., will be chosen governor of this state by the handsome majority of 100,000," says Chairman Niles of the Lincoln state committee.

Aside from the above statements there is nothing upon which to base a prediction as to the final result today.

Republicans Will Carry Illinois

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Although estimates of the party managers differ widely, there seems to be no reason to doubt that the Republican party will carry the state by a substantial majority. The legislature will be Republican and the election of a Republican to succeed Senator Cullom is certain. The Republicans concede that Congressman Rainey, the one Democrat now representing this state at Washington, will be re-elected.

Disregard of Party Lines

Des Moines, Nov. 6.—While the general impression prevails that Governor Cummins will be re-elected, there is some feeling of uncertainty. There has never before been another such situation in Iowa politics, and old party lines promise to be more ruthlessly disregarded in today's voting than ever before. The fundamental hope of the Republican managers lies in the 80,000 plurality given Cummins three years ago.

Four Doubtful Districts

Milwaukee, Nov. 6.—Republicans claim their state ticket will be successful with a plurality of 60,000 and that they will have 10 of the 11 congressmen. The Democrats assert they will win with 15,000 votes to the good and will elect four congressmen. It is safe to say that the Republicans are sure of electing six congressmen and the Democrats one, there being four districts in doubt.

Senatorship a Chief Factor

Trenton, Nov. 6.—New Jersey politicians admit that they cannot well forecast the result of the election. Chief interest centres in the election of members of he legislature, who will elect a successor to United States Senator Dryden, a candidate for re-election. His opponent is A. E. Stevens. It is conceded that the election hinges on the result in Newark and Essex county.

Clergyman May Be Governor

Denver, Nov. 6.—Party leaders are at sea as to the result of the state election, being unable to estimate accurately the vote to be given Lindsey and Haywood, respectively Independent and Socialist candidates for governor. In betting, odds of 5 to 2 in favor of Rev. Henry A. Buchtel, Republican candidate for governor, over Alva Adams, Democrat, are given.

A Three-Cornered Contest

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Predictions as to the result in California vary as widely as at any time during the campaign. The Republican managers assert that Gillett will be elected governor by nearly 30,000 plurality; the Democrats say they will have 8000 plurality, while the leaders of the Independence League declare that Langdon will win

Johnson Confident of Winning

St. Paul, Nov. 6.—Governor Johnson, Democrat, expresses confidence in his re-election. It is generally conceded that the Republicans will have a plurality of 50,000 on all other state officers. The Republicans admit that their candidate for governor will run far behind the ticket, but maintain that he will still win by about 10,000.

The Situation In Michigan

Detroit, Nov. 6.—The Republican party is confident of the victory of their state legislature and congressional tickets. Charles H. Kimmerle, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, says that he is "not ready to concede that the people vote on the dictation of Governor Warner and the Republican machine."

Tennessee's Bitter Fight

Nashville, Nov. 6.—The campaign for governor of Tennessee has been a bitter one between M. R. Patterson (Dem.) and H. C. Evans (Rep.) and leaders of both parties are expressing confidence. Republicans also predict a gain of three congressmen.

Apathy In Washington

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 6.—The campaign in Washington has been apathetic. Republicans say their success is assured. Democrats say that if they have the assistance of the labor element they may elect one congressman.

Republicans Claim Indiana

Indianapolis, Nov. 6.—Chairman Goodrich of the Republican state committee claims the state for the Republicans by 38,000. No statement was made at the Democratic state headquarters.

Roosevelt Casts His Vote

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt arrived here this morning to vote. He proceeded at once to the polling place. The president then drove out to Sagamore Hill. The district in which the president votes is normally Democratic.

ON LAND AND SEA

Much Damage Is Reported From the Maritime Provinces

SWEPT BY FIERCE GALE

Numerous Disasters to Shipping Reported--Restoration of the Wire Service Will Probably Show Still Greater Loss

Halifax, Nov. 6.—Dispatches have been pouring into this city, bringing news of vessels wrecked or in distress, of wires prostrated and of damage done by gale and sea all along the coasts of Nova Scotia, Cape Breton, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Four vessels were driven ashore yesterday, another, after having everything movable on deck washed away, was forced to put back to the port from which she had sailed, and the steamer Turret Bell, which went aground on the north side of Prince Edward Island last week, was driven further in shore.

The storm was most violent in Northumberland strait, which separates the southern shore of Prince Edward Island from the northern Nova Scotia coast and from the northeastern coast of New Brunswick. Two schooners and one bark were swept aground in this strait, and a third schooner was wrecked near the eastern entrance to the strait.

The Norwegian bark Adeona tried to weather the gale off Rexton, N. B., opposite the western end of Prince Edward Island, but dragged her anchors and grounded on North reef. She sprang aleak and her crew were helpless in the severe cold and heavy gale, and in imminent danger of being swept overboard or dying from exposure. The tremendous seas had made it impossible for any vessel to go to her assistance.

In the same vicinity, schooner Alexander, laden with lumber and outward bound, also dragged her anchors and went ashore. It was thought, however, that after part of her cargo had been removed she could be floated.

Schooner Omega lost her sails when off Charlottetown, and the seas washing over her carried away her cabins and deckload. Driven before the gale, she drifted swiftly for 30 miles across Northumberland strait, until she finally brought up on the rocks at Fox point, near Pugwash, on the northern coast of Nova Scotia. Her crew of four men had been obliged to man the pumps with practically no rest since Wednesday, and during all that time they had had neither food nor drink, all their supplies having been swept overboard. They were rescued, almost overcome by exhaustion and exposure, soon after the vessel grounded. The schooner probably will be a total loss.

Schooner Torridon, coal-laden, was totally wrecked on Menier's island, Anticosti, and four of the crew perished. The schooner went to pieces and the ship's boat being too small to hold all, a raft was constructed. Captain Landon and the mate took possession of the boat, which was made fast to the raft, but after being out a short time the two small crafts became separated. The boat finally landed at another point on the island, but the other men are missing.

The 1376-ton steamer Turret Bell, which is valued at $100,000, probably will prove a total wreck off Cable Head, P. E. I., on the north coast, where she went ashore last week. For several days she held in the position where she struck, a hundred yards from shore, but the terrific pounding she received in the gales of Sunday and yesterday dislodged her and drove the vessel so far inshore that when the undertow leaves her her bow is aground. The crew have stuck to the steamer.

Numerous small fishing boats on the north side of Prince Edward Island were broken up during the gale Sunday night.

On land, telegraph and telephone poles and wires throughout the maritime provinces were blown down. From many remote points no word has yet been received, and it is feared that when all is learned still further disasters may be recorded.

Five Sailors Drowned

Richibucto, N. B., Nov. 6.—Five members of the crew of the Norwegian bark Adeona, which was wrecked on a reef off Richibucto bar during a heavy northeast gale, were drowned while attempting to make a landing on the beach. The drowned men were all Norwegians.

Rebels Display Stars and Stripes

Havana, Nov. 6.—In the vicinity of Sancti Spiritus there is encamped an armed band of 90 men, displaying the Stars and Stripes. The leaders declare that it is their desire to head a movement in support of annexation to the United States. This band was recently induced to disperse by the commander of the marine force at Sancti Spiritus, who probably will again order the men to return to their homes.

Peary Won't Visit Newfoundland

St. Johns, Nov. 6.—Governor MacGregor has received a telegram from Robert E. Peary from Labrador, to the effect that he will be unable to accept the governor's invitation to visit him on Nov. 9. Peary says further that he plans to return to New York via North Sydney, N. S.

BITTER CONFLICT

Many Odd Features In the Massachusetts Campaign

LONE FIGHT BY MORAN

No Evidence That He Is Supported by Conservative Democrats--Campaign of Republicans Closes With Enthusiasm

Boston, Nov. 6.—A new and remarkable chapter in the political history of Massachusetts has been made by the state canvass which was closed last night. It is a story of a bitter conflict in public opinion over the radical movement, inspired and carried out by one man, John B. Moran, the district attorney of Suffolk county, who has been three times nominated for governor, and the traditional conservatism in Massachusetts politics, represented in this case by the Republican party, which has renominated for governor Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston.

Unprecedented issues and unprecedented interest have featured this extraordinary contest. Moran, who was nominated by the Democratic, Prohibition parties and the Independence League, has been greeted in his tour of the state by an outpouring of the people and by demonstrations everywhere. Guild has likewise received ovations.

Candidate Moran, who proclaimed himself an independent from the start, fettered, as he said, by none of the parties which endorsed him, has played a lone fight from the outset, and early threw down his gauntlet that it was a battle between Moranism and Guildism. The leading conservative members of the Democratic party rejected him before the Democratic convention as being "fundamentally unfit" and there has been no indication since the convention that they are supporting him now. Moran began by saying that he would accept no contribution unless from the people and he ended yesterday by an appeal to the citizens to labor hard and get out the full vote, as he had no campaign fund and must depend upon the "patriotism and earnestness" of the people.

A feature of some of Moran's speeches was his declaration that he was allied with neither Hearst or Bryan for president, and that Massachusetts would stand as the equal when it came to offering presidential candidates. This was interpreted by some that Moran himself would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Candidate Moran wrote the Democratic platform and he has spoken largely concerning its planks, which call for many reforms in the law, including a repeal of the legislative immunity act, stringent statutes against bucket shops and laws to restrict divorces. He attacked Governor Guild's record, especially for his appointment of former President Dana of the state senate as a member of the superior bench.

The Republican campaign, which was at first lukewarm, closed with great outbursts of enthusiasm for Governor Guild and the Republican movement in general. It was stated freely that the speech of Secretary of State Root in New York against Hearst had its reflection in this state and that it would do much to decrease Moran's chances, particularly as Moran has been classed by the Republican orators as an ally of Hearst, as a demagogue and as a man who had used his office of district attorney to advance a personal welfare. Moran was attacked in the canvass as no man running for office has been in many years.

All signs point to a record-breaking vote being cast in Massachusetts. The heated campaign has drawn the interest of the stay-at-homes, and both sides expect the voters will turn out as never before. The Republicans have made a special effort to get out the vote in the western part of the state.

Victory is claimed by both sides. Chairman Feeney of the Democratic state committee thinks Moran will carry the state by 20,000, while Chairman Talbot of the Republican state committee puts Guild's high mark at 75,000.

Great interest centres in the vote of Boston. For some days rumors have been afloat to the effect that Moran might be cut in the city, but the Democratic leaders stoutly deny this. Mayor Fitzgerald issued a statement last night claiming 20,000 plurality for Moran in Boston. This estimate is somewhat smaller than was expected, since some of the Moran men claim the city by 50,000.

The silent vote will have a big factor in deciding the situation. It will be more potent than ever this year and that is why political prophets are more or less at sea.

Democrats Expect Gains

Concord, N. H., Nov. 6.—The campaign closed in New Hampshire with less interest manifest than for many years. The Republicans claim the choice of two Republican congressmen by large majorities; the election of Floyd for governor by 5000; 150 majority in the next house of representatives; 18 out of 24 state senators, and a majority of county officers in all the 10 counties of the state. The Democrats say if Floyd is elected it will have to be by the legislature, as he will not have a majority of the popular vote. They concede the congressmen to the Republicans, but expect to make large gains in both branches of the legislature, and say that they will carry Manchester, Floyd's home city. The Prohibitionists and Socialists are likely to double their small vote of two years ago.

Figuring on Wetmore's Successor

Providence, Nov. 6.—Both sides claim that they will carry the election in this state. The Rhode Island canvass this year was carried on with especial fervor on account of its result upon the selection of a United States senator to succeed Mr. Wetmore, whose term expires next year. The Democratic party and the movement known as the Lincoln Steffens party have been laboring with great vigor to elect an assembly which will elect as United States senator R. H. I. Goddard. Governor Utter was nominated by the Republicans for re-election and the Democratic standard-bearer is James Higgins of Pawtucket.

In the Nutmeg State

New Haven, Nov. 6.—A conservative view of the field in Connecticut brings into light the fact that outside of New Haven county and the cities of Bridgeport and Hartford there is considerable apathy in which the Republicans are the more inactive. The Democrats expect to cut into the Republican pluralities largely. It is not likely on the face of things as they look that the Democrats will capture any seat in congress from this state.

Ran Out of Food and Water

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 6.—With no food but a little oatmeal and no water aboard, schooner Elizabeth Gilbert, when midway between Cape Henry and Barnegat, bound north, gave up the battle with head winds and came back here. The Gilbert cleared from Jacksonville, Fla., for New York Oct. 9 with cargo and deckload of lumber. She lay in Mayport 10 days and sailed thence Oct. 19. Ever since she has been bucking head winds and had got half way to New York when her provisions and water gave out.

Curiosity Cost Seven Lives

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Nov. 6.—On the arrival last night of a train at Mocha, a village station opened a week ago by the American company which is building the Quito railroad, the cars were surrounded by a group of natives who inspected the passenger car with great interest. One of the natives, without knowing what he was doing, opened the brake, and the car, which had been detached, ran back at a high rate of speed and overturned, killing seven and injuring nine passengers.

Stensland and Hering Sentenced

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Paul O. Stensland, formerly president of the failed Milwaukee Avenue State bank, who was arrested in Tangier, and Henry W. Hering, cashier of the same institution, were sentenced by Judge Pinckney to indeterminate terms in the penitentiary for embezzlement and forgery. The sentences may run from one to 10 years. The sentence given Stensland is concurrent with the one given several weeks ago.

Wife Poisoner a Suicide

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—In a cheap lodging house here Dr. J. B. Matthews of Greensboro, N. C., blew out his brains. Matthews was convicted at Greensboro of the poisoning of his wife. He had been out of custody under bail, pending the decision of his appeal for a new trial, which was denied him, and relatives and bondsmen have been searching for him that he might be taken before the court to be resentenced.

Georgia Negro Lynched

Wrightsville, Ga., Nov. 6.—Bailiff Hightower sought to arrest a negro, William Newsome. A fight took place and Hightower called for assistance. Ernest Carter ran into the house and the negro shot and killed him. Then Hightower fired upon the negro, wounding him twice. Hightower and John Mason started with the negro for Wrightsville. At Sumner's bridge 30 men halted them and shot the negro to death.

Jury Inspects Thoroughfare Draw

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 6.—The theory held by Coroner Gaskill that a misplaced rail caused the Thoroughfare wreck was strengthened when the jury inspected the draw. When the draw was set by the railroad operatives the metal top of the casing on the rail jammed and did not go into place and Superintendent Lovell was compelled to knock it in place with a piece of plank.

Mechanics For Canal Work

Washington, Nov. 6.—In October the isthmian canal commission sent 364 additional skilled American laborers to the canal zone. Carpenters were more numerous than any other tradesmen, 75 of them having been sent. The machinists numbered 52 and the plumbers 17.

Car Killed Two Women

Amsterdam, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A carriage in which were seated Misses Lena Cook and Eva Scott, each about 20 years old, was struck by an electric car at the Cranesville grade crossing and both young women were instantly killed.

WILL KEEP UP FIGHT

Mrs Phelps Bound to Get Daughter From "Holy Ghosters"

Boston, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Mary Phelps, the Kansas City woman, who has long been searching for her missing daughter, and came to Boston from Portland, Me., declared last night that she will not desist in her fight for the girl. She says that if necessary she will have her pronounced insane, so that she can be legally appointed her guardian and take her from the dangers that are confronting her. The girl, after being found, refused to return home with her mother.

The woman, who for over seven years has intermittently been in quest of her daughter, has all but exhausted her resources of strength, courage and finances in her battle for the possession of the girl.

But the mother was given a severe blow when, after gaining access to the "Elim," the Boston headquarters of the Holy Ghost and Us society, where she found the girl and where she was allowed to speak to her, although not in private, she was turned from the doors with the words ringing from the girl's own lips that she might not call again.

Mrs. Phelps was told by her daughter: "You are my enemy and not my mother. Christ has commanded me to stay with these people, whom I love. The devil is in you and no manner of persuading will force me to alter my mind. I shall not go."

Admits Setting Fires

Alton, N. H., Nov. 6.—The mystery of the incendiary fires early Sunday morning, causing a loss of $30,000, was cleared up when Walter Green, a shoemaker of this town, pleaded guilty in the police court to the charge of setting the fires. Green was held for the superior court. For the past two years Green has exhibited queer behavior at times. He is 32 years old and has a wife and two small children.

Accident on New Road

Needham, Mass., Nov. 6.—A train on the new Needham and West Roxbury branch struck some obstruction near Needham Junction last night which caused the first car of the train to leave the track. The passengers received nothing more than a shaking up, as the train was slowing up. The Needham and West Roxbury branch was opened Sunday to traffic and was blocked last night about three hours.

Check Signature Forged

Bennington, Vt., Nov. 6.—E. C. Smith and his wife were arraigned in court here on a charge of forgery in connection with the purchase of a farm with worthless checks drawn on A. M. Smith & Co. of Boston. They were held for the grand jury. A. M. Smith of Boston denied the signature on the checks and testified that he had never before seen Smith and his wife.

Hunter Perished From Exposure

Houlton, Me., Nov. 6.—The body of John Bunting, 45 years old, was found in the woods near Eel river, death being due to exposure. Bunting, accompanied by his son, went on a hunting trip Friday and in the afternoon came on the trail of a moose. The boy was sent home, but nothing was heard of Bunting and a searching party discovered his body.

Identified by Photograph

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 6.—By means of a photograph the body of the youth found mangled beside the railroad tracks in Glenbrook last Friday was identified here as Charles Tichy, aged 18, son of Charles J. Tichy of this city. The young man ran away to New York with two chums in order to escape feared arrest for pranks on Hallowe'en night.

Revived and Then Dropped Dead

Bristol, Conn., Nov. 6.—James N. Watson, aged 40, an employe of the Bristol gas works, was asphyxiated while tapping a gas main here, being overcome by the escaping gas. Companions dragged him out and walked him about for an hour and had apparently revived him, when suddenly he dropped dead.

"Wild West" Game Ends Fatally

Houlton, Me., Nov. 5.—Alvin Wiggin, 14 years old, and Roy Taylor, a companion, were playing "wild west" at Hodgdon and were shooting at bottles and tin cans thrown in the air. As Taylor aimed at a can, the other lad ran in front of him and was struck by the bullet. He died shortly afterward.

Bank Robbers Got $7000

La Salle, Ills., Nov. 6.—The Farmers and Miners' bank of Ladd, Ills., was held up and robbed of $7000. Assistant Cashier Hurley was alone in the bank when two men entered and asked for some pennies. The next moment, covering Hurley with revolvers, the men ordered the assistant cashier to throw up his hands. The robbers bound him hand and foot. The thieves helped themselves to the cash and escaped.

Beaten to Death With Clubs

Barboursville, W. Va., Nov. 6.—G. B. Wright and Andrew Childers, mine bosses, became enraged at John Kelley, another boss, assaulted him with clubs and beat him into insensibility. Kelley died 30 minutes later. Wright and Childers were locked up.

Robbers In Russian Monastery

Moscow, Nov. 6.—A band of masked robbers raided the Loukianoff monastery, killed the abbot general, the prior and a monk, despoiled the chapel of sacred objects and got away with a large sum of money.

Sparks Threatened With Sickness

Reno, Nev., Nov. 6.—Governor Sparks, the Democratic-Silver party nominee for re-election, is threatened with pneumonia, due, it is believed, to the hard work of the campaign,

Poverty Is a Disease

The power of suggestion is now a recognized force in the world of business. Think poverty and it is hard work to get away from it. Think success and you will soon be on the path of attainment. The same law applies to bodily conditions. Allow the mind to dwell on disease, and sickness is hard to shake off. Direct the thoughts toward health, and improvement soon begins when you obey the suggestion to use a successful remedy that promptly dispels all the sickness caused by derangement of the stomach, liver and bowels. These vegetable pills are quick to relieve indigestion, nausea, biliousness, sickheadache, constipation and sleeplessness.

Beecham's Pills cleanse, soothe, tone and strengthen; create appetite, promote digestion, regulate liver and bowels, relieve brain-fag and bring refreshing sleep.

When despondent, blue or discouraged, think health thoughts and remember the suggestion that nothing succeeds like Beecham's Pills when you are suffering with an upset stomach, a bilious attack or sluggish bowels. All's well that ends with Beecham's Pills.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. LARGER VOTE expected that ward will poll about its usual vote. The ward will no doubt give Hultman a rousing good vote.

Republicans are voting today that have not voted before for years. Men whom the Ward Committees could never get out are coming to the polls of their own accord to vote for Guild. In one back three gentlemen all over 80 years of age came to the polls this morning to vote for Guild.

WARD THREE.

The early morning vote in South Quincy precincts was somewhat larger than usual. There was quite a crowd in front of both polling places when the polls opened and during the first hour there was a rush.

It was evident that the voters had not forgotten the instructions to vote early. After 8 o'clock things settled down and during the remainder of the morning hours there was but little doing. Now and then some voter would drop in, cast his vote, make some remark about the weather, and walk out.

The principal interest in the Ward seems to centre on Represeutative, and the wage earners are doing their best to elect their man. On the other hand the Republicans, as a rule and many of the Democrats, are voting the Republican ticket from top to bottom.

Last year the ward gave Guild a plurality of 96. This year with the increased registration it is believed that Guild will have a much larger plurality.

WARD FOUR.

West Quincy is polling about its usual vote today. There is no excitement in either precinct and no indications up to now of any unusual vote.

Although the ward is usually Democratic by a large majority, it is admitted that many Democrats are voting for Guild for Governor.

The voting during the first hour in both precincts was brisk and up to 1 o'clock the total vote of the two precincts according to the elections officers was about the same as a year ago.

The ward will give Flaherty a large vote for Representative but it is hardly possible that he can win out against the large vote Ward Five will give his opponent.

WARD FIVE.

Wollaston is polling a very large vote today beating all previous records. During the first two hours the voting was unusually heavy, 361 votes being cast during that time. At 10.30 the number of votes had reached 550, and at 12.30 the total was 610.

This number the election officers say is fully one hundred ahead of last year at the same hour. Wollaston is a very strong Republican ward and the heavy votes would seem to indicate that the city will give a large plurality to Gov. Guild and the whole Republican ticket

WARD SIX.

The Atlantic ward is getting out a good vote today which doubtless means a large vote for Gov. Guild. The voting during the first hour was very brisk in both precincts, as many of the voters whose business is in Boston voted before leaving for town to make sure that they would be counted. It quite often happens that a voter who intends to return from business to vote finds upon reaching his office that he cannot do this, and therefore he loses his vote.

This year there is too much at stake, and the ward committee made every effort to have them vote before leaving for Boston.

In precinct one the box registered 120 at 9 o'clock, while precinct two at the same hour had 115, a total of 235.

The ward will go Republican although Flaherty will get the full strength of the Democratic vote for Representative.

—The Cuban people are already quiet and farming occupations are being conducted just as if there had not been insurrections and fears of a brutal civil war.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN

The No-License League Plan Vigorous Fight Against License

The annual meeting of the Quincy No-License League was held Monday evening with a large attendance.

Dr. C. T. Sherman declined a reelection as president and was given a vote of thanks for past service.

These officers were elected:
President,—George A. Sidelinger.
Vice President,—Lincoln F. Crowell.
Treasurer,—Delcevare King.
Secretary,—Arthur W. Hall.

The executive and advisory committee of fifty was reelected, and the above officers were empowered to add new clergymen and fill vacancies.

The importance of an extra active campaign was emphasized by different speakers, and it is the purpose of the new president and officers to carry out the wish of the meeting.

It was decided to hold rallies as usual on the Sunday before election in all wards of the city; also to publish a paper, distribute buttons to the school children, and in other ways make an aggressive campaign.

An effort will be made to raise more funds than last year, not alone for the campaign but for the enforcement of the liquor laws during the coming year.

The League is fortunate in securing ex-Councilman George A. Sidelinger as president. He is a resident of South street, Quincy Point, and active in church work and city affairs, and knows the evils of liquor in this city. Mr. Sidelinger was president of the City Council in 1899 and for the next six years was City Auditor. He is a deacon of the Quincy Point church.

Neglected Rheumatism Causes Paralysis

A Uric-O Treatment Will in All Cases Remove the Cause.

Paralysis is a disease whose cause is shrouded in mystery. If you were to investigate carefully all cases of Paralysis you would find that at some time previous to the attack, the patient suffered from some form of rheumatism. Possibly like so many others, he thought it was only a slight matter of temporary inconvenience and paid no further attention to it. Rheumatism is not to be neglected with impunity. The Uric and poisonous Rheumatic Acid must be neutralized and driven from the system as soon as they put in an appearance. Do this with Uric-O.

It is a harmless vegetable preparation and does not contain a single drop of alcohol. It operates by its action upon the blood, muscles and kidneys and cures Rheumatism to stay cured. We might give you testimonials from thousands of people in all parts of the country, but we would rather have you talk with some one whom you know and can believe. Next time you are down town, just drop into the store of E. J. Murphy, Quincy's popular druggist, and ask him about Uric-O. We won't predict what he will say, but we have confidence enough in the remedy to leave it to him.

Uric-O is not a cathartic, nor does it affect or distress the stomach in any way. Uric-O is a cure for Rheumatism and for Rheumatism only. That is why it is such a great success. It does one thing and does that one thing perfectly. Most druggists sell Uric-O at 75c and $1.00 the bottle, but you can have a sample bottle free if you cut out this advertisement and send it with your name and address to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y. Sometimes they send an order on your druggist for a 75c bottle free of charge in reply to those requests for a sample.

Drysdale's Star Play At Brockton

The Brockton Enterprise in its report of the Brockton-McGregor football game of Saturday spoke of the Quincy team as follows:

The McGregors played in the second half with much confidence. By fast play, the visitors evidently being in better condition than the Brockton players, Brockton's goal was often threatened. Drysdale of the visitors, though playing centre half-back, was everywhere. He got the ball on the right side in the second period and finding no opposition from the Brockton backs carried it back to get three of his team on-side, according to rules. Then he kicked, and Rowe receiving the ball put it through the Brockton goal posts. Referee Charles E. Cowell decided that Drysdale had not put his men on-side by his play and declared no goal on the ground that the off-side rule had been violated. It was a star play anyway and won much applause.

It was no surprise when Drysdale admitted that he was a professional. In England he played with Aston Villa, the champion team of Birmingham, known wherever association football is played. In Scotland he played with Greenock Moulton and also with the Burton Swifts, a second league team, but one of the fastest in England. That was 10 years and more ago. Over nine years ago he injured his leg, and said that until six Saturdays ago he had not played for nine years. He was the life of his team and at dribbling and passing had no superior.

The visitors brought a strong eleven and such players as O'Neil and Robertson, as backs; Cadden and McLinchey, the other half-backs; Marks and Melton on the right wing; Tainch and Rowe on the left and McKinley at centre forward. O'Niell was especially good at back.

Alfred Malcolm, playing forward for the McGregors, in a whirlwind scrimmage strained the ligaments of his right knee, and retired. Thomas Robertson served as captain for the visiting team, as Captain James McKinley was treating a stiff neck received the Saturday previous. The team was recruited from Quincy and the Fore River shipyard, practically all Scotchmen. The McGregors have played 19 games this season and Saturday's match was the third defeat.

Fell from Car At Quincy Point

George S. Kirby of Edison Street was quite seriously injured Monday evening, while trying to leave a street car while it was in motion. Mr. Kirby was carried by his street and attempted to save a few steps by not waiting for the car to stop. He landed heavily and was unconscious for a time. He was taken to the office of Dr. Middleton and thence to his mome.

It was on Nov. 6, 1826, that the First church of Quincy voted to build of stone.

The Battle Of Manila

The monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Christ church, was held in the parish house on Monday evening. As President W. L. Thomas was absent Vice President James Smith, Jr., was in the chair. A large attendance was drawn out by the fact that Mr. H. W. Dixon who was chief engineer of the Newport, during the battle of Manilla would speak on that battle.

Mr. Dixon described the trip from San Francisco to the Philippines, and then told, in vivid language, the story of the land battle as seen from the ships. The talk was interspersed with a great many humorous stories which increased the enjoyment of the audience.

After the talk Arthur Thomas gave some selections on a tin whistle, showing how much music can be obtained from an inexpensive instrument.

Ambrose Newcomb sang two bass solos and the evening concluded with popular songs sung by the men, the music and words being thrown by a lantern on a screen.

In Holbrook.

The town of Holbrook is casting a phenomenal vote today because of the interest in the Representative fight between Messrs. Flye and Wilson, both Republicans. At 10 A. M. about 450 votes had been east.

Over 540 votes were cast in Holbrook out of a total of 630 voters.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The venerable records of Plymouth tell us that after the first harvest Governor Bradford sent four men into the wilderness for meat that the struggling colonists might after a more special manner rejoice together.

In accordance with the beautiful and reverent custom once of Massachusetts only, now of the United States, I, therefore, with the advice and consent of the honorable council, appoint Thursday, November twenty-ninth, as a day of Thanksgiving to the Great Power that has made this people great.

Let us give thanks for the swift and swelling improvement in the comfort of the people, for the ever-increasing care for those whose toil builds up our industries and our citizenship; for the tenderness that is lifting the suffering and the mentally distraught from the depths of pain and distress up to the heights of health and understanding; for the brotherhood that daily impels us to seek out and cherish what is good in our neighbor; for the broader patriotism that is teaching us the new and true meaning of American citizenship.

In the happy greetings of home and kindred on this day of joyous memory let us be not unmindful that this commonwealth was founded by those whose serious deliberation for the public good was ever undertaken with the invocation—"In the Name of God, Amen."

As Goes Quincy So Goes the State

Governor Guild Has Good Pluralities. The Two Republican Representatives Reelected

The city of Quincy gives Governor Guild a plurality of 245 and he is re-elected governor of Massachusetts by an increased plurality.

The republican vote for governor is 52 larger than last year, while John B. Moran with three nominations has 314 votes more than were recorded for the Democratic candidate last year.

While the Republicans are jubilant at the results in this city and State, the followers of Moran carried four of the six Quincy wards and six of the eleven precincts, and made the largest increase. Wards One and Five gave handsome Republican majorities, but all the other wards were with Moran.

Eben S. Draper, for Lieutenant Governor, was the only Republican candidate who did not receive a plurality in this city, the totals being: Brown, 1932; Draper 1817. There were 216 votes for other candidates for lieutenant governor and 250 blanks.

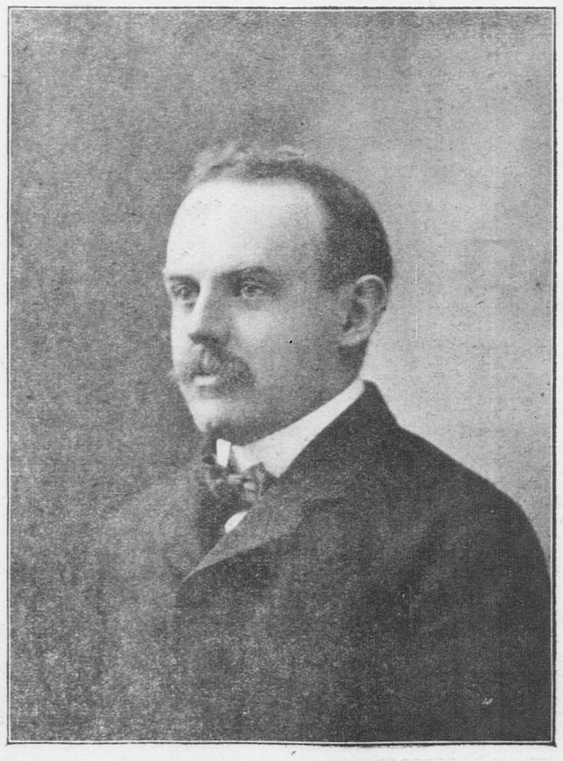

Large pluralities were given all the other Republican candidates on the State ticket.

Quincy gave Callender, the Republican candidate for Congress in this district a handsome vote, being 115 larger than for Gov. Guild, and his plurality was nearly 900.

Albion F. Bemis for councillor and Charles F. Jenney for senator have no reason to feel sore over their vote in this city, and the same is true of the Republican candidates for Norfolk county offices.

In the new Representative districts of Quincy the vote was closer than anticipated, but Messrs. Hultman and Sandberg are both reelected. The former had a plurality of 119, and the latter a lead of 284. Hultman carried both precincts of Wards One and Two, but lost both in Ward Three. Sandberg lost in Ward Four, but Wards Five and Six did the handsome thing.

The vote of the city for all candidates is given by precincts on the fourth page, and there are other summaries of the vote by districts.

REPRESENTATIVE HULTMAN.

THE RETURNS.

Althought the election officers did not begin to count the votes until after the polls closed at 4 P. M. they completed their count in good season, so that by 11 o'clock the complete official returns of the city had been received at City Hall.

The first precinct of Ward One was the first to be received. This came in at 6.50 and was followed at 7.30 by the second precinct. A precinct of Ward Four and Ward Two arrived together at 7.55. From that time on to 9.20 the official returns came in about as fast as they could be handled.

At that hour everything had been heard from but precinct one of Ward Three and Ward Five. From the figures already received it was seen that Hultman and Smith were running close in the Fifth district. There was but little doubt but Hultman would win but there was a question as to the plurality.

Then again in the Sixth district, without Ward Five, Flaherty had a lead over Sandberg. There was no question but what Ward Five could pull Sandberg through, but here again the question was by how much.

At 10.15 the unofficial returns from Ward Five settled the question, and a few minutes later the unofficial returns from the missing precinct also settled the Hultman-Smith contest, the Republican winning in each case.

The official returns of precinct one of Ward Three arrived at 10.51, and Ward Five arrived at 10.55.

COLORADO

Denver, Nov. 7.—Meagre returns indicate the election of the entire Republican state ticket, with the possible exception of William H. Gabbert, for justice of the supreme court. Republican State Chairman Vivian says his party has carried the state by 30,000 to 40,000. Democratic State Chairman Smith concedes Denver to the Republicans by 8000, but claims 10,000 Democratic plurality in the remainder of the state.

Governor's Vote In the County

Norfolk county continues strongly Republican as will be seen by the vote by towns for Governor. Only two or three gave Moran a plurality.

INDIANA

Indianapolis, Nov. 7.—Republicans have elected their entire state ticket in Indiana by between 40,000 or 50,000. The next legislature will be Republican. Republicans have elected six congressmen.

TEXAS

Austin, Nov. 7.—The total vote cast in Texas was small, comparatively speaking, not exceeding 400,000 votes all told, some 135,000 of which represent the combined vote of the Republican, the reorganized Republican, Socialist, the Socialist Labor and the Prohibition parties. The next legislature will be Democratic overwhelmingly, there being a slight chance for the Republicans to get one member in the lower house out of a possible 128. All Democratic congressmen were elected.

GUILD AND DRAPER AGAIN WINNERS

Defeat Moran and Brown by Substantial Plurality

LATTER RAN WELL IN MILL DISTRICTS

No Change In Bay State Delegation to Congress--Governor Utter of Rhode Island Is Probably Defeated--Republicans Elect Floyd In Granite State--Great Sweep In Connecticut

Boston, Nov. 7.—Curtis Guild, Jr., was re-elected governor of Massachusetts in the state election by a plurality of about 34,000. The balance of the state ticket, including Lieutenant Governor Draper, was also successful and the congressional delegation to congress will remain unchanged, standing 11 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

Both Governor Guild and his opponent, District Attorney John B. Moran, the combined candidate of the Democratic and Prohibition parties and Independence League, polled a much greater vote than did the leaders at the last election. With three cities and towns missing, the vote stood: Guild, 219,606; Moran, 188,548.

The legislature will also remain strongly Republican, although the Democrats gained three seats in the senate and that body next year will stand 28 Republicans and 12 Democrats. The lower branch of the legislature is practically the same as last year—170 Republicans and 70 Democrats.

Mr. Moran carried his own city over Guild by a margin of 13,002, a loss of more than 4000 from Bartlett's plurality last year.

The outcome of the election was a considerable disappointment to Moran and his loyal fellow-campaigners, E. G. Brown of Brockton, candidate for lieutenant governor, and George F. Williams of Dedham. The Moran campaign was handicapped by lack of organization, a meagre campaign fund and opposition from a large number of former leaders. The vote came from the wage-earners principally, as was shown by the strong endorsement given Moran in nearly all the mill cities and other industrial centres.

EBEN S. DRAPER.

Governor Guild had the benefit of the regular party organization, which ran smoothly throughout the state. Comparatively little money was used in the campaign in the way of advertising and placard work, and at the polls the Republicans relied, as did their opponents, on party loyalty as the incentive for the voter to come to the polls.

The active campaigning by Guild and other Republican leaders and the disaffection of a large number of Democrats who openly opposed Moran's candidacy resulted in cutting down the Democratic plurality in Boston from 17,435, given Bartlett last year, to 13,082 given Moran.

Mr. Moran ran very well in the mill districts, cutting down Guild's plurality in Fall River from 600 votes last year to six votes yesterday. The effect of Moran's speeches in the few cities in which he was heard was frequently shown in the cutting down of the Republican lead by the increase in the Democratic vote.

The election was one of the most for a decade and was exceedingly exhausting to the two candidates, Moran especially being near a state of collapse at the close of each rally.

Governor Guild expressed himself as very much gratified at the endorsement of his administration, while Moran, after learning the result, refused to comment upon the success of his opponent.

Victory Over Yellow Journalism

Boston, Nov. 7.—Governor Guild gave out the following statement regarding the result of the election in this state:

"I have never cherished any illusion in regard to the character of this campaign, nor to the very serious dangers we have had to face. I have fought it to the best of my ability. It is not a personal victory, nor is it merely a Republican victory. It is a victory over yellow journalism. That in three weeks year-long misrepresentations could be, as they have been, overthrown by a simple presentation of the truth, is a splendid vindication of the judgment of the people of Massachusetts."

Lieutenant Governor Draper said: "In view of the vituperations and slanderous campaign against me I am greatly pleased at the splendid vote given me in Hopedale and Milford, where the employes of the Draper company live. I appreciate their loyal support more than I can express."

RHODE ISLAND

Indications That Utter Will Be Defeated by Higgins

Providence, Nov. 7.—One hundred and ten of the 156 election districts in the state give Utter (Rep.) for governor 21,795 votes and Higgins (Dem.) 21,472, indications being that full returns will elect Higgins by about 6000 plurality. Last year Utter received 21,724 and Garvin (Dem.) 16,728.

In the first congressional fight Congressman Granger (Dem.) leads Elisha Dyer of Providence (Rep.) by 814 votes.

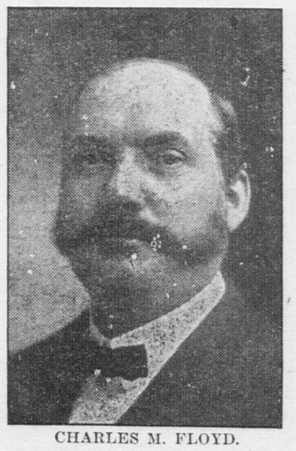

In the Second congressional district Congressman Capron (Rep.) has received 13,310 votes and Garvin (Dem.) 11,616, with 18 precincts missing. The indications are that Capron will be elected by probably 2000 or 3000 plurality.

In the general assembly contest, which is the centre of interest, inasmuch as a senator is to be chosen by that body to succeed Mr. Wetmore, most of the cities have elected Democratic representatives. The Republicans, however, expect that the members returned by the towns of the state will be sufficient in number to give them a substantial majority in the general assembly.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Floyd Carries the State by About Five Hundred Majority

Concord, N. H., Nov. 7.—One hundred and sixty-eight towns and wards out of 290 in New Hampshire give Floyd (Rep.) for governor 26,164;

CHARLES M. FLOYD.

Jameson (Dem.), 24,530; Tetley (Pro.), 1415; scattering, 554. Same towns and wards in 1902 gave Bachelder (Rep.) 27,112; Hollis (Dem), 21,759; Berry (Pro), 978; scattering, 971. Net Republican loss, 3739.

At this ratio the returns indicate Floyd's plurality at 2200, and his majority at about 500.

CONNECTICUT

Republicans Carry Everything by Overwhelming Plurality

New Haven, Nov. 7.—The Republicans won almost as sweeping a victory in Connecticut as they did two years ago, the pluralities being far greater than in the off year and comparing very favorably with the high tide of votes that swept the state in 1904. The entire state ticke, headed by Woodruff for governor, all the five congressmen and almost as many seats in the senate and house as they held at the session of the general assembly, were captured by the Republicans.

Mayor Charles F. Thayer of Norwich, an advocate of municipal ownership, fared no better as a candidate for governor than did previous nominees of the Democratic party who have been less radical in their opinions. The great organized labor vote in Connecticut did not materially increase the vote of Charles J. Donahue, state president of the Federation of Labor, who ran for congressman-at-large against G. L. Lilley, over that given in previous years to lawyers who were nominated for the same office.

Local contests, chiefly those for sheriff and probate judgeships, made the results in the city somewhat mixed, but in nearly all of them the Republican losses were offset by the solid party vote polled in all the country districts.

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

BY ABOUT 50,000 PLURALITY

Hughes Wins the Great Battle In the Empire State

DEFINITE FIGURES NOT YET AVAILABLE

New York County Elects Tammany Judiciary Ticket With One Exception--Hearst Says He Will Continue Fight Against Trusts In the Ranks--No Great Surprises Result From Elections In Other States

New York, Nov. 7.—According to returns received up to this morning, Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate for governor, has been elected by 50,000 or more plurality. Outside of Greater New York, with 160 election districts missing, Hughes had a plurality of about 12,000. In Greater New York, with 69 election districts missing, W. R. Hearst had a plurality of 75,036. Hearst carried all the boroughs of the greater city, despite the fact that the early returns seemed to indicate that he had lost Brooklyn.

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

No definite figures are yet available as to the result with regard to the subordinate state officers, and both Democrats and Republicans are claiming victories from lieutenant governor down.

The indications are that the state legislature will show but little change in its political makeup. The Tammany judiciary ticket in New York county, with the exception of Otto Rosalsky (Rep.) for general sessions judge, has been elected. The judiciary nominators' ticket was defeated.

At 2:15 this morning Mr. Hearst said: "In view of the result I have only to repeat what I have said in my speeches. I am enlisted in this fight against the control of the government by the trusts and corrupt corporations and I will fight it to the end.

"But I will serve in the lead or in the ranks just exactly as the people desire and as earnestly and loyally in one place as in the other. The people have decided to retain the Republican party in power. I will make my fight in the ranks, therefore, and as a private citizen do my best to promote the interests of my fellow citizens."

As was generally expected, Hearst showed his greatest strength in the cities throughout the state and took out of the Republican column a number of the more important municipalities which heretofore have been Republican. Among the cities which gave Hearst a plurality were Buffalo, Rochester, Utica, Troy, Elmira, Rome, Little Falls and Johnstown. All of these, except Utica and Rome, were Republican two years ago. Hughes did not gain a single city. The Republican ticket was successful, but sustained serious losses in Syracuse, Gloversville, Amsterdam, Ithaca, Schenectady, Watertown and Plattsburg.

As a result of the scratching and the voting for the same candidates under different party emblems, the returns for the subordinate officers on the various state tickets are so complicated as not to be available.

Great interest centered here in New York in the campaign waged for the judiciary ticket named by a committee of lawyers. The Tammany and Independence League joint ticket has won over the non-partisan candidates by big pluralities.

Throughout the state there has been a notable falling off in the vote from 1904, which was a presidential year. The Republican ticket showed the greatest loss in this respect, especially in the cities.

There were many odd turns to the balloting. Here in New York it was Richmond borough that defeated Hearst for mayor a year ago, and it was Brooklyn, with a big plurality, which helped him to make the race so close. Hearst barely carried Brooklyn yesterday and ran far ahead in Richmond. In Schenectady, one of the best organized labor cities in the United States, it was expected Hearst would have a substantial plurality. The Republican ticket was successful by 374 votes, as against a Higgins plurality of 1621 two years ago.

While both the state senate and assembly will be strongly Republican, the Democrats are claiming that they have made gains. The complexion of the New York congressional delegation, it is believed, will undergo but a slight change, if any.

It is officially announced at Republican national congressional headquarters that James W. Wadsworth (Rep.), for many years chairman of the house committee on agriculture at Washington, has been defeated for congress in the Thirty-Fourth New York district. The information to this effect was received in a telegram from Wadsworth himself to Chairman Sherman.

A few minutes before midnight Mayor McClellan sent the following telegram to Charles E. Hughes: "Accept the congratulations of one who, believing in Democracy, believes also that its highest interests are served by your election."

PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—The most exciting campaign in Pennsylvania in 25 years has ended in a triumph for Edwin S. Stuart (Rep) for governor, over Lewis Emery, Jr., (Dem. and Lincoln party) by a plurality that the Republican leaders claim will reach 100,000. Aside from the contest for governor and other state offices, the chief interest centered in the battle in Philadelphia for district attorney and in a few of the congressional districts. Members of the house of representatives and county officers were elected in every county, and state senators were chosen in 25 of the 50 districts.

Samuel P. Rotan (Rep.) was elected district attorney in Philadelphia by a vote which his friends claim will exceed 40,000, defeating Clarence Gibboney, who had the support of the reform forces and the Democrats. The incoming legislature will be strongly Republican, although not so overwhelmingly for that party as it was two years ago.

NEW JERSEY

Newark, N. J., Nov. 7.—The returns indicate that the Republicans will have 44 members of the house of assembly and the Democrats 16. This will give the Republicans a majority on joint ballot of 59 and make certain the re-election of John F. Dryden to the United States senate. The estimate allows him 11 votes from Essex county. The county is close, but looks safe for the majority of the Republican assembly candidates. Three Republican and three Democratic senators were elected, giving the Republicans 17 and the Democrats 4 in this branch. The Republicans had 16 and Democrats 5 at the last session.

IOWA

Des Moines, Nov. 7.—For the first time in many years the gubernatorial result in Iowa is in doubt. Although both Republican and Democratic state managers claim the election of their candidates for governor, the returns indicate that only a complete count will determine the result. The returns show a loss for Cummins of nearly 40 percent, which, if maintained, would mean the election of Porter (Dem.) by a small majority. Iowa will have 10 Republicans in its next congressional delegation.

OHIO

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—The chairman of the state Republican committee claims that Ohio is Republican by not less than 75,000 and elects 17 Republican congressmen, 3 Democrats, with one district in doubt. Chairman Garber of the Democratic committee still refuses verbally to concede the election of the Republican ticket, the nearest to that being a statement that the Republican plurality would not exceed 25,000 anyway.

MICHIGAN

Detroit, Nov. 7.—Governor Warner and the entire Republican state ticket have been elected by 60,000 to 100,000. The Republican congressional candidates in each of the 12 Michigan districts have been elected and the Republicans will have a large majority in the state legislature, with a possibility of its entire membership.

DELAWARE

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—Delaware went Republican by a majority estimated at 2500. Congressman Burton (Rep.) of Lewes is re-elected over Marvel (Dem.) of Wilmington. The Republicans will also control the next legislature that will elect a successor to United States Senator Allee.

MARYLAND

Baltimore, Nov. 7.—Maryland's delegation in the Sixtieth congress will be three Republicans and three Democrats, proportionately the same as at present, but with a change in two of the districts. The labor campaign against Congressman Mudd was unsuccessful.

MISSOURI

St. Louis, Nov. 7.—Secretary McCoy of the Republican committee made the following statement: "Returns from the northern half of Missouri show a Democratic gain of 2000 over the estimates I had forecasted. I have not been able to get a single return from southern Missouri. If my estimates for the southern half are borne out by the returns the state will give a Republican victory. But the result will be close."

Democratic State Chairman Evans states that while returns are coming in slowly, they indicate a Democratic gain. "It is too early to forecast a Democratic victory in the state," he said, "but it looks very much that way by a close margin."

A Natural Laxative

Inward cleansing is as necessary as outward bathing. To keep the bowels free and regular is of even greater importance than to keep the skin-pores from becoming clogged. The neglect of either invites disease. Everyone needs a natural laxative occasionally, to free the bowels of accumulated impurities. For this purpose take the greatest boon ever offered to those who suffer from the ills that follow constipation. For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been famous as a Stomach corrective, a Liver regulator and Bowel laxative. They never gripe nor cause pain. Powerful purgatives are dangerous. Avoid them. Use Beecham's Pills. They give relief without doing violence to any organ. Their action is in harmony with physical laws. Take them regularly and the necessity for their use becomes less frequent. They are a natural laxative and a positive cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

AMONG THE CLUBS.

The November Mothers' meeting is to be a parents' evening when the fathers are especially invited. It will be held this evening at 7.45 in Bethany chapel.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters met with Mrs. Clifton Baker of Highland avenue Monday evening. The report of the City union meeting was read. Mrs. Hathaway was elected to membership.

Rev. Albert Lazenby of Lynn and a particularly good authority on the subject, is to speak on "English and American Unitarianism," at the meeting of the Quincy Alliance in the parlor of the First church on Monday afternoon. The meeting will be at three o'clock as usual.

The Friday club meets next week with Mrs. William E. Alden of Chestnut street and the program will be in charge of Mrs. Wilson Marsh; the subjects being Charles Algernon Swinburne and Theodore Watts Dunton.

Mrs. William B. Nichols of Goffe street is to address the meeting of the Wollaston Women's Alliance next Wednesday afternoon in the vestry of the Unitarian church. Her subject will be Cheerful Letter Work. As she it president of the work she is well able to speak on the subject and the meeting promises to be particularly interesting.

John Greenleaf Whittier proved an interesting subject of study for the Junior Friday Club at its meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur W. Hall. Mrs. Litchfield was in charge of the program. After the meeting the hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Alfred Thompson instead of with Mrs. Litchfield as scheduled.

Col. Anderson was the speaker last week at the meeting of the Hyde Park Current Events club, taking as his subject, "Anecdotes of Distinguished Men I Have Known," a lecture much enjoyed last season by the Quincy Women's club.

The Hospital Aid association is busily at work for their fair to be held next week Wednesday at the home of the president Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, 215 Goffe street. The fair will be open from 2 until 10 P. M. and it is hoped to raise a large amount for the Nurses' Home which is much needed in connection with our Hospital.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The tramp is something most women know more or less about and members of the Quincy Women's club will be interested at the meeting next Tuesday afternoon in listening to Miss O. M. E. Rowe who will take for her subject "The Tramp and how to Eliminate Him" The talk will be followed by general discussion, closing with a club tea and social.

The women's exchange will also commence next Tuesday under the auspices of the Arts and Crafts committee and club members will find in the committee rooms, during the social hour, an assortment of home cookery to tempt the buyer.

The club house is now almost entirely renovated and put into useable shape for club purposes. Frank Sass of Wollaston completed during the summer the rooms on the second floor and the side hall in a most satisfactory manner; the walls, woodwork and floors being painted to correspond with the rest of the house. On the second floor there is a suite of three rooms for the use of the Visiting Nurse, two rooms are furnished and used by the Education committee and two by the Arts and Crafts committee.

The first floor is used by the club for its large meetings and also for committee meetings. The use of the tea room is also given to the Quincy Day Nursery association, the Hospital Aid association and the Quincy charitable society for meeting purposes.

A small room on the first floor is being fitted up for a committee room which will be a warm comfortable place for future board meetings and for filing away pamphlets and books of the club.

ADAMS CHAPTER.

The one hundreth and seventh meeting of Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution was held Monday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams.

The resignation of Mrs. Nelsen V. Titus as regent of the chaper was acted upon and accepted with regret. It was voted that her place as regent remain vacant until the next election, the vice regent to act in the meantime.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Titus for her faithful work for over ten years.

It was voted to send letters of sympathy to Mr. Perry Lawton on the death of his mother Mrs. Mary F. Lawton who was a charter member of the Chapter; to Miss Houghton on the death of her father and to Miss Susan P. Gould on the death of her sister Miss Elizabeth Porter Gould.

Adams Chapter is in good financial condition having some $70 on hand for the winter's work.

Mrs. Granger gave on interesting report of the work in the Junior societies showing the Quincy Juniors to be in good condition, financially and otherwise. A meeting is to be held by the Juniors on Saturday afternoon at half past two at the home of Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Pleasant and Quincy streets.

At the close of the business meeting an interesting paper on Samuel Adams was read by Mrs. Pratt, after which tea was served and social chat enjoyed.

The December meeting is to be a Christmas party and it is hoped every member will attend, bringing a gift, valued at five cents. Details will be given later.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY.

The St. Chrysostom's Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society met on Friday evening in the parish rooms. After the G. F. S. service lead by the chaplain, the roll call showed thirty-one members present. The reports of recording secretary and treasurer were read and approved. The entertainment committee reported that plans were developing favorably for the entertainment to be given soon.

A letter from Mrs. C. T. Whittemore, secretary of the All Saints branch, Ashmont, of G. F. S., was read, which sent greeting and a cordial invitation for St. Chrysostom's branch to visit them on the evening of Dec. 13.

A second "Talk to Probationers" entitled "Friendliness" was read by an associate in part she said:

"Come into the G. F. S. then not with the selfish idea of merely gaining friends, but with the determination of being friendly, not only with members, but to all whom you may meet, for the habit of friendliness, once acquired will stand you in good stead wherever you may be; at school, at work, at home, a "friendly" girl with a kind word on her lips and a kind thought in her heart which prompts the friendly helpful action will never be without true and loving friends, no matter where her lot may be cast."

A social half hour was enjoyed and hot chocolate and crackers were served by Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Packard. Mrs. Alberta N. Luhmann was appointed an associate.

CLUB NOTES.

Rev. Thomas Van Ness lectures on, "Constantinople: Past and Present" at the regular meeting of the Heptorean club of Somerville on Saturday afternoon.

Tomorrow is Federation day with the Old Colony club of Weymouth. Neighboring clubs are to be entertained, with a reception and musical.

The regular meeting of the New England Wheaton Seminary club will be held at the Vendome, Boston, Saturday November 10th, beginning at 1.30 P. M. with a business meeting. Miss Ida C. Allen, formerly connected with Bradford academy, will be the speaker; her subject, "A Talk about Books, Old and New." Louis Graham Harris, the boy violinist, accompanied by Miss Dorothy G. Harris, will render selections.

Norumbega club of Charlestown is to hold a fair on the 14th to raise money for disbursement among charities.

Samuel Arthur King, who gave a Shakesperian recital last evening at the Quincy Mansion school, read Hamlet Monday afternoon to a large meeting of the Monday club of Weymouth.

Marshall Darrach who is to give a Shakesperian recital at Atlantic Music hall on the 24th under the auspices of the Shakespeare club, has been engaged by the Forthian club of Somerville for their January meeting, when he will read "The Merchant of Venice."

The Somerville Woman's club started a current events class on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman as the lecturer.

The New England Women's club will discuss "Summer Novels," at its meeting on Nov. 12th at its rooms on Clarendon street, Boston.

As a result of the stamp saving system, which was introduced by the Friday club into the Everett public schools 247 new accounts have been opened in the local banks in Everett and large sums transferred to accounts in other banks. The Friday club had the stamps and stamp cards engraved and printed, the stamps in denominations of 5, 10 and 25 cents. The pupils buy the stamps at their face value and attach them to the cards, twenty-four stamps to each. Only a card full of stamps can be redeemed at a time, which is practically withdrawing the money represented by them from the bank. Stamp saving has been in vogue in the Everett schools one year on Nov. 1, and the result has been nearly $3,000 saved. During the year the pupils have purchased $5,000 worth of stamps, $2,000 of this being withdrawn at different times. Of the $3,000 remaining, nearly $2,000 was withdrawn for the purpose of starting individual bank accounts.

Over fifty members of the Brockton Woman's club have joined the choral class, which is rehearsing to sing on guest evening and at the annual musicale.

The music class of the Brockton Woman's club opens the season tomorrow when Mrs. Edith Noyes Porter will give the first of a series of talks. Mrs. Porter will speak upon the life and works of MacDowell and will be assisted by a vocalist and pianist.

School Boy Breaks His Leg

William Torrey of Houghs Neck aged 6 years, and a pupil of the Coddington school, had his right leg broken on Tuesday afternoon. After coming from school the little fellow with others was playing on some sleepers that had been piled up on Washington street near the fountain. One of the sleepers slipped, and the boy fell, and another log rolled onto him. He was carried to the office of Dr. Garey where the fractured bone was set. The boy could not be cared for at home, as it was said that a family of seven were living in two rooms. An effort was made to get him into the City Hospital, but there was no room, and the boy was finally taken to the Boston City Hospital.

Dramatics by Kings Daughters

Bethany chapel was completely filled Tuesday evening for the dramatics presented by Unity Circle of King's Daughters. The play was, "A fighting Chance," and was staged under the management of Mrs. Isabelle Davis. The time was 1862, and the place a boarding school south of the Mason and Dixon line. The same sentiment which surged through the country during the Civil war, was alive in the boarding school, and there were stirring times.

It was admirably done by the participants, and showed not only the careful training of Mrs. Davis, but the natural ability of the artists.

The play hinged on a new comer arriving at the school whom the others suspected of being a spy or a sympathizer with the North. Every part was well carried out from the principal, Mrs. Wood, down to the maids, Irish Rosy, and the colored girl Juliet.

The play was in three acts with the following cast:

Madame Mayburn, principal of school, Mrs. S. I. Wood
Mlle. Fordet, French instructress, possessing great admiration for her own detective powers, ... Miss Dulah C. Miller
Eleanore Hamilton, new arrival, Miss Hattie E. Sargent
Cecil Hotspur, a true Southernor, . . . Miss Corinne Hayward
Ruth Anna Morton, Quakeress, . . . Miss Ruth Packard
Helen Hastings, with an uncontrollable fondness for "jacks," Miss Ella Packard
Mabel Davis, an "F. F. V." Miss Lora Hunt
Lulu Jefferson, Cecil's room mate, . . Miss Annie R. Black
Madeline Burgson, troubled with English, but never with insomnia, . . Miss Nina Bates
Juliet Washington Anabel Johnson, decidedly above "po' white trash," Miss Blanch Morrison
Rosy Harrigan, with a love for the Union subservient to her hatred of "niggers," Miss Helen Kingman

East Norfolk C. E. Union

A business meeting of the East Norfolk C. E. Union was held Monday evening. The President Mr. Wendall A. Harvey presided.

A committee of four was appointed by chair to consider matter relating to amended republication of the Union constitution and by laws.

A committee of three young lady endeavorers was appointed to consider matter relating to the appointment of a pastor as a Union Counsellor. This is urged by the United society for all C. E. unions.

Suggestions were received from the members of the committee, relating to the annual Union social to be held in the Bethany vestry.

Mr. E. F. Dyer, vice president resigned his position as chairman of the Lookout Committee of the union, and the president was directed to appoint at his own time a new chairman.

Reports of the Worcester convention were given by four endeavorers, who had attended: Miss Ida L. Thomas of Quincy, Miss Lanstrom of Milton, Mr. James Maxwell of Milton, and H. J. Barnard of Quincy. Each one spoke of the convention's excellencies, Worcester's greatness and their enjoyment of the whole affair.

Mr. Maxwell had painted an excellent map illustrating the construction of the C. E. bridge by the Worcester junior endeavor.

Refreshments were served by members of the Bethany society.

Fairyland At Wollaston

There was a veritable Fairyland in the vestry of the Wollaston M. E. church Tuesday afternoon. Supper was served from 5.30 to 6.30. Miss Irma Douglas, Miss Ida Bland, Miss Harriett Ruggles and Carl Clifford helped in the serving. There were many pretty tables well supplied and well patronized. The apron table was tended by Mrs. R. C. Sprague; the fancy tables by Mrs. Sedgewick and Mrs. Given; the candy table by Mrs. Heath, and the doll table by Mrs. Kay.

The feature of the fair is a goose pen from which one might obtain a unique and useful gift by dropping in a nickle. Howe's orchestra furnished music. Miss Orcutt pianist, Miss Pryor, violinist, and Mr. Hincholf, cornetist, also rendered some pretty selections. Mr. Illsley gave a vocal solo which was much enjoyed.

TODAY'S COURT.

George J. Wright and George A. Warren were fined $10 each for exceeding the limit with automobiles on the Blue Hills parkway.

Charles B. Perigo was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Weymouth. Case continued until Saturday.

WORTHLESS RECIPES.

How to Avoid Them and Obtain Useful Ones Instead.

A cooking recipe which contains merely the ingredients to be used may be of use to an emperor's chef, but it is worthless to the average housekeeper, to say nothing of the inexperienced young wife. What housekeepers want is a recipe that will tell you just how to put the ingredients together. The place to get those recipes is in the Household Department of the Boston Daily Globe.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

The Fathers Were Guests.

The Mothers Meetings at Bethany church which usually are held in the afternoon, took the form of a reception this month, and the fathers were guests on Wednesday evening. There was a large gathering and it was social occasion.

After the reception there was an interesting program. Mrs. W. G. Shaw, the president, made a charming presiding officer. Mr. E. E. Craig, the superintendent of Bethany Sunday School welcomed the guests, and trusted there would be co-operation in the work for the homes and the church.

Rev. E. N. Hardy, the pastor, conducted the devotional exercises which included songs of praise and prayer.

Mr. A. D. Dimick of Wakefield was then introduced and spoke on the tobacco problem. For twelve years, he said, he had studied the problem, and it was a perplexing one, because so many men of standing were devotees of the habit. It was hard to convince young men of the injury with so many examples about them.

But the physiological effects of tobacco were bad. Smoking enfeebles digestion, causes the heart to beat much more rapidly and operates through the nervous system. If a smoker counted his pulse before smoking he would find the normal about 74, but after smoking it would be 112.

He told of the evolution of the smoker from the candy cigarette to the common cigarette, the cigar, the briar pipe and the clay pipe. The harm he said came through the nicotine which was a deadly poison. Some men can smoke without any apparent bad effect, but weak hearts or tobacco hearts were very common and blindness occasionally resulted.

A great many of the sudden deaths attributed to heart failure were really from a tobacco heart.

Business men and bond companies are drawing the line at smokers and young men who frequent the pool rooms and theatres. The speaker knew of a Cigar Union which fined members $5 who smoked cigarettes.

Then smoking was a very expensive habit. He had a bank clerk compute the cost of a ten cent cigar daily from 17 to 50 years of age, with interest, and it amounted to over $2,400. Boys who begin to smoke, find it hard to break off the habit. Parents who think their sons don't smoke should quietly make an investigation.

Mr. A. L. Hayden rendered two beautiful solos, accompanied by Mrs. Weixler.

A social hour followed during which punch and cake were served by the ladies.

Two Alarms.

There were two alarms of fire Wednesday evening, between 5 and 6 o'clock. The first alarm was from Box 32 at 5.19, for a grass fire off Independence avenue. The second alarm was from Box 56 and sounded at 5.45 for a slight fire on the roof of Brasce's building on Newport avenue, caused by sparks from the chimney.

There were two still alarms of fire Wednesday evening in addition to the bell alarms. Both were in the late afternoon. One was for a fire in a hut near Wendalls quarry, and the other for a grass fire near Eldridges on Quincy avenue.

Box 62 was pulled at 1.24 this afternoon for a slight roof fire on Newbury street. The recall was promptly sounded

Ladies Night Knights of Columbus

The annual ladies night of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, was held Wednesday evening. The affair was largely attended and was decided social success.

From 8 to 8.30 the members and their ladies were received and welcomed by the officers of the council.

This was followed by whist until 10 o'clock. Souvenirs for the best scores were awarded to Mrs. Andrew Dinegan, Miss Annie W. McGillvray, Louis White and Henry McNally.

During the evening there was a musical entertainment, consisting of violin solos by Marcus Mahon, piano solos by W. T. McCarthy, vocal solos by Samuel J. Kilpatrick, Andrew Dinegan, and Master Daniel O'Connell.

There were also selections by a quartette composed of Miss Josephine McCarthy, Miss Angelina McCarthy, D. J. S. McCurdy, and Daniel B. Reardon.

Ices and refreshments were served during the evening.

Voters Willing To Have Canal

So far as the voters along the proposed route of the Brockton canal are concerned, the canal is in favor as the act of incorporation received their approval by an overwhelming majority. Fourteen cities and towns voted, including Weymouth, Braintree, Holbrook, Randolph, Avon, Brockton and other towns as far as Taunton.

Every city and ward and every town favored. In proportion to its vote Braintree had more remonstrants, as 706 favored and 151 opposed. In Weymouth 1507 favored and 136 opposed. In Brockton 7487 favored and 249 opposed. And so on. The total vote was: yes, 15,637; no, 768.

The cities and towns by their votes do not assume any of the expense. That is the affair of a private corporation, and President John J. Whipple says the next step will be the financing of the canal, and hope is expressed that the necessary $30,000,000 will be forthcoming through the efforts of those who for so many years have attempted to promote the waterway.

Here and There About the City

The City Council and State Aid will meet Friday evening.

Charles H. Brooks has the leading brands of flour and canned goods.

The Assessors are at the State House this week, looking over the corporation returns.

The members of the Granite City club smoked with Representative Hultman on Wednesday evening.

The Elks are furnishing the Hitchcock house on Foster street recently purchased by them, as a club house.

The streets are in a frightfully dusty condition. It seems almost as through the watering car disappeared too quick.

A rummage sale for the benefit of the Day Nursery will be held Nov. 16 and 17 at a vacant store at No. 15 Granite street.

The City Council Committee on Finance will meet tonight. The Committee on the High School Inquiry also meet tonight.

Miss Katherine Gorman and Mr. McDonald won the prizes at the whist party this week of Ladies auxiliary, No. 8, A. O. H., at Plumers hall.

The new Johnson block on the corner of Chestnut and Maple street will make quite an imposing appearance. It is a pity, however, that the building could not have been of brick or concrete.

Many of the friends of Benjamin Johnson have been feasting on venison this week. It was convincing proof that Ben shot something while on his recent gunning trip to Maine.

The official nominations for the City caucuses next Tuesday are published by the City Clerk in this issue. Some names published the day after the papers were opened do not appear.

Wonder if the candidates for municipal offices to be voted for at the caucuses next Tuesday have lined up before the committee of the Citizens Association as yet! Will the report be made public!

Only two opportunities will be offered to register new voters previous to the City caucuses, tonight and Saturday night. Registration for the City election will close Wednesday evening, Nov. 14.

There is very little in the way of excitement yet over the approaching municipal caucuses next Tuesday. It is reported that Mr. Gray expects to get most of his strength in Wards One, Two, Four and Five.

Harry W. Kimball of the Central Labor Union at Rockland will be one of the speaker at the men's mass meeting on Sunday evening at the Quincy Point church. He was a delegate to the State branch of the American Federation of Labor, and the committee are fortunate in securing him as one of the speakers. President Chase of the Y. M. C. A. is always entertaining.

COTTON ON TREES

An Indian Product Superior to That of America

EFFORTS TO CULTIVATE

Crops Will Probably Double After the First Year, Opening an Entirely New Field For Manufactures In India

Washington, Nov. 8.—The bureau of manufacturers, department of commerce and labor, issues a report of J. R. Spence, written at Wellas cotton plantation, Deese, British India, who claims to have discovered a variety of cotton tree, indigenous to India, capable of revolutionizing the cotton industry of that country. He says:

I have had the good fortune to discover that there exists a tree, practically indigenous, at present growing in various parts of the Bombay and Madras presidencies, which produces a cotton infinitely superior both in classification and staple to American cotton and in classification alone cannot be equalled in Egypt.

It is an astonishing fact that the value of this tree's product has not up to this time been discovered by anyone in the cotton trade, notwithstanding the fact that the three has been known to exist since the time of the mutiny and probably for hundreds of years previously.

The only uses to which the cotton it produces has so far been put are the manufacture of wicks for lamps in Hindu temples and the stuffing of beds and pillows. After carefully examining it I unhesitatingly expressed the opinion that it possibly would ultimately revolutionize the cotton cultivation of India.

I sent samples to Bombay and Liverpool, where experts in the former city classed it as "fine," white in color, staple 1 1-4 to 1½ inches long, and said it would spin up to 60s.; in the latter city it was classed "superfine," color white, staple 1 3-16 to 1-1-4 inches in length and valued at 7 to 8d (14 to 16 cents) per pound—above the price of "middling"—American. I then decided to undertake the cultivation of the tree on a large scale, bought up the available seed, and made arrangements to procure all grown in the neighborhood in the future.

There are now considerably over a lakh (100,000) of trees on this plantation in a most flourishing condition, growing to a height of from 4 to 5½ feet, full of buds and bolls, and bearing cotton daily after being planted only six months. The quality of the "new crop," 1906 cotton, is superior both in classification and staple to that of the parent tree. The yield the first year has been estimated by experts at a minimum amount of 2 to 4 ounces per tree, and, as there will be over 3200 trees to the acre, this gives a total yield of 400 to 800 pounds per acre, which is above the average of Egypt and no less than from eight to sixteen times greater than the average of India.

The second year's crop will probably be double the first, and the third year's double the second. Each succeeding crop will no doubt increase still further, as it is well known that trees of this variety after the third year have yielded five to 10 pounds of clean cotton per tree annually during a known life of 20 years and over. It will thus be seen that is one-third of the cotton-growing area of India were planted with this tree the result of the second year would be a crop far in excess of that of this country and America put together. The quality is so excellent that it opens an entirely new field for Indian manufactures, the importance of which, bearing so greatly as it does upon the future prosperity of the country, cannot be overestimated.

I was formerly for 20 years a member of the Liverpool Cotton Brokers' association and have had five years' experience of cotton growing in Egypt. This cotton has been called "Spence cotton," in recognition of the fact that I was the first to discover its important value and to bring it to the notice of the commercial community.

Several cotton trees have been tried in this country, notably those from Peru and Brazil, but the first will not grow in the plains at all, and the latter has not been found practically suitable to the climate. The great advantage and importance of the Spence cotton tree is that it is practically indigenous, that it has been found all over western India, and no doubt exists in the east, and that it will grow and flourish practically in any soil in this country.

The zeal of the government of India for the improvement of cotton cultivation is shown by a rather sharp letter which has recently been addressed to the government of Burma. This government published a report at the beginning of the year to the effect that there is little prospect of the extension of cotton cultivation in that country.

The government of India, in replying, says that the conclusions arrived at as regards the future are unduly pessimistic, and goes on to declare that the conditions appear to be sufficiently favorable in the dry zone of Upper Burma to justify experimental work.

Storm Sweeps Eastern Cuba

Havana, Nov 8.—A severe storm of wind and rain is reported in Santa Clara province and to the eastward. Telegraphic communication with Santa Clara was interrupted at an early hour yesterday afternoon.

STOLEN GIRL FOUND

Recovered by Her Father After Search Lasting a Year

Salem, Mass., Nov. 8.—John Adam, after playing the role of a gypsy for a year, has at last located his daughter, Rosia, who was kidnapped in Chicago by a band of gypsies, and forced to tell fortunes and use her pretty face to make mone yfor her captors.

Adam and his wife, Katherine, found the child living with a Mexican in a gypsy camp in Salem, at Loring farm, but only until Chief of Police Fields of Salem was called in were they able to secure possession of the girl.

His daughter, Rosia, aged 13, was born in Austria, and has lived with her parents and little sisters until her disappearance a litle over a year ago. Her father spent money to no avail and finally adoped he Romany mode of life, believing his daughter stolen by Gypsies. He followed the trail slowly east until, from talks among the camps, he heard of a little girl with a band encamped near Salem. Adam and his wife lost no time in transporting their tent from the camp in Somerville to that near Salem.

When he found the child with a big Mexican named John Cross, aged 54, and attempted to take her away, he met with opposition from the entire band, the Mexican claiming he had purchased her from another band.

Adam at once took the matter to Chief Fields of the Salem force, and was sent with an officer to get his child. The appearance of the officer threw the camp into terror and the girl was given up.

Street Railways May Be Sold

Providence, Nov. 8.—Negotiations are said to be pending for the sale of the stock of the four street railway companies which comprise the Ray system of street railways to the New England Securities company, which is composed of men prominent in the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company and which was formed to take over and hold the street railway properties which the New Haven road had acquired and desired to obtain.

Petition For a Receiver

Boston, Nov. 8.—Charging that the Veterans' Spiritualists' Union is in the hands of I. P. Symonds, its president; J. C. Herring, the treasurer, and C. L. Soule, the secretary, and that these men will not allow an accounting of the union's financial standing, several members of the organization have brought a bill in the superior court in which they ask for an accounting and a receiver.

Kennedy's Death Accidental

Concord, Mass., Nov. 8.—Edward Winmill of Sudbury, who was held on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Michaael Kennedy, an aged resident of Lincoln, was discharged from custody when he came up for a hearing. The inquest into Kennedy's death showed that it was in all probability the result of accident, the man apparently having been kicked by a horse.

Sinking Vessel Abandoned

Bucksport, Me., Nov. 8.—The Millbridge schooner Eldora, from Portland for Millbridge with a cargo of mixed freight, was struck by a squall off the mouth of Gouldsboro bay and abandoned in a sinking condition. Her crew was brought here by the fishing schooner T. M. Nicholson, having been picked up at sea.

Against Municipal Ownership

Boston, Nov. 8.—At a meeting of the Boston board of aldermen an order to establish a municipal lighting plant was defeated by a vote of 8 in favor and 4 against. Nine votes, two two-thirds of the membership, were necessary before the order could become effective.

State Law to Be Tested

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—There will be no further conferencee between Secretary Metcalf and the board of education of this city and the action of the latter in setting aside a separate school for children of Japanese descent. The board desires that the state law be tested in the courts and will not recede from its position.

Sentenced and Set Free

Mexico City, Nov. 8.—Marrico Diezzecado, the coachman who was adjudged responsible for the death of James R. Parsons, American consul general, on Dec. 5, 1905, was yesterday sentenced to 11 months' imprisonment on the charge of homicide, the sentence to count from Dec. 5, 1905. According to this, the sentence expired yesterday and he was at once set at liberty. The coachman, while driving Parsons, allowed the carriage to be struck by a train.

Monster Railroad Scheme

New York, Nov. 8.—By the election of J. R. Harahan as preisdent of the Illinois Central Railroad company, to succeed Stuyvesant Fish, it is believed that E. H. Harriman has at last realized the fulfilment of his plan to control a railroad line from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. Taken together, the proposed system, if unified, puts under one control more than 23,000 miles of track capitalized at more than $1,7000,000,000.

Strike Against Non-Union Men

New Glasgow, N. S., Nov. 8.—One thousand miners are on strike at the Inter-Colonial Coal company's Drummond colliery at Westville. The trouble arose over 200 newly employed workers at the mine not belonging to the union. Yesterday 100 of these joined the union and the prospects are that the remaining 100 will be induced to join. The officials do not anticipate any prolonged closing of the works.

A DOZEN WRECKS

Many Vessels In Northern Waters Caught In Gale

SCORE OF LIVES LOST

Several Schooners Stranded on Prince Edward Island Coast--New Norwegian Steamer May Have Gone on Rocks

St. John, Nov. 8.—The terrific northeasterly gale which for a week has been sweeping over the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Northumberland strait has probably cost a score of lives and wrecked a dozen vessels, large and small. The Russian full rigged ship Sovinto, bound from Campbellton, N. B., for Melbourne, Australia; the Norwegian bark Olga, Port Elizabeth, South Africa, for Campbellton; the Norwegian bark Viking, of Arendal, Chatham, N. B., for Liverpool; the Louisburg coal steamer Turret Bell and several schooners lie stranded on the Prince Edward Island coast.

The Norwegian bark Adeona is a total wreck at Richibucte, N. B., on the Strait of Northumberland, and half a dozen schooners are ashore at various points. It is known that five members of the crew of the Aeona were drowned, and hope has been practically abandoned that the remaining six sailors of the bark have escaped.

Six men of the Savindo perished in the surf at Priests Pond, P. E. I., yesterday and it is feared that others of the crew clinging to the wreckage cannot be rescued. The fate of the crew of an abandoned schooner sighted in the Gulf of St. Lawrence is still unknown.

With the exception of tidings brought to Sydney, N. S., by Captain Bondvig of the steamer Universe, no word has been received regarding the overdue steamer Finn, which left Montreal last week, bound for Sydney, and it is feared that she met with disaster in the recent hurricane. Bondvig says he sighted the Finn on Sunday in the vicinity of the Magdalen group. The Finn appeared to be having a hard time in the rough weather which prevailed, and may have gone on the rocks. Telegrams sent to all points by the Dominion Coal company have thus far failed to bring any news of the missing vessel, The Tancred and St. Andrews, which arrived at Sydney from Montreal yesterday afternoon, brought no news of the overdue coal boat.

The Finn is a new boat, this being her first season. She is commanded by Captain Olsen and carries 30 men. She was bound for Sydney light. Unless the missing vessel is reported today it is likely that tugs will be sent out in search of her, though the coal company officials profess not to have given up hope that she passed through the gale in safety.

Captain Bondvig reported that the Universe had a narrow escape from going ashore on some of the islands of the Magdalen group, as, being light, she made great leeway in the gale. At one time it seemed inevitable that she would strike the rocks of Byron island, but fortunately she managed to pass between that island and Bird Rock. While the Universe was still in danger, the Finn was sighted and appeared to be laboring heavily under the stress of weather.

Rescued In Nick of Time

New York, Nov. 8.—Rescued when they were about ready to drop into the ocean from their swaying perch, six men, the crew of the Nova Scotia barkentine White Wings,, and her captain, were brought to this port by the tank steamship Mannheim, from Shields. With bulwarks just awash and her cargo of 400,000 feet of lumber littering the ocean, the barkentine was discovered drifting across the steamship track 200 miles east of Nantucket at 4 o'clock on Tuesday morning by the flare of her signals of distress. Captain Scheu of the Mannheim at once bore down on the floundering vessel and made out a half dozen figures crouched on the top of the forward deckhouse. A boat was sent out at once, although a heavy sea was running. After a struggle the boat's crew brought back the survivors. The mainmast had gone by the board and the stern of the barkentine was stove in and partly under water. Only the cargo of lumber kept the barkentine from foundering.

Professor Stabbed Minister

Jackson, La., Nov. 8.—The entire student body of about 500 of the Centennary college here struck and went home because they were dissatisfied with the retention of Professor Monrieff, who two weeks ago stabbed Rev. C. C. Miller, president of the college. The president is still quite ill from his wounds. He and Monerieff had a dispute about serving food to the students' mess, and Monerieff claimed that he stabbed Miller in self-defense.

Point For Yankee Fishermen

St. Johns, Nov. 8.—A delegation of captains of American fishing vessels boarded the warship Brilliant in the Bay of Islands to learn if they could continue to hire Newfoundlanders outside the three-mile limit. The captain of the Brilliant assured the delegation that under the terms of the modus vivendi the action described by them could not be penalized. The colonial cabinet is protesting to the imperial government.

CHANLER FAVORED

Probably Elected Lieutenant Governor of New York

HUGHES IS "ALL ALONE"

Democratic Ticket Appears to Have Been Generally Successful Throughout the State--Governor-Elect Takes a Vacation

New York, Nov. 8.—There is still doubt as to who is elected lieutenant governor of New York. On the face of the figures in hand the result seems to favor Lewis S. Chanler, on the Democratic-Independence League ticket.

The total vote for the state, so far as returned, including the Democratic stronghold of the city of Greater New York, for lieutenant governor is: Chanler, 604,234; Bruce, 519,479.

It appears that outside of the candidates for governor and possibly for lieutenant governor the Democratic ticket is elected. In Greater New York Chanler's majority over Bruce is 134,941, and this big lead Bruce must overcome in the up-state counties.

Governor-elect Hughes last night gave out the following statement:

"It is a victory for sobriety and for decency in the administration of government. But the people will not tolerate indifference to public wrongs. They desire neither exaggeration nor inflammatory appeal on the one hand, nor moral or political obtuseness on the other hand. The election is a rebuke to demagogical methods and it is also impressive in its demands for responsible leadership.

"I shall address myself to the task of squaring the administration of government with the interest of the people, confident that I may rely upon the support of all good citizens, not only of those who voted for me, but of those who, in the intensity of their desire to end abuses, voted for my opponent. To the work of ensuring, to the extent of my power, the just administration of the government of this state I shall devote myself unreservedly.

"While perfectly well, I am very weary from the labors of the campaign and I want a few days of perfect rest. For this reason I am going to the mountains for a little outdoor life and undisturbed rest. There is nothing of political significance in the trip; it is simply to get a good breath of fresh air. When I return I shall close up my business affairs and at once prepare for the important duties to which the people have assigned me."

RHODE ISLAND

Higgins, a Democrat, Defeats Utter For Governorship

Providence, Nov. 8.—James H. Higgins of Pawtucket (Dem), defeated Governor Utter (Rep) for election by a plurality of 1238, according to complete returns compiled by the Providence Journal. The rest of the Republican state ticket was elected. Republicans control the general assembly, which is to choose a United States senator to succeed Mr. Wetmore. In the First congressional district Granger (Dem.) was elected over Dyer (Rep.) by 727 plurality. Capron defeated Garvin (Dem.) by over 2000.

The general assembly will consist of 29 Republicans and 9 Democratic senators, and the house will be made up of 35 Republicans, 34 Democrats, 1 Citizen, 1 Citizen-associate and 1 Independent.

The Providence mayoralty swung from the Republican to the Democratic column, McCarthy defeating Lippitt, and the entire city government is Democratic with the exception of Clark, for city treasurer. Archambault (Dem.) was chosen mayor of Woonsocket; Kenyon (Rep.) was elected mayor of Pawtucket, and Central Falls chose Freeman (Rep) for chief executive.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Floyd Is Elected Governor by a Small Majority

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Late returns from some of the missing small towns of the state indicate the election of Charles M. Floyd, Republican candidate for governor, by a small majority. With all but eight of the 292 towns and wards of the state heard from, the figures show a majority for Floyd of 49 votes over all. The missing towns, which are all small and located in a remote section of the state to the north, returned a Republican majority of 42 four years ago.

The figures, as compiled with these eight towns missing, are as follows: Floyd (Rep.), 40,780; Jameson (Dem.), 37,703; Tetley (Pro.), 2162; scattering, 875.

In addition to the choice of governor, the legislature will also elect a successor to United States Senator Burnham. Congressmen Currier and Solloway were returned from their districts by substantial majorities.

The Pennsylvania Vote

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Complete returns from 41 of the 47 counties in Pennsylvania and careful estimates from the other six counties give Edwin S. Stuart, the Republican candidate for governor, a plurality of 52,533 over Lewis Emery, Jr., the fusion candidate.

Democrats Gain Congressmen

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—According to the latest returns Indiana went about 30,000 Republican. The Democrats gained two congressmen, the Republicans having nine congressmen and the Democrats four. The legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by about 50.

Cummins Will Continue In Office

Des Moines, Nov. 8.—Returns in Iowa are still incomplete, but there is every reason to believe that Cummins will receive at least 20,000 plurality over Porter (Dem). Two of Iowa's congressmen will be Democratic. The next legislature will be Republican. It is certain that the Republicans will have a majority of at least 50 on joint ballot and this insures the re-election of Senator Dolliver.

California Still In Doubt

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—The Republican state central committee says that Gillette has been elected governor by at least 10,000 plurality over Bell (Dem.) and considerably more over Langdon, Independence League candidate. At Democratic headquarters it is asserted that when full returns are received Bell will be successful by a small majority. The legislature will be strongy Republican in both branches.

The Contest In Kentucky

Louisville, Nov. 8.—With only a few mountain counties to hear from, and these probably increasing his lead, Governor Beckham has won his fight against Senator McCreary for the nomination for the United States senatorship. Samuel H. Hager was nominated for governor by a majority of between 12,000 and 15,000.

Missouri's Landslide

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—From nearly complete returns from all counties, the Democrats have carried the state by a plurality of 7640, electing all candidates on the state ticket and 12 of the 16 congressmen. The Republicans lost all the districts in the state which had been swept into the Republican ranks two years ago.

Dick's Figures' Not Disputed

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—Chairman Dick reiterates his claim of a plurality of 75,000 for Carmi Thompson (Rep.), candidate for secretary of state. Chairman Garber of the Democratic state committee does not dispute Dick's figures, but he is claiming the election of five out of the 21 congressmen in the state.

Idaho Will Elect New Senator

Boise, Ida., Nov. 8.—Governor Gooding is re-elected by a plurality of from 7000 to 9000. The legislature will contain 48 Republicans and 24 Democrats. This insures the election of William Borah as United States senator to succeed Senator Dubois.

Arizona Disagrees

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 8.—Fairly complete returns from 25 counties give a majority of 5000 in favor of joint statehood. This majority may be increased by later returns. Arizona's adverse vote, however, defeats the jointure.

Elections In Porto Rico

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 8.—The Unionist party scored an overwhelming victory at the polls, carrying all the seven districts of the island. The Republicans are left without representation in the next house of delegates. The election evoked much enthusiasm, but there were no disturbances. It was the most orderly election day since the American occupation.

British Press Comment

London, Nov. 8.—All the newspapers publish long editorial articles on the result of the election in New York state. Few of them say anything of the results in other states. With scarcely an exception they comment on the close vote as an indication of the popular discontent with enormous combinations of capital.

The Daily Telegraph thinks the moral is that Americans, "while not quite ready to accept 'Hearstism' in full," are "heartily sick of being robbed by trusts and corporations, and are prepared to go a considerable way in that direction."

The News believes that with "wealth, culture and intelligence" against Hearst "the strength of one portion of the world is a movement of unrest."

The Mail considers the result as an evidence of "growing exasperation against trusts and their tactics," while The Chronicle, in a similar vein, says: "Americans, if they are wise, will read the true moral not in the majority against Hearst, but in the huge minority for him."

State Sues Standard Oil

New Orleans, Nov. 8.—Suit has been filed against the Standard Oil company to compel that corporation to take out and pay for a license as hawker and peddler for 1903 to 1906 inclusive. The suit was filed by the state of Louisiana through the state tax collector, who alleges that the company owes license fees of $3500.

No Immediate Strike

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The threatened strike of the switchmen on the 23 roads entering Chicago has been postponed pending further negotiations between the officers of the union and the managers of the roads. The unions are inclined to accept the proposal of arbitration.

Witte Marked For Death

Moscow, Nov. 8.—A report is in circulation here that the "League to Combat the Revolution" has sentenced the former premier, Count Witte, to death, in case he returns to Russia.

Liquor Raid At Quincy Neck

Officer Larkin raided the office of Gallagher's express at 516 South street on Wednesday, and seized 13 pints of whiskey and 4 pints of rum. John White who had charge of the place was arrested for illegal sale. Officer Larkin had the search warrant in his pocket and was watching the place. When he saw the liquor carried into the building he followed and seized it.

Advantages of Municipal Court

Editors Daily Ledger:

The movement for a municipal court for Quincy has a good deal to be said in its favor, which should be seriously considered. Under present conditions there is more work than can be done thoroughly in the brief time at the disposal of the court.

This is especially true in regard to civil cases, attorneys often having to submit their cases without argument in order to save time; and thus many a point which an attorney might raise to the advantage of his client is not brought out, and the client is apt to think his case has not been presented as fully as should be.

The trial of a case is something that must be done slowly and deliberately in order to get the best results. It is high time for Quincy to go it alone.

Yours truly,
Quincyite.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

DAY NURSERY.

The November meeting of the Day Nursery association was held at the Women's club house on Tuesday afternoon. There was a large and enthusiastic attendance. The following officers were elected for 1906-1907: President, Mrs. Thomas A. Addison; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. J. F. Burke, Mrs. Chas. M. Bryant, Mrs. F. J. Peirce; Mrs. Joseph Dasha, Secretary, Miss Alice K. Prescott; Treasurer, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon; Directors, Mrs. R. W. Allen, Mrs. Samuel Ames, Mrs. W. T. Babcock, Mrs. Francis Brewer, Mrs. John Carver, Mrs. Elbridge Cross, Mrs. Frank S. Davis, Mrs. E. E. Davis, Mrs. C. T. Hardwick, Mrs. J. G. Holman, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. Herbert Lawton, Mrs. Frank S. Patch, Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Mrs. Harry W. Read, Mrs. Vienna Ross, Mrs. Arthur Sibley, Mrs. E. J. Sandberg, Miss Emily C. Wild, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, Mrs. W. F. Cummings and Mrs. John Downes. Visiting physicians: Drs. Burke, Ellsworth and Sargent.

The treasurer reported the gift of $10 from the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school.

It was voted to hold a rummage sale with Mrs. E. G. Pratt as chairman. It is to be held on Friday and Saturday Nov. 16 and 17, in the store at No. 15 Granite street, which Mr. Faxon has loaned for the purpose.

Those who are to assist Mrs. Pratt with the Rummage Sale are: Mrs. T. A. Addison, Mrs. H. W. Read, Mrs. C. R. Safford, Miss Dora French, Mrs. A. H. Gilson, Mrs. Cross, Mrs. Beaulieu, Mrs. Wadsworth, Mrs. Joseph Dasha, Mrs. F. S. Davis, Mrs. T. King and Mrs. W. E. Simmons. Housekeepers are asked to look over their house and send anything they do not need themselves in the way of clothing, shoes, crockery, furniture, books, magazines, etc., for it is a most worthy cause. Anything will be received. Goods may be sent to 15 Granite street on Thursday, Nov. 15, after nine o'clock or if committee is notified they will send for them. This is a charity that benefits three sets of people, the donors, the buyers who get something good for a small sum, and those who benefit by the Day Nursery.

The dues are collected this year by wards as follows; Ward One, Miss Prescott; Ward Two, Mrs. Addison; Ward Three and Four, Mrs. Ross; Ward Five, Mrs. Simmons; and Ward Six, Mrs. Safford.

Following is the matron's report of attendance from Oct. 1905, to Oct. 1906. Oct., 313; Nov., 288; Dec., 191; Jan., 237; Feb., 146; Mar., 149; Apr., 221; May, 185; June, 157; July, 218; Aug., 86; Sept. 76; Total 2207. The monthly average was 189. Number of visitors 350.

The work of our Day Nursery has been, and is a fast growing one, as one can see by comparing the present annual report with the preceding year. We are pleased to report the same, if not a greater degree of enthusiasm, appreciation and kindly interest on the part of the working community. The fact is very obvious, that we are fast outgrowing our present quarters. We need a home with more convenience, with our fast increasing attendance. We sincerely hope the day is not far distant when we shall have such a home, as we need for this most important work.

Our attendance suffered somewhat through the summer on account of the prevalence of whooping cough. Of course we cannot help the prevalence of diseases peculiar to children, but outside of whooping cough we had no sickness and no accidents.

We would like the public to know that when in need of help we can often send some working mother as we are most anxious that they have plenty of work. They are often the sole support of two or more children. Also clothing of all kinds is thankfully received.

To all who have helped by donations, kindly advice and sympathy in our work I extend my sincere thanks.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Miss Drinkwater Now Mrs Granahan

The marriage of Mr. John P. Granahan, one of the best known young men of Atlantic, and Miss Mary E. Drinkwater, a popular young lady of Braintree, was solemnized at the parochial residence of St. Francis church, South Braintree, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, Reverend Father McDonnell officiating.

The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Drinkwater, sister of the bride, and the best man, Mr. Joseph E. Granahan brother of the groom.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was an amethyst ring, and the best man received an opal stick pin, the gift of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 11 Jersey avenue, only the immediate relatives being present. The house was tastefully decorated with ferns and autumn foliage.

From their many friends they received many valuable and useful gifts. Amid a shower of confetti and the best wishes of those present, the happy couple left for New York and Washington. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Granahan will reside at Newbury avenue, Norfolk Downs where they will be at home after December fifteenth.

Fake Story Of Rescue

The Post of Thursday printed an illustrated story of a heroic rescue at the Neponset bridge on Wednesday evening. The story went on to state that a young lady, who was said to be a stenographer, rushed through a crowd of men, jumped overboard, and rescued a young man from death by drowning. The men in the meantime calmly looking on.

The story had a fake appearance and a thorough investigation proved it to have been a fake, pure and simple.

Barn Party Pine Tree Club

Colonial hall, was filled Thursday evening by a jolly and happy crowd to the number of one hundred, the members of the Pine Tree State association, it being their regular monthly meeting. It was in the form of a barn party and it proved to be one of the most enjoyable. The members dressed in old fashion costumes, which created many a smile among those present. The hall was handsomely trimmed with flags, autumn leaves, corn stalks and ears of corn and was lighted by red and white lanterns,

The meeting opened with the singing of "Among the Pines of Maine." After which the nomination of officers were made, the election to take place at the next meeting.

The business being over, the grand march was next in order, led by Elmer Munroe and lady, and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Smith, followed by thirty couples. After which dancing was enjoyed.

During the evening Miss Helen Rhines gave a recitation, accompanied by piano, which was applauded, and she kindly responded to the encore.

During the intermission, the boxes and basket which had been brought heavily laden were opened and passed around and all had their fill of the goodies.

Prizes for the most original costumes were awarded Mrs. Andrew Odom and Robert Campbell and the booby was presented to Elmer Munroe.

Music for the evening was furnished by Rhines and Fitzgerald, and as usual was well rendered. Much credit is due Mrs. E. Frank Mitchell, the president, for the success of the evening.

Quincy Warships Also Inspected

Every ship and every shop at the navy yard was inspected Thursday, says the Globe, by Truman H. Newberry, assistant secretary of the navy. Asst. Sec. Newberry arrived at the yard soon after 9 in the morning and it was almost 4 in the afternoon when he had completed the rounds and left the yard, bound for the Portsmouth navy yard, Asst. Sec. Newberry is accompanied by Capt. William P. Potter, assistant chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy.

All the heads of departments of the Boston yard and the commanding officers of the receiving ship Wabash, battleships New Jersey and Rhode Island, (built at Quincy,) Georgia, Illinois and Missouri and of the gunboat Newport were assembled at the office of Rear Admiral A. S. Snow, the commandant, to receive the inspecting officer. The marine battalion and band were paraded in front of the office to pay the official naval honors, and the yard battery announced Assistant Secretary Newberry's arrival at the yard with the salute for his office.

After a consultation with the heads of departments and commanders of the ships regarding the needs of each department and of the ships, Assistant Secretary Newbury made a tour of the yard and ships and had the desired improvements pointed out to him, each head of a department and each commanding officer of a ship personally escorting the party through his domain.

Asst. Sec. Newberry promised to do all in his power to assist in securing the desired extension of plants and facilities to make the yard the equal of any naval station in the country, and he believed that it would henceforth be amply provided with work, it now being the peer of all but the New York yard in the matter of facilities.

Last evening in Bethany chapel the officers and members of the Huscarls of the Washington Street Congregational church duly initiated the members of a new house of that order to be in connection with Bethany Bible school. Craig; Sir Thane, Lincoln Gardner; Sir Writer, Walter Brooks; Lady Treasurer, Miss Jennette Wilson; Sir Minstrel, Sherman Hayden; Sir Guard, Everett Harris; Sir Bode, N. Phillips Hardy.

Galahad Brotherhood.

The weekly meeting of the Galahad Brotherhood, will be held in the choir room of Christ church on Sunday noon. The special soloists for the day will be Mr. John H. Emery. Rev. W. E. Rise of Late Peter C. Brooks

The daily lesson in history in the Boston Globe of Thursday was of local interest, as Peter C. Brooks, the subject of the sketch, was the father of the late Mrs. Charles Francis Adams of Quincy. It tells of the struggles of early days. Mr. Brooks was born at North Yarmouth, Me., Jan. 6, 1767, and died in Boston, Jan. 1, 1849.

Peter Chardon Brooks was the son of Rev. Edward Brooks, who when the boy was 2 years of age, returned from Maine to his native town—Medford. There the boy grew up on a small farm. His father died when Peter was 14 years of age and as the farm offered slight hope of a possible support of the family he was apprenticed to a Boston concern to learn a trade.

The Medford home was seven miles from the workshop in which the little orphan was employed, and this distance had to be covered morning and evening on foot. In this age of transportation luxuries a daily walk of 14 miles would constitute a day's work of itself for the average boy 14, but Peter plodded along over stony roadways day after day, through weather fair and foul, winter and summer, learning the lesson of industry that characterized his entire life of usefulness and success.

It must be remembered that the birth of young Brooks closely followed the repeal of the stamp act, that his apprenticeship began while the country was engaged in the terrible struggle for independence and that he reached his majority almost simultaneously with the union of the states and the adoption of the national constitution. It was not the most propitious and encouraging time for a young man without capital to enter upon a business career, but young Brooks, with the sagacity that ever seemed to be his, saw a favorable opening in the line of marine insurance and he quickly grasp the opportunity and entered an office in Boston as insurance broker. Chartered organizations in that line were then unknown, risks being taken by private concerns, several of which were then operating in Boston, notably one kept at the Bunch of Grapes tavern, corner of State and Kilby streets, of which Mr. Brooks assumed the office of secretary.

So well did he handle the affairs of the concern that the entire business was soon turned over to him and the Bunch of Grapes became the favorite resort for underwriters. Dispatch in executing policies and promptness in the settlement of losses attracted the cream of the business, the French revolution increased the demand for American insurance, and with the treaty of Amiens in 1803 Mr. Brooks retired with a competency, devoting the three years following to settlement of his business after which he was persuaded to accept the presidency of the New England insurance company. For several years he managed its affairs and then wholly withdrew from all active commercial matters, devoting his time to private loans and to his Medford estate, which he enlarged by purchase and beautified by planting trees, which became a fad with him.

In public affairs he was associated with all the leading charitable organizations of the state; was a member of the first municipal council of Boston as a city, a member of both houses of the general court and of the convention called in 1820 to amend the state constitution.

It is said of him that he never speculated nor accepted more than the legal rate of interest. His Medford home was a social center of a high order, and three of his daughters became the wives of distinguished men—Edward Everett, Charles Francis Adams and Rev. N. L. Frothingham.

A NATION OF CRIPPLES RHEUMATISM BEYOND CONTROL

The Only Hope to Rheumatic Suffers is Uric-O Treatment.

If rheumatism continues to spread as it has in the past few years, it would seem as though we would before long become a nation of cripples. The terrible destructiveness of this disease is apparent on every side of us. Almost nine out of ten of the cripples one meets had their affliction brought on by Rheumatism. How many thousands more there are that are hopelessly bed-ridden and whom we never see. Rheumatism from the very nature of the disease, can never cure itself, and if neglected, is bound to grow worse rather than better. If you ever have any twinges of Rheumatism go to E. J. Murphy's drug store right here in Quincy, and get a bottle of Uric-O, the wonderful new Rheumatic Specific. It will cure you and it is the only treatment in the world that will cure you permanently and thoroughly. Uric-O cures by its direct action on the muscles, blood and kidneys. It seeks out the poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acid and drives it from the system and it is only a treatment of such a nature that will ever cure Rheumatism. Liniments and plasters only serve to drive it from one spot to another. They never cure Rheumatism, because it is primarily a blood disease, and until the blood is cleared from the poison, a cure cannot take place.

There never was a case of Rheumatism that Uric-O could not cure and you should not put off taking it because it is in the end by far the cheapest method. You can test Uric-O free of charge if you wish. Just cut out this advertisement and send it to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and state that you have never used Uric-O and would like to try it. They will send you a free sample which you can test and try free of charge.

GOES TO CHANLER

Bruce Loses New York Lieutenant Governorship

DEMOCRATIC VICTORIES

Woodruff Will Not Concede Them Until Official Canvass Is Known--Independence League Ranks as Party In the State

New York, Nov. 9.—With the official vote of but three counties missing, Lewis S. Chanler apparently is elected lieutenant governor on the Democratic-Independence League ticket by a plurality approximating 1700 votes over M. L. Bruce, Republican.

While slight changes may be made in the returns from several counties, it is not believed they will materially reduce Chanler's lead, but, on the contrary, increase it.

It appears that all the other candidates on the Democratic state ticket are elected by small but safe pluralities.

Chairman Woodruff of the Republican state committee said that he would not concede the election of the Democratic state ticket, at least until the official returns are known. "It is very close," he said, "but we concede nothing and will concede nothing until the official canvass is known. The interests of the Republican party have been safeguarded in every county of the state. I have been in communication with the county chairmen and town chairmen and have instructed that lawyers be employed to represent the Republican state committee when the canvass of Tuesday begins. Nothing has been left undone which ought to be attended to."

Chanler got 57,000 more votes in New York city than Hearst. He also carried his home county, Dutchess, although Hughes won there. Chanler got 30,000 more votes than Hearst in Kings—a result traced by most politicians to the knife which McCarren sharpened for Hearst in that county. Chanler's plurality in this city was about 134,000, while Hearst went up to the Bronx with less than 77,000. An official count will undoubtedly be needed to establish the election of others of the candidates.

One thing the election has made certain. In the future the Independence League, should it be continued, will rank as a party in the state with the privilege of holding conventions and maintaining all the other regular party machinery. To win this privilege the league had to poll at least 10,000 votes. There is no doubt that the total vote has exceeded 10,000.

Chairman Woodruff left last night for a couple of weeks' stay at his camp, "Killcare," in the Adirondacks. He was accompanied by Attorney General Mayer. Before leaving, Woodruff expressed confidence in the re-election of Lieutenant Governor Bruce.

LACKS A MAJORITY

Floyd May Have to Be Elected by New Hampshire Legislature

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—The result of the balloting for governor in this state will not be known until the first of next week, when the town and ward clerks file their official returns with the secretary of state. Thus far that officer has heard from but 200 of the 293 towns. Unofficial returns received here, however, indicate that the legislature will be called upon to name the next governor. The unofficial figures from every town in the state show the following totals:

The vote shows a plurality of 2994 for Floyd, but it lacks 10 votes to give him a majority and the election. If these returns prove to be correct the legislature will be called upon to decide between the two candidates receiving the highest vote. Unless the unexpected happens Charles M. Floyd of Manchester will be the choice of the legislature, which is Republican by a majority of 100.

There is a persistent rumor in this city that 50 members of the next legislature, who are Lincoln Republican club men, will join with the Democrats to bring about the election of Jameson as governor, in return for Democratic votes for a Lincoln club man to succeed United States Senator Burnham, who will come up for re-election next January.

Such a combination of forces, should it be brought about, would have to secure upward of 200 votes on a joint ballot, as it is estimated that the total Republican strength in the senate and house will be about 260, and that of this number perhaps 50 may be counted as Lincoln Republican club men. There are 414 members of the two branches.

Prohibitionists Make Gains

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The people at the Prohibition national headquarters in this city are congratulating themselves upon the excellent showing which they claim the Prohibitionists made in the different states Tuesday. The total vote of the party in the different states will exceed 325,000, whereas the total vote for Swallow for president in 1904 was 257,419.

Moran Expected to Win

Boston, Nov. 9.—District Attorney Moran arrived home last night. In an interview Moran said:

"I am through with politics temporarily, and until I have fully analyzed the vote I will not give out a statement. I do not know what to think of the vote in Boston. I do know that I must have been knifed and cut by those same people who would not hesitate to ask favors, and that is what a man gets in return for the good he does. I am glad the campaign is over. It was a hard one. I was positive I would win, and if the Democrats had done their duty, I would have been elected."

Mr. Moran said he did not leave the city because he was defeated. He said he went out of town to get rest, and would have gone had he been elected.

Pollard Disarms Criticism

Lincoln, Nov. 9.—Congressman Pollard last night sent a draft for $1861.84 to Sergeant-at-Arms Casson of the national house of representatives. The sum represents the salary paid Pollard as congressman from March 4 to July 18, 1905. As he was first elected on the latter date at a special election to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Burkett, his right to the salary for the period when he was technically not a member was questioned and was made an issue in the campaign just closed. Pollard was re-elected last Tuesday.

California's Vote For Governor

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Returns thus far give the following vote for governor: Gillette (Rep.), 102,172; Bell (Dem), 92,702; Langdon, Independence League, 37,879. The remaining precincts in remote parts of the state will not materially change the results. The entire Republican state ticket is elected by pluralities slightly in excess of that of governor. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. The entire congressional delegation is Republican.

Charges of Bribery

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Wicomico county is stirred over the charges made by the Democrats that the Republicans deliberately broke their ante-election agreement not to make any illegal use of money in the election in that county. It is openly charged by the Democrats that the Republicans bought votes and it is expected that the grand jury will investigate. Two Republicans have been arrested on the charge of bribery.

Not Trying to Steal Election

Topeka, Nov. 9.—Governor Hoch denies the charge that the Republican leaders in Kansas are trying to steal the election of governor. "It is simply a continuance on the part of the Democrats to carry their fake campaign to the close," said Hoch. "They are the ones who are trying to steal the election, if anybody is. We don't have to; we have enough legitimate votes without theft."

Dubois Is Down and Out

Boise, Ida., Nov. 9.—Chairman Brady of the Republican state committee says: "Governor Gooding is elected by over 9000 majority and the rest of the state ticket by from 15,000 to 22,000 majority. Mr. Borah will get at least 57 votes out of 72 for United States senator, and Senator Dubois will never again attempt to ride to victory on his hobby of Mormonism."

Cannon Increases His Vote

Danville, Ills., Nov. 9.—Official returns from all the counties in the Eighteenth district give Joseph Cannon, speaker of the national house of representatives, a plurality of 10,088. This is 2000 larger than his plurality four years ago.

Iowa Vote Complete

Des Moines, Nov. 9.—Complete returns from Iowa show 196,822 votes for Governor Cummins to 174,366 for Porter (Dem.), giving Cummins a plurality of 22,456 for governor.

Growing In Wealth and Strength

New York, Nov. 9.—The international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association held its 25th annual dinner last night. It was stated that in the past year the property of the Young Men's Christian Association has increased in value from $30,000,000 to $33,000,000. In the last 12 months the organization's membership has increased 6 percent. Between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 has been invested in Y. M. C. A. branches along railway lines.

School Girl Wedded by Actor

New York, Nov. 9.—Edward M. Brooks, an actor, and Dorothy L. M. Render, a 15-year-old schoolgirl of Manchester, N. H., were married in the private chambers of District Attorney Jerome in the criminal courts building. Brooks was arrested here on a charge of abduction preferred by Miss Renber's parents. Brooks was not called upon to plead and after he had been discharged the marriage ceremony was performed.

Railroad Files Big Mortgage

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 9.—A mortgage of $12,000,000 by the Lake Shore Southern Railway company to the Knickerbocker Trust company of New York has been filed for record here. It is in the nature of a construction bond for a new railroad proposed to build between Madison, Wis., and Huron bay, Lake Superior, a distance of 200 miles.

Preferred Death to Arrest

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 9.—To escape arrest on a charge of forgery, George Zeigler, district manager of the Northern Life Insurance company, committed suicide by shooting. He left a long letter warning young men to shun liquor.

FOUND IN FROZEN NORTH

Captain of Whaler Penetrates Far Into Prince Albert Land and Finds a Village Where People Live In Primitive Style

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 9.—Details of the finding of a people who had never seen white men on Prince Albert Land, in the Arctic, were given by an officer of the revenue cutter Thetis, who learned the facts from Captain Klinkinberg of the steam whaler Olga, who found the people.

Last winter, when his vessel was in the ice near Prince Albert Land, Captain Klinkenberg, accompanied by an Eskimo, started inland on a hunting trip. He went 250 miles in a northeasterly direction over the snow, finding traces of people, finally overtaking 150 or more of them. When they saw him they came towards him, armed with copper knives and bows and arrows. They held these above their heads and he pointed a rifle at them.

One advanced alone and the captain laid down his rifle, the native putting down his weapons. They became friendly and by means of signs Klinkinberg learned that, other than one old woman who came from Prince William Land, they had never seen white men previously. He visited the village and found about 600 people, all of whom lived by hunting and fishing.

They use the most primitive utensils, fashioned from bone and native copper. Their dress was not unlike that of other Eskimos, but similar to that of the Greenland natives, made of soft, tanned skins and sewed with deer sinews. Their winter houses were of sod, with an inner lining of skins and different in shape from those of other known tribes. They are nomadic.

The only article seemingly brought from civilization, seen by Captain Klinkinberg, was a piece of steel, evidently from some ship, which was converted into a spearhead.

No Clashes With Utes

Omaha, Nov. 9.—The Ute Indians who have been causing trouble in Wyoming and Montana are expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., about Nov. 14. They are going overland, being escorted by the Sixth cavalry from Fort Meade. Ten troops of cavalry will remain in the field on scouting duty to round up any Indians who may break away from the main body. The best of feeling is said to exist, the soldiers and Indians hunting together in amity.

OFF FOR PANAMA

President to "See How Ditch Is Getting Along"

SAILS ON THE LOUISIANA

Will Spend Four Days In Inspection and Sightseeing Along the Canal and Will Then Make a Call at Porto Rico

Washington, Nov. 9.—"Good-bye, I am going down to see how the ditch is getting along," shouted President Roosevelt, as he stood on the after starboard deck of the yacht Mayflower at the Washington navy yard, as the vessel was leaving the dock with the president for his Panama trip.

Accompanying the president were Mrs. Roosevelt and her maid, Surgeon General Rixey of the navy and M. C. Latta, one of the assistant secretaries at the White House. The Mayflower took the party to Wolf Trap light, at the mouth of the Rappahannock river in Chesapeake bay, where a transfer was made to the battleship Louisiana, which is to convey the president to and from the isthmus.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived at the navy yard shortly before 4 o'clock. A company of marines and a detachment of sailors were drawn up about the wharf and as the presidential carriage arrived a welcome was sounded from the bugler aboard the ship and from a drummer in the marine ranks. A few moments later the band aboard the ship played the "Star Spangled Banner" and the bugle sounded another welcome and President and Mrs. Roosevelt walked down the gangplank aboard the vessel. As the vessel started President Roosevelt appeared on deck and shouted a good-bye to the crowd which had assembled. He appeared to be in particularly good spirits and remained on deck until the vessel was out of sight. As the ship passed the lower end of the navy yard, a president's salute of 21 guns was fired.

The Louisiana will be convoyed to and from the isthmus by the armored cruisers Tennessee and Washington. Aboard the Louisiana is Lieutenant Evans, who will utilize the wireless telegraph apparatus with which the ship is equipped for communication with the White House at Washington whenever the president desires it. In this way the public will be accurately informed of the movements of the ships. Secretary Loeb will give to the press the dispatches from the president which may be received from time to time.

The president will spend four days on the isthmus. He will arrive at Colon on Nov. 15, where he is to be greeted aboard ship by President Amador of Panama and officials of the canal commission. A considerable portion of that day will be spent at La Boca and Ancon, the train making a slow run across the isthmus in order to give an opportunity to see the sights and make an examination of the work. At La Boca there is to be an inspection of the present terminals of the old French canal and the Panama railroad, following which there will be a trip to nearby islands, where the president is to be shown the proposed actual Pacific end of the canal in deep water and its approaches. In the afternoon there is to be a sightseeing trip around Ancon hill.

At Ancon the day is to be made a "fiesta," with the town decorated and illuminated. The president and party are to be driven in carriages through the principal streets, accompanied by an escort on horseback. An address will be made by President Amador and a response by President Roosevelt. In the evening the president and others are expected to dine with President Amador. This will probably be the only time on the isthmus when the president will leave the jurisdiction of the United States.

The program for Friday and Saturday contemplates a visit to and inspection of all points of interest on the isthmus, including the Culebra cut, the site of the proposed dam, and locks at Gatun, and the present and proposed terminals of the railroad and canal at Cristobal. Sunday will be spent quietly on the isthmus and in the evening the party will board the Louisiana for San Juan, P. R., where the vessel is scheduled to arrive Nov. 22.

At San Juan elaborate preparations have been made for the reception of the president. He will remain there one day, leaving Nov. 23 for Washington. When the Louisiana reached Wolf Trap light the party will be transferred to the Mayflower and proceed to Washington, where the vessel is scheduled to arrive Nov. 27.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The switchmen have accepted the offer of the managers of the western roads for an increase of 3 cents an hour in wages. Later they changed this request to one for an increase of 10 cents an hour.

MURDER AND ROBBERY

Tramp Supposed to Have Killed Woman In Connecticut Town

Stafford Springs, Conn., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Henry Williams, 60 years old, was found murdered in her home yesterday afternoon. Robbery is believed to have been the motive and the perpetrator presumably a tramp. The body of Mrs. Williams was found lying on the floor of the kitchen of her house, with her throat cut, head battered and a towel twisted about her neck. Near the body lay a knife and a club.

From the position in which the body was found and the appearance of the room, the victim apparently died after a hard struggle against her assailant, who is supposed to have struck her down with a club and then cut her throat, after which the towel was wound about her neck. Her husband had gone to town and an 18-year-old son was a half mile away from the house looking after some cattle, so that if the murdered woman called for help she evidently was not heard.

Following the murder the perpetrator evidently began a systematic search for money. In an upstairs room a trunk was broken open and about $100 in money taken from it. Part of this money was later found on the lawn in front of the house. As yet no clue to the murderer has been obtained.

String of Incendiary Fires

Malden, Mass., Nov. 9.—Malden was visited last night by a series of fires which are believed to have been set by an incendiary, and which caused damage amounting to nearly $100,000. Within the two hours between 9 and 11 o'clock seven alarms were turned in from five different boxes. The first fire destroyed the lumber yard and buildings of the Malden City Lumber company, involving a loss of $70,000. During the progress of this blaze the Linden fire station was burned, with a loss of approximately $20,000. All the firemen of the fire station had gone to respond to the second alarm for the lumber yard fire. Two residences caught fire from sparks from the lumber yard and were burned, the loss of them being about $5000.

Death of Lillian Paine

Keene, N. H., Nov. 9.—Lillian Paine, 15 years old, who was found unconscious from a bullet wound in the head in the woods Oct. 29, died yesterday afternoon from the effects of the wound. Miss Paine claimed that she was shot by a strange man, who confronted her in the woods, but the authorities who investigated the case decided that Miss Paine shot herself accidentally, a gun belonging to the family being found beside her.

Mind Upset by Overwork

Pittsburg, Nov. 9.—One laborer was instantly killed, one is missing, two are fatally hurt and 15 others are seriously injured by the explosion of 10 sticks of dynamite in Carrick borough. MURDERED IN WOODS

Body of Man Found After Having Been Dead a Week

Pownal, Vt., Nov. 9.—The body of Thomas Ryer, who had been a familiar character in this vicinity for some years, was found slashed and cut in the woods about 100 feet from a mountain road called a dugway by several Italians yesterday afternoon. The man had been dead about a week. The location of the body was about a half mile on the Vermont side of the Massachusetts boundary line.

No money was found on the body, while the watch guard had been cut and the watch taken. A tobacco pouch and another small bag containing a razor, a razor strop, a broken paint brush and several small articles were found in the pockets.

The Italians who found the body were a part of the gang which had been at work for some time on the new electric railroad between North Adams, Mass., and Bennington. There were two stab wounds in the chest, a deep slash across the abdomen and another on the right leg, as if the man had been encountered by some person who suddenly attacked him in front and struck him down with a long sharp knife.

Ryer had no relatives in this vicinity, nor was he married. He was 40 years old and had worked at various occupations in this town and in Massachusetts towns near the border.

One Man Saved by a Miracle

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 9.—Ten men perished in the wreck of the full-rigged Russian ship Sovinto, which struck on the ledges at Priest's pond in the gale on Tuesday night. One man held on all yesterday. He was observed from the shore walking back and forth holding onto a line. At nightfall he seized a plank and leaped into the raging breakers. He escaped death, being dashed on shore by a huge wave. He was rescued by willing hands uninjured, after 60 hours' exposure and without food.

Boni Wants Reconciliation

Paris, Nov. 9.—The final word in the divorce proceedings brought by Countess de Castellane against her husband was Attorney Bonnet's assurance of Count Boni's undying affection for his wife and the demand that the case be adjourned for a fortnight in order to give the countess an opportunity to reflect upon the advisability of a reconciliation. This the court refused and adjourned for one week, when its decision will be handed down.

Children Practically Murdered

St. Petersburg, Nov. 9.—Harrowing details come from Riga of the execution by shooting of three boys who had been condemned by a court martial for robbery. Four other persons were executed at the same time. The firing party was completely unnerved at the sight of mere children before them for execution and fired wildly, and it was only after several volleys that all the prisoners were killed.

Accounts Complicated

Havana, Nov. 9.—J. D. Terrill, who has been investigating the condition of the bureau having in charge Cuban army payments, has not yet discovered any discrepancies. He has found the accounts, however, to be complicated, and the cumbrous and antiquated methods render his examination difficult and make radical reforms necessary.

Robbers Got Half a Million

Warsaw, Nov. 9.—Upon the arrival of a train at Rogow station last night, a band of terrorists surrounded the station and threw a bomb at the mail van. The train was derailed. Several soldiers escorting the van were killed or wounded. The terrorists then robbed the mail and got away with a sum estimated as high as $500,000.

Save Niagara Falls.

The American Civic association is sending out the following plea: It is one worthy of an immediate response and we trust our readers will act, at once and with emphasis.

The engineer officer appointed by Secretary Taft to report upon the facts as to power development at Niagara has joined with the American members of the International Waterways commission in a recommendation to Secretary Taft to permit the admission of 190,000 electrical horse-power from the Canadian side. The result of a favorable action by Secretary Taft on this recommendation would be to abstract from the Niagara river above the falls a vast amount of water. It is urged that such a withdrawal of water may not interfere with that "preservation of Niagara falls in all their beauty and majesty" which was the expressed desire of the American people through President Roosevelt in his message to Congress last December; but no sane person will suggest that the withdrawal of so vast a volume of water can fail to work a great injury to the noble cataract.

Confidential advices from the State Department at Washington indicate the improbability of success in negotiations with Canada for a treaty unless the United States shows a real desire to preserve the falls. Because the Canadian power development companies can sell at this time in Canada less than ten per cent. of the power they have permission from the Canadian government to produce, and because they expect to market the remainder in the United States, and because the United States, through the Act of June 29, has control over the admission of this power, it can readily be seen that the United States is now in a position to either save or ruin Niagara falls. If we freely admit all the electricity the Canadian companies want to send in, we divert the water from the falls as directly as if we had control of the Canadian frontier. If the United States denies admission to this power, it will not be produced, and the glory of Niagara will continue.

The hearing which is to decide this matter, ostensibly for the three years of the life of the Act of June 29, but probably for all time, owing to the difficulty of recovering privileges once given, will take place November, 12, 1906, at the office of the Secretary of War in Washington.

This is the emergency in which we appeal to you. Personal letters to Secretary Taft by yourself and all whom you can induce to write will be of the greatest assistance in convincing him that it is the will of the American people that the integrity of Niagara Falls should be preserved. Resolutions and petitions have little force, but a flood of personal letters will be effective. This flood should begin to drop in upon Secretary Taft at once and continue until November 15. Clear your own responsibility by writing today, and aid immeasuraably by inducing others to write. Do not put it off! Spend a two cent stamp for Niagara's full glory! In writing address the Hon. William H. Taft, Secretary of Wa.. Washington, D. C. Urge upon him, in all your own words, that it is your desire that Niagara Falls be preserved in all their integrity and volume, regardless of power developments.

Out of Dartmoor

Convict No. 6800, whose name was James Shelburne, was working on the moor farm with others when the fog came up. It came rolling across the wide moor like a billow of smoke from a cannon's mouth. One minute there was sunshine over all, with the horizon five miles away; in another the guards were calling out to each other and hustling the convicts into line, and no man's eyes could penetrate that fog a distance of ten feet. Shelburne dropped his spade and ran. He was grabbed at by other convicts, fired at by guards, and he ran against and knocked over two or three men, but he escaped—that is, he got away from the bunch of prisoners herded together like so many cattle while the guards sent to the prison for re-enforcements to march them in.

There have been few escapes from Dartmoor. No man ever got away from there unless aided by the fog. A fog was what James Shelburne had waited and hoped and prayed for for five years. For four years he had been immured behind the stone walls. He had done his best to gain the confidence of the prison officials, and he had accomplished it. If he softly raved and cursed at night, tempted to suicide a hundred times over, none of the warders suspected it. By day he was patient, respectful and uncomplaining. And so it came to pass that when the spring muster roll was made up of the men who were to work on the farms outside the gates the warden said:

"Put down 6800. He is one of the most trusty of the lot. He wouldn't leave us if he could."

The convict ran blindly. He fell at every few yards, but he arose to speed on again. Presently he came to a highway. A wagon was passing and its driver shouting warnings to those who might be coming from the opposite direction.

Shelburne slipped behind and climbed in. There were a lot of empty bags from the morning marketing, and he covered himself up as well as he could. The prison bell sounded, and the driver uttered a shout, but the fog held. A Dartmoor fog may last ten minutes or two hours. After an hour of steady jogging the team turned off the main road. Then Shelburne softly slipped to the ground, broke his way through the hedge and was running across a meadow when he came upon a cottage. A childish voice called out:

"You are one of the bad men from the prison, but you needn't be afraid of me. I won't hurt you."

A girl of seven or eight years was seated on the doorstep not ten feet away. He had overlooked her. She sat humped up like an old woman, and there was an old look to her face. She had her hands clasped around her knees and was weaving to and fro, and as he continued to look at her she asked:

"Do you know how folks look when they are dead?"

"Yes, little girl," he replied as he advanced and sat down beside her. "What is your name? Are there folks in the house?"

"I am Nancy," she said. "Father went way, way off a year ago, and mother is in there on the bed."

"And is your mother ill?"

"Does that mean sick? No, she isn't, but she's been awful quiet this morning. I can't wake her up, and that's the reason I haven't had any breakfast. She ain't dead, is she?"

"God forbid! Let us go inside and see her."

"What is it when folks die?" she asked as she led the way into a bedroom.

"They never speak again," he answered as he looked into the face of a woman lying dead.

"Poor little girl!" he said as he bent down and kissed her.

"Won't mother speak no more?"

"Never."

"And I'll have to go and live with Aunt Sarah at the Beeches?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, I'll go, but I don't want to, for Aunt Sarah don't like me very well. You come from where they shut up the bad men, but you don't seem to be bad."

"Not so very bad, I hope. Listen to me. I have a wife and little girl, way, way off. I have not seen them for years. I want to get to them. Will you help me?"

"Why, of course I will," she replied. "They must be longing to see you. If you are hungry you may eat all you want to. Do you want to go home in those ugly clothes?"

"God forbid! My little girl would run away from me in fear."

"Then you can take some clothes that father left. Have you got any money?"

"Not a farthing."

"Aunt Sarah sent us £10 the other day. You shall have half of it."

The convict picked her up and kissed her, and when she saw tears in his eyes she brushed them away with her hand and said:

"If you was a bad man you wouldn't cry. Yes, you shall see your wife and little girl again."

"And if the men come after me?"

"I won't tell."

An hour later convict No. 6800 left the house in another garb, with a package of food under his arm and a five pound note in his pocket. He shed tears again as he kissed the little old face held up to his, and the child returned his kiss and said:

"Tell your little girl that Nancy sends her love. Maybe mother will speak again. I must go and see. If she don't speak by noon then I must go to the squire's house and tell them she is dead. Yes, say that Nancy sends her love."

Caucuses of the Republican Party will be held NOVEMBER 13, 1906, from 12 M. to 9 P. M.

TO THE VOTERS:

Having been intrusted by the citizens for the past two years with the conduct of their executive affairs, I will state, without enumerating, that many have been advanced to that stage of municipal progress, of solving for the present, until such times as increasing needs and changing conditions require their readjustment; others of considerable importance, necessitating large expenditures, are now in progress. Wisdom decrees that the completion of them is best intrusted to those familiar with them as viewed from a business standpoint. If a spirit of confidence has been begotten by the present executive in the efficient, economical and non-discriminating conduct of the business of the city, I respectfully ask again your endorsement.

JAMES THOMPSON.

THE CITY CAUCUSES

Some Candidates Have Walkover But Mayor Has a Contest

There is very little excitement over the municipal caucuses to be held next Tuesday. This is a decided contrast from some years in the past before the direct nomination law went into effect.

The principal interest centres over the nomination of candidates for Mayor. William T. Shea the Democratic nominee and Charles J. Axberg the Socialist candidate will not have to keep awake nights thinking about the caucus for they have no opposition.

COUNCILMAN NICHOLS

It is a very different story, however, among the Republicans. Mayor Thompson is again before the public seeking a nomination for a third term, and against him is ex-City Treasurer H. Walter Gray, Whatever work either of these candidates has been doing is of the quiet kind and but little was heard of it until today. Public opinion, as it is expressed in City Square, is that Mayor Thompson will probably win out, but there is some doubt, and it is said Mr. Gray is gaining daily. Many, besides those seeking office, believe a change would be beneficial, especially in some departments.

COUNCILMAN GROSS

There is considerable new material seeking nomination for the City Council among the Republicans, and there are good-natured contests in Wards One, Two and Three.

For School Committee from the ward there is a contest in Ward One between Dexter E. Wadsworth and Dr. J. H. Anderson.

For School Committee at large there is a contest. Dr. E. H. Bushnell of Ward Two and W. F. Cummings of Ward Six. As Ward Two already has one member at large, the chances favor Mr. Cummings who is well known in the city.

There is also quite quite a contest on in several wards over the election of Ward Committees. This is particularly true in Ward One where an effort is being made to overthrow the present committee.

In Ward Five an effort is to be made to overthrow what is known as the machine committee.

The contest in Ward Three over ward committee is a good natured one, a double list having been placed in nomination to give the voters an opportunity for a choice.

Among the Democrats and Socialists there are no contests outside of ward committee in Ward Three. Neither of these parties has a complete list in nomination.

COUNCILMAN BASS

The Democrats have but one candidate for Councilman-at-Large, and Galen Vinton Bowditch says if elected people will hear from him, because he will keep things moving.

But fifteen of the present City Council are seeking renomination. This means that in any event there will be eight new men in next years body. Of the fifteen, two are Democrats, Councilman Donovan of Ward Two and Counman McGilvary of Ward Four.

In Ward Two, the Republicans seeking nomination are all new men.

Walter S. Pinkham who has served in the City Council several years again steps into the harness and will probably be returned at large.

It is also certain that there will be three new men on the school committee as Dr. Hallowell, Dr. Record and C. H. Forter whose terms expire this year will not return, having had all they desire. This means quite a change on the school board, as three new men were elected last year, and John L. Miller the year before. Those longest in service will be Fred H. Smith and Dr. Hunting.

The Councilmen who retire are: Lewis Bass, Jr., William M. Chase and H. Everett Crane at large; M. M. Cannon in Ward One, Dr. Gross in Ward Two, William T. Spargo in Ward Three, J. M. Flaherty in Ward Four and Walter F. Nichols in Ward Five.

Next Tuesday is the day of the caucuses and the polls will be open from 12 o'clock noon until 9 P. M.

REVIEW BY BRYAN

Says Empire State Has Repudiated Republicans

HUGHES' HOLLOW VICTORY

Brought to Him by Democrats Who He Had Denounced--Sees Democratic Victory In 1908, When Roosevelt's Candidacy Would Be Hopeless

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 10.—Commenting on the results of Tuesday's election, W. J. Bryan last night issued the following statement:

"The election of 1906 indicates a trend in favor of the Democratic party. It proves that the Democratic party is growing stronger as Republican policies are developed. In New York the party has won a signal victory in spite of the tremendous efforts put forth in behalf of the administration. The Republicans had all the money they wanted; they had the support of all the great corporations, and at the close they had whatever influence the administration could lend.

"The fact that the Democrats elected every state officer, excepting the governor, shows that in the Empire state the Republican party has been repudiated. The defeat of Mr. Hearst, while a great disappointment to his friends and to the party, is explained by facts which rob Hughes' victory of both glory and political significance.

"Mr. McCarren, whom Hearst denounced as a boss, threw his influence to Hughes and cut down Hearst's vote in Brooklyn. Mayor McClellan, the legality of whose election Hearst denounced, used his influence for Hughes and cut down the Hearst vote in New York. Mr. Jerome, who had also been denounced by Hearst, also supported the Republican ticket, and his influence was felt in Greater New York.

"Mr. Croker, during the last days of the campaign, made an attack upon Hearst which doubtless weakened the Democratic candidate among the Tammanyites. Murphy, the head of Tammany, while supporting the ticket, could not put much enthusiasm into the campaign owing to the personal controversies which he had had with Hearst. It is evident, therefore, that Hughes owes his victory not to Republican votes, but to Democratic votes brought to him by the very men who he and the Republican leaders have been denouncing for years.

"President Roosevelt cannot find much cause for rejoicing in the New York returns. To have his own state go Democratic cannot be gratifying to him, and to find that his personal attack upon Hearst had little influence on the result compared with the influence exerted by McCarren, Murphy and Croker will not gladden his Thanksgiving day. The president's personal attack on Hearst was in bad taste, to say the least, and the failure of that attack to favorably impress the public ought to be a warning for the future.

"Mr. Hearst is, of course, disappointed, and yet, when all the facts are known, he has much to congratulate himself upon. He made a tremendous fight against great odds and, while he himself failed of election, his heroic struggle brought victory to the rest of the ticket. As the rest of the ticket stood for the same principles for which he contended, it is evident that he had been vindicated on the position taken, and this must be more gratifying to him than any victory could be.

"If the trend toward Democracy continues as strong for the next two years as it has been for the last two years, New York can be counted among the Democratic states in 1908, and Hearst is in a position to do valiant work in securing a national triumph for progressive, democratic ideas.

"The Democratic gains in congress have not been as great as the party expected, but they have been sufficient to make it probable that the Democrats will control the congress to be elected in 1908. In nearly all the legislatures in the middle states the Democrats have made decided gains, and these promise much for the senatorial contests which will take place two years hence.

"In Iowa, Kansas and California the Democrats made a splendid fight for their gubernatorial ticket. The reduction of Governor Cummins' majority from more than 70,000 to about 20,000 puts Iowa in the doubtful column for two years hence. Kansas and California can no longer be claimed as certainly Republican.

"The victory in Missouri will bring joy to every Democrat heart. A wail went up when Missouri dropped out of the Democratic column two years ago. Her return is greeted with widespread rejoicing. Oklahoma, the new state, comes in with a rousing Democratic majority. The constitution will be written by Democrats and she will send two senators to fight in the interest of the wealth-producers.

"In Nebraska the Democrats hoped to elect their state ticket and their candidate for United States senaor. In this they failed, but they have made substantial gains throughout the state. They have gained one congressman and came within less than 200 votes of gaining another.

"The Republicans have had an effective campaign cry in 'standing by the president.' While the record showed that the Democrats in the senate and house stood by the president better than the Republicans, the admirers of the president very naturally gave weight to his appeal for a Republican congress, although in making the appeal the president put a personal victory above the reforms which he has been advocating. Two years from now that appeal will be of no avail, for the president will not be in office after March 4, 1908. Even if he were a candidate, which no friend of his can assume after his repeated declarations, he would have to confront the third term issue, and who would say that that issue alone would not lose the president enough votes to make his race hopeless?

"The popular vote, as indicated by the congressional elections, shows that the Republicans even now have a narrow margin to go on, and that margin will be quickly wiped out if the president allows himself to be drawn into a race for a third term."

Two Thousand Fraudulent Votes

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 10.—During the progress of the official count of the ballots cast at Tuesday's election, sensational testimony was given, showing that more than 2000 fraudulent votes were returned in Foster and Hazel townships. The five men who comprised the election board of the Ninth district of Hazel township were arrested, charged with fraud, forgery and misdemeanor as election officers.

Alleged Smuggling of Liquor

St. John, Nov. 10.—As the result of an investigation of a series of alleged smuggling operations carried on by captains of sailing vessels plying between American and Nova Scotian ports the Canadian customs authorities have arrested James McCarthy, a wholesale spirit merchant of this city. Alcohol and other liquors have been purchased in Boston and at other American points for $2 a gallon and sold in this country at nearly $4 a gallon. Thousands of barrels of the contraband are supposed to have been landed in the night time by schooners without paying the revenue dues.

Alleged Conspirators Indicted

Pittsburg, Nov. 10.—Indictments were returned by the federal grand jury in this city against J. J. Dunn, C. L. Close and F. T. Emmett, officials and employes of the Shelby Steel Tube company, charging them with conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the boiler tubes furnished for a number of battleships. There are 30 specific counts against the men and it is alleged that the defective tubes were placed in boilers that were used on 12 war vessels. Judge Ewing issued bench warrants for the three men and they will be arrested.

Jury Rebuked by Judge

Dothan, Ala., Nov. 10.—When the trial of William Crockett, white, charged with the murder of Lum Henderson, a negro, ended, Judge Pearce, in dismissing the jury, declared that it had acquitted Crockett because he was a white man and had killed a negro. In conclusion, the judge said: "If the dead man had been a white citizen it would not have taken you two hours to have returned a verdict of guilty, and I don't see how any member of the jury can go from this courthouse and face his fellow-citizens in the street."

To Correct Railroad Abuse

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Railroad officials representing all the principal trunk lines throughout the country agreed to increase the per diem charge made for cars delivered to connecting roads from 25 to 50 cents after Dec. 1. This action was taken in order to correct the abuses which have resulted in unwarranted detention and diversion of rolling stock and the consequent shortage of equipment, which has become a serious problem.

Sheridan Leads In Athletics

New York, Nov. 10.—Martin J. Sheridan was the star performer last night at the opening games of the indoor championship meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. Victories in throwing the 56-pound weight for height, and putting the 8-pound shot, with marks of 15 feet 3 inches, and 61 feet, 8 inches, respectively, the latter being the new record, gave him a lead above all other competitors.

Deserted by Faculty and Students

Jackson, La., Nov. 10.—Every member of the faculty of Centenary college here, except Professor Moncrief, resigned last night as a consequence of the recent stabbing of Rev. Dr. Miller by Moncrieff. On Wednesday the entire student body left the college because of the action of Moncrief. Centenary college is a Methodist institution.

Cannot Have Military Protection

Havana, Nov. 10.—The feeling of insecurity throughout the island is shown by numerous applications by proprietors of sugar plantations for details of American troops to guard the sugar mills during the approaching cutting season. The military authorities have refused to grant any of the applications.

The Fisheries Muddle

St. Johns, Nov. 10.—The Newfoundland government has dispatched a lawyer to Bay of Islands to direct the prosecution of colonial fishermen who have shipped aboard American vessels. Herring are reported to be scarce. The weather has been adverse and only two American vessels have sailed with cargoes.

Strike Breakers In Hospital

New York, Nov. 10.—Three strike-breakers employed by the New York Transportation company, whose chauffeurs have been out for some days, were attacked by a crowd of men last night and so badly beaten that they had to be taken to a hospital for treatment.

YOUTHFUL MURDERER

Contession of Lad Employed on the Williams Farm

Stafford Springs, Conn., Nov. 10.—Charles Bishop, an 18-year-old farmhand employed on the farm of Henry Williams, has confessed that he murdered Mrs. Williams, the farmer's aged wife, whose body was found lying in a pool of blood in her house, according to a statement made by Coroner Fisk. Bishop, it is understood, has also confessed to taking monew from a trunk in an upper room.

The confession, it is said, followed a lengthy inquest held yesterday afternoon to inquire into the killing of Mrs. Williams, who was found dead with her throat cut and head battered and a towel twisted tightly about her neck. Earlier in the day Bishop had been under examination by the town authorities and also by the state police officers. It was while under the fire of the latter that several discrepancies are said to have appeared in his story, and at the end of their inquiry Bishop was formally arrested, charged with the murder.

While no details in regard to the confession are given out, it is understood that Bishop has implicated no one else in the affair. He was taken to the Tolland jail to await a preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

Vicious Attack of Murderers

Bennington, Vt., Nov. 10.—The autopsy performed on the body of Thomas Ryer, which was found near the highway leading from Pownal, Vt., to North Adams, Mass., showed 11 stab wounds in the body, four of them penetrating the heart. Ten of the man's ribs were broken. All the stab wounds were made with a knife having two edges, but as the cuts are of varying width it is believed that at least two men attacked Ryer with knives. The officials have found no direct clue to Ryer's assailants. Ryer was 37 years old and a hunchback. He had been employed as a teamster in Cheshire, Mass., but left there two weeks ago with about $50 in his pockets. His money and watch were missing when the body was found.

Indictments Against Chinese

Boston, Nov. 10.—After two brief sessions the special federal grand jury reported indictments against the 21 Chinese who landed at Providence from the smuggling schooner Frolic and later were arrested. All the members of the crew and the other white men were also named. They are charged with conspiracy, and this may have the effect of increasing the bail of the Chinese now detained at Providence and may possibly cause their eventual removal to Boston for trial.

Town Presented With a Park

Torrington, Conn., Nov. 10.—At a town meeting here last night property valued at $75,000 and located in the center of the borough was tendered to the town for park purposes by E. T. Coe, Miss Ella Coe and Mrs. W. K. H. Godfrey in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman W. Coe. The park is to be known as the Coe Memorial park. The tender was accepted. The property has been the Coe homestead for the past hundred years.

Lipton Automobile Wrecked

Bridgeport Conn. Nov. 10.—An automobile containing Sir Thomas Lipton, Wilson Marshall, whose guest Lipton was, T. H. MacDonald and R. A. C. Smith, was wrecked by the breaking of the front axle. Just after the machine had gotten under way there came a crashing sound and the car tilted over at a dangerous angle. The occupants of the car were uninjured and continued on their journey in another machine.

Court Martial For Pay Clerk

Boston, Nov. 10.—Pay Clerk A. S. Porter, until a few days ago clerk to Paymaster Tiffany, pay officer of the battleship Rhode Island, has been placed on trial before a naval court martial at the navy yard on the charge of misappropriating government money entrusted to his care. The total amount involved is about $2000. Porter pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Firebug In Tenement Houses

New York, Nov. 10.—Three fires, all said to be of incendiary origin, caused a panic last night among the people living in a block on East Twenty-Fifth street. After the fires had been extinguished the police found that gasolene had been freely used in the places where the fires started. The fact that an engine company is stationed in the same block probably saved the houses from destruction. The property loss was small.

The Business Outlook

New York, Nov. 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that business experienced the customary interruption during the week, but a more permanent retarding influence was the inadequate supply of freight cars and labor. Many industries are severely handicapped by traffic delays, raw materials and fuel coming to the factories in a most unsatisfactory manner.

Gummere Still Holds the Fort

Tangier, Nov. 10.—Mr. Gummere, the American minister to Morocco, is still at Fez, awaiting the payment of the claims for indemnity made upon the Moroccan government by American citizens for alleged outrages. He will not leave the capital until these demands are satisfied.

OUR HOSPITAL

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

SWEPT TO DEATH

Seven Men on Ship Sovinto Perished In Raging Surf

TALE OF THE SURVIVORS

Vessel Snapped In Two After Striking Reef, and Scramble For Life Ensued--Sailors In Awful Peril Close to Shore

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Nov. 10.—Many of the thrilling features that attended the wreck of the full-rigged Finnish ship Sovino, which was wrecked on Carew's reef, Priest's pond, in the hurricane of Tuesday night, is told by the survivors, who endured great suffering in their fight for life in the darkness among the wreckage.

When the ship struck, three of her four masts went by the board, tearing open her decks and scattering her cargo among the mountainous breakers. Almost simultaneously the big ship snapped in two, throwing the men into a panic, and then followed a wild scramble for anything that would keep them afloat. Some reached the forward part of the ship, and others the after section, where they spent the night with great seas breaking over them and threatening to sweep them to death. Not only was the danger great from the sea, but huge pieces of deal were being hurled about like match-wood by the waters.

Hoping that when daylight came that some means of rescue would be at hand, the stronger of the men shouted words of encouragement to their weaker mates to hold fast, as at times through the mist of the sea they could dimly make out land in the distance.

Daylight brought no relief, for the storm seemed to rage more furiously than ever, and though their perilous position was observed by people on shore, it was impossible to render aid, there being no lifeboat or life saving apparatus on that wild section of the northern coast.

The men forward, seeing no help coming from any quarter, awaited a favorable opportunity and succeeded in launching a lifeboat, into which 18 of them scrambled. Though the distance between ship and shore was less than 200 yards, the boat was struck by the combers and swamped, all aboard being thrown into the raging surf, some swimming and others clinging to pieces of deal. Eight reached the shore, seven went to their death and three returned to the ship and joined those who had remained there.

In an effort to save the men who stood by the ship, lifeboats were taken from the government steamer Minto at this port and with crews placed on a special train, which started for Souris, but before the train arrived the last man had left the ill-fated craft.

The place of the wreck is about 12 miles from Souris, but there is no telegraph nearer than the latter place, the only means of communication being by team or on foot.

Missing Steamers Heard From

Sydney, C. B., Nov. 10.—The Norwegian steamers Finn and Symra, which are nearly a week overdue between Sydney and St. Lawrence river ports, are safe. Both vessels hove to several times during the recent gale and rode out the storm. The Symra reached Quebec yesterday afternoon and the Finn has been sighted off the Cape Breton coast.

Appeared and Disappeared

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—Franklin Stone, formerly of Philadelphia, and now giving Paris as his home, who is wanted by the government on an indictment charging misuse of the mails in the Storey Cotton transaction, was in this city yesterday, but disappeared before dark. Last year the Storey Cotton company failed, with liabilities of about $7,000,000. Indictments were returned against Stone and F. E. Storey, president of the company. Both had disappeared, however, as also had Mrs. Sophia Lang, the company's stenographer.

Held For Boston Police

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—On telegraphic advices received from Boston Charles A. Carrac is held on a charge of embezzlement. He says he will not return to Massachusetts without requisition papers.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Charles A. Carrac is wanted in Boston on a charge of wrongfully obtaining $800 through an advertisement representing that he was desirous to sell at a sacrifice a good real estate business.

Nine Workmen Meet Death

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 10.—Five stories of the central wing of the new $750,000 Bixby hotel collapsed, carrying nine workmen to death in the tons of tangled wreckage. About 150 artisans and laborers were scattered through the structure at the moment it fell and of these 100 were carried down in the ruins, several being severely hurt. None of the injured will die.

Harriman System to Be Investigated

Washington, Nov. 10.—A general investigation of what is known as the Harriman system of railroads, under the authority conferred by law, is one of the subjects discussed by the interstate commerce commission. The propriety of an investigation of the system has been talked of for some time and the commission, it is said, really stands committed to an inquiry.

A Royal Romance

[Original.]

The hand of a former czarowitz of Russia was offered through the Russian prime minister to Margaret, a German princess, who was ordered by her father and sovereign to accept a husband who brought with him a probable crown. The princess was a spirited girl and not amenable to an order, even from such a source, without her own consent. However, she accepted the czarowitz, whom she had never seen, on condition that she should be invited to spend a winter in St. Petersburg. The invitation was given, and the princess was the most admired of all the women that winter at the court of Russia. The czarowitz, who was destined soon to rule the empire, took a deep interest in the problems confronting the state and seemed to have no time to devote to his fiancee. Margaret apparently accepted the situation as well as the attentions of such men of the court as dared risk offending the heir apparent. One of these, Count Demidorf, seemed to be the favorite.

One afternoon in December there was a skating party on the Neva. Neither the czarowitz nor the count was present, and the absence of these—the one the imperial betrothed and the other the supposed lover—gave other men opportunity, and the princess was much sought. The days are short in winter in St. Petersburg, and the sport was kept up after twilight. At dusk a man in the uniform of a captain of artillery came upon the ground—or rather the ice—and skated by himself, for no one seemed to know him. He was generally to be found somewhere near the Princess Margaret and as the gloom deepened kept continually in her wake. While she was skating with a prominent court official a bit of something white fluttered from her muff. The officer, who was but a few yards behind her, stooped and picked it up. Immediately after this he left the ice.

That night at 11 o'clock a carriage emerged from the court of the palace. It was driven to a railway station, and a lady closely veiled stepped out and entered the station. She had been there but a few minutes, pacing impatiently back and forth, when the officer of artillery who had skated that afternoon on the Neva entered. Approaching the lady, he courteously lifted his hat and handed her a note.

"Pardon me, madame. I should have returned sooner this which you dropped while skating today."

"You must have read it or you would not have known where to find me at this hour."

"I—I—knew you to be the betrothed of my imperial"—

"Are you one of the czarowitz's spies?"

"By no means, but I consider it my duty to"—

"To what?"

"I would confront your lover, Count Demidorf."

"And what interest have you in Count Demidorf?"

"I wish to insult him and settle this affair by the code."

"I do not see how it can concern you."

"It concerns my imperial master deeply."

"The czarowitz?"

"Yes. In his name I demand to know if it is Count Demidorf you are to meet here tonight?"

"I do not care to tell you whom I expect to meet here."

"Nevertheless I shall learn, for I shall wait for him."

"For what purpose?"

"The count is a gentleman. I shall challenge him to fight under the code. He will meet me."

"And kill the czarowitz?"

"You know me?"

"I knew you from the moment you entered."

"I shall assume all responsibility. The count will meet me as my peer."

"And why should your imperial highness take this trouble, thus risk your life?"

"For revenge upon the man who has supplanted me with the woman I love."

The princess bent her head and was silent. When she looked up she saw a figure approaching.

"If your imperial highness will turn you will see the person I am to meet."

"A woman?"

"A woman. I had concluded to go with her to my own country."

"And now?"

Again she bent her head. "I never intended to marry without love," she said. "No sovereign is powerful enough to compel me to do that."

There was a brief silence, at the end of which the czarowitz asked in a voice full of suppressed emotion, "Then you will not marry?"

"Only the man I love."

"And he is?" He bent toward her eagerly.

"The man who would fight for me."

The princess turned aside as she spoke the words in a low voice, and the czarowitz started. In another moment he beckoned to the woman standing aloof, who advanced and joined them. The princess introduced her aunt, the Duchess of N., to his imperial highness.

"Your grace's good offices are not needed," said the czarowitz. "The princess has changed her mind. She will remain."

The three left the station together and were driven to the palace.

This is a love story of royalty under assumed names. One feature of it has never been explained. Did the princess, recognizing her betrothed on the ice, purposely drop the note for him to pick up or did she really intend flight?

New Pest.

Professor H. T. Fernald of the Massachusetts Agricultural College has been in Dorchester this week investigating a new insect which threatens to become as great a pest as the gypsy and brown-tail moths. This insect, which apparently comes from Japan, has existed in the suburbs of Boston for some years and has devastated an area about a quarter of a mile long at Dorchester Centre. It feeds on the cherry, apple, pear, maple and possibly on the rose, and hibernates in hard-shelled cocoons on the branches.

Miss Adams Injured.

Miss Abigail Adams, a daughter of the late John Quincy Adams of Merrymount, was seriously injured on Thursday, perhaps internally, in a fall sustained in the semi-weekly run of the Genesee Valley Hunt club.

A Genesee dispatch to the Transcript says: It is not known how Miss Adams came to be thrown, but her mount, a green hunter, rolled over the girl as she lay on the ground. She was unconscious for more than an hour. Though it could not be discovered that any bones had been broken, there is the possibility of internal hurts.

Reynard never led the field over more difficult country than Thursday. As a result Miss Adams's fall was not the only one of the day, though none other was of a serious nature.

Noted Sculptor Dead.

Samuel J. Kitson, the sculptor, a brother of Henry Hudson Kitson of Quincy, died in New York, yesterday, of kidney disease, aged 58 years. He was a native of England and became one of the most famous and successful sculptors in this country, with studios in Boston and New York.

Brockton Fair Profits.

The total receips of the Brockton fair this year were $88,562.94; expenditures, $67,744.19, leaving the profits 20,818.75. The society donated $750 to the Brockton Hospital, $750 to Wales Home for Aged Women, and $250 for the Relief Hospital.

A Conference.

The West Quincy Republican campaign committee held a rousing meeting Friday evening at Reinhalters hall. The chairman reported the receipt of a letter from the street railway officials arranging for a conference which will be held Monday at 2 o'clock in Boston.

☞ Moran, in our judgment, has more conscience then Hearst and if we had to choose between three evils we would choose Moran. but the choice isn't necessary. Adventurers, whether honest or dishonest, are not wanted in American politics. To trust him with further responsibility would be unwise as the declaration of Tuesday's Massachusetts ballot. That he was sharply antagonised by the Democratic machine in Boston is to his credit; but that real Democrats opposed Moran on principle does honor to Democracy.—Lewiston Journal.

Mr. L. S. Richards gave a grape feast to the Marshfield Hill's improvement society at his residence at the Hills a short time ago. He picked from his new and large apple orchard a baldwin apple that measured one foot in circumference; and from his strawberry fields last summer a Marshall strawberry measuring one-half foot around it.

The annual state convention of the King's Daughters and Sons will be held this year in the First African Methodist Episcopal church, Charles street, Boston, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 13th and 14th. The sessions are to be at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M., each day and on Tuesday evening at 7.45 o'clock.

—Lysander S. Richards, well known in this city gives annually two medals to the schools of Marshfield. One to the best scholar in the High school, and another to the best in the grammar schools. They are presented by the school committee, at the graduation exercises.

—Milton property owners are to be ordered to number their houses within thirty days under penalty of a $20 fine.

MINISTERS ASSOCIATION

The Protestant Pastors of City Get Together Will Meet Monthly

A long-felt want has been supplied in the recent organization of the Quincy Ministerial Association. There has been a lack of cooperation and fellowship where there should have been the heartiest accord and the most earnest endeavor; it has been easier for the pastors of the various denominations to attend their several preachers' meetings in Boston than to meet one another here. Now, however, this difficulty has been surmounted. A preliminary meeting was held some weeks ago, and on Monday evening last in the chapel of the First church, the organization was completed.

This body does not expect to work revolutions in Quincy. It is to be hoped none are needed. But it is expected that the ministers will be better acquainted with one another and the needs of the city as a whole, and thus be ready to cooperate in all good works.

The constitution is as follows:

Article 1,—This association shall be known as the Quincy Ministerial Association.

Article 2,—The object of this association is the promotion of a more intimate, helpful and fraternal relationship among the ministers of the city.

Article 3,—The officers of this Association shall be president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer and an executive committee of two with the officers above named. The election of officers shall be by ballot at the regular meeting in May.

Article 4,—All protestant ministers of the city are eligible to membership and shall become members on the recommendation of the executive committee and by vote of the association.

Article 5,—There shall be three regular meetings—in February, May, and October, and such special meetings as the executive committee may determine.

Article 6,—A quorum shall consist of seven members.

Article 7,—This constitution may be amended by two-thirds vote of the members present and voting at any regular meeting.

The following officers were electede President, Rev. N. J. Sproul.

Vice President, Rev. Jason G. Miller.

Secretary and Treasurer, Rev. Albert B. Tyler.

Members of the executive committe: with the three above named, Rev. W. E. Gardner and Rev. E. N. Hardy.

"ALL AMERICA."

New Form of National Anthem Made Applicable to Whole Land.

M. V. Zimmerman of New York has prepared a new version of the national hymn with a view to making the allusions applicable to the entire country instead of simply to New England, says the Buffalo Express. He calls it "All America."

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrims' pride,
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!

My native country thee,
Land of the noble free,
Thy name I love.
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

I love thy inland seas,
Thy sweet magnolia trees,
Thy palms and pines,
Thy canyons wild and deep,
Thy prairies' boundless sweep,
Thy rocky mountains steep,
Thy matchless mines.

I love thy silvery strands,
Thy Golden Gate that stands
Afront the west,
Thy sweet and crystal air,
Thy sunshine everywhere—
O land beyond compare,
I love thee best!

Then, music swell the breeze
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

Our fathers' God, to thee,
Author of liberty,
To thee we sing.
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us with thy might,
Great God, our King.

NOVEL TRIP TO WIN WAGER.

Philadelphian Wheels Wife In Barrow Into Towns on World Tour.

Trundling a medium sized woman in a light, red painted wheelbarrow through the main streets of Detroit, bustling with commercial activity, a man conspicuously attired in cap, sweater and knickerbockers attracted unusual attention the other afternoon, says a Detroit dispatch to the New York American.

First thought ascribed the unconventional practice to the penalty of a primary election bet, but close observation revealed the following placard on the side of the vehicle:

"R. C. Worth and Wife, Traveling Around the World."

The novel tour, started by the couple from their home in Philadelphia several days ago, is the result of a $4,000 wager, which Worth is to forfeit should knowledge come to light that he has covered any part of the long journey by rail or other means of transportation aside from the necessary ocean trips and his own well knit, muscular pair of legs. The couple are expected to walk around the world, and one provision of the wager requires that Worth wheel his wife into each town on their itinerary.

"The tour is to embrace Canada, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, France and Germany," said Worth, "and we are going to accomplish the journey in six years. We will go through lower Canada and into Nova Scotia and sail from Yarmouth to England. We have averaged about twenty miles per day since starting. All we carry is a few necessary changes of clothing in those grips, but I suppose we will be obliged to stock up with provisions in the sparsely settled countries. I expect the trip to be a great education for both of us. So far our journey has been devoid of adventure, and the outdoor life is better than any tonic the doctors could prescribe. It's simply great! Mrs. Worth stands the fatigue well, and she takes the cross country stride like a professional pedestrian."

Worth refused to disclose the origin or the object of the wager.

Insanity Laid to Flats.

The flat has another thing to answer for. It fills the insane asylum. Such, at least, is the statement of William C. Graves, secretary of the Illinois state board of charities, says a Chicago dispatch. "The city women who go to the insane asylums go from flats," was the statement of Mr. Graves. The monotony and the lonesomeness which characterize the one are features of the other. Isolation is the thing which drives women crazy, and the woman in a flat is isolated even as is the woman on a farm. When the monotony and the loneliness grow unbearable melancholia sets in, and that is one of the hardest forms of insanity to overcome—much more stubborn and unresponsive to treatment than the more violent forms of dementia.

Leather the Wear For Fall Outings.

"Originality is a gift of the gods, not always the inspiration of the pocketbook," said a woman in regard to some of the novel outing costumes sent hither from abroad, which are not costly as we view costliness in imported gowns, says a correspondent of the New York Press. The new costumes are made entirely of leather. There are captivating little red leather golf coats, far too becoming to be ignored among these autumn offerings. They are strapped with black and worn with red leather caps pinned with leather headed hatpins. No wonder women who are careful of their looks even when indulging in pastimes say that the charms of golf never were more alluring than they are this fall.

Estate For Russian Peasants.

By an imperial Russian decree about 20,000,000 acres of land in Siberia are to be sold to the peasants. Count Vorontzoff Daskoff has offered his estate, near Parlograd, about 80,000 acres, for sale to the peasants.

Here and There About the City

Sunday fair.

Another meeting of the Council on Monday evening.

Last Sunday Rev. A. B. Tyler baptized nine children at the West Quincy M. E. church.

Several remarked yesterday what a delightful day it was, but nevertheless it was the coldest of the season.

Miss Lucie Newcomb, spent Sunday and Monday, at the Quincy Mansion school the guest of Miss Ruth Drake of Franklin, N. H.

An entertainment and candy sale will be given by the Girls Friendly Society in St. Chrysostom's parish room next Friday evening. Admission will be by payment of ten cents.

Some people in Atlantic are wondering, if it takes four months to start work on the new schoolhouse after plans are approved and an appropriation made, how many months it will be after Sept. 1 next before the schoohouse is completed. They do not want a repetition of the High school job but are fearful already.

The success of a Rummage sale does not depend on buyers as much as it does on contributors, so the Day Nursery committee ask all housekeepers and others to help along the sale on the 16th and 17th at No. 15 Granite street by sending any second hand things they may have in the way of clothing, hats, shoes, furniture, crockery, in fact anything not needed in their own homes, for there is sure to be some one who will appreciate it. Goods will be received Thursday, Nov. 15, after nine o'clock. Mrs. E. G. Pratt is in charge.

The Fair for Nurses' Home

These who are at all familiar with our Hospital and cognizant of the faithful work of the nurses realize the need of comfortable rooms for them when off duty and therefore the necessity of the proposed Nurses' Home. The Hospital Aid association always mindful of the requirements of the Hospital is to hold a fair at the home of its president, Mrs. Joseph G. Morse, 215 Goffe street, next Wednesday, Nov. 14th, from two until ten, to raise money for this purpose.

Every one is cordially invited to attend this fair and to help by their presence as well as their purse. There is to be a great variety of articles; useful, fancy, household, dolls, ice cream, grabs, tea and sandwiches and in fact most everything to interest and attract the buyer.

There is already a sum at interest for the Nurses' Home and it is hoped to add materially to it by the fair next week.

Do not forget the date, Nov. 14, Wednesday; the hours, 2 until 10; and the place, 215 Goffe street, Mrs. J. C. Morse's.

The New Pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church

Already the new pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. Swan Nelsen Elvin, B. A., B. D,, is demonstrating that he is a worker, and that he will do much to unite and build up the society. He is a young man who speaks English flueutly and is equally skilled in the use of his mother tongue.

He was born in Sweden but came to the United States while young. He commenced his studies for the ministry at Augustana college, Ill., where he was graduated in the spring of 1898 with the diploma of bachelor of arts. Then he studied theology for three years and received the letter of bachelor of divinity.

Mr. Elvin was ordained in 1901 at Jamestown, N. Y., and became pastor of the Swedish Luthern church at Racine, Wis. For five and one-half years, until October last, he served the churches at Racine and Kenoska. The Racine paper says he "is a thoroughly up-to-date man and taken a great deal of interest in all sorts of church work."

Rev. Mr. Elvin assumed the pastorate at the Quincy church Oct. 1, and with his wife and infant son is now comfortably settled in this city, and busy with his work.

The Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Salem church on Granite street was erected in 1892, and now counts over 400 members. The edifice is built upon a rock, and was recently throughly renovated. The society has a bright future with such a fine church home, and a popular pastor.

Many Reasons For a Change

Editors of Daily Ledger:

While with many the nominations of Mayor is the all-important interest at the coming caucuses, there is the election of Ward Committees which is fully as important, for it is really these committees which decide who shall be candidates for all offices.

In Wards One, Three and Four at the recent election the vote for Gov. Guild was less than last year, and in Ward Six the gain was only two votes.

We want ward committees who are not looking for their own elevation to office; committees who will take an interest in rallies; committees which can be trusted with funds; committees which will work on election day for the party and not as election officers for the city.

An opportunity is offered in some wards this year for a change, as double lists have been nominated. Republican voters in Ward One who desire a change should vote for this entire list:

Charles H. Johnson,
James Moorhead, Jr.,
George C. Adams,
Benedict Benson,
Arthur W. Ryder,
Andrew Stewart,
Thomas B. Davenport,
Henry S. Crane.

Be careful and make no mistake if you want a change. Republican.

Special Performance.

A series of special performances during the coming winter to be known as "Actors' Nights" begins this week at the Castle Square Theatre with a complimentary testimonial to Miss Thais Lawton. It is not in the nature of a benefit performance, but rather a sort of "evening at home" in which the actor or actress will welcome the friends who care to testify their appreciation by their attendance. A card-bowl is placed in the lobby and all patrons who wish to "leave cards" for the host of the evening my be sure that their cards will reach their destination and be welcomed as an evidence of friendly interest. On "Miss Lawton's Night" all the members of the company, the attaches of the theatre and the hosts of friends of the talented leading woman of the company united in doing her honor. Miss Lawton, though a comparative stranger, has won golden opinions by her splendid work and even in the few weeks in which she has been here she has made many friends. The second Actor's Night will be announced later.

Christian Endeavorers Take Examination

The Junior Endeavorers of the Washington Street Congregational church enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon from four to six o'clock yesterday. Sixty-four were present, beside many other older person including matrons and the young ladies of Mrs. T. B. Pollard's class.

The first part of the two hours were devoted to a written examination upon the work of the year, viz: Their pledge, beatitudes, 1st and 23d psalms, the decalogue and other branches of similar work.

The matrons, Mrs. George W. Bailey, Mrs. G. A. Sidelinger, Mrs. C. Webster Newcomb, Mrs. E. H. Bushnell and Mrs. S. A. Kelsery, who corrected the papers, while the amusements were going on found that the results were very satisfactory, for no paper had a mark below 80 per cent.

The amusements and games in which the endeavorers indulged were arranged and conducted by a committee of young ladies: Miss Marion Johnson, Miss Helen Sherburne and Miss Elsie Kirby.

Refreshments were served toward the close under the direction and preparation of Miss Helen Lincoln and Miss Esther Sidelinger.

Before the afternoon was over, it was voted by the junior to give a present to their superintendent, Mrs. John O'Neil, who was formerly Miss Gertrude Foster. Further arrangements were left in hands of the chairman of the board of matrons.

A vote of thanks was given to the young ladies, who had aided in making the afternoon so enjoyable.

Hospital week Collection Was Splendid Success This Year

The Hospital Week collection is now pratically complete, and the result is most gratifying, being more than has ever been received before with the exception of the special collection of last year, and a full $1,000 more than the 1904 collection. The grand total is $4,134.67.

The Hospital Week committee heartily thank all the citizens of Quincy who have shown in this practical way their deep appreciation of the beneficient work which the Hospital is doing.

Three of the Wards contributed even more than last year. Ward 2, 10 per cent more, Ward 3, 10 per cent more, Ward 6, an increase of more than 20 per cent.

Last year it will be remembered there were 13 contributions of $100 each. These were obtained by special personal effort, with a view to wiping out the the debt, while this year this personal effort was not made though most of these gave generously, and a number of them $100.

As nine of these $100 contributions were from Ward One, this account chiefly for the considerable falling off in this ward, though the amount received from Ward One $1431.75, is the largest of any year except 1905.

Out-of-Town contributions last year brought in nearly $150, and this year these people were not asked to contribute.

Here is the summary:

Ward One,	$1431.75
Ward Two,	486.92
Ward Three,	587.13
Ward Four,	184.45
Ward Five,	811.02

WHAT THE PRESIDENT WILL DO AT PANAMA

Novel Incidents That Will Mark His Trip and How He Will Be Entertained.

Determined to See For Himself What Work Has Actually Been Done on the Great Canal. Mr. Roosevelt, Clad In a Mackintosh and Rubber Boots, Will Thoroughly Explore the Famous Culebra Cut—Extraordinary Precaution to Guard Presidential Party From Yellow Fever—Will Be In Touch With Washington by Wireless Telegraphy.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

THERE is nothing suggesting "the swing around the circle" in President Roosevelt's approaching visit to Panama. It is merely a matter of public business. The United States is digging the Panama canal. As president of the United States Mr. Roosevelt is general overseer of the job. It is a big job, and the boss is going down there to see how the work is getting along. Any man in his position would be expected to do the same thing, but in the case of Roosevelt the expectation is a foregone conclusion. A considerable section of the American public has been wondering how the president has managed to keep away from Panama thus long. He is the sort of man who wants to see things for himself when a large measure of the responsibility is his.

Mr. Roosevelt's readiness to find out things for himself may be illustrated by an anecdote about another man.

During the civil war General Joe Wheeler, Confederate cavalry leader, stood surrounded by his staff when an engagement was imminent. Not far in advance was a little hill crowned by a clump of bushes. General Wheeler scanned the hill suspiciously through his field glasses, and other officers did the same.

"I wonder if there is a masked battery on that hill," said one of the officers.

"I'll see," replied Wheeler, mounting his horse and galloping forward. Before he reached the foot of the rise there was a big puff of smoke and the roar of a cannon, while the ball came whizzing past. He wheeled and rode back to his staff.

"Yes, there is," he said.

Nobody expects President Roosevelt to find any sort of masked batteries in the canal zone notwithstanding the hostile criticism of the management of the work that comes from some quarters. But the Panama canal in the future will be associated with Roosevelt's name and administration, and none of us can quarrel with the president for his desire and determination to dispense with hearsay for the time being and get some prima facie evidence, though it is going to take him out of the United States.

No other president of the United States has visited a foreign country during his term of office. Even in this instance the foreign visit will be only incidental, for during much of his four days in Panama the president will be actually on United States soil. The canal zone, ten miles wide, belongs in perpetuity to the United States. As a matter of courtesy Mr. Roosevelt will visit President Amador of the republic of Panama and will touch at several points that are on foreign territory. But even in this he will be attending to business. Still, it is something new for a president of the United States to get out of his own country, but then we have come to expect the present incumbent to do new things.

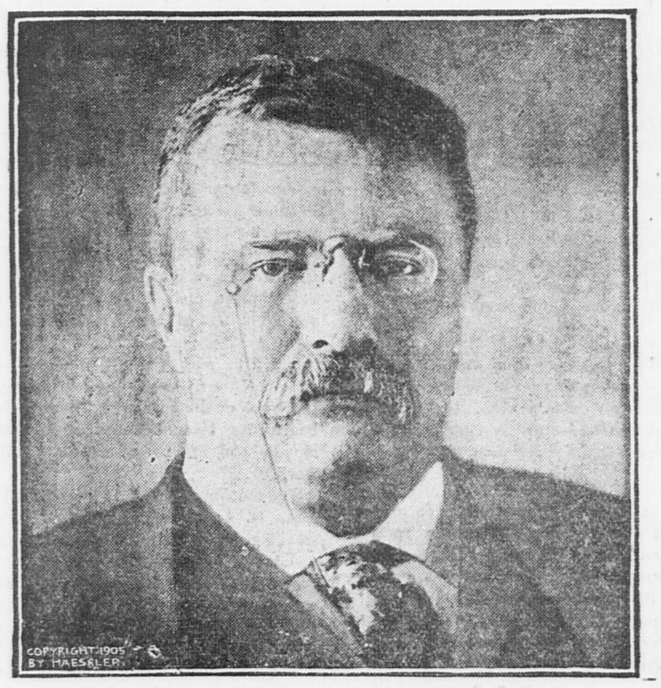

Likely to Get Plenty of Exercise.

Heretofore there has been no occasion for the chief executive to set foot on foreign soil. Now that the occasion has arisen, it is a matter of public congratulation that the man in the White House is a strenuous individual and can go to Panama without fear as to the Yellow Jack mosquito or the malarial microbe, but, on the other hand, actually welcoming the hardships of a trip through the canal zone. The president likes exercise, and he is very likely to get plenty of it during his inspection of the digging operations.

Somewhere down there the proper officials have got ready a pair of hip high rubber boots of the presidential number and a long rubber coat for Rooseveltian occupancy. Probably a rubber hat is included in this outfit, in which the president will go through the great Culebra cut, personally inspecting the work already done and in progress.

The Culebra cut is the narrowest part of the canal because it is the deepest. At that point rises the backbone of the isthmus or what may be called the Siamese twin ligament that connects North and South America. Our engineers are simply cutting through this great backbone, which is partly stone and partly earth, and down in the present channel is altogether mud. The mud is of a sticky variety and exceedingly wet in places. Through this the president will plow his way clad in rubber, and, to employ a slang term, there is no doubt that he will do a great deal of rubbering on this tour of inspection.

The great steam shovels, which fill a big car with only three bites of mud, will attract his attention, along with many other mechanical devices specially patterned to undertake the herculean tasks presented. The American laborers who have gone down there to help and the negroes and Spanish natives of Panama and of the West Indies who are assisting Uncle Sam in this mighty undertaking will see the rubbered and rubbering president of the greatest nation in the world picking and plowing his way through the rubbish and the muck, closely inspecting a sort of muck raking which even he must approve heartily.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Laborious, but Interesting.

But this picture of the president wading in the mud at the bottom of the Culebra cut and climbing the slippery slopes will be really nothing new for Mr. Roosevelt, except as to location and occasion. He is more or less accustomed to that sort of thing. He has hunted bear in swamps and canebrakes and has sought mountain lions on perilous heights, clad in costumes that made him look like the ordinary sportsman out for a good time, and upon those expeditions of strenuous adventure he no doubt had a good time, but not a whit more "bully" than he will find the laborious but interesting trip through the partly dug canal.

It is only those who have been privileged to see Mr. Roosevelt rigged out in an old hat and boots, leggings and rough clothes who know how vastly he enjoys such a thing. To the laborers in the Panama ditch, who have been wont to imagine the rulers of great nations as always dressed in their Sunday clothes, the sudden appearance of the rubber clad stout man in eyeglasses will be somewhat startling. It is not to be doubted that for many years to come there will be a number of men whose chief claim to glory will lie in saying to their families and associates:

"I was at work in the Panama canal when the president of the United States came through, and he stopped and talked to me, shook hands and asked me if my health was good and if I got enough to eat."

And, who knows, perhaps the president will insist upon eating a meal with the workmen, as he did with the sailors on the battleship Missouri not long ago. He has stated already that he intends to pay for his own meals on the voyage to Panama, and therefore he must be permitted to eat what he pleases, unless Surgeon General Rixey, his physician, who is going along, should happen to object too strongly.

Formidable Mosquito Barricade.

There is practically no danger that the president will be exposed to any climatic perils in Panama. The Hotel Tivoli, which is to be his stopping place in the capital of the little republic, will be impervious to the stegomyia, otherwise the lady mosquito, which transmits yellow fever from person to person in two bites. We are told that this entire hotel "will be inclosed in mosquito netting to prevent mosquitoes which spread the yellow fever germ from stinging the president or the members of his party." Doubtless if any mosquitoes do try to get into the Tivoli they will carry to their dying day the recollection of the most formidable mosquito barricade in the history of the insect.

But thanks to the good work of Governor Magoon, now of Cuba, and Colonel W. C. Gorgas, chief sanitary officer of the canal zone, the sanitary condition of the zone and of the city of Panama as well has been so greatly improved that the stegomyian peril is said to be practically a memory.

President Roosevelt goes to Panama aboard the most powerful battleship in our navy. The Louisiana, which was launched but a few months ago, is of 17,600 tons displacement, nearly equal to the boasted British Dreadnought and in armament and equipment equal to any sea fighter afloat. Considering the extra touches added to the Louisiana's interior in preparation for the president's voyage, this big bulldog of the seas is a very tidy craft for a comfortable ride of 1,788 miles and back.

The presidential quarters are separated by a temporary bulkhead from the rest of the ship. Seven staterooms and three bathrooms are set aside for President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, Dr. Rixey, Assistant Secretary M. C. Latta and Lieutenant Franck T. Evans, the president's aid. The large cabin intended for the flag officer is made over into a dining and reception room. The chief of staff's cabin is prepared for a sitting room, while the space around the after turret, under the noses of the big twelve inch guns, is intended for a general sitting room, being fitted with cozy chairs and lounges. Captain Couden, commander of the ship, is to occupy during the voyage the emergency cabin on the bridge.

To Take a Sail on a Casco.

This is a very different sort of craft from the one that is to carry the president through a part of the canal zone. It is arranged for him to take a sail aboard one of the native built cascoes. This is a flatboat, very substantially constructed in primitive fashion, with a rude sail and a still ruder rudder. It is an open boat, without frills. As it moves awkwardly over the waters of the lake that will form a portion of the great canal the sensation will be quite different from that produced by the battleship Louisiana speeding smoothly and swiftly through leagues of white sea foam, a very modern and up to date armed and armored castle not set upon a crag, but endowed with the liberty of the sea and carrying within its own cavernous interior the power of locomotion.

From the superb battleship to the funny little casco is truly quite a change, but that is just the sort of thing that President Roosevelt considers dee-lightful. Ten to one if you should ask him after his return to Washington what part of the trip he most enjoyed he will say:

"Why, the ride on that Panama flatboat. That was just bully!"

Will Be Escorted by Young Panamans.

Another thing that is bound to please the president beyond measure is the escort of a hundred young Panamans mounted, who, according to the programme as announced, are to accompany him on his drive about the city of Panama. The rough rider instinct in the president's soul will come to the surface again at this time, and he may long for a chance to give these awkward young Latin-Americans some lessons modeled after the teachings of the late Bucky O'Neil and other plainsmen who fought with him at San Juan.

Some timid spirits, always looking for trouble, have grown bold enough to ask who will be the president of the United States while Theodore Roosevelt is gone. The answer is not far to seek. Theodore Roosevelt will be the president. While he will pass out of United States territory when he crosses the three mile limit, he will still stand upon the very substantial deck of a United States battleship, aboard of which this government is always sovereign. Moreover, we are given to understand that the wireless telegraph will be available at all times and that Lieutenant Evans, son of "Fighting Bob," will officially transmit to Secretary Loeb at Washington such executive orders as the president may find it necessary to promulgate, if any. Our little family of 80,000,000 can get along very well for a few days, anyhow, with Father Roosevelt away attending to family affairs.

It is quite interesting and highly gratifying to reflect, by the way, that but for the recent invention of wireless telegraphy a president who really wanted to get away from the cares of state altogether and lose himself for a time could desert us at will. There may be nothing new under the sun, but the wireless president seems to contradict the ancient wisdom of Solomon.

A CLASH IN TEXAS

Body of Armed Mexicans Attacked Rangers In the Dark

THE LATTER UNSCATHED

Ambushers Had Four Men Killed--Mexicans Aroused Over Opposition to Their Illegal Voting --Sequel to Killing of a Judge

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 10.—Texas rangers sent to Rio Grande City to quiet turbulent political conditions there and investigate the assassination of District Judge Welch, which occurred the night before the election, were ambushed by a body of armed Mexicans between Fordyce and Rio Grande City late Thursday night. The rangers were asleep in camp when awakened by a volley of shots from the darkness. A fight ensued and four of the attacking party were killed, one fatally wounded and two captured. The rangers escaped unscathed. Governor Lanham has ordered a company of cavalry to Starr county.

The situation in Starr county was brought about by alleged election irregularities, due to political clubs supplying Mexican residents with poll tax receipts and insisting that they be allowed to vote. Judge Welch had gone from his home in Corpus Christi to be present at Rio Grande City on election day in an effort to prevent disorders. He was assassinated while he was asleep Monday night.

It is charged that armed representatives of political clubs controlling the Mexican vote patrolled the voting places on election day and refused to allow members of the opposing factions to vote. Several shooting affrays occurred, but no one was killed or wounded. It is charged by one faction that Welch was murdered by a hired assassin and that the ambuscade of the rangers was instigated by the same faction.

There are reports here of continued rioting at Rio Grande City, the extent of which is not now known.

Troops Near Scene of Trouble

Washington, Nov. 10.—No official report of the clash between the Texas rangers and the Mexicans near Rio Grande City has yet reached Washington, and the officials scarcely expect that there will be a report unless the matter is made the subject of diplomatic representations by the Mexican government. Thus far the Mexican embassy here has not been advised of any such purpose.

Troops are near the scene of trouble, four companies of infantry being at Fort McIntosh, a little more than 50 miles distant, and three troops of cavalry at Fort Clark. A battalion of infantry, two companies of field artillery and four troops of cavalry also are at San Antonio, and one battalion of infantry at Fort Bliss. All these troops would act under the command of General McCaskey, with headquarters at San Antonio, in case of need.

In explanation of the statement that the Mexicans were incensed over being excluded from voting last Tuesday, it is said by army officers that it has in the past been a common practice to bring Mexicans over the line and have them vote in Texas when factional issues were being strongly contested and it is conjectured that the Mexicans resented being deprived of the money they earned in that way.

Cavalry Will Preserve Order

Austin, Nov. 10.—In response to a dispatch from Rio Grande City, Governor Lanham ordered a troop of cavalry from Corsicana to the scene of the conflict between rangers and Mexicans and has instructed the troops of this city to hold themselves in readiness to leave at a moment's notice. The Corsicana troops were joined here by Adjutant General Hulen, who assumed command. Ample ammunition preceded the troops. Three squads of rangers are already at Rio Grande City and will co-operate with the troops in restoring order.

Vatican Offends Germany

Rome, Nov. 10.—The relations between Germany and the Vatican continue to be strained. Germany resents the refusal of the Vatican to disavow the pastoral letter of Mgr. Stablewski, the archbishop of Posen, in which the archbishop protests against the German order that children in German Poland be given their religious instruction in the German language.

More Clothing For Bluejackets

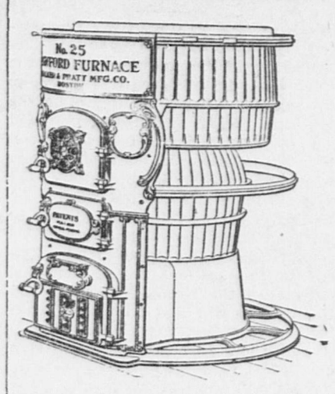

Washington, Nov. 10.—The secretary of the navy will ask congress for more money to clothe the bluejackets than they are now allowed. It is found that the $40 of the present allowance will not give the sailors of the navy a sufficient outfit and it has been decided to increase the estimate for clothing so as to permit of an increase of the allowance to $60 per man.

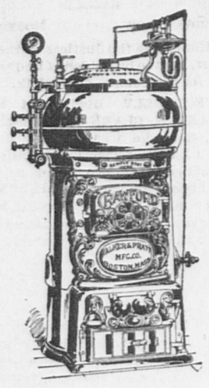

Woman Shares Shootieg Honors

Albany, Ga., Nov. 10.—Shooting over the traps of the Albany Gun club, the Winchester squad established a new world's record for a team of five, breaking 490 out of 500 targets. One of the team members is a woman, Mrs. A. Topperwein.

Progress of "Ship of State"

Charleston, Nov. 10.—The warship squadron, bearing President Roosevelt to Panama, was off the South Carolina coast this morning. They are running at the rate of 16 miles an hour.

BALLOON PURSUIT RACE

Lack of Wind Made It Easy For Automobile to Win Cup

North Adams, Mass., Nov. 10.—C. F. Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America, won the Alan R. Hawley cup in the balloon pursuit race by automobile, arriving at the point of descent [illegible] city with his car in time to assist [illegible] the balloon to the ground. Bishop had a 35-horse power automobile and managed to keep within sight of the balloon L'Orient practically through all of the race. In this he was favored by the fact that the wind was very light and shifty, so that the balloon traveled very slowly and at times seemed to make no progress whatever, while at other times it floated back nearly over the course previously traversed.

On account of the weather conditions the race was decidedly unsatisfactory as a test of the ability of automobiles to follow. When L'Orient made the ascent from Pittsfield at 12:55 yesterday afternoon there was scarcely any wind preceptible at the ground level. The balloon floated slowly in a general northerly direction, taking a zigzag course until Williamstown was beneath it, when it veered southeasterly in the direction of North Adams, hanging suspended over this city for nearly three quarters of an hour before descending, at 3:05. The distance in an air line from Pittsfield to North Adams is a little less than 19 miles, but the cyclometer on the automobile, which followed the balloon nearly to Williamstown and around Greylock mountain, registered 27 miles.

Murderer and Home Destroyer

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—W. K. Henshaw, a former clergyman, who was convicted inn 1895 of wife murder and was sentenced to prison for life, but was paroled in 1905, was tried before Governor Hanly on the charge of wrecking the home of Sheriff-elect Freeman. After hearing the evidence, the governor ordered the return of Henshaw to state prison for life. Henshaw admitted meeting Mrs. Freeman by appointment and going with her at night to a hotel. He denied, however, being guilty of any improper conduct.

To Seek Extension of Trade

Cincinnati, Nov. 10.—An inspection of work on the Panama canal by the combined mercantile organizations of the United States, the trip to be made on a chartered ship under the leadership of Secretary of War Taft, is purposed by the Commercial club of Cincinnati. Already favorable replies have been received from several large cities. The proposed trip is mainly for the purpose of encouraging trade with the West Indian islands and countries of South America.

One Man Controls Fisheries

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 10.—What is perhaps the greatest monopoly of its kind in the world has been acquired by John C. Miller, a mining engineer of El Paso, through a concession granted by the government of the republic of Mexico, giving Miller exclusive fishing rights on a large portion of the east and the west coasts of Mexico, including all the rivers, bays, inlets and also the lakes for 20 miles inland. This covers, perhaps, the finest fishing and oyster territory in the world.

Liberals Skirmishing For Plums

Havana, Nov. 10.—A determined effort to induce Governor Magoon to begin a general distribution of offices among the members of the Liberal party was made when a committee held a two hours' conference with the governor. The result of the conference is not known. On leaving the palace, however, General Velez said that Magoon assured the committee that he would continue the reforms in the municipal government.

Engines Smashed In Wreck

New York, Nov. 10.—Two passenger trains collided head-on last night near Jamaica on the Long Island railroad. Both engines were smashed to pieces and several persons were severely, though not seriously injured. There were about 200 passengers on the trains. Several of the cars were telescoped and others badly smashed.

Woman Implicated In Forgeries

Coshocton, O., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Mary J. Lingafelter, wife of James F. Lingafelter, former cashier of the Newark Savings bank at Newark, was last night found guilty by a jury of aiding and abetting her husband and son in forgeries for which both are serving terms in prison. Sentence was not passed on Mrs. Lingafelter.

Not Wanted In America

Denver, Nov. 10.—Giovanni Bruno, a Sicilian, believed to be a daring Italian anarchist, was arrested at Keon, where he was employed as a railroad section hand. Search had been made for him for five months. He will be returned to Sicily.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITHS THEATRE.

A bill in line with the big shows that are always to be found at Keith's will serve as the attraction for lovers of the best in vaudeville the coming week. That very droll monologist, James J. Morton, will be on hand with his budget of inimitable jests. The latest popular airs played by that very talented family of musicians, the six Cuttys, will be a most attractive feature. A wire act that is said to be the most remarkable ever brought to this country, a special Keith importation, by the way, will be among the features. It is performed by the Four Harveys, who are as much at home on a slender thread of steel as upon the solid ground. A quartet of clever comedians and good singers known as the Rialto Four; the three Donals in out-of-the-ordinary athletic feats; the "Pajama Pereys," three pretty sisters in a bright comedietta; songs by Bennier and Stella, and timely views by the Kinetograph will help to round out the bill.

BOSTON THEATRE.

The phrase "musical comedy" so often misapplied and so frequently covering the flimsiest and frothiest of farce comedies with an indifferent musical score, fits "Mamselle Sallie" like the proverbial glove. This new dramatic favorite, book by Robert B. Smith and music by Raymond Hubbell, received its first production at the Boston theatre last Monday evening and scored an instant success. The play itself is in two acts, with scenes laid in Auburn Manor, at a young ladies' seminary, in England, and the estates of Marco Bizarrus in Thessaly. Ordinarily, the plot cuts very little figure in musical comedy and is far from logical; but in this case it is both interesting and sequential. It concerns the mysterious disappearance and recovery of a locket which, besides establishing the identity of an heiress, also enforces a matrimonial alliance, which otherwise would have been considered a mesalliance. "Mamselle Sallie" remains at the Boston for another week, the engagement ending Saturday, November 17.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

As a light romantic play, "Monsieur Beaucaire" is unequalled. It caused endless delight as a novel, and it made Booth Tarkington's reputation at a bound. Then Richard Mansfield saw the dramatic possibilities in it, and having played the title character himself, he was everywhere hailed as an ideal representative of the volatile hero. As presented at the Castle Square next week, "Monsieur Beaucaire" will lose none of its mirth-giving qualities. The title role will be played by Howell Hansel, and his personality and skill will enable him to follow successfully in Richard Mansfield's footsteps. The cast will be a long one, including all the members of the stock company, and the scenery and costumes will be magnificent.

PARK THEATRE.

Shoppers who have occasion to visit Boston next week will have an opportunity of seeing a remarkable new play under curious conditions, for the latest effort of Mr. C. Haddon Chambers, "Sir Anthony," which is described as a comedy dealing with suburban life is to be given its first performance on any stage next Monday afternoon, Nov. 12th, at the Park Theatre. During the week the play will be seen on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons only, and it is to be interpreted by a specially engaged company, which will include William Norris, Herbert Standing, Verner Clarges, Joseph Twohey, Helen Lowell, Maud Crichton, Olive Wyndham, Mrs. Cooper Cliffe and Eda Bruna. The piece is under the direction of Liebler & Co., and has been given a splendid and appropriate scenic equipment.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court, next to be holden at Dedham within and for the County of Norfolk.

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents MARY K. PRACTICAL REFORM MOVE.

Work of Men on Governing Committee of People's Lobby.

Writing of the people's lobby, the bureau to be established this winter to disseminate information regarding the good and vicious features of proposed congressional legislation, Samuel Merwin of the editorial staff of Success Magazine, which is promoting the movement, writes as follows in the November issue of the men chosen to form the governing committee:

They represent a great many different interests in life. They approach the question from many different directions. You will find on this committee men of mature experience and men of youth and enthusiasm. Not a man on the list is a crank or a visionary. Not a man has a panacea to stuff down our throats. They are clean, square men of today, men of ideas, men of moral and ethical standards. They know that right is right and wrong wrong. They know that the congressman who slides a joker into a bill is a liar and a sneak. They know that the senator or a speaker who trades in the necessities of his constituents, who uses the power of high office to make money, is a pitiful rascal.

The work before these committeemen is simple and plain. It is not their office to play into the hands of this party or that. It is their office to see that congress comes out of its subterranean channels, its tortuous passages, its hidden closets, and works in the light, where every voter in this land can see what is going on all the time. The committee will not take sides on debatable questions. It will throw its white light into the dark corners. It will assume that all measures which shrink from that light are bad measures and will drag them out for your inspection.

"Hereafter the responsibility for every congressional action or inaction will be fixed on individuals. Senators and congressmen will no longer be able to dodge the responsibility that is theirs. In street language, again, they must stand for what they do. The experience will be novel, but we trust it will be salutary. They will no longer be able to fool their constituents, for those constituents will have at hand a cold, dispassionate, accurate statement of every man's record. A post card will fetch such a statement. If the newspapers won't print it, the magazines will.

"We have had our exposures, our sensations, our talk. Now the time has come to get down to business."

TINY HOMES FOR HOMELESS

San Francisco's Method of Housing People Not Afraid of Earthquakes.

"I would rather camp in the ashes of San Francisco than live anywhere else," said a woman refugee. That is the spirit that is rebuilding San Francisco, a spirit that is the wonder and pride of the country, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

This woman, with her family, after camping in a tent for awhile, has moved into one of the cottages in Jefferson square. It is for these that the cottages are being erected by the relief commission—for people who will not run from earthquake, fire or other disasters, but who will stand and make a fight—for San Francisco. There are thousands of them in the city. They were burned out—lost everything they had but the clothes they stood in. For a few nights the sky was their roof and the earth their bed, but they did not run. Then they got a tent, set it up and began to gather a few things together—a rude table, a chair or two, sometimes homemade. The men folks got work and the families dropped out of the bread line and began buying bedsteads, stoves, rugs, etc., until many of the tents were so crowded that there was scarcely room to move about.

Now they are to have a home, a cozy little three room cottage, for which they are to pay $6 per month, and at the expiration of a year they will own the cottage and be free to move it wherever they choose. With only $6 rent they can make good payments on a lot before the year expires.

In Jefferson, Hamilton and sixteen other parks of our city are little cottages being raised—the "teeniest," cutest little dovecotes of houses one ever saw are nearing completion to make dwelling places for the homeless.

The houses can be rented for that figure until Aug. 1 of next year. The people who have paid rent steadily until that time will then own their homes, but they will be obligated at that time to remove them to some lot or ground outside the parks—any place they may wish or choose, that being at their own option and expense.

Will Life Be Worth Living?

The medical profession in England is obtaining more and more influence, and the chemist's shop threatens to become the church of the near future, says London Truth. The reasonable Englishman of tomorrow will rise from his ventilated bed, wash himself in sterilized water, dress himself in disinfected clothes, eat a medicated breakfast, drive to his office in an antiseptic cab, transact business with fumigated customers, breathe clarified air, and, returning to the sanitarium he calls home, end the day in the bosom of his sanitary family.

National Apple Day.

At the Jamestown exposition, to be held next year, there will be a special day set aside to be known as Apple day, says the American Fruit and Nut Journal. The national fruit will have a big showing made in its behalf, commensurate with its deserts as the most popular fruit known. The department of congresses and special events has set aside Tuesday, Oct. 15, as National Apple day.

Enjoyable Social St. Pauls Church

A very enjoyable time was spent at the St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church last evening, when the young people's society was entertained by Mrs. Logergren.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a short business meeting, when reports were heard from the president, vice president, secretary and different committees, after which addresses were made by Pastor Carlander, the evangelist Mr. Gundret, and others. Fourteen joined the society.

The members numbering about fifty, then adjourned to the chapel where tables, very prettily decorated by Mrs. Logergren, were covered with plenty of good things to eat.

Music was rendered during the evening by a special chorus which added to the enjoyment of the evening.

After singing a well known hymn all members departed for home.

Mr. Gundret is still preaching each evening and more confess conversion at each meeting. Everyone is welcome to these meetings and as Mr. Gundret preaches in English it is interesting to everyone.

TO THE VOTERS:

Having been intrusted by the citizens for the past two years with the conduct of their executive affairs, I will state, without enumerating, that many have been advanced to that stage of municipal progress, of solving for the present, until such times as increasing needs and changing conditions require their readjustment; others of considerable importance, necessitating large expenditures, are now in progress. Wisdom decrees that the completion of them is best intrusted to those familiar with them as viewed from a business standpoint. If a spirit of confidence has been begotten by the present executive in the efficient, economical and non-discriminating conduct of the business of the city, I respectfully ask again your endorsement.

MEN'S MEETING

The Efficacy Of Prayer And Mission Of Life

Because of the storm the audience at the men's mass meeting on Sunday afternoon at Bethany church was limited to fifty, but there were five speakers and special music and an interesting service.

Meeting opened with songs of praise led by A. D. Albee, with Wendell Luce as organist. A. L. Hayden sang a beautiful solo, E. G. Gay led the Scripture reading, and Rev. Dr. Hardy invoked divine blessing. The Granite City quartette contributed an anthem.

H. B. Williams of Wollaston, the first speaker, spoke of the necessity for prayers; prayers for the church, the city and all parts of the world.

Claude Patch of Quincy Point asked the question,—Does prayer give results? He said he believed it did, and proceeded to show how. Man who wants to succeed must pray.

Rev. A. R. Atwood of the Quincy Point church said one of man's greatest needs is prayer. Success in business was not everything, we need peace of conscience. The spiritual life of many is starving. They need the church of God and the word of God. Come out of life of selfishness and stand for civic righteousness, and God will uphold you.

J. A. Sedgwick, treasurer of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, queried, "Is the young man safe from the fires which threaten him? Recently Quincy has been agitated about fire insurance rates, and the underwriters have made several tests of apparatus, fire alarm, hydrants, etc. God has taken out some insurance in Quincy. He has established christian homes, churches and the Y. M. C. A., but may soon find it necessary to take out new insurance. Christian men should examine themselves and see if they are equipped to solicit men insurance."

Rev. E. A. Chase of the Wollaston Congregational church emphasized the need of united work for individuals. Those with whom we touch elbows.

After a selection by the quartette, Rev. Dr. Hardy offered the benediction.

Mission in Life The Subject

Extremely stormy weather prevented a large attendance Sunday evening at the meeting for men at the Washington Street Congregational church. There was quite a number present, however, who were well repaid.

The speakers were Richard D. Chase, president of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., and Rev. Harry W. Kimball delegate from the Rockland Central Labor Union to the State Federation of Labor.

The meeting opened with a service of song after which Rev. Alfred R. Atwood, the pastor, introduced Mr. Chase.

Mr. Chase said that the Y. M. C. A. was becoming recognized as an arm of the church, working in the same line with the church. He spoke of the latent possibilities that lay dormant in every man There is a mission every man can perform. The temperance vote was one. People are trying to defeat the will of the people on the temperance question. Let a stone be thrown toward those who would defeat the will of the people. Let a stone be thrown toward those who seek to destroy the churches.

The mission of life is obedience, service and inheritance. Let us never forget that which is in us.

Rev. Mr. Kimball said there were three missions in life. The first was to do the work we are called upon to do as faithfully as we can. When we do this we are serving our fellow men all over the world. The time is coming when it shall not be asked of a man to do work he cannot do faithfully and well.

The second is the making of manhood. Life here is for the making of manhood. The making of character. Learn to help make one another. To help our fellow men in ways that are good. Live so that your life makes other men better.

The third is live so that this world may have been a little better because we have lived in it. Many live to get all they can out of the world, but another way was to put into it all you can.

Our mission is to put into the world all we can. To go through the world trying to make it better for men and women to live in. What we need is a few heroic men who have caught the gleam, and are trying to live a better life. Our work is to stand for things that are true and just and do the best we can.

W. F. Cummings School Committee Candidate at Large

Editors of Daily Ledger:

It seems a little unfortunate that Ward Two should this year place in the field a candidate for the School Committee, as it already has two members.

Last year Mr. Newcomb from that ward was elected member-at-large, and now the ward asks that it be given another member-at-large; or, in other words that it be allowed one-third of the entire committee while there are only two members living north of Adams Academy.

It does not seem to an unbiased mind either fair or wise to place one-third of the School Committee in a district containing less than one-sixth of the area of the city and only one-tenth of the pupils, while one-third of the city and over one-fourth of the pupils are represented by only two members.

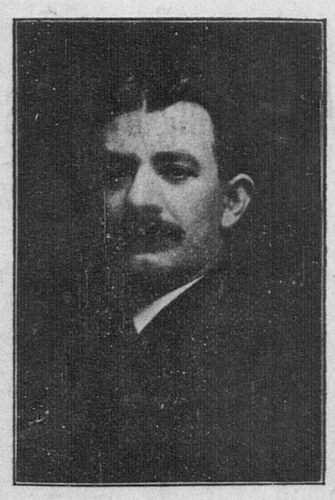

It would seem that the fair minded voters of the entire city must this year concede to the northern part the right to name the candidate-at-large for the School Committee and will so express themselves at the caucuses. Mr. William F. Cummings, the candidate from Ward Six, has shown his interest in public affairs by his years of service as treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. and as an active member of the No-License League.

Sudden Death.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lovejoy of Butler road have the sympathy of the community in the untimely death of their 8-year-old daughter, Gertrude E. Lovejoy, who died early Sunday morning of diphtheria.

The little girl came home from school a few days ago suffering from chills and a sore throat. It was thought to be nothing more than a severe cold and it was not until later that a physician was called. He immediately pronounced the child sick with diphtheria. Everything possible was done but the disease had run so long that it had penetrated the whole system, and it was impossible to save her life. Another daughter is ill with the same disease but i is thought that she will recover.

"NEEDLES IN BEER"

Peculiar Yarn by Connecticut Man Under Arrest

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 12.—George Schusinsky, arrested at the instance of John Koski, charged with living with the latter's wife, tells the authorities here a peculiar story in which he declares that Mrs. Koski has made attempts upon the life of her husband and that Koski had been saved by Schusinski's warning. He calls his arrest a piece of ingratitude on the part of Koski.

According to the authorities, Schusinsky says that at one time Mrs. Koski attempted to poison her husband and that on another occasion she put needles in her husband's beer. He also says that Mrs. Koski wanted him to kill Koski and throw the body into a river, and the warnings of these attempts caused Koski to go away. His arrest followed the husband's return.

Gigantic Theatrical Combination

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The Tribune says: The most gigantic theatrical combination in the world, of which the biggest syndicate now in existence will be but a part, is in process of formation in Chicago. The new combination is to include 350 of the most important theatres in the United States and will be represented in every city from New York to San Francisco, and from Portland to New Orleans, will dictate matters of bookings, tours of all big companies, and in a word, do the theatrical business of the United States, if not the world. Its capital stock will be placed somewhere over $50,000,000.

Wants Ballots Investigated

New York, Nov. 12.—Abraham S. Gilbert, the law partner of Attorney General Mayer and counsel for the candidates on the Republican state ticket below governor, will apply to Supreme Court Justice McLean for an order under which the supreme court may pass upon the question of whether ballots cast in this county at the recent election but marked "void" were really void, and whether ballots marked "protested" shall or shall not be counted. Similar applications will be made under Gilbert's direction in Kings, Queens and Richmond counties.

Switchmen Granted More Pay

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The trouble between the union switchmen and 23 railroads entering Chicago has been finally adjusted and danger of a strike of the 20,000 men has been averted. The switchmen belonging to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen who refused the advance of 3 cents an hour, accepted by the men belonging to the Switchmen's union, reached an agreement with the railroads whereby the brotherhood men are to receive an advance of 4 cents an hour. All other demands made by the men had been settled previously.

Murder In Gotham's Tenderloin

New York, Nov. 12.—In a squalid room in a resort known as the Criterion, in the heart of the "Tenderloin" district, was found the terribly disfigured body of a young mulatto woman. The woman has not been positively identified. Robbery was probably the motive for the crime. The proprietor, the housekeeper of the place and a waiter were held as witnesses.

Mount Culebra Not In Eruption

Denver, Nov. 12.—A press correspondent at Trinidad went to Stonewall, N. M., to investigate the report that Mount Culebra was in a state of eruption. He wires that the report is untrue, that the smoke issuing apparently from the summit of the peak really comes from burning timber on the New Mexico side of the mountain.

King of Norway In England

Portsmouth, Nov. 12.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King Haakon of Norway, Queen Maud and Crown Prince Olaf on board, anchored off Spithead last night. King Haakon and his family will be the guests of King Edward and Queen Alexandra during their stay in England.

Not Seeking Dryden's Seat

Trenton, Nov. 12.—Governor Stokes gave out a statement last night in which he denies that he is a candidate for United States senator to succeed John F. Dryden, whose successor will be elected at the coming session of the legislature.

NEWS IN BRIEF

General Brugere, former commander-in-chief of the French army, will leave Paris shortly for a tour of the world. While in America Brugere will be the guest of President Roosevelt.

Dr. Minot J. Savage, the eminent Unitarian divine of New York, has, by reason of the unsettled condition of his health, both mentally and physically, been placed in a private sanitarium for treatment.

The flagship Ettore Fieramosca of the Italian oceanic squadron, which has been at the Boston navy yard for the past two weeks, has sailed for Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Patrick Hogan, aged 50, a cotton weaver, was killed by an electric car at Lowell, Mass. Motorman Patrick Rourke was held in bonds of $2000 on a charge of manslaughter.

Robert W. Hooper, aged 90, died at Willimantic, Conn. He wound the first spool of thread made in Willimantic and was the first person to glaze thread, having discovered the process by accident.

Mary McDonald, 21 years old, committed suicide at her boarding house at Boston by inhaling illuminating gas. She was unmarrried and was employed in a confectionery store. Despondency is thought to have been the cause of her suicide.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

A man who is always anticipating failure and taking a gloomy view of the future not only works half heartedly himself, but depresses his associates.—Rev. Dr. Frank De Witt Talmage, Presbyterian, Los Angeles, Cal.

Another Name For Discipline.

Difficulties are only another name for discipline. The best men have started life with what appeared like handicaps, which afterward proved to be real helps. The only handicapped boy in America today is the son of the rich man.—Rev. C. B. Mitchell, Methodist, Cleveland, O.

Foe to Society.

The man who for a consideration violates a law to benefit one set of men today will violate it tomorrow to injure that same set of men provided it is profitable for him to do so. When you have corrupted a man you have made him a foe to society.—Rev. G. B. Vosburgh, Baptist, Denver.

Missionary Enterprise.

True missionary enterprise is never from dead level to dead level, but from the heights of God to the quagmires of men. To be most useful in the grime and struggle of life you require a mountain top of the mind, a spiritual sanctuary whereunto you may ofttimes resort.—Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Presbyterian, Pittsburg.

Natural and Spiritual Life.

As God is the author of the natural life, because life cannot come from death, so he is the creator of the spiritual or supernatural life. He sustains the natural life by outward means. So in a similar manner he sustains and perfects the spiritual life by giving to it visible sacraments.—Rev. F. P. Siegfried, Roman Catholic, Philadelphia.

Interest In Foreign Missions.

Christian civilization is most promoted by Christian interest in humanity as a whole. Some men have a contempt for foreign missions, but interest in foreign missions is actually promoting interest in humanity which reacts. The foreign missionary movement is educational and patriotic.—Bishop J. H. Vincent, Methodist, Springfield, Mass.

Dream of Noblest Men.

Permanent and universal peace is the dream of the noblest men. Peace is the child of freedom and righteousness, and these, whether for the individual or for the nation, have been obtained at mighty cost. Whether by the shock of war or by constructive individual processes, hard won freedom and right go before an abiding peace.—Rev. J. H. Haslem, Baptist, Philadelphia.

Voices.

More than sermons in stones, than books in living brooks, voices fill every nook and cranny of the world and speak to the heart and soul of man, to those who have eyes and see, who have ears and hear. There is nothing more glorious in life than the man who is so blessed, for he is of the world's master souls, he is of the prophets and knows what prophetic inspiration truly is.—Rev. Dr. Robert A. Meyer, Rabbi, Brooklyn.

Unselfish Living.

Just try living an unselfish life for a week, striving on every occasion possible to do something for others, and see if you do not have an entirely different conception of life—not so much dread of the day of judgment. Scripture plainly says, "Of that day and hour knoweth no man," and Paul, standing in the midst of the Jewish leaders, raised his hand and said, "God hath appointed a day in which he shall judge the world." We must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, that every one may receive the things done in his body according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.—Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Presbyterian, Pittsburg.

Spending Upward.

You will never know the power, the blessing, the joy of wealth, until you learn to spend upward. We readily recognize the curse of spending downward, the ruin of character and the devastation of the world. But how glorious the blessing of spending upward! "Money answers all things." Yes, in the hands of an enlightened and consecrated personality it can be turned into knowledge, into power, into opporunity, into every form of human comfort and improvement and make the common earth shine with the beauty of holiness. There is truth in the epitaph over the Earl of Devonshire:

What we gave we have;
What we spent we had;
What we left we lost.

Learn to spend upward and make the chivalry of trade outshine the chivalry of arms.—Rev. Dr. N. Luccock, Methodist, St. Louis.

True Idealist Is Practical.

The true idealist is the most practical of them. There are indeed so called idealists who appear to be devoid of good sense. They try to hitch their wagons to stars, forgetting that wagons are made to run upon the earth and carry merchandise and not to float in space gathering star dust. The true idealist is he who does his share every day of the Master's hard work, ashamed of nothing but sin and afraid of nothing but cowardice, serving the city in every possible way for its good, its redemption from crime, poverty, ignorance and filth, from the control of dishonest and selfish men and from the Sunday theater, the gambling den and the saloon. The true idealist will know as much as possible about the city, particularly about its inhabitants. Indeed, one of the characteristics of the New Jerusalem is the consciousness of brotherhood which involves on the part of its citizens mutual acquaintance, respect and sympathy.—Rev. William E. McLennan, Presbyterian, Chicago.

A Story In Four Letters

[Original.]

College student sits in his room smoking and writing letters.

First letter, Percy Walker to his uncle, Samuel Walker:

"My Dear Uncle—I write this my fortnightly letter to you to tell you that I am still doing very well in my classes—studying hard, devoting my whole time to my college duties. I haven't missed a lecture so far this term. You know, I am very fond of athletics, but remembering your advice to be careful about letting sports interfere with my studies I have hung up the racket and the golf stick, contenting myself with poring over books It is very hard now that the spring days are on to see the fellows going out in field costume for practice; but, remembering your valued advice, I resist the temptation.

"Then, too, I have taken advantage of your warnings about drinking and smoking. Cold water is good enough for me, and as for smoking, the smell of tobacco makes me sick.

"I hope you and my aunt continue in your usual good health and that your eyesight has improved. Tell Aunt Caroline that I am taking all the spring medicines she sent me. I am really quite fond of the herb tea, and the liver mixture is doing wonders for me. Tell her that I am heeding her advice not to throw off my overcoat too early in the spring and not to go out on damp ground without my rubbers. The muffler she so kindly sent me at Christmas time I have worn constantly all winter.

"Be assured, my dear uncle, of my affection for you and my aunt and believe me your devoted nephew,

"PERCY."

Second letter, Percy Walker to his fiancee, Miss Ruth Stevens:

"Dearest Ruth—Have just written uncle, and now comes the delight of writing to you. (Stop till I light a pipe.) I have to tell you the glorious news that I am first in winter practice in tennis and have won a place in the university crew. I've had more time for sports this term because I've chosen elective studies that don't interfere—the lectures, I mean—with the hours for practice. I am having a hard time in the spring examinations and for the last week have been 'boning' night and day. I hope to slip through—if my ponies don't go back on me—but regret that the confinement and lack of exercise may 'throw me' in my candidacy for a place in the football team.

"By the bye, I was forgetting to tell you that I gave 'a wine' in my room last week, at which two baskets of champagne were consumed. There were twelve of us, each man drinking two bottles. The gang was too high mucky muck for pipes, so I had to buy a box of cigars. This took my last dollar, and uncle's next check isn't due for two weeks. I wish I dared ask the old rooster for an extra. He'd send it quick enough, but it would give me away. I'm telling him I have only term and hash bills to pay, and he knows my allowance is plenty for that.

"Mind, sweetheart, when you see uncle to tell him that I've taken a prize. It's for singles in tennis, but he'll think it's for a thesis in Greek. And tell Aunt Caroline that I've been invited to take the superintendency of the Sunday school at the Third Presbyterian church. They'll consider me too modest to write them these things and will think all the more of them coming from you. Goodby, lovey. With a billion kisses, your loving

Enter a gang of students to discuss the makeup of the baseball team for the coming season. When they leave the letter writer is about to leave, when, seeing his letters, he puts them in envelopes and hurriedly addresses them. Then he runs after the athletes.

Third letter, Miss Ruth Stevens to Percy Walker:

"Dearest Percy—You naughty boy! You have sent me by mistake a letter to your uncle. (Great Scott, I must have sent her letter to uncle!) Oh, how I laughed when I read it! (For heaven's sake, it's no laughing matter!) You ought to be ashamed of yourself. You 'devoting your whole time to your studies!' 'Cold water good enough for you!' 'The smell of tobacco makes you sick!' Then those 'spring medicines' your aunt sent you You know you never wear an overcoat or rubbers and seldom a hat.

"I think you'd better go back to school and learn to write. It was all I could do to read your letter. You must be more careful. Some day you'll be sending one of your letters to me to your uncle."

Soliloquy: That's just what I have done. Ruin stares me in the face. Uncle will stop the funds, and I'll have to leave college. And that when I've just got where I wanted to get on the teams. Well, goodby, alma mater. I go to some sweatshop or other, where I'll have to come down to fingering other people's filthy lucre.

Fourth letter, Samuel Walker to his nephew:

"Dear Percy—Yours of the —th inst. received. Your handwriting is so bad that I can't read it. I suppose it is a request for money, so I inclose a check for $100. Your affectionate UNCLE.

"P. S.—Don't go out of your room if you can help it on these damp spring mornings. There is a great deal of pneumonia about."

Soliloquy: By thunder! What an escape! HOWARD B. TURNER.

"BOSS" POLITICIAN

Secretary Bonaparte Thinks It Would Be a Good Idea

LEADER FOR EACH PARTY

Each State and City Should Have "Legalized Boss" Elected at a Primary and Clothed With Full Nominating Powers

Baltimore, Nov. 12.—In an interview published in The News, Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte suggested the establishment of a legalized "boss" in each political party, in each of the states and cities, the "boss" to be empowered to select the candidates for the various elective offices, thereby doing away with nominating conventions. Declaring that he was speaking seriously, Bonaparte said:

"It is hard indeed, very hard, often impossible, to get the men who are fit for public office to become candidates. Somebody has to do a great deal of work in finding the right man for each place and inducing him to run for it. Unfit candidates can be secured by the bushel, but public life in this country involves such grave sacrifices of both inclination and interest for men of character, ability and high standing in the community that they have to be driven into it by a sort of compulsion, through appeals to their sense of public duty in some cases of party loyalty.

"Now, by a 'legalized boss,' I mean an individual authorized on behalf of one of our parties to choose all candidates of that party for elective offices within a designated territory—to do intelligently, deliberately and carefully the work which is supposed to be done by nominating conventions or 'Crawford county' primaries, but which would be done by such agencies so thoughtlessly, hurriedly and negligently that it is done usually, in fact, by the local boss or ring in secret.

"Of course, every facility should be afforded for making independent nominations, whether within the organized parties or without, so that all citizens who may be dissatisfied for whatever reason with the regular nominations may be able to vote effectively according to their convictions."

The reporter asked how Bonaparte would choose his proposed "legalized boss?"

"He ought to be elected annually," said the secretary, "by the legal voters of his party, at a primary held under all the sanctions of law and at which only this one office, or rather position, should be filled. Each voter would have only to say whom he considered the best man in his party to be constituted a nominating convention of one for all the elective offices within the state, city or county, as the case might be.

"Perhaps it might be wise to provide that the nominator or legalized boss I have suggested should be himself disqualified to hold public office, but of this I am not sure. There are certainly two sides to the question."

Strife Among Cuban Liberals

Havana, Nov. 12.—A serious split has occurred in the ranks of the Liberal party, due to the belief of the more radical element, largely composed of negroes, that Alfredo Zayas is too friendly with the Americans. The leader of the Radical faction, Jose M. Gomez, is now a candidate for the presidency and is believed to have the support of many Liberals who formerly regarded Zayas as the only logical candidate of the party by virtue of his services in organizing the recent revolution and obtaining the support of the American peace commissioners.

Shot Sweetheart and Killed Self

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 12.—Clarence Ilgenfietz, aged 20, shot his sweetheart, Mary Kutz, and then committed suicide. Ilgenfietz had been paying attention to the girl for several months, but because they were first cousins Miss Kutz refused to marry him. Last night Ilgenfietz lay in wait for the girl and her grandmother as they were returning home from church. As they passed he shot the girl twice. Ilgenfietz then sent a bullet through his brain.

Woman an Alleged Incendiary

New York, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Estelle Bristol, a young negress, is charged with attempting to burn a large five-story tenement house on Saturday night. The other tenants of the structure discovered the fire before it had gained any headway. The police say that Mrs. Bristol told them after her arrest that she had started the fire because she "wanted to see the people run out."

Killed by Stab From Hat Pin

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 12.—Thomas Dougherty, a prominent young man, died at the state hospital here as the result of being stabbed in the heart with a hatpin by an unknown woman. Dougherty refused to make any statement as to the identity of the person who caused the fatal injury, but intimated that he was to blame.

Mysterious Disease Appears

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 12.—A state of panic exists in Marfa over 11 deaths that have occurred from a strange and malignant disease that recently made its appearance on the Mexican border and spread rapidly to Marfa. Local physicians have been unable to diagnose the disease and have appealed to the state department.

PARIS RUMOR DENIED

Report Had It That King Alfonso Had Been Assassinated

Paris, Nov. 12.—There was a persistent rumor in circulation here last night that King Alfonso of Spain had been assassinated upon his arrival in Madrid from Malaga.

Madrid, Nov. 12.—A sensation was caused here when the rumor became current that King Alfonso had been assassinated. The authorities promptly branded the rumor as without foundation, but still the report got widely circulated and obtained credence in many quarters.

A rumor of a plot to kill King Alfonso was published in the morning papers of Madrid of Oct. 23. According to this report a stout wire had been fixed across the high road at a point which the king would have to pass on his way back to Madrid in an automobile. The wire was found shortly before the king's automobile was due and was removed.

Theatre Curtain Caught Fire

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 12.—Two persons were seriously injured and a number of women and children bruised in a panic caused by a blaze from a moving picture machine at the Franklin Street theatre. A hot carbon dropped into a basket of celluloid films. Flames sprang up to the ceiling and the curtain caught fire. The audience made a rush for the exits. Firemen and policemen finally quieted the excited people, after every seat in the theatre had been demolished during the rush for the doors. The fire was quickly extinguished and the money damage was small.

Exiled From Russia

Odessa, Nov. 12.—According to advices received here from Yekaterinoslav and Kishinev, 104 men were yesterday sent into exile for minor political offenses. Local governors are dismissing officials for refusing to leave the ranks of the Constitutional Democratic party and are promising promotion, with the alternative of banishment, if the officials will attach themselves to parties friendly to the government.

Strong Baseball Team Promised

New York, Nov. 12.—John R. Taylor, president of the Boston American Baseball club, has arrived in New York from Europe. He says that plans are under way which ought to result in giving Boston for the next season one of the strongest clubs in the American league and that developments may be expected at the meeting of the American league on Dec. 12.

Bought "Lunches" For Voters

Baltimore, Nov. 12.—Congressman-elect Jackson, replying to charges that he had spent money lavishly to secure his election, admitted that money had been spent for votes, but denied that he personally put out any money except a "dollar to each of several men who came to his office after and not before voting and who wanted a little lunch."

A Diminishing Birth Rate

Paris, Nov. 12.—According to the vital statistics for 1905, the births in France that year numbered 807,292, showing a decrease of 10,937 from the total of 1904. The number of marriages show a slight increase over 1904, but the decrease in birth apparently arises from the aversion of the French people to raise large families.

Voting on Strike Question

New York, Nov. 12.—Whether or not there shall be a strike of the firemen along the Erie railroad system because of the refusal of the officials of this company to grant the men's demands for reduced working hours is now being voted upon. The result of the vote will probably not be known until Tuesday.

Raiders Intimidating Farmers

Cape Town, Nov. 12.—Advices received here from Upington, on the Orange river, say that the Boer raider Ferreira and his followers continue to intimidate the farmers of that region and have captured some traders and a few other persons. The raiders were 30 miles north of Upington Saturday.

Russian Soldiers Get Warning

St. Petersburg, Nov. 12.—An imperial order has been issued forbidding soldiers of all ranks to become members of political associations of any party whatsoever, attend political meetings or take part in agitations against the government. Violations of the order will be severely punished.

Quieted by Cavalry

New Orleans, Nov. 12.—Dispatches from Rio Grande City, Tex., where Mexicans attacked Texas rangers, say that the arrival of United States cavalry there subdued the panic which has existed since election day, but that many people are still cautious about venturing into the streets.

King Leopold Has Lumbago

Brussels, Nov. 12.—King Leopold is suffering from lumbago. In spite of the advice of his physicians, the king declines to go to Wiesbaden because of the approaching reopening of parliament, when an important debate regarding the Congo independent state is expected.

Snow In Empire State

Ballston, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A heavy storm has covered the ground with six inches of snow. The storm is general in this vicinity and has delayed suburban trolley traffic.

Trifles In the Fancy Work Line Suitable For Presents.

A veritable ever ready friend in need is a reel for holding baby ribbon. When completed it resembles a very large spool of cotton. The starting point is to cut two circles in cardboard one inch larger in diameter than the roll of baby ribbon. These are covered on both sides with any material you happen to have that is pretty and appropriate, although linen on the outside and china silk on the inside are nicest. Holes are pierced, through which the scissors are slipped. The other end holds a bodkin in a similar loop. The reel is an exceedingly compact little trifle, and there is no hunting for the right shade of ribbon or the implements to use with it.

BABY RIBBON REEL.

Pretty Book Covers.

A pretty cover for a book or magazine is always an acceptable small gift and need never be an expensive item.

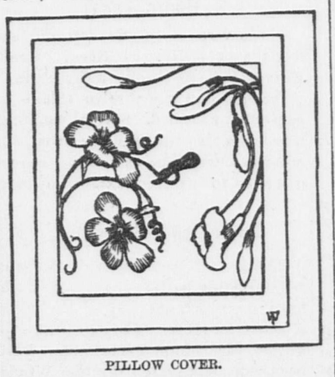

First get a stiff piece of cardboard and cut it the exact size of the front and back of the book it is intended for, not, of course, including the back piece which holds the pages together. You must now select a material to cover the cardboard with, and of course any work in the shape of embroidery or painting must be done before the stuff is stretched over the cardboard. You have endless scope for your decorative capabilities. When linen is used a conventional design worked in flax thread is most effective; silk and satin display embroidery to perfection; figured materials can have their patterns outlined in gold or silver thread, and the covers de luxe can be painted with delicate sprays of flowers or small fruit.

Cut the material nearly an inch larger than the book when it is open and in cutting allow for the back piece. Now fold it over the cardboard covers and stick down with glue or photograph paste and remember to notch the material at intervals, as it lies better if this is done.

When the covers are quite dry take a piece of silk or sarcenet and sew it carefully around the edges of the cover and where the cardboard ends at the back piece stitch the sarcenet right through very neatly to the outer material. You must now put a piece of ribbon to the top and bottom of the back piece (to tie through the middle of the book covered), and you can edge all around with narrow silk cord if desired.

Pillow Cover.

The pillow cover in the illustration has a design of nasturtiums in all their exquisite natural shading and so should only be attempted by skilled fingers. The material is deep cream heavy satin cloth, with a conventional border in golden browns and greens, forming a charming background for the spray of flowers, pale yellow shading to deep orange, and the tender green of the leaves and stems.

PILLOW COVER.

Pet Deer Gored and Stamped Wealthy Owner to Death

SPECIAL PRIDE OF HERD

Flour Exporter Went Into the Woods on His Estate to Investigate Shooting by Hunters --Attacked by Big Buck

New York, Nov. 12.—It has been definitely established at Montclair, N. J., that a pet buck deer killed Herbert Bradley, the wealthy flour exporter, whose body was found Saturday night on his property there. Deputy County Physician of Orange found that Bradley's death was due primarily to the deer's ripping open an artery in his hip. The horns of the buck, the largest one belonging to Bradley and his special pride, were found yesterday to be covered with blood. Examination of Bradley's body showed that the animal also attacked him with his hoofs.

Mr. Bradley returned Saturday from a business trip to the west and was told that a great deal of shooting by hunters was going on in woods near his estate. He started out to see if any hunters had broken into his grounds, and it was while investigating that the buck attacked him.

Mr. Bradley's place of business was in this city, but his home is in a picturesque spot between West Orange and Montclair. He had done much toward developing the natural beauties of the section, and on his place, which is thickly wooded, is a large mansion and a conservatory. He was an ardent horticulturist. In his park were 15 deer of the Virginia species. All the deer had been quite tame and Bradley was very fond of them.

Mr. Bradley's failure to return home to dinner, after his having set out to see if his property had been traspassed upon by hunters, alarmed his wife, who sent the coachman to find him. A search of the place did not reveal the owner, and other servants and neighbors then engaged in a thorough search for the man.

They discovered his body in the most remote part of his grounds. He had been dead several hours. His legs were considerably lacerated and his clothes were torn and disordered. A physician expressed the opinion that a ruptured blood vessel was the probable cause of Bradley's death. The servants and neighbors recalled that the buck had been in an excited state all day, which they attributed to the frequent discharge of guns about the place. Bradley was 41 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Murdered by a Burglar

Pittsburg, Nov. 12.—Henry F. Smith, 25 years old, son of a wealthy business man of this city, was shot twice and almost instantly killed at 4 o'clock Sunday morning by a burglar whom he surprised in the dining room of his father's residence. The crime, following little more than a week after the murder of James A. McMillen, another wealthy business man, has aroused the city. That a desperate battle took place between Smith and the burglar is evident from the disordered condition of the dining room and kitchen of the Smith home. No clue to the burglar has been discovered.

Germany and Vatican at Odds

Rome, Nov. 12.—The situation between the Vatican and Germany over the Polish question is becoming daily more critical, and is even threatening to endanger the existing good relations between them. Germany insists that the Vatican must help it in repressing what it considers to be rebellion in Poland, while the Poles are counting upon the assistance of the pope. The pope will be advised in this matter by the bishop of Breslau and the archbishop of Cologne, who are expected here shortly.

Sailors' Terrible Experience

Halifax, Nov. 12.—After 72 hours in an open boat in a terrific gale and a hard battle with mountainous seas, Captain Williams and crew of seven men of the barkentine Marion C. were picked up by the steamer Farmand and landed here. All the men were badly used up from their experiences, their limbs being frightfully swollen from exposure and sitting in cramped positions in their 20-foot boat. Two of them had to be removed to a hospital on arrival here.

New Move by Newfoundland

Montreal, Nov. 12.—According to information received here from private sources the wholesale arrests of fishermen engaged on United States fishing vessels in violation of the bait act will be made tomorrow by order of the Newfoundland government. Details as to the arrests are not obtainable here.

Big Haul by Sneak Thief

Syracuse, Nov. 12.—Some time last evening, presumably while the family was at dinner, a sneak thief entered the residence of Robert Dey and looted a jewel box of diamonds and jewelry. The most valuable article taken is a diamond necklace valued at $3000.

Miners' Wages Increased

Hazelton, Pa., Nov. 12.—The wages of the anthracite miners for the current month will be 7 percent above the $4.50 basis. This is 3 percent higher than the October wages and is high as the rate ever was under the sliding scale.

John A. McDonald, who was fined and sentenced at the district court Saturday for violation of the liquor law at Weymouth, has a long criminal record, according to the report made to Chief Fitzgerald of Weymouth by the bureau of criminal investigation of Boston.

Golf Enthusiasm At Wollaston

In its review of Massachusetts golf the Boston Transcript says of the Wollaston club which plays at Montclair:

Wollaston never had a more deep-rooted golf enthusiasm than has been shown this season. The membership of 250 is full and the leading members of the club are bent upon putting through a series of changes and improvements which eventually will make the Wollaston course one of the best in the country.

Among the improvements already accomplished is the cutting away of the hill at the thirteenth hole, eliminating this blind hole, while the play at this point has been lengthened by setting back the tee. A trap bunker extends across the hillside approach to the seventeenth green, necessitating a clear-cut second shot on the approach, instead of anything good enough to reach the top of the hill and run down to the green. By this charge the medium driver hesitates between the use of his mid iron or cleek for his approach, whereas before he could confidently take the latter and be sure of reaching the green on the roll if not on the carry.

Experiments are being tried on new locations for teeing grounds, greens and hazards, and suggestions are accepted in the spirit in which they are given from professionals or leading amateurs visiting the links, as to the possibilities of improvements. Nothing radical will be attempted, but the contemplated changes will come along slowly but surely. It is hoped, among other things, that the clubhouse will be relocated, which would give a grand hole for the third, with the tee just beyond the west end of the clubhouse as it now stands, and the green way back in the hollow behind the fourth tee, where there are swamp land and reeds now. The tee to the fourth could be set back too, far enough to necessitate a carry of 130 to 140 yards across the pond, with a shorter tee for those players not confident in their abilities to get across.

The club tournaments at the Wollaston Clubs were well patronized all the season. About 150 of the 250 members used the links more or less regularly, while any Saturday or holiday found from forty to fifty players out. Financially the club never was stronger.

Cause of Appendicitis.

Medical men who have made a special study of the causes of that much dreaded disease—Appendicitis, have reached the conclusion that the majority of cases are caused by intestinal worms.

A prominent member of the medical profession—the renowned Prof. Blanchard, of Paris, asserts, and his assertion is backed by Prof. Metchinkoff of the Pasteur Institute—that appendicitis is undoubtedly caused by worms, and says: "A surgical operation for Appendicitis is absolutely unnecessary and should never be performed unless some hard substance, such as a cherry stone, has been accidentally swallowed by the patient."

Internal cleanliness is necessary to perfect health and is fatal to worms, not only worms but also the conditions in the stomach and intestines that make it possible for worms to exist and breed there, are eradicated by True's Pin Worm Elixir, which has been sold ever since 1851.

Worms attack the mucous membrane in the intestines, often cause serious wounds and eventually result in Appendicitis.

Dr. True's Elixir not only cleanses the mucous membrane but goes further and cleanses the blood, giving the system a good foundation—after the worms have been gotten rid of—for building up constitutional health.

Wollaston Is Prepared for Shock

Editor of the Quincy Ledger:

In an issue of your paper of recent date, you refer to the shock to Wollaston people, "seeing a trailer follow the regular trolley cars on Sunday." How much greater shock would it be to the same people to see the same number of cars and men used in giving us fifteen minute service, (what we ought to have) especially when a representative of the company says track turnouts will allow such service. It is very evident to the travelling public that such service should be given with the cars so well filled. We are prepared for a shock so let it come.

Secret Trials of The Submarines

Residsnts along the shores of Quincy bay have watched with interest the work of the submarines Cuttle Fish and Octopus which are being held off Peddock island near Houghs Neck. These are two of the vessels of this type deing built by the Electric Boat Co. at the Fore River works for the United States goverment.

The submarines are accompanied on their trial trips by the steam yacht Starling. A measured course has been laid out off Peddocks island, and the movements of the cigar shaped engines of war are being watched through glasses by many from Houghs Neck.

The vessels are being put through a number of evolutions, such as diving and sailing under water and the greatest secrecy is maintained as to what they are doing, no vessels or persons being permitted to come near where they are.

The government now has twelve of this class of vessels, eight of which are already in commission.

American Army Excels All but Holland and Bavaria

DEATH RATE IS LOWERED

American Exceeds All Other Armies In Alcoholism and Dysentery--Disaster to Medical Department In Case of War

Washington, Nov. 12.—The report upon the work of the medical department of the army by Surgeon General O'Reilly, which has just been made public at the war department, goes with great detail into that service during the calendar year 1905 and also compares the health of the different armies of the world, as far as possible, in view of the different conditions in each army.

The United States and Great Britain are the only countries whose statistics include that part of the army serving outside of the home country. Many of the countries have a low death rate because their sick are promptly discharged or retired and die out of the service instead of on the sick report.

The highest rate of admission to the sick report is held by the Dutch army, whose average is 13.31 per 1000 men, with the American army ranking second with 12.95, and the Russian army holding the lowest rate of 8.48 per 1000 men.

The British army ranks first in the death rate, with 7.13 deaths per 1000 men, the American army having the next highest, 6.28. The Prussian army has the lowest rate, 2 per 1000 men.

An important factor in judging the relative healthfulness of the different armies is the average duration of each case of sickness, the American army, according to their standard, excelling all others except the Dutch and Bavarian. With regard to special disease the admission rates in the American army were better than in most other armies in the following instances: Bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, tuberculosis, erysipelas, sunstroke, relapsing fever, scarlatina and trachoma. The American army, however, exceeded all other armies in alcoholism and dysentery.

The surgeon general states that the death rate was much better than for the previous year, there being 388 deaths from all causes, equivalent to 6.28 per 1000, as compared with 6.75 for the previous year, and 7.16 for the six-year period.

There was an increase in the discharges for disability, which numbered 1484, or at the rate of 25 per 1000 men, as compared with 22.9 for the preceding year. This increase is accounted for by the new system of recruiting, many men now being discharged after enlistment who would formerly have been rejected before enlistment.

As a cause of death tuberculosis led with a rate of 1.68, a slight increase as compared with the previous year; pneumonia was second.

In a chapter devoted to recruiting, the report shows that the proportion of foreign born white recruits was slightly larger than last year, 146.12 per 1000, as against 140.32 for 1904. As the result of the reduction of the minimum age for enlistment from 21 years to 18, there resulted an enlistment of 1270 men under 20 years of age.

A comparison of the health of the negro troops with that of the white troops is given in the report and, with the exception of the death rate, all the other rates were lower for the negro than for the white troops.

In speaking of the health of the troops in the Philippines, the report says that all the rates except the death rate for disease were lower than in 1904. Tuberculosis alone caused nearly 50 percent of the discharges and more than 20 percent of the deaths from disease. The death rate total from disease was much higher among the Filipinos. Undue prevalence among the Filipinos of tuberculosis and beri-beri is given as the explanation for this.

Surgeon General O'Reilly states that the medical department is very badly in need of officers and that unless congress comes to its assistance it will be impossible for the department to reach a high degree of efficiency or to escape a lamentable breakdown on the occurrence of war. He says that it should not be postponed until war is imminent, as it requires years of time for the selection and training of medical officers.

Protest Is Unavailing

Rome, Nov. 12.—A committee from the city of Terni came to Rome to protest against the placing of an order for armor plate for an Italian man-of-war with the Midvale Steel company of Pennsylvania. Premier Giolitti explained that the government was desirous of protecting and favoring national production, but not against the interest of the state, and that national production must put itself in condition to withstand foreign competition.

Shafter Has Pneumonia

Bakersfield, Cal., Nov. 12.—With the doctors having given up hope, Major General Shafter, U. S. A., retired, is making a heroic struggle against death at the ranch of his son-in-law, 20 miles from Bakersfield. For six days the veteran has been confined to bed, but not until Friday was it known to the attending physicians that acute pneumonia was sapping the life of the patient.

PROMPT WORK GOOD WORK

By IZOLA FORRESTER

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas

Sue Varian pulled up the bay mare short in the middle of the road and stared at the objects in the shade of the maples. There were two—that is, two as main points of interest. One was a large red automobile. The other was a young man lying comfortably on the front seat of the red automobile, fast asleep. Incidentally, even to the lay eye of inexperience, there was unmistakably something the matter with the red automobile. It was lopsided, and the front part—Sue didn't know the technical term—but the main front part appeared to be dislocated. It looked like a toy tin auto that had been stepped on.

But there was nothing the matter with the young man. He was sleeping peacefully, calmly, his knees elevated tentwise, his arms folded like a slumbering brave in effigy on his breast, and Sue laughed softly to herself and looked up and down the road.

It was deserted. Between 6 and 7 hardly any one ever passed along the shore road. It was the dinner hour up at the inn. And people who knew what they were about never took the shore road, anyway, not with red automobiles. It was a short cut, of course, to the inn, but primarily—and legally—it was a private road leading to the Varian estate, and to Hartley Varian's mind the only blot on the fair face of nature in the summer time were summer boarders and red automobiles.

Suddenly the young man moved restlessly. Mosquitoes were plentiful in the shade of the maples. He sighed, opened his eyes, caught sight of the bay mare and neat black road cart and sat up.

"Has he got back?"

The question was one of dazed concern. Sue returned his stare with grave interest.

"I don't know what you mean. You have had some accident?"

"Some accident!" The young man became troubled and explosive. "We came mighty near killing ourselves and smashing the machine to splinters over that—that—rope. Didn't you see the rope?"

"A rope?" Miss Varian's tone was mild and sympathetic.

"Stretched across the road on purpose, and we rode bang into it. Wilson, that's the chauffeur, has gone somewhere to get help. We missed the road a few miles back."

"Were you hurt?"

"Just a little jolted. I presume the owner of the rope hoped for funerals"—

"There was a funeral here a few days ago," interposed Miss Varian gently. "That is why the rope was put up, I believe, to turn back any stray autos and prevent any more funerals. A red one ran over a calf"—

"Calf?"

"It was a pet calf," resumed Miss Varian firmly, "and it was with its mother. It had a perfect right to ramble along this road and automobiles haven't. It's a private road. Didn't you read the sign on the stone gate posts as you came in?"

"The sign said simply: 'No Trespassing. Tramps and Dogs Keep Out.' I'm neither a tramp nor a dog, so I came in."

"Well, the rope wasn't stretched for a tramp or a dog."

The trespasser was silent for the first time. Climbing out of his machine, he strode over to the cart and looked up at the girl in it. She was young, about seventeen, he thought. Her waist was a white linen boyish affair that a very young person might be expected to wear, with plain turn down collar and short sleeves. The white linen skirt was short, too—ankle length. He could see the low heeled tan oxfords. And her hair was braided and wound around her head like a misplaced aureole that had slipped down. Worse than all, she was laughing at him. He knew it when he saw her eyes.

When he spoke again it was with a less obvious reference to his own wrongs.

"Can you tell me where I am?"

"Seven and a half miles from Glenmore. You missed the main road about two miles back. This leads to the Varian house."

"But that's where I want to go!" exclaimed the young man. "I thought Wilson was making for the inn. I am bound for Varian's place."

"Then why did you come in an automobile? Don't you know Mr. Varian personally?"

"Haven't seen him for years. He must be a jolly old beggar to judge from the rope—real sweet, neighborly disposition, hasn't he?"

"I think he was perfectly right and justified," said Miss Varian, with sudden haughty defiance. "It was the dearest little calf, and it belonged to me."

The young man began to smile, smile in a gradual dominance of the situation. It was a smile to resent, because it showed premeditated triumph and foreknowledge. But it improved him. Even with the dust of the road overlaying the tan of his face and the general disheveled condition of his makeup the smile was frank and friendly and altogether desirable.

"I'll bet forty-seven dollars and two cents that you're Susie," he said happily.

Miss Varian tucked in her side locks deftly, loftily. They were darling side locks, curly, tantalizing wisps of loose sunshine that knew their business and escaped from the side comb whenever there was a propitious moment.

"My first name is Suzanne," she said.

"No, sir, it isn't; it's Susie, and your hair used to be red. Remember the day you climbed our wall and tried to get up in the big apple tree after a blackbird's nest I told you was there? And your foot caught, and you tumbled down, and I had to climb up and take your shoe off before you could get your foot out of the cleft in the trunk. Do you remember, Miss Susie Freshie?"

He was laughing now, laughing wickedly, joyously. Miss Varian blushed, hesitated, caught the merry gaze of the brown eyes of the trespasser and laughed too.

"I remember. You did use to call me that, didn't you?"

"And it fits you yet," he retorted calmly. "Any one who'd sit and gloat over a poor stranded, wrecked devil for the sake of an idiotic calf is nothing but a fresh kid. I'm going to ride home with you, Sue. Sit over on the other side and give me those reins."

"I shall drive"— began Sue resolutely, but the reins were taken from her.

Down the road a figure was coming, and they waited. It was Wilson, the chauffeur.

"It's all right, Bob," he called. "I saw the old man and fixed it up with him. He says to come on up to the house, and he'll phone to Glenmore for some one to fix the machine."

"Well, you'd better stay and watch it until you hear from Glenmore, Wilson," said Bob Morrison kindly. "I'll hurry ahead with Miss Varian."

Wilson climbed wearily into the automobile and watched the road cart out of sight. Miss Varian was silent. It was eight years since Bob Morrison had left Greyrocks school, just eight years since his mother had died and the great old house up on the bluff had been closed up. She had missed her neighbors. So had her father. Greyrocks and The Maples were the last of the old estates along the shore to hold out against the encroachment of summer hotels. She stole a side glance at the figure beside her, knowing how warm his welcome would be at the house in spite of the red automobile.

"Caught you peeking," laughed Bob, looking down at her and swinging the bay mare easily around the last curve. "Why don't you say you're glad I'm home?"

"We heard you were going to Europe after you left college," she said.

"Well, I'm not," he retorted deliberately. "Dad's had about enough city whirl, and I'm going to take this place and settle down here at Greyrocks—that is, if my neighbors treat me right."

"The rope wasn't for neighbors," said Sue slowly. "Just for trespassers. And anyway a neighbor would know the way, the cross lot path over the wall, past the big apple tree. That's the way neighbors pass from Greyrocks to The Maples."

"We'll tear down the wall and travel cross lots every day, won't we, Suzanne Susie Sue?"

He was laughing, but there was an undercurrent of serious intent that brought the quick warm color to Sue's face. She wondered if he was thinking of the last time they had traveled cross lots, the day he had left for school, and at the old stone wall he had kissed her goodby and snipped off a lock of her hair with his pocketknife.

Bob shifted the reins to his left hand and reached for his inside pocket. From a small Russia leather bill book he took a bit of curly red hair with a piece of black thread, boy fashion.

"It was red those days," he said thoughtfully, and Sue said never a word.

"I hope there isn't any trespassing sign on the apple tree," he told the bay mare's ears.

"Neighbors aren't trespassers," said Sue softly, and he slipped the red curl back in the bill book as they drew up before The Maples. It was his welcome home.

Sending Home the "Bores."

In South Africa candles are used for lighting purposes in the homes, and when a young Boer maiden has gentlemen visitors the mother sticks a pin in the candle, and when it has burned to the pin the callers understand that it is time for their departure. Mrs. Early, a society matron of Washington, recently made a visit to the Transvaal and was so impressed with the custom of the Boers that she determined to introduce it into her own home. Consequently the electric lights were removed and candles substituted in the drawing room. Mr. Staylate, a frequent though not always welcome caller, was one of the first visitors to call after the inauguration of the new custom. He witnessed the placing of the pin in the candle by Mrs. Early and after she had gone ventured to inquire:

"Why, Miss Early, does your mother stick a pin in the candle?"

"Oh," responded the young woman, with an air of apparent innocence, "mother learned that in South Africa as a way of sending home the Boers."—Harper's Weekly.

A Blade of Grass.

As an English writer has written: "Whenever you can find a single blade of grass, however small, there you stand face to face with the mystery of life and all the responsibilities of existence. It is of more interest than many of the stars, for, if astronomy is right, some stars are ceaselessly burning, and therefore, beautiful as they are from a distance, life upon them (in the sense in which we understand life) is impossible. The roots of the humblest blade of grass go down to the beginning of life in the world, and its tip points to the sky. If you should chance to find a blade of grass withering in a rocky place, carry it a little water for the sake of the thoughts that spring from it."

HOUSEMAIDS' SCHOOL

Italian Banker's Unique Scheme to Solve Servant Problem.

TO BRING OVER GIRLS FROM ITALY

Cesare Conti of New York Purposes to Train Them In American Ways In a House In Italy Fitted Up Like Modern American Home—Graduates to Be Brought Here and Placed In Special Home.

Of the making of schemes for the solution of the domestic service problem there is no end, and most of them inspire little hope in the breast of the housewife, but when a man, and a prominent business man at that, turns his attention to the subject she may perhaps begin to take heart of grace, says the New York Tribune. The man is Cesare Conti, an Italian banker in New York, and he is now over in Italy, the country from which he purposes to bring his recruits, making arrangements for the carrying out of his plans. He hopes to interest the Italian government in the scheme and also some of the wealthy and influential women of Italy.

At the present time the Italian peasant girl rarely goes into domestic service, either in the United States or in her own country. Only 25 per cent of the Italian immigrants are women, and these are either wives with houses of their own to keep or they are sent for by relatives to go into factories. When the Italian girl does go into domestic service in the United States it is among her own people, where she finds conditions something like those to which she has been accustomed in Italy. The American house, with its furnace, its electricity and other mechanical contrivances, would strike terror to her soul. Even the American breakfast, Mr. Conti says, would revolt her, and, moreover, she is by nature so timid and conservative that even American wages, so large as to seem almost mythical to her in her own country, would rarely lure her of her own initiative into the American home.

Mr. Conti purposes to overcome these difficulties by training the Italian girl to American ways in her own country and then bringing her to America to be placed in a carefully selected home. He purposes to select or build a house in Italy similar in arrangement and fittings to the American home, with gas, electricity, running water and all modern American conveniences. This house will be furnished entirely in the American style, and one floor will be arranged as a flat. Here American instructors in domestic science will teach Italian girls how to cook and wash and wait on table in the American way, and a short course of instruction in English will prepare them for intercourse with the American butcher, baker and candlestick maker as well as with their mistress.

Mr. Conti will meet the entire initial expense of the scheme, and he is sure that a sufficient number of persons in the United States and in Italy will be enough interested in the undertaking to keep it running.

The course will cover about nine months, and as soon as the first graduates are ready to come over some institution will be selected on this side of the water to shelter them when they arrive, find places for them, care for them in sickness and befriend them generally while they are strangers in a strange land. This institution must, it is said, be a convent, as no other would inspire an Italian woman with such confidence.

THOUGHT CLEARING HOUSE

Institution at Chicago For Acquiring Essence of Thoughts.

An international thought clearing house, where the people may have their doubtful thoughts examined, condensed, desiccated, stretched, ironed and returned in good order, was recently established at the closing session of the World New Thought federation convention in Chicago, says a special dispatch from that city to the New York World.

The entire world is invited to submit its thoughts to the federation for analysis, so any citizen may send any stray "thinks" he may hold on any subject, and they will be cheerfully received and elucidated.

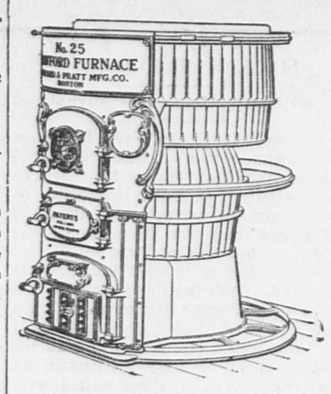

"In other words," explained one of the delegates, "we want a national center where thought may be boiled down to the essence. Many persons have valuable thoughts and fancies that flit through their minds at times over which they have no control. With the thoughts come bewildering emotions. It is these phenomena that we wish to endeavor to explain, and there will be no better way than to make the new thought federation a clearing house or center for these undefined thoughts. Amid the silence and great thought influence of the members we believe that many lines of thought now unexplained will be brought to life."

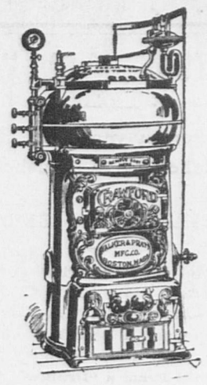

Russian Army May Dress Like Ours.

The Russian military authorities are considering the adoption of khaki uniforms, the czar having been especially interested in one recently worn by an American army representative at St. Petersburg, says the New York World. The military authorities are also considering American accouterments, including web cartridge belts and cavalry saddles, with a view to their adoption.

Special Performance.

A series of special performances during the coming winter to be known as "Actors' Nights" begins this week at the Castle Square Theatre with a complimentary testimonial to Miss Thais Lawton. It is not in the nature of a benefit performance, but rather a sort of "evening at home" in which the actor or actress will welcome the friends who care to testify their appreciation by their attendance. A card-bowl is placed in the lobby and all patrons who wish to "leave cards" for the host of the evening my be sure that their cards will reach their destination and be welcomed as an evidence of friendly interest. On "Miss Lawton's Night" all the members of the company, the attaches of the theatre and the hosts of friends of the talented leading woman of the company united in doing her honor. Miss Lawton, though a comparative stranger, has won golden opinions by her splendid work and even in the few weeks in which she has been here she has made many friends. The second Actor's Night will be announced later.

NOT AN HALLUCINATION

Burns and Shock on Operating Table Caused Woman's Death

New Haven, Nov. 12.—In the death certificate of Mrs. Sophia Hoffmeister, wife of a farmer of Hamden, filed at the town clerk's office by Medical Examiner Bartlett, the cause of death is given as accidental burning.

It is stated that Mrs. Hoffmeister went to a local hospital to be operated upon. While on the operating table, it is said, the patient, who was under the influence of an anaesthetic, rose to a sitting posture and complained that she was being burned on the back. The surgeons, it is further stated, in the belief that the woman had an hallucination, replaced her in prostrate position and administered more ether. The operation was performed, but the woman died. Coroner Mix investigated the case and found no criminal intent.

No further particulars of the case are given, but it is understood that in order to keep up the patient's temperature heat was applied to the patient's body during the operation, and, according to the certificate, the heat produced burns and subsequent shock.

Husband Fought In Revolution

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 12.—Esther S. Damon, said to be the only surviving widow of a soldier of the Revolutionary war, died at her home in Plymouth Union at the age of 93 years. She was married in 1835, when she was 21 years old, to Noah Damon, who was then 75 years of age. Damon served through the Revolutionary war, having enlisted in 1775. Upon his death in 1835, his widow was granted a pension of $12 a month and one year ago this was doubled. The Vermont chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution have looked upon Mrs. Damon as a sort of ward and have assisted in her support.

The quarrel, it is said, arose over a dispute as to the possession of an umbrella at a christening.

Lineman Shocked to Death

Greenwich, Conn., Nov. 12.—John Reiderich, a lineman, was shocked to death here while at work stringing a wire with Dennis Doyle. Many Reasons For a Change

Editors of Daily Ledger:

While with many the nominations of Mayor is the all-important interest at the coming caucuses, there is the election of Ward Committees which is fully as important, for it is really these committees which decide who shall be candidates for all offices.

In Wards One, Three and Four at the recent election the vote for Gov. Guild was less than last year, and in Ward Six the gain was only two votes.

We want ward committees who are not looking for their own elevation to office; committees who will take an interest in rallies; committees which can be trusted with funds; committees which will work on election day for the party and not as election officers for the city.

An opportunity is offered in some wards this year for a change, as double lists have been nominated. Republican voters in Ward One who desire a change should vote for this entire list:

Charles H. Johnson,
James Moorhead, Jr.,
George C. Adams,
Benedict Benson,
Arthur W. Ryder,
Andrew Stewart,
Thomas B. Davenport,
Henry S. Crane.

Be careful and make no mistake if you want a change. Republican.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITHS THEATRE.

A bill in line with the big shows that are always to be found at Keith's will serve as the attraction for lovers of the best in vaudeville the coming week. That very droll monologist, James J. Morton, will be on hand with his budget of inimitable jests. The latest popular airs played by that very talented family of musicians, the six Cuttys, will be a most attractive feature. A wire act that is said to be the most remarkable ever brought to this country, a special Keith importation, by the way, will be among the features. It is performed by the Four Harveys, who are as much at home on a slender thread of steel as upon the solid ground. A quartet of clever comedians and good singers known as the Rialto Four; the three Donals in out-of-the-ordinary athletic feats; the "Pajama Pereys," three pretty sisters in a bright comedietta; songs by Bennier and Stella, and timely views by the Kinetograph will help to round out the bill.

BOSTON THEATRE.

The phrase "musical comedy" so often misapplied and so frequently covering the flimsiest and frothiest of farce comedies with an indifferent musical score, fits "Mamselle Sallie" like the proverbial glove. This new dramatic favorite, book by Robert B. Smith and music by Raymond Hubbell, received its first production at the Boston theatre last Monday evening and scored an instant success. The play itself is in two acts, with scenes laid in Auburn Manor, at a young ladies' seminary, in England, and the estates of Marco Bizarrus in Thessaly. Ordinarily, the plot cuts very little figure in musical comedy and is far from logical; but in this case it is both interesting and sequential. It concerns the mysterious disappearance and recovery of a locket which, besides establishing the identity of an heiress, also enforces a matrimonial alliance, which otherwise would have been considered a mesalliance. "Mamselle Sallie" remains at the Boston for another week, the engagement ending Saturday, November 17.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

As a light romantic play, "Monsieur Beaucaire" is unequalled. It caused endless delight as a novel, and it made Booth Tarkington's reputation at a bound. Then Richard Mansfield saw the dramatic possibilities in it, and having played the title character himself, he was everywhere hailed as an ideal representative of the volatile hero. As presented at the Castle Square next week, "Monsieur Beaucaire" will lose none of its mirth-giving qualities. The title role will be played by Howell Hansel, and his personality and skill will enable him to follow successfully in Richard Mansfield's footsteps. The cast will be a long one, including all the members of the stock company, and the scenery and costumes will be magnificent.

PARK THEATRE.

Shoppers who have occasion to visit Boston next week will have an opportunity of seeing a remarkable new play under curious conditions, for the latest effort of Mr. C. Haddon Chambers, "Sir Anthony," which is described as a comedy dealing with suburban life is to be given its first performance on any stage next Monday afternoon, Nov. 12th, at the Park Theatre. During the week the play will be seen on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons only, and it is to be interpreted by a specially engaged company, which will include William Norris, Herbert Standing, Verner Clarges, Joseph Twohey, Helen Lowell, Maud Crichton, Olive Wyndham, Mrs. Cooper Cliffe and Eda Bruna. The piece is under the direction of Liebler & Co., and has been given a splendid and appropriate scenic equipment.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Oil Man Robbed On Late Train

John Hackett, the oil man, had his pocket picked of $20 on the late train from Boston on Saturday. It was just after the train had passed Neponset that he felt someone working at his pocket.

He turned about and succeeded in grabbing the young fellow. He was having a tussle with him when the conductor came into the car.

Thinking that the men were fighting the conductor separated them and threatened to have Hackett, who appeared to be the aggressor, arrested if he did not keep quiet.

Before he could explain what had transpired the train reached Atlantic and the young fellow succeeded in getting away.

Fatal Accident To Infant

Onni S., the 2-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Niemi, of 1 Copeland street, died this morning from burns received Saturday night by falling into a tub of hot water. The little boy's mother had filled the tub with hot water preparatory to giving him a bath.

Leaving the tub on the floor, she started to get some cold water to cool that in the tub. While her back was turned, the boy who was playing about the floor climbed upon the tub and fell in. His screams quickly brought the mother to his side and he was rescued from the tub. A physician was summoned but he was so badly scalded that he died.

FORTUNE IN OIL WELL

Poor Pennsylvanian Being Enriched by Big Gusher.

REMARKABLE FLOW EACH DAY

Record of Well For First Few Days Indicated Flow of 1,800 Barrels Daily—Andy Rapp, Who Had Bored and Pumped a Bare Existence For Years, Now Derives Daily Income of $2,862 From a "Drained" Field.

Andy Rapp, fifty-seven years old, of Clinton township, Pa., a few days ago was a poor man and head over heels in debt, as are most small oil producers. Today wealth is coming to him from the bowels of the earth so fast that he can scarcely count it, says a special dispatch from Franklin, Pa., to the New York World. He has struck the biggest oil well that the Pennsylvania fields have had in twenty years, and from present indications he has only to put down the holes to get other wells that may do even better.

Rapp's well—"the poor man's gusher," as it has now come to be known—is remarkable from the fact that it is in a section that is notorious for its wells of small production. It is surrounded on all sides by hundreds of wells that are making from a quarter barrel to five barrels a day. On the same farm Rapp has twelve wells whose combined production is only two barrels. The territory has been drilled since the early sixties, and it was believed to have been drained practically dry. But it is now the most promising field in the state. There can be little doubt that Rapp has tapped an oil belt rather than a pool.

The gusher is in a thick hemlock forest on the bank of a creek. When the drill had gone two feet into the sand there was an immediate flow of oil and a gas pressure so strong that the men were compelled to shut the well down and move the boiler back from the danger zone. Then the drill was started again, and when it got three feet farther down there was a recoil of the rope and the fluid began to spurt out. Then it gushed, and before the men could realize what was taking place the oil was shooting as high as the derrick. The spray covered the derrick and all the trees around.

Before Rapp and his astonished helpers could curb the flow more than 100 barrels had been lost. No provision had been made for taking care of such a vast quantity of oil. The employees of the National Transit company, the pipe line subsidiary of the Standard, were notified, and they worked night and day laying a line from the pump station two miles distant.

The record of the well for the first few days indicates that it is good for seventy-five barrels an hour, or 1,800 barrels a day. At the present price of Pennsylvania crude this would net $2,862 a day. Of this amount the owner of the farm gets one-eighth as royalty, leaving Rapp with a daily income of $2,504, or about $105 an hour, $1.75 a minute, or nearly 3 cents for every time the clock ticks.

Nearly all the big oil strikes in Pennsylvania have been made by men who had lots of money. In many cases they couldn't have drilled otherwise. After you have bought your release it costs nearly $3,500 to complete the well. But Rapp is an exception, and everybody is glad that he has "struck it." The day after the gusher came in more than a hundred people called at Rapp's home to congratulate him.

Rapp came to Venango county from Petrolia, Butler county, in 1889 and, with his family of half a dozen children, settled down near Kennerdell. He looked around for an oil lease, and the William Witherup farm was the only one available. He and another man took it on equal shares and began putting down wells, doing most of their own drilling. The wells were mostly small, and the production was scarcely able to keep the wolf from the door. They were both badly in debt, and five years ago Rapp's partner got disgusted and sold out to him for a trifle. Rapp was compelled to borrow the purchase money.

More than fifteen years ago Rapp observed that even the small producing wells flowed at times, indicating a heavy pressure of gas, and with every well that he put down he had the hope that he would encounter the source, for it meant a good well.

A reporter found Rapp hard at work at his well. When the suggestion was made that he would probably take himself and family to Franklin or some other town he answered:

"No, sir. These old hills shall see me in my wealth just as they have seen me in my poverty. My lot so far has been a hard one, and I believe that I am entitled to ease and comfort the rest of my days, and I intend to spend them right here."

Mrs. Rapp, the wife, said that the wild hills of Clinton township were good enough for her too. She was willing to live in the small home that has sheltered her and hers for so many years, "though," she added, "I don't want to work as hard in the future as I have in the past. I am nearly worn out."

Another poor man to whom the gusher will bring ease and comfort is Witherup. His royalties from the well will amount to about $15 an hour at the present rate of production. He and his aged wife of late years have been compelled to board oil men to keep themselves.

MAGIC AND RELIGION.

Their Parting Due to the Advance of Civilization.

In west Africa the belief in a new birth without loss of identity is proved by the fact that when a baby arrives in a family it is shown a selection of small articles belonging to deceased members, and the thing which the child catches hold of identifies him as "Uncle John" or "Cousin Emma," and so forth. So far as this belief prevails it is held by some that garments once worn or other objects which have been in intimate contact with a human being are penetrated by his personality and remain, as it were, united with him for good or ill.

In nearly all stages of civilization now to be found in the world what we call supernatural beings were concerned with the initiation of the magician. The schism between magic and religion was a later development of civilization. When it occurred, as the history of heresy in Europe and the witch trials teach, it was rather magic in its antisocial aspect than in itself, which was reprobated and punished. It is strange in this connection to notice that the magician was only condemned when he departed from established custom and established beliefs which involved a severance from the community and an imputation of antisocial ends. Practices essentially magical might be incorporated in religious rites and exercised for what was believed to be the general good. In such a case they have continued to be exercised with general assent in the highest forms of religion.—London Hospital.

ODD MARRIAGE CUSTOM.

Porches as Wedding Certificates on the Island of Jersey.

Among Jerseymen proper—that is to say, among the descendants of the original inhabitants of the island and not the English or French residents there—a very curious and interesting old marriage custom exists.

Upon the completion of the ceremony and, if in strict accordance with tradition, before the happy couple take up residence in their new abode the stone slab at the top of the porch containing the front door is inscribed with the initials of the bridegroom, those of the bride, the date of the ceremony and two hearts intwined, the latter being an emblem of their intermingled love and the whole forming a most lasting and public certificate of marriage.

Occasionally, however, a little difficulty arises. The bride may meet with an early death, and in the course of time the widower may desire to reenter the holy state of matrimony. Having fulfilled his desire, it appears rather puzzling to know what to do about the inscription.

In some cases, therefore, the initials and date of the first wedding have been erased and those of the subsequent ceremony substituted, while in others the initials of the second wife and the date have been added below the first, a second pair of intwined hearts being thought unnecessary. The letters are usually from six to nine inches in height, so that they may be easily read across the road.—London Mail.

Victims of a False Prophet.

Just before the opening of the Kaffir rebellion in South Africa, about the middle of the last century, the soothsayers bade the tribes kill their cattle and destroy their crops of grain. The spirits of their ancestors were to arise and help them to exterminate every white man in the country. The advice was solemnly accepted. When the day of the great uprising arrived many of the rebels were already starving. But there came no ghostly herds of cattle out of the earth, no crops not sown with hands. Grim, terrible famine swept over the land, and in the months which followed, although the authorities did everything in their power to mitigate its horrors, 30,000 victims of a false prophet starved to death.

Ventilation.

Have we ever stopped to think how our ancestors two or three generations back lived and flourished with little or no ventilation in their sleeping apartments? The night air used to be considered a very dreadful menace to health and a sure inducer of colds. Bedrooms were kept closely shut, and yet our ancestors, many of them, were hardier than we and lived to good old ages. Animals burrow in their holes at night, breathing the same air over and over again, while birds and fowls tuck their heads under their wings. Of course ventilation is absolutely necessary for proper comfort, cleanliness and health, but people have lived on little or none of it for hundreds and thousands of years.

Another Soft Answer.

"I'm glad to say," remarked Mrs. Strongminde in an insinuating tone, "that my husband is not a sporty man."

"Oh," replied Mrs. Kaflyppe, looking very sweet and innocent, "I'm surprised to hear you say that. I had always supposed that he must have married you on a bet."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Buying or Selling?

It is told of the son of a horse dealer, a sharp lad, when once unexpectedly called upon by his father to mount a horse and exhibit its paces, the little fellow whispered the question in order to regulate how he should ride, "Are you buying or selling?"—Tit-Bits.

Beginning Over.

"Did I hear you say, old chap, that marriage has made a new man of you?"

"That's right."

"Then that wipes out that ten I owe you. Now lend me five, will you?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

New Home for Female Orphans

The will of Dr. James L. Simonds, formerly residing at Braintree, near the West Quincy line, who died in Dorchester last week, leaves his entire property valued at $100,000 to be used in the founding of an institution for female orphans in Boston.

The will also provides annuities for several relatives and friends. These will be provided for from the interest of the estate, the whole amount to go to charity after the expiration of 21 years. In the meantime it will be held in trust by Judge E. C. Bumpus of Quincy and Clarence W. Rowley of Boston.

Not Dangerous.

That the accident to Miss Abigail Adams, who was reported to have been dangerously injured by a fall from her hunter, while following the hounds of the Geneseo Valley hunt last week, was not as seriously as at first reported, was shown by a dispatch to a member of her family, in which it was said that she was all right and for them not to worry.

The Quincy Daily Ledger

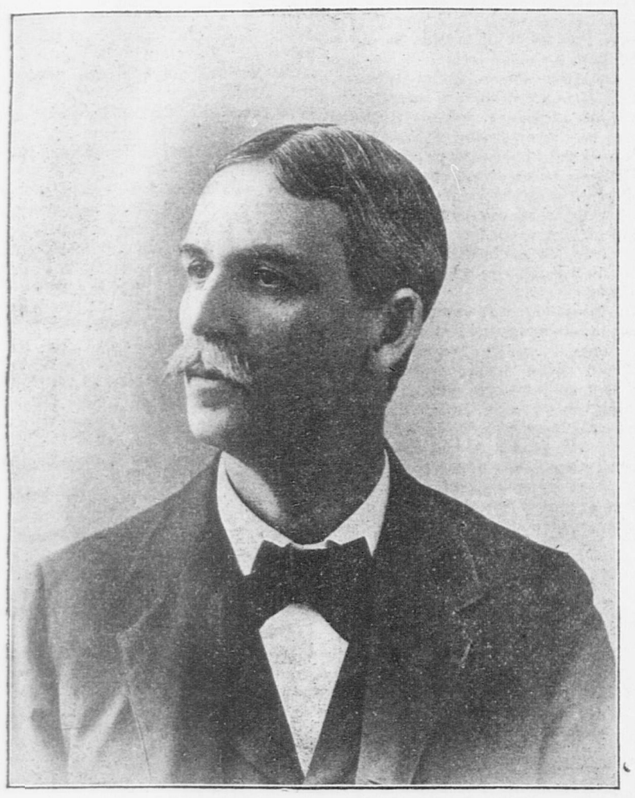

Published in the City of Presidents

Vol. 18. No. 267. QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1906. PRICE TWO CENTS

CITIZENS, ATTENTION!

Caucuses of the Republican Party will be held NOVEMBER 13, 1906, from 12 M. to 9 P. M.

for the nomination of its candidates and to decide whose name shall appear on the official ballot to be voted for at the municipal election.

TO THE VOTERS:

Having been intrusted by the citizens for the past two years with the conduct of their executive affairs, I will state, without enumerating, that many have been advanced to that stage of municipal progress, of solving for the present, until such times as increasing needs and changing conditions require their readjustment; others of considerable importance, necessitating large expenditures, are now in progress. Wisdom decrees that the completion of them is best intrusted to those familiar with them as viewed from a business standpoint. If a spirit of confidence has been begotten by the present executive in the efficient, economical and non-discriminating conduct of the business of the city, I respectfully ask again your endorsement.

JAMES THOMPSON.

POLLS OPENED AT NOON

City Caucuses Being Held Today By Republicans Democrats, Socialists

A smaller vote is anticipated at the caucuses today than for the past two years, because the Municipal campaign has been unusually quiet. The Democrats and Socialist have no contest for majoralty candidate, and there is no incentive to get out the vote. The Republicans have a contest but it has been conducted quietly.

In 1904, there were 2,561 votes cast at the Republican caucuses and on election day Mayor Thompson received 2,582 votes. In 1905 there were cast 2,692 Republican votes at the caucuses, and on election day Mayor Thompson received 2,822. It is generally admitted, however, that about 1,000 Democrat take part in the Republican caucuses.

If the Republican vote is about the same as last year, Mr. Gray must change over 5000 to win. This he is confident of doing from assurances he has received from all parts of the city, but especially from Wards One, Two, Four and Five. On the other hand friends of Mayor Thompson do not see where he is going to get 1400 or even 1000 votes.

The election officers of the second precinct in the several wards are serving as caucus officers.

While there are but five names on the official Republican ballot for Councilmen at large there is a rumor that other names will appear on the ballot for the election. It is well known that it was the intention of others to have filed papers for this office, but they were not filed owing to a misunderstanding.

There is lively interest in the election of Republican Ward Committee in Ward One. There are practically three lists. The first has but one name, that of Albert G. Dolliver. The second list is a complete list and is known as the list that is running against the machine, none of the nine names being on the present committee. The third list which has been designated as the machine list, has but seven names, several of which are on the present committee, as is also A. G. Dolliver. It is charged that Mr. Dolliver was not loyal to Gov. Guild.

The polls opened at 12 M. and will close at 9 P. M. The counting cannot begin until the polls close, so that the result will not be known very early. Up to the hour of going to press the vote was light, but several voted during the noon hour. The voting is in wards, not by precincts.

The Daily Ledger tomorrow will have the best report of the caucuses.

VOTE LAST YEAR.

At the caucus last year there were cast 2,692 Republican votes and 268 Democratic votes, there being no caucuses by the Socialists. Mayor Thompson received a majority of 1,067, to which all wards contributed. Ward Two was the only one which was close.

Last year the Republican vote of the city by wards, the vote for Mr. Thompson and Mr. Johnson, and the majorities for Thompson were:

	Total	Thompson	Johnson	Maj
Ward One	634	391	230	161
Ward Two	369	184	182	2
Ward Three	586	416	163	253
Ward Four	393	321	68	253
Ward Five	387	303	84	219
Ward Six	323	248	69	179
Totals	2692	1863	796	1067

In the City caucuses of 1904 there were cast 2561 vote of which Mr. Thompson received 1294 and John W. McAnarney 1237 as follows:

	Total	Thompson	McAnarney	Maj
Ward One	564	307	252	55
Ward Two	357	114	239	*125
Ward Three	544	299	236	63
Ward Four	339	182	154	28
Ward Five	455	292	159	133
Ward Six	302	100	197	*97
Totals	2561	1294	1237	57

*For McAnarney.

George H. Wilson had no rival for the Democratic nomination last year, receiving 235 votes in the caucuses out of 268.

In 1904 there was a contest between Peter T. Fallon and George H. Wilson and the former won 342 to 192.

WARD ONE.

The Quincy ward had polled about its usual vote during the first hour, which would seem to indicate that the caucus would be as largely attended as ever.

At 1 o'clock 40 had voted. There were but few people about the polls other than the checkers.

Several hacks were in use to bring voters out who would otherwise not come to the polls. These hacks were being used in the interest of Mayor Thompson. As far as could be learned Mr. Gray had no carriages at any of the polling places.

WARD TWO.

There seems to be considerable doubt as to the choice of the Quincy Point Republicans for Mayor. Considerable work has been done here for Mr. Gray and they are those who believe that the ward will give him a majority. A good vote is being polled.

WARD THREE.

That South Quincy will give Mayor Thompson a rousing good vote at the caucus today goes without saying. Owing to the contests for ward councilmen and ward committee the ward will poll a good vote.

WARD FOUR.

West Quincy Republicans are particularly interested in the caucus today, from the fact that several of its prominent residents are closely identified with the present administration, thus assuring Mayor Thompson a good vote.

WARD FIVE.

If anything can be judged by the voting the first hour, the vote in the Wollaston ward will be light, for up to 1 o'clock but 12 had voted. This is an unusually small number and shows the lack of interest. It takes a local interest to bring out a large caucus vote in this ward and there is not that interest today.

Practically the only interest seems to centre in Ward Committee and the interest here is over the election of R. R. Freeman.

As to how the ward will go between Thompson and Gray, a conservative opinion seems to be that the ward will divide about even.

There is quite a feeling against Mayor Thompson on account of some of his appointments and the High school. This will give Mr. Gray some votes but it is thought that it will hardly give him enough to carry the ward.

The general sentiment about the polling place this noon seemed to be that in any event there would be an independent Republican candidate for Mayor. Some of the names mentioned were Eugene H. Sprague, Walter F. Nichols, William M. Chase and Emery L. Crane.

WARD SIX.

It is a foregone conclusion that Atlantic will give Mayor Thompson a good vote. The voting was quite lively during the first hour. No rush, however, is looked for until the business men begin to arrive home from Boston.

Not All For William T. Shea

Some of the Republican members of the St. Mary's Temperance Society take exceptions to the report that the society endorsed the candidacy of William T. Shea for Mayor. Some remarks favorable were made at the meeting, but no formal action was taken. Mr. Shea is a popular member and ex-official of the society, and will receive the support of many members, but not all.

SANTA FE TRAIL SIGN

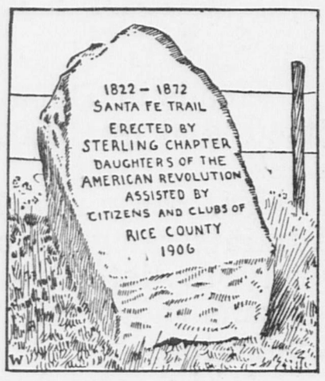

First Bowlder to Mark the Historic Highway.

IT WEIGHS ABOUT 5,000 POUNDS

The Huge Stone Placed Between Sterling and Lyons, Kan., Was Brought From Western Oklahoma Freight Free by the Santa Fe Railroad—Traces of Old Road Are Fast Disappearing.

The first bowlder to mark the Santa Fe trail has been placed in position on the main road between Sterling, Kan., and Lyons, Kan., a mile from Lyons, says a Sterling correspondent of the Kansas City Star. It is a bowlder weighing about 5,000 pounds. It was found in western Oklahoma and was brought to Sterling freight free by the Santa Fe railway. While other markers are being purchased with money contributed by the school children of the state of Kansas, this one is paid for by the people of Rice county. The legislature has appropriated $1,000 to mark the trail, but no application was made for a part of it.

The Daughters of the Revolution, seventeen women, started the movement, and Mrs. W. C. Smyser, secretary, was instrumental in securing the funds. The clubs of Rice county, the county commissioners and the schools united in the contributions. The man who drove the stake for putting in the cement foundation for the bowlder, Daniel Bell, was the first man married in Rice county. That ceremony took place on the trail itself.

The work of marking the trail is being taken up with interest by the communities through which the almost obliterated roadway passes, but counties removed from the course are indifferent. The legislative appropriation is far too small to place markers that will not be moved or destroyed. In Rice county the location of the first marker may become the center of a small park. In Herington, Dickinson county, the trail course is directly through the yard of the principal public school. It is planned there to place a bowlder in the schoolyard, that it may be a lesson to the children on the pioneer history of the state.

For many years the trail was clearly identified wherever it led through the southwest, but with the coming of the steam plows and the planting of the prairies to grain this is fast passing away, and the same disputes that are known in the eastern part of the state will make the exact location indefinite soon. The settlers have found many reminders of the trail's palmy days in relics and curios along its broad highway. Old wagon irons of various sorts, kettles, pieces of guns and here and there a mound telling of the tragedies of the overland journey have made the trail notable in local tradition. These are fast passing away.

ONE WAY TO KEEP COOK.

Some One Must Invent a Pot Scrubber, Says Economist.

"The average schoolteacher is not as well paid as the average servant girl," says Professor I. M. Rubinow in the Journal of Political Economy issued from the University of Chicago Press.

He explains, according to a Chicago dispatch, that servants are at a premium because women dislike to be domestics.

Experienced servants, the professor finds, object more to the long hours than to the social inequality, and he suggests that domestic help be paid so that they may live at home.

The population has increased twice as fast as the number of servants. The total number of women employed in gainful occupations has increased 200 per cent, but the number of women servants and waiters has grown less than 50 per cent.

He thinks invention might solve the problem. "The genius who shall invent an automatic dishwasher and pot scrubber will be a true benefactor of mankind," he asserts.

Calls Prodigies Idiots.

"Infant prodigies are no better than idiots," declared Professor F. Ely of the chair of nervous diseases at Drake university before the Iowa Mothers' Congress the other day, says a Des Moines dispatch. A chorus of "Oh's!" and "Ah's!" from the lips of half a hundred doting mothers whose children were prodigies and who didn't believe a word the doctor said greeted the remarks. "It is better to be the sluggish, plodding man with the hoe than the long haired, sensuous man with the bow," continued the doctor. "Music and art are fine things when diluted with a little football and a little wholesome reading and sleep, but the man whose faculties are developed in one direction only cannot fail to be unstable and a crank."

THE PRESIDENT'S VISIT TO PANAMA

Features of Programme Prepared For His Trip.

CANAL ROUTE TO BE INSPECTED

In Mackintosh and Rubber Boots, Mr. Roosevelt Will Explore Famous Culebra Cut—To Be Entertained by President of Panama—First Time That Chief American Executive Will Set Foot on Foreign Soil.

President Roosevelt's visit to the isthmus of Panama will present several novel features, says a Washington special dispatch to the New York World. For the first time in history the president of the United States will set foot on foreign soil and be the guest of a foreign ruler at dinner. At the time of his visit to New Orleans President Roosevelt was technically outside the jurisdiction of the United States, as the vessel conveying him to the Queen City went outside the three mile limit.

Many interesting incidents will mark the visit, ranging from a reception in honor of President Roosevelt at the palace of the president of Panama to a ride on the Chagres river on a casco, the native water craft, and plowing through the sticky mud of Culebra cut in rubber boots and a mackintosh. President Roosevelt has had many unusual experiences, but his trip to Panama will furnish him with several new thrills.

Mr. Roosevelt will spend only four days in Panama, but they will be busy ones. His only opportunity to rest will be on Sunday, Nov. 18, the last day of his stay. The three preceeding days are to be crowded with sightseeing excursions and social functions. The president will make two speeches, one at the fiesta; then he will respond to an address of welcome by President Amador and later at a reception on pier 11 at Cristobal.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

President and Mrs. Amador, Chairman Shonts of the canal commission and Mrs. Shonts, who will leave for Panama so as to be there when Mr. Roosevelt arrives, and Chief Engineer and Mrs. Stevens will go aboard the battleship before President and Mrs. Roosevelt go ashore.

Immediately after landing the party will be taken aboard a train and run slowly across the isthmus to La Boca, giving the president a casual view of the towns, the canal and a parade of the native school children. At La Boca there will be an inspection of the terminus of the old French canal and of the Panama railroad. The entire plan of the canal will be explained to President Roosevelt, and he will be given information regarding sites and plans for the proposed dam, lock and lake at La Boca. There will be a trip in a launch to the islands of Perico, Naos and Flamenco, thus giving President Roosevelt a view of the actual deep water southern end of the canal, the approaches, the harbors of La Boca and Panama and the surrounding country.

Luncheon will be served at Ancon, followed by a trip around Ancon hill and a visit to the hospital. The remainder of the day will be given by President Roosevelt to the government of Panama, and, while the programme has not been finally arranged, enough of it has been prepared to show that it will be a busy day for the president. It will be a gala day, and the dirt is not expected to fly on this occasion. The city of Ancon will be decorated elaborately and illuminated brilliantly in honor of President Roosevelt.

Some time during the afternoon the executive party will be met by officials of the republic of Panama, and, conducted by them and escorted by a hundred young Panamans mounted, the president will drive about the city. The drive will end at a stand to be erected in one of the plazas, from which President Amador will deliver an address of welcome, to which President Roosevelt will respond. If there is time the presidential party will review a parade.

At night President Roosevelt will be entertained by President Amador in the palace at dinner. After the dinner President and Mrs. Roosevelt and the other members of the American party will attend a reception and ball to be given by President Amador to President Roosevelt. They will remain a few minutes at the ball, which will follow the reception, and will then return to their hotel, the Tivoli.

Friday morning, Nov. 16, President Roosevelt, accompanied by Chairman Shonts and Chief Engineer Stevens, will leave Ancon by special train for Culebra cut. Here he will be attired in rubber boots and a mackintosh, such garments being necessary in making an inspection of the cut. He will spend the entire day inspecting this famous section of the canal, which presents the greatest difficulties in the way of digging the canal. He will inspect the hotel, the barracks, the machine shops, the railroad, the steam shovels and the other equipment used in the work and will watch the work of digging the dirt and loading it on the cars.

In the evening the party will return to Ancon, and early Saturday morning a special train will take the president to Gatun, where there is to be a great dam. The president will investigate conditions at Gatun, looking over the site of the dam and the locks. From Gatun the president will go to Cristobal by train, steam launch or native "casco." Chairman Shonts and Chief Engineer Stevens, who will accompany the president, will explain the situation on the lower Chagres and the old French canal at that point. The party may also visit the old town at the mouth of the Chagres river, whence the party will go to Cristobal in a tug or a launch. During the afternoon an inspection will be made of Cristobal, including the present and proposed terminals of the railroad and canal and of the hospitals of Colon.

Saturday evening, Nov. 17, there will be a reception and ball on pier 11 in Cristobal in honor of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, given by the employees of the isthmian canal commission. At this function the president will deliver an address. Sunday will be a quiet day for the president, and in the evening the party will board the Louisiana and start for San Juan, Porto Rico.

The ship will reach San Juan Nov. 22, and the president will remain there twenty-four hours. He will be entertained by Governor Winthrop. The president will employ all his time there in making himself familiar with the conditions existing in Uncle Sam's possession in the West Indies.

The party will leave San Juan Nov. 23, and the president, on the big battleship, will be conveyed to Wolf Trap light and transferred to the Dolphin. He will come up the Potomac river on this little craft and reach Washington Nov. 27, in time to eat Thanksgiving dinner at the White House.

President Roosevelt's trip will be made in regal style, as the battleship Louisiana is the most magnificent of the splendid modern fighting machines of the American navy. A beautiful suit of rooms on the vessel will be prepared for the use of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt. The ship has been docked and overhauled, notwithstanding that she is new and has been in commission only a few months.

Three of the most spacious cabins will be fitted up especially for the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, while another will be at the disposal of Surgeon General Rixey. President Roosevelt did not wish any expense incurred in fitting the Louisiana for the Panama trip, but the secretary of the navy decided that no expense should be spared in refreshing the decorative work of the cabins and making every provision for the comfort of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Extreme precautions will be taken to protect the president and Mrs. Roosevelt from exposure to yellow fever while in Panama. There have been no cases of yellow fever on the isthmus since last November, and there is little danger of infection. The headquarters of the party will be at the Hotel Tivoli, and it will be completely inclosed in mosquito netting so as to prevent mosquitoes, which spread the yellow fever germ, from stinging the president or the members of his party.

To Stand on Chair to Vote.

Standing upon a chair or stepladder, Fred Ransome, the smallest voter in Utica, N. Y., will cast his first ballot on Nov. 6 at the polls in the Eighth ward, says a Utica special dispatch to the New York Herald. He became twenty-one years of age Sept. 28 and has been duly registered. Ransome is a dwarf and is far too small of stature to reach the lever on the machine, which is above the head of the average man. He is only forty-one and one-half inches high and weighs but forty-seven and one-half pounds.

The Dear Railroad Pass.

[No more railroad passes will be issued after the 1st of January.]

How dear to my heart are the old railroad passes
As fond recollection presents them to view!
The passes, which lifted me over the masses,
The "trips" and the "round trips," the "annuals," too;
The B. and O. pass and the Union Pacific,
The passes I've had on the D. and R. G.,
The Santa Fe pass that with thoughts beatific
I gazed upon once as 'twas handed to me!
Oh, beautiful passes, oh, dear railroad passes,
Which noble officials once issued to me!

Those small strips of paper I always will treasure,
Although no conductor may honor them now.
Ah, once they were sources of exquisite pleasure,
And still they send happy thrills through me somehow!
I've ridden on passes from ocean to ocean;
I've traveled in Pullman and parlor cars free.
Alas, why did Hepburn conceive the wild notion
Of taking my dear railroad passes from me?
Oh, beautiful passes, oh, glorious passes,
The passes that brought so much comfort to me!

They tell me 'tis useless to hope for a minute
That ways may be found for evading the law;
There's not the least sign of a loophole within it;
I drown and may not even clutch at a straw!
Behold me a victim of sad contemplation;
A future all dismal and passless I see;
The joys that accompany free transportation
They've ruthlessly taken forever from me.
Farewell to the passes, the dear railroad passes,
That never again may bring gladness to me!

MET AWFUL DEATH

Forty-Seven Immigrants Killed In a Railroad Wreck

FIRE ADDS TO HORROR

Cremation of Unfortunates Witnessed by Throng Utterly Unable to Render Assistance--Disaster Due to Blunder of Some Railroad Employe

Chicago, Nov. 13.—More than one-half the passengers on an immigrant train on the Baltimore and Ohio road were killed and injured in a collision with a freight near Woodville, Ind. Of 165 passengers on the train 47 were either killed outright or were burned to death in a fire that broke out in the wreckage immediately after the collision.

The names of all the dead will probably never be known, as 45 of the bodies were consumed in the flames, or were so badly burned that identification will be out of the question. Thirty-eight persons were injured and several of these will die. Eighty others escaped unhurt, but lost nearly all their baggage and clothing.

The disaster was caused by a blunder of some employe of the railroad company, but just where the blame lies has not been determined. The passenger train, which was loaded with Russian Jews, Servians and Poles, all recent arrivals in this country, and bound for Chicago or places northwest, was the second section of a through train from Baltimore. The engineer of the freight, on instructions received at McCool, Ind., waited at a siding at Babcock, Ind., to allow the immigrant train to pass.

One report is that the engineer of the freight had not been informed that the passenger train was running in two sections; the other is that the first section of the passenger train carried no lights or signals of any kind, indicating that a second section was close behind.

As soon as the first section of the immigrant train had passed the switch at Babcock, the freight, in charge of Engineer Burk and Conductor Meste, started eastward. A light snow was falling, which increased the darkness of the early morning, and, as the freight was round a sharp curve, the second section of the immigrant train came in sight, a short distance away, tearing toward Chicago at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The two trains came together with unslackened speed and, in the crash, six passenger coaches and several freight cars were knocked into kindling wood and, together with the locomotives, went rolling down the 10-foot embankment.

Fire broke out almost immediately in the wreckage and the greater part of those who were pinned down in the debris were burned to death. The flames spread through the wreckage so rapidly that it was impossible to save a number of people who were only slightly hurt, but were held fast by the timbers that weighted them down. These were burned in plain sight of the throng that stood around the scene of the disaster, utterly unable to lend assistance in any way. The fire continued until all of the shattered cars were entirely consumed and of the 47 people whose death followed the collision, 45 were burned to ashes.

The crash was so great that a number of farmers and other residents of the neighborhood heard it and hastened to the scene, but they could do nothing except lend assistance to the injured who had already been taken from the wreck. All of the six cars of the immigrant train were burned, as were three freight cars.

Relief trains were at once sent out from South Chicago and from Valparaiso, Ind., and every possible aid was given to the injured. A large number of the relatives of passengers on the ill-fated train were in Chicago, awaiting their arrival, and when the report was received that many had been killed and injured in a wreck, the scenes around the Baltimore and Ohio depot were harrowing. Men were there who had come to this country to escape the massacre in Russia and who, after months of hard work, had saved enough to pay the passage of members of their families, and the grief, when they became aware that possibly all their sacrifice and effort had resulted only in the death of those whom they had sought to bring to them, was pitiful.

Crowds of Russians and Poles waited around the station all day for news from Woodville and when, late in the afternoon, a train came in bearing the 38 injured persons, it was with the greatest difficulty that the police were able to open a passageway for the wounded. Several of the foreigners became so excited that they attempted to attack depot attaches whose uniforms led them to believe that they were employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Many whose relatives were among the injured begged to be allowed to take them to their homes, but the police were inexorable and all of the injured were taken to hospitals. At the hospitals it is said that it will, for some time, be impossible to predict the result in the cases of several of the injured.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

There are eighteen different forms of Rheumatism, most of them caused by an excess of Uric Acid in the tissues and joints. Uric Acid is a waste product of the body, which finds its way back into the system when the kidneys fail to carry it off through the urine. Beecham's Pills are not a cure for Rheumatism, but they do to carry off the Uric Acid and other poisons which are the causes of Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Bright's Disease and Diabetes. Beecham's Pills increase the action of the kidneys and make it easy for them to perform the work of filtering the impurities from the body. Free action of the kidneys is as essential to health as regular movement of the bowels.

You can avoid Rheumatism and other painful diseases by using Beecham's Pills to stimulate the kidneys whenever there is any indication of weakness or derangement. STORIES OF JUDGE GARY Veteran Chicago Jurist's Love of Justice and Fair Play.

INSTANCES OF HIS READY WIT

How He Replied to Some Men That Tried to Get Out of Serving on Juries—Novel Manner In Which He Handled a German's Case—How a Witness Once Got the Better of the Judge.

The late Judge Joseph E. Gary of Chicago, who tried the Chicago anarchists in 1886 and passed sentence upon Adolph Luetgert, the sausage maker, who killed his wife, was the subject of many good stories which serve to show his absolute fearlessness in the line of duty and his innate love of justice and fair play, says the Chicago Post. There was probably no judge on the bench of Cook county who was more entirely impartial in his treatment of all men and all classes. The day laborer, he held, was entitled to the same treatment that is accorded to the wealthy landowner, and in his court he got it.

A story illustrative of this is told that will bear repeating. A poor, shabbily dressed fellow, who was evidently unfamiliar with the court and court methods, was on the witness stand and was subjected to a most merciless cross examination. Many of the questions seemed to carry insinuation and innuendo with them, but no objection was raised, and the poor fellow had to endure it. The lawyer had him at his mercy, and he made things as uncomfortable as possible. Then this lawyer's client, a well dressed, aristocratic looking man, took the stand, and when it came to the cross examination the opposing counsel began to put him through the same paces that the first lawyer had the laboring man. The first lawyer was on his feet in an instant.

"I object to this line of cross examination," he said.

"On what grounds?" asked Judge Gary.

"The questions are insulting and irrelevant. My client is entitled to some consideration."

"Precisely the same consideration that was given to the witness who just left the stand," returned the judge. "This court has but one set of rules, and they apply to all people alike."

On another occasion a neighbor of Judge Gary's had some trouble with one of his tenants—a poor man—and he told the judge about it. There was a dispute about the payment of rent, and some question of repairs entered into it that made it far from a one sided question. But of course the landlord only saw the one side, and after dilating on that he asked:

"Am I not entitled to protection in my rights?"

"Certainly," replied the judge unhesitatingly; "certainly you are, but you have overlooked one point."

"What is that?"

"So is he."

Judge Gary always had an especial dislike for men who try to shirk jury service on flimsy excuses, and a number of good stories are told of experiences that veniremen have had with the veteran jurist. A little German once tried to get out of jury service on the plea that he could not speak good English.

"You'll not have to speak any at all," said the judge.

"Well, shudge, I don't t'ink I make a good shuror anyhow," persisted the juror.

"Why not?"

"Well," with a motion toward the attorneys in the case, "I don't understand nodings what dose fellers say."

"Neither does any one else. Sit down!" thundered the judge.

Another juror put in a sick excuse.

"Have you anything from your doctor to that effect?" asked the judge.

"Yes, sir," was the reply. And the doctor's certificate was handed up to him.

"That's a good doctor," said the judge.

"One of the best in the city," replied the juror.

"A very good doctor," went on the judge, not noticing what the juror had said. "He'll have you cured by next term of court beyond question. Report to me then without further summons."

He insisted on talesmen serving for jury duty when they had been accepted by both sides unless they had exceptionally good excuses to offer for being excused. On one occasion a man who was acceptable to each side begged hard to be released. The judge asked him why he wished to be excused.

"I don't like to tell you, judge," he pleaded, "but I cannot serve."

"You will have to serve," said Judge Gary, "or else give me a valid excuse."

"Well, judge, I'll tell if I have to, but I hate to do it. The fact is, I've got the itch." The judge swung around in his chair and said to the clerk:

"Scratch this man off."

A witness once got the better of him, however, and the judge enjoyed telling of it as much as any one. He was a particularly exasperating witness, and the lawyers seemed unable to get any direct answer out of him, so the judge took a hand in the examination. It was a highway robbery case, and the witness had been the victim.

"You say you were knocked down?" said the judge.

"No, sir; I was held up," promptly responded the witness.

The judge let the lawyers continue the examination.

ROSE 20,500 FEET IN AIR

Aeronauts Almost Met Death In Rarefied Atmosphere

Milan, Nov. 13.—Details of the trip of the balloon Milano, which left the grounds of the International exposition last Sunday and arrived duly at Aix-les-Bains, after having traveled over Mont Blanc, have been received here.

The Milano has a capacity of 1000 cubic metres. The men on board were Signor Usuelli and Signor Crespi. The Milano had splendid weather from the start and soon reached an altitude of 16,000 feet. The balloon was traveling northward over Mont Blanc, and as it progressed it grew colder and colder. Below them the travelers could see nothing except an extensive field of snow, broken by sharp peaks and dotted with frozen Alpine lakes.

The highest altitude reached was 20,500 feet. The rarified atmosphere made it necessary for the men to resort to their supply of oxygen to keep alive. At one point of the trip Usuelli succumbed to the nervous strain and burst into tears. On the other side of the mountain the balloon descended gradually and landed safely at Aix-les-Baines. The distance of 175 miles was covered in three hours.

Must Face Treason Charge

Washington, Nov. 13.—Antonio Villareal, who is under arrest at El Paso, Tex., is to be deported to Mexico, where he will face charges of treason, brought against him by the Mexican government. It was decided that Villareal should be sent back to his native country because of crimes committed by him before his immigration to the United States, which made him an unfit person to enter this country. Villareal was the leader of the Mexican revolutionary movement in St. Louis.

No Passes For Land Agents

Chicago, Nov. 13.—All western railroads announce that they will discontinue the practice of issuing free transportation or reduced rates to land agents, and nearly 56,000 land agents will find themselves out of work. This action was taken because the interstate commerce commission ruled that the issuance of such transportation is illegal. Under the new conditions the methods employed in colonizing the country west of the Mississippi river must be revolutionized.

Hearst Says His Cause Is Right

New York, Nov. 13.—A complimentary dinner was given to W. R. Hearst last night by his associates on the Democratic and Independence League state tickets. Hearst said that he was proud of the cause he and his associates had fought for and of its partial success. That cause, he declared, was right and would be recognized as such "as soon as the din and dust and confusion of the battle shall subside."

A Long and Close Race

New York, Nov. 13.—An exciting race across the Atlantic came to an end when the steamer Noordam, from Rotterdam and Boulogne, arrived at Sandy Hook lightship 15 minutes ahead of the steamer Kroonland, from Antwerp. Since Nov. 6 not more than seven miles had separated the big steamers at any time and on one occasion they were only one mile apart.

Theatrical Trust Story Denied

New York, Nov. 13.—A statement was sent out by Klaw & Erlanger in reference to the telegrams speaking of the formation of a $50,000,000 theatrical trust, saying that there is absolutely no truth in the statement, not even the flimsiest foundation for it. The so-called theatrical syndicate is proceeding on the same lines that it has for some years.

Shanghaled Men Rescued

Norfolk, Nov. 13.—Nine men, alleging that they had been held in slavery on board the Chesapeake bay oyster dredge James A. Whiting, off Tangier island, since they were "shanghaled" from Richmond and placed aboard the Whiting Oct. 3, were rescued by deputy United States marshals and landed in Norfolk. The nine men were held as witnesses.

Lipton's Generous Contribution

New York, Nov. 13.—Sir Thomas Lipton last night opened a fair which was given for the benefit of a school established by the Carmelite Fathers. Following a brief address Lipton donated $1000 to the fair. Among the other donations was an oil painting by the wife of President Roosevelt.

Editor Charged With Murder

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 13.—Lauero Aguirre, recently arrested in connection with the alleged Mexican revolutionary movement here, has been rearrested at the request of the Mexican consul on a charge of "murder committed in Mexico." Aguirre edited a revolutionary paper here.

Pretty Wedding And Reception

A pretty wedding took place on Saturday evening, when the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cappelline of Columbia street was united in marriage to Lenord Colombo by the Rev. W. A. Brady of the Calvary Baptist church.

The bridesmaid was Miss Giannini of Brockton. Angelo Colombo, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a white Lu erre lace over white silk and wore a gold locket and chain set with pearls, a gift from the groom; and a gold bracelet, a gift from her uncle; and carried a bouquet of white roses.

The brides maid wore a blue silk trimmed with white lace and carried pink carnations and asparagus fern.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents from 6 to 10. There were guests from Brockton and Barre, Milford and Boston. Many beautiful and costy gifts were displayed. Mr. and Mrs. Colomlo left immediately on a trip to New York.

Cotton Wedding Mr. and Mrs. Carter

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Carter of Granite street celebrated their cotton wedding on Friday evening, Nov. 9, by entertaining a number of relatives and friends.

The home was prettily decorated in white and green, and the happy couple received their guests under an arch of autumn foliage.

In the course of the evening, solos were rendered by Miss Alice Nash of Weymouth, Mr. Mullen of Boston and Mr. Carter. Mr. John Bissett, father of Mrs. Carter, gave a most pleasing reading. Graphophone and cornet selections were also enjoyed.

A bountiful supper was served, and at a late hour the guests departed, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Carter much happiness. Friends were present from Boston, Wollaston, Weymouth and Quincy.

Quincy Coliseum.

There seems to be no slackening in the popularity of the revised sport of roller skating and the Coliseum roller rink is well patronized each evening by large crowds of pleasure seekers. In both the afternoon and evening one may see all sorts of fancy work by skaters, some of which is voluntary, while the exhibitions furnished by others do not appear to be in accordance with their intentions. The management has always on hand a corps of instructors to pay special attention to learners.

On Wednesday night there will be a souvenir party, every skater will receive a handsome souvenir. It is the intention of Manager Lanworth to give to his patrons the best attractions that can be secured and is now negotiating and booking some of the big attractions in the West.

Canadian Furs Luxurious.

Popularity of Canadian furs in the United States has come about in no small measure through the efforts of the Dunlap Cooke Company of Canada, Ltd., furriers, with their four stores in Canada and one in the United States, at 167 Tremont street, Boston. Their invasion of American Territory with "Canadian furs at Canadian prices," emphasizes the present-day Canadian progress. This enterprising company has just issued thirty-five thousand finely illustrated catalogues with embossed covers, beautifully executed in three-color work, and showing how luxurious are Canadian furs. These booklets will be mailed free upon request to St. John, N. B.; Halifax, N. S.; Amherst, N. S., or Boston. The Dunlap Cooke Company, by importing furs in to the United States in the raw state receive them duty free, as against a duty of thirty-five per cent. charged on manufactured furs. They are then made up to suit American tastes expressed by buyers of fine furs in the United States and Canada.

WORMS

Unsuspected worms are the cause of numerous little things that go wrong with children. When a child is sick you rarely think that its sickness is caused by worms, yet worms, either directly or indirectly, are the cause of three quarters of all the ills of childhood. Children, and often-times adults feel out of sorts, are irritable, feel listless and unrefreshed in the morning; suffer with indigestion, have a variable appetite, foul tongue, offensive breath; hard and full belly, with occasional gripings and pains about the navel; eyes heavy, and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; slow fever; and often in children, convulsions—in the majority of cases the cause of all the trouble is worms though you may not suspect their presence.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

a pure vegetable compound, has been the standard household remedy since 1854; it never fails to expel not only worms but all waste matter, leaving the blood rich and pure, the stomach sweet, the bowels regular and the whole system strong and healthy.

The mother who gives her children Dr. True's Elixir regularly is wise, because it not only increases the appetite, acts as a preventative of coughs, cold, fever and worms but gives rugged, robust health.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 35c, 50c and $1.00.

WARD COMMITTEE

An Ex-Member Replies to Criticism of Republican

Editors of Daily Ledger:

"Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise," and consequently I must say that the writer of a certain article in your issue of Saturday, the 10th, who signs himself as "Republican" is as chock full of bliss as a nut is full of meat.

In the first place the committees make no nominations of candidates for office, for the law demands that they shall give out nomination papers to those who apply, and then receive them in a legal way, and in no case does the committee file papers unless there happens to be less candidates than there are offices to be filled when the law says they shall fill such vacancies.

Regarding the statement of Republican" about the vote of Gov. Guild, it must be remembered that last year there was the largest vote for Governor cast in a number of years for the Republican candidate. This year there was a labor movement besides other things that worked against Gov. Guild, and considering those facts the Governor's vote was very favorable indeed. No committee can drive voters to the polls and make them vote contrary to their wishes.

It is amusing to me when "Republican" says that he wants committees who are not looking for their own elevation to office; committees which can be trusted with funds; committees which will work on election day for the party and not as election officers for the city."

When I was a member of the Republican committee in Ward One in 1905, I can remember that at a certain meeting of that Ward committee, all of those who had been recommended as election officers by the Mayor had requested His Honor to substitute other names in their places. This I know for a fact, for I was a member at that time and was present when these circumstances happened.

Maybe the Ward One Republican Committee of 1906 have sought office for some one of themselves, but I doubt it exceedingly, but I do know that the 1905 committee and several committees before neither sought nor looked for any appointment from any administration. This is a plain cold fact and I defy contradiction.

The Secret is Out.

The statement of "Republican" about wanting committees that can be entrusted with funds is very suggestive. During the several years I was a member of the committee I heard no word nor saw any act that would lead anyone to believe or suspect that there was any fraudulent handling of a single copper.

The treasurer is the sole custodian of the committee's funds and they all have been men whose reputations have been above reproach.

The members of the Republican City Committee have on more than one occasion dug into their own pocket to pay expenses of campaigns when those who received some of the "plums" utterly refused to contribute one iota.

In looking over the names of those whom Republicans recommend for election to the Ward One committee I find that four hold appointive offices under this administration, and another one has received quite a little remuneration for services rendered. If the voters of Ward One think that office holders are the proper people to impartially handle the affairs of party politics then their duty is plain.

The offices in our "Granite Temple of Government" are pretty well filled with different parties politically. Our complete "board" is, by many conceded to be made up of old timers in the party opposite to the one that is supposed to be handling the affairs of our city. I have heard something about "tariff for revenue only" at some place, at some time and who knows but that there may be Republicans.

Just a few more words about the Republican committee of ward one the past years and I will be done. I can say without fear of contradiction that they have done more committee work than any other one in this city. They have while I was a member distributed more than 90 per cent. of the national, state and city campaign literature.

I can remember only three years ago when the City committee voted to send municipal campaign literature to all the voters of the city and the committee of Ward One took off their coats and not only did they cover their own ward, but did that work for two other wards besides, and from the beneficiaries, they have not yet heard the word of thanks. There is a great deal more that ought to be generally known but space will not allow it at this time I presume.

Thanking you in advance for space, I was "A Committeeman of 1905."

W. F. Cummings School Committee Candidate at Large

Editors of Daily Ledger:

It seems a little unfortunate that Ward Two should this year place in the field a candidate for the School Committee, as it already has two members.

Last year Mr. Newcomb from that ward was elected member-at-large, and now the ward asks that it be given another member-at-large; or, in other words that it be allowed one-third of the entire committee while there are only two members living north of Adams Academy.

It does not seem to an unbiased mind either fair or wise to place one-third of the School Committee in a district containing less than one-sixth of the area of the city and only one-tenth of the pupils, while one-third of the city and over one-fourth of the pupils are represented by only two members.

It would seem that the fair minded voters of the entire city must this year concede to the northern part the right to name the candidate-at-large for the School Committee and will so express themselves at the caucuses. Mr. William F. Cummings, the candidate from Ward Six, has shown his interest in public affairs by his years of service as treasurer of the Y. M. C. A. and as an active member of the No-License League.

A Voter.

Francis, the Negro Desperado, Escapes From Prison

HE DODGED OUT OF LINE

Alarm Not Raised Until Too Late to Capture Him--Armed Posse Searching For Man Whose Immediate Capture Is Deemed a Necessity

Thomaston, Me., Nov. 13.—Minot St. Clair Francis, the negro desperado, who made a successful escape from the Massachusetts state farm at Bridgewater a little more than a year ago, bolted from the convict line at the state prison and, climbing a fence, ran to the woods and has not been apprehended. Every available man from the state prison was immediately ordered out to capture Francis and a number of officers were also pressed into the service from this city.

Francis and William Phelps, who was his companion in escape from the Bridgewater state farm, were sentenced to state prison here for 16 years for breaking and entering a building at Red Beach, Me., and shooting Watchman James Brown on Jan. 15, 1906. Both men were subsequently arrested in St. John three days later, and brought back to this state for trial.

About four months previous to the Red Beach robbery, or on Sept. 17, 1905, Francis and Phelps, who had been sent to the state farm from the Massachusetts state prison, scaled the wall surrounding the institution at Bridgewater and ran into the nearby woods. A greater part of the male portion of the community in Bridgewater and the surrounding towns searched for nearly a week for the negro. He was seen several times and once went into a farmer's house, where he threatened to kill the occupants if he was not given food. Later he was seen in the woods within a few miles of the Bridgewater institution, but evaded capture. Nothing more was heard of him until the Red Beach robbery and his subsequent arrest at St. John.

Francis came to the state prison here in February last, although not sentenced until April. He was employed in the harness shop and had been carefully watched every day. At the close of work in the shop yesterday afternoon the men were formed in line to march back to their cells. When about half way to the prison, Francis suddenly darted from the line and disappeared around the corner of the building.

His escape was not noticed for a few minutes, and when the alarm was raised he had disappeared. From several scratches on the wall and the conductor pipe up the side, it is believed that he reached his freedom by agile climbing. Tracks were seen leading in the direction of the woods, but before his pursuers could go any distance darkness shut down.

Lanterns were procured and word was sent to local police, as well as to the authorities of all the neighboring towns. Within an hour a posse of 100 armed men were endeavoring to pick up the trail of the fleeing desperado.

The country in this vicinity is not thickly settled and there is a fairly good chance of a man keeping under cover in the woods until starved out. There is also a possibility that a person might hide for some length of time in the workmen's shanties of the different quarries. The prison authorities are very frank in admitting the necessity of capturing Francis as soon as possible, and will spare no effort to that end.

In getting out of prison Francis was forced, after climbing up the conductor, to jump over a wall lined with long iron spikes. The leap was more than six feet, but he landed safely on another wall and from there easily reached the ground. He was some distance from the prison when he was seen running away by the guard, who turned his rifle on Francis and fired two shots, neither of which took effect.

Three or four hours after the escape it was discovtred that Francis had come back to the city and had stolen a horse and wagon, two persons seeing him drive off. An effort was made to follow up the tracks, but it was unsuccessful.

Warden Norton has offered a reward of $100 for Francis dead or alive, and a dispatch was sent to Washington for authority to increase the amount, Francis being under sentence here as a government prisoner, as the building which he broke into at Red Beach contained a postoffice.

Conspiracy Is Charged

Pittsburg, Nov. 13.—C. L. Close, J. J. Dunn and F. L. Emmet, formerly of the Shelby Steel Tube company, recently indicted for conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the installation of alleged inferior boiler tubes on a number of battleships, have given bond in the sum of $5000 each. The indictments against the men assert that defective tubes were used on 12 war vessels.

Depositors Needlessly Scared

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 13.—Polish depositors made a run on the Jackson City bank, having caught the erroneous idea that an official of the bank was involved in a local law suit. The bank remained open after the usual closing hours in order to satisfy all the depositors and meet the run satisfactorily.

BIRTH OF A HYMN.

Story of the Origin of "In the Sweet By and By."

A song of national circulation, "In the Sweet By and By," written by S. Fillmore Bennett of Elkhorn, Wis., had its birth in a country store. Mr. Bennett told the story, which is given in "Wisconsin In Three Centuries," as follows:

It was about time for closing business in the evening when J. P. Webster, whose melodies have made Wisconsin famous, came into the store, feeling somewhat depressed.

I said to Webster, "What is the matter now?"

He replied, "It is no matter; it will be all right by and by."

The idea of the hymn came to me like a flash of sunshine, and I replied: "The sweet by and by. Why would not that make a good hymn?"

"Maybe it would," he said indifferently.

I then turned to my desk and penned the hymn as fast as I could write. I handed it to Mr. Webster. As he read it his eyes kindled and his whole demeanor changed. Stepping to the desk, he began writing the notes instantly.

In a few moments he requested Mr. Bright to hand him his violin, and he played with little hesitation the beautiful melody from the notes. A few moments later he had jotted down the notes for the different parts and the chorus.

I do not think it was more than thirty minutes from the time I took my pencil to write the words before the hymn and the notes had all been completed and four of us were singing it exactly as it appeared in the Signet Ring a few days later and as it has been sung the world over ever since.

A NAVAL REBUKE.

Two Admirals, a Captain and a Fool In Manila Bay.

When Dewey's fleet was at Manila the late Admiral Chichester was then a captain. On one occasion Admiral Diedrichs, the German, sent out the Irene on an unrevealed errand and without the customary notification to the commander of the blockading fleet. Admiral Dewey had suffered, he thought, sufficiently from that sort of thing, and so the admiral sent a vessel across the Irene's bows and notified her captain that she would not be permitted to depart without a statement as to her destination. It was not Admiral Diedrichs' mission to quarrel with both the American and the English fleets on this critical occasion, so he sought to find out Captain Chichester's purpose in case of a collision. Going on board Chichester's ship, he angrily exclaimed, "Did you see what Dewey did to my ship?"

"Yes," replied Chichester.

"What would you have done if it had been an English ship?"

"Well," said Chichester, conveniently assuming that the Irene's captain had sailed without orders from Diedrichs, "I'd have put my captain in arrest, and then I'd have gone on board the Olympia and apologized to Admiral Dewey for having such a fool in command of one of my ships."—Harper's Weekly.

A Poet's Homely Face.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance, he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who, with Byron and Moore, was dining with him, and said:

"Chantrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What pose would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonmot.

Thankfulness.

I am no friend to the people who receive the bounties of Providence without visible gratitude. When the sixpence falls into your hat you may laugh. When the messenger of an unexpected blessing takes you by the hand and lifts you up and bids you walk you may leap and run and sing for joy, even as the lame man whom St. Peter healed skipped plously and rejoiced aloud as he passed through the beautiful gate of the temple. There is no virtue in solemn indifference. Joy is as much a duty as beneficence is. Thankfulness is the other side of mercy.—Henry Van Dyke.

Facial Horticulture.

"A new milkman left our milk today," announced Dorothy.

"Did he have whiskers?" asked her mother, thinking perhaps it was the proprietor.

"No," said the four-year-old; "he didn't have whiskers, but he had the roots."—Harper's Weekly.

Why She Couldn't.

"No, I didn't have a very good time," she said. "I wanted to talk, and there wasn't a man there."

"But there were plenty of other girls."

"Oh, of course, but that was no satisfaction, for they all wanted to talk too."

Unfair.

Another unfair thing in life—the bride, with a wealth of hair, wears a veil, but the groom, who has a bald spot and really needs a veil to cover it, is denied the privilege.—Atchison Globe.

The noblest motive is the public good. —Virgil.

GENERAL SHAFTER DEAD

He Commanded United States Troops In Cuban War of 1898

Bakersfield, Cal., Nov. 13.—Major General William R. Shafter, U. S. A., retired, died at the ranch of W. H. McKittrick, his son-in-law, 20 miles south of this city, after an illness of seven days. While returning from the polls last Tuesday Shafter contracted a severe chill which augmented a slight indisposition and necessitated confinement to his bed. Cheerful and hopeful, though fully cognizant of his critical condition, the general remained conscious until 9 o'clock yesterday morning. From that time he was unconscious until his death at 12:45 p. m.

William Rufus Shafter was one of the last of the Civil war notables. He was born in Galesburg, Mich., in 1835. He began teaching school at the age of 20, and at the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted, becoming first lieutenant of the Seventh Michigan infantry. His gallantry on the field led to rapid and frequent promotions, he being mustered out as brevet brigadier general at the close of the war in 1865.

Two years later, with the rank of lieutenant colonel, he entered the regular army, and was conspicuous for meritorious service throughout his long career as a regular army officer.

As major general, he went to Cuba, where he directed the campaign ending in the surrender of General Linan's army at Santiago, in July, 1898. He retired, with the rank of major general, in 1901.

Indictments For Peonage

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 13.—The United States grand jury at Pensacola, Fla., after four days' session, returned indictments against 12 persons, charging peonage in connection with cases which originated at the Jackson Lumber company's camps. The company imported from New York a large number of foreigners to work in its lumber camps. Many left the camps and it is charged that bosses of the company followed these men into Alabama, seized them and compelled them to return and work out the amounts due the company for transportation.

Attack on Hated General

London, Nov. 13.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says it is reported from Irkutsk, Siberia, that an unsuccessful attempt was made to kill the governor, General Rennekempff, by a bomb. The general was not hurt. The bomb-thrower was captured. Rennekempff, while at Tchita last March, issued a proclamation saying that if an attempt were made upon his life the 600 revolutionists in prison at Tchita would be executed within an hour.

Troops Move In Cuba

Havana, Nov. 13.—The series of practice marches throughout the island by American troops began with the departure from Camp Columbia of two mountain batteries for Pinar del Rio and a field battery for Matanzas. The men carry full rations and their tents. They are to proceed leisurely, studying the roads and strategic positions on the way. They will be gone about three weeks.

Lawyer Charged With Swindling

New Orleans, Nov. 13.—Affidavits, charging attempts to defraud the Commercial Germania Bank and Trust company of $47,000 and also charging the uttering of a worthless check for $16,320, have been filed against Fred Deibel, Jr., an attorney. He is one of six men examined for bank swindling.

Manila Bond Issue Ready

Washington, Nov. 13.—The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has invited bids for a $2,000,000 10-30 4 percent bond issue of the city of Manila. The issue is to provide funds for the purpose of continuing the work of constructing an adequate water supply and sewerage system for Manila.

Rheumatism Cannot Be Cured Unless Uric-O is Used

The Store of E. J. Murphy is the Home of Uric-O in Quincy.

The Rheumatic person is sceptical regarding the claims of almost any remedy advertised as a cure for Rheumatism and one can scarcely blame him for being so. All the plasters and liniments combined never actually cured a case of Rheumatism. They may relieve it one quarter, but it is sure to break out somewhere else. The only sure way to cure Rheumatism, is to drive it from the system, for as long as the Uric and Rheumatic Acid remains in the blood, one is never entirely free from the trouble. This is where the value of Uric-O as a permanent cure for Rheumatism comes in. It seeks out the Rheumatic poison in the blood, muscles and kindeys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of the system. That is why Uric-o is such an admirable and effective cure for Rheumatism.

The chief reason that Uric-o is such a wonderful cure for Rheumatism is, that it is designed and prepared to cure Rheumatism and Rheumatism only. It does not contain any alcohol or other so called tonics to make one "feel good" for the time being, but is composed of antidotes for the rheumatic acid poison in the system. That is the secret of its wonderful success. Rheumatism simply cannot exist in a person's system if Uric-O is used.

Uric-O is sold by E. J. Murphy, "The home of Uric-O" in Quincy, at 75c and $1.00 the bottle, but if you still feel skeptical about its efficacy you can test it free of charge by cutting out this advertisement and sending same together with your name and address to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and they will send you a sample bottle free. To persons who write and say they have never used Uric-O, want to test it thoroughly, and will agree to take it systematically according to directions, they frequently send a regular 75c bottle free.

PHYSICAL FORCE

Powers May Resort to It to Bring Morocco to Terms

BRITISH SHIPS READY

To Sail at Once and Engage In Demonstration In Moorish Waters In Conjunction With French Fleet--Will No Longer Stand Insolence of Morocco

Gibraltar, Nov. 13.—The British Atlantic fleet is to leave here for Tangier. In conjunction with a French fleet of warships it will engage in a demonstration in Moorish waters. The British warships were provisioned last night on very short notice.

During the last few months conditions in the interior of Morocco have constantly grown worse. Foreigners have been assaulted and outraged, towns have been raided, Jews have been persecuted and foreign vessels on the coast have been fired upon. While the diplomatic representatives of the powers concerned have protested to the sultan, their demands have been received with slight attention.

The diplomats at Tangier have protested more than once to the Moroccan authorities against the lack of protection for foreigners, but no improvement has been forthcoming. In fact, the local authorities have been increasingly aggressive and even insolent in their treatment of the local representatives of France and Spain. France already has one or two cruisers in Moroccan waters.

The American mission to Fez, under the American minister to Morocco, Mr. Gummere, is at the capital for the purpose, among other things, of obtaining satisfactory assurance for the safety of Americans in Morocco as well as due indemnity for outrages committed in Morocco upon persons under American protection. The reports of Gummere's mission make no mention of his success, and it has been declared that he will not leave Fez until he gets what he went for.

There is also at the present time German mission at Fez under the leadership of Dr. Rosen, the German minister to Morocco.

The international conference at Algeciras last spring agreed upon certain reforms for Morocco, and according to the provisions of the convention, which was accepted and signed by the sultan June 18, the reforms are to go into effect the end of this year. The sultan, however, has been described as holding the opinion that certain modifications of these reforms were necessary.

Bandit as Sultan's Ally

Tangier, Nov. 13.—News of the official nomination of Raisuli, the bandit chief, to be governor of the town of Arzilla and neighboring provinces has been received here. This nomination is made by the sultan.

Federation of Labor Convention

Minneapolis, Nov. 13.—The 26th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor was opened with the annual report of President Gompers, who outlined the progress of the labor movement throughout the country, laying special stress upon the advent of unionism in the political arena and recommending that the course be followed attentively. A strong plea was made for the employment of American labor on the Panama canal. The report of Secretary Morrison showed the Federation to be in a splendid financial condition, and with a stronger membership than ever.

Political Rights of Negroes

Nashville, Nov. 13.—The southern immigration and quarantine conference gave the opening session over to speechmaking. The sentiment of the delegates on the negro question was manifested in the burst of applause which greeted the statement of Governor Cox of Tennessee that the south alone should deal with the negro, that the negro should be protected and his rights preserved, but that political rights must be taken away from the low and vicious of the race.

Thaw's Line of Defense

New York, Nov. 13.—D. M. Delmas, a leading lawyer on the Pacific slope, has been retained to defend Harry K. Thaw, who has been indicted for the murder of Stanford White. Delmas was in consultation with his client at the Tombs prison and agreed with him on the line of defense, which will be justification of his deed and the demanded enforcement of the "unwritten law." Delmas has been admitted to practice in New York.

Railroad Man Shoots Himself

Dallas, Nov. 13.—While alone in a room at his home here, General Auditor Fenby of the Texas and Pacific system, one of the best known railroad men in the southwest, shot himself with a revolver. The bullet entered under the chin and came out of his face. Whether the shooting was accidental or premeditated is not known. His condition is serious.

Death Separates Oldest Twins

Amsterdam, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Jacob Steen died here yesterday afternoon in his 91st year. He and his brother, Walter, of Syracuse, who was at his bedside when he passed away, were the oldest twins in the United States. The Steens were born May 19, 1816. Jacob Steen spent his life as a farmer.

FOUR INCENDIARY FIRES

Persistent Firebug Alarms Providence Lumber Dealers

Providence, Nov. 13.—Four fires, two confined to lumber yards, but all of incendiary origin, broke out here in quick succession late yesterday afternoon. The first fire was in the stable of K. S. Mann. The upper part of the stable was damaged to the amount of several thousand dollars.

Before the firemen extinguished the fire in the stable an alarm came from the lumber yard of Burrows & Kenyon. A large shed in the yard was destroyed, together with about $15,000 worth of lumber.

While the firemen were at work in the lumber yard, fire broke out in the machine shop of Volney W. Mason. The blaze, however, was extinguished with a slight loss.

Some time later an alarm was turned in from the lumber yard of Perkins Bros., which was damaged to the amount of $10,000. All the evidence obtainable was indicative that all the fires were set.

Just as the firemen were leaving Perkins Bros'. yard another alarm was sounded for a slight blaze in Mann's stable, where the previous fire had evidently rekindled.

The lumber dealers of the city are greatly alarmed as the result of the attempts to destroy their property and they will offer a reward for the apprehension of the incendiary. Two suspects were arrested last night, but they were released after proving that they were not in the vicinity of the fires. All the lumber yards of the city are being guarded by armed men.

Deserted For Second Time

Newport R. I., Nov. 13.—Orders have been issued at Fort Adams to place on the list of deserters for the second time the name of Gustava Liesendahl, a private in the coast artillery, who, one of his comrades claims, was a German officer at Pekin during the Boxer troubles six years ago. Liesendahl deserted from the United States army in 1904 and gave himself up last March. He was sent to Fort Adams to serve a sentence, which expired a few weeks ago.

Against School Fraternities

Melrose, Mass., Nov. 13.—Resolutions vigorously attacking the methods of secret fraternal societies in the public schools were presented last night at a meeting of the Melrose school board. The general effect of such societies was declared to be bad in raising class and caste distinctions among pupils and leading the pupils to assume an attitude of defiance towards the orders of teachers, principals and even the rules of the school committees.

Youth Lost In Woods

Lancaster, N. H., Nov. 13.—An unsuccessful search was made for Phillip Conroy, 16 years old, a bellboy at the Lancaster house, who disappeared from a hunting camp in the Kilkenney mountains Sunday noon. As Sunday night was a very stormy one and snow fell in the woods to the depth of over a foot, it is feared that the boy perished in the storm.

Medical Student a Thief

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 13.—Herman Tobias, aged 20, a medical student, arrested for refusing to leave the Suburban clubhouse, where he has been porter for eight days, admitted taking articles from the clubhouse valued at over $400. The members, on their journeys over the United States, will distribute literature and organize Bryan clubs.

Six Men Killed by Explosion

Cleveland, Nov. 13.—Six men were scalded to death, two fatally injured and three seriously hurt when a boiler in the power house of the Lake Shore railroad in Collinwood, a suburb of Cleveland, blew up. Engineers at the power house say the explosion was due to the formation of a "mud ring" in the filtering apparatus, which clarifies the water before its passage into the boiler.

No Election Contests

New York, Nov. 13.—Chairman Woodruff of the Republican state committee issued the following statement last night: "I have not been requested by any candidate upon the Republican state ticket to institute any contest, or to institute any proceedings to open ballot boxes."

His Self Confidence

[Original.]

When Herman Easton parted with his mother in England, she to return to her home in America, he to finish his studies at Oxford, her last injunctions were to study hard, to beware of designing women and not make a misalliance. He assured her that he was wide awake on the latter subject, and she had nothing to fear for him. Half a year later he was graduated with high honors and wrote his mother that he had followed the first of her requests, and a man who could accomplish what he had accomplished at one of the oldest universities in the world certainly should be trusted not to make a fool of himself in becoming entangled with an unworthy woman.

A few weeks after that he took passage on an ocean liner for home. On the voyage he became acquainted with a lady who was registered as the Hon. Amelia Drysdale. She was of refined appearance, and her manners were those of the British aristocracy, a number of whom Easton had met while spending vacations with his university friends. She knew several titled people he had met and described them One of his college mates she claimed as a relative. "What, Cousin Dick!" she exclaimed. "Well, upon my word, to think that you should have been friends!"

There is nothing like discovering mutual friends to draw travelers together, and Easton was delighted at finding a young and pretty woman with whom to pass time which was all leisure. The Hon. Miss Drysdale was traveling with her mother, who, being troubled with seasickness, kept her room during the whole voyage. They were going to travel in America, first visiting friends in Newport whom Easton knew well by reputation. The moon when the ship left port was in the second quarter, and since fine weather prevailed he and the Hon. Miss Drysdale passed their evenings on deck under the soothing influence of its light. Byron says, "The devil's in the moon for mischief." Whether this be so or not, Easton found that it was especially conducive to drawing two people of opposite sex together. Besides, the time spent in England had given him a fancy for its aristocracy. "Mother," he said to himself, "thought me silly enough to get entangled with some actress or chorus girl. What would she say if I could tell her on my arrival that I was engaged to a daughter of an earl? I can't do that, of course, especially in so short a time, but I have friends at Newport, and I shall take care to secure invitations there."

Once just before reaching port he ventured to hint at more than an ocean acquaintance, more than any acquaintance, but the lady gently took occasion to say that all acquaintances with any but those born to the circles to which she had been accustomed could be only transitory. But on the morning of their arrival while they stood on deck, the vessel steaming up New York bay, she turned from him with a sigh that gave him a faint hope. Just before coming down the gangplank the mother came up, and Easton was presented. She was old and fat, and her daughter in no way resembled her. Easton offered the mother his arm, but the daughter would not permit. Instead she asked him to carry a bundle of umbrellas and parasols strapped together. He did so and when they had disembarked called a carriage for them, putting the umbrellas in after them.

As he was closing the carriage door he thought he saw a slight pallor come upon the face of the Hon. Miss Drysdale, which he could not but attribute to the parting. Quickly drawing one of the umbrellas from the package, one with a large silver knob on the handle, she gave it to him, saying:

"Please accept this as a token of my appreciation for your kindness during the voyage."

He bowed his acknowledgments and turned away. Then the carriage and all that made life a prospect of happiness for him departed.

Easton joined his mother, who was waiting for him on the dock. He concluded to have his baggage examined and take it with him. While waiting his turn he stood talking with his mother. His heart was too full to keep off the subject that engrossed it.

"Mother," he said, "I haven't been picked up by an adventuress. On the contrary, I have met a daughter of a British peer. I can't tell you that I have won her, but I am sure she loves me."

At that moment a customs inspector stepped up to him and said:

"I'll trouble you for that umbrella."

Easton was indignant, but surrendered the umbrella. The official opened and shook it. Then, seizing the silver knob at the handle, he turned it. The knob unscrewed, and the official shook the hollow handle. Out came a little ball of tissue paper. Unwrapped, it displayed a valuable diamond. The handle was full of diamonds.

Easton was thunderstruck.

"No blame to you," said the officials. "We had a cablegram warning us of a smuggler personating the Hon. Amelia Drysdale, whose maid she had once been. She saw that I was watching her, and I saw her give you the umbrella. She's under arrest. I'll trouble you for your name and address. We shall want your testimony."

During Easton's drive home with his mother the good lady spoke not a word of reproof at her son for being so easily taken in, and since he had no heart to talk they rode in silence, the mother mutely thanking heaven for having given her son a lesson.

Easton never wrote of the affair to his British friends.

NEW CONTRACTS

Fore River Company to Build Three Large Steamers

Three large steamers are to be constructed at Quincy for the New England gas and coke company, to be employed in transporting coal to its works in Everett says the Globe. In fact, work on the first of the trio has already begun and will be pushed forward by a large gang of workmen.

The gas company in the past has had its coal brought here in foreign bottoms, which were chartered for the business by the Dominion coal company. At the expiration of the present contract the gas concern will operate its own vessels.

The addition to these three steamers will materially increase the American tonage running to this port. They will be constructed of steel and will be modeled to some extent after the Catalone, Mystic and Dominion, which now make frequent trips here from Louisburg. The engines will be located aft, and the hold space will have a capacity for 7200 tons of coal, including bunkers.

By operating American steamers it will be possible for the company to secure its coal supply from American ports, which could not be done while employing steamers under foreign flags. The steamers will be 400 feet long and will be provided with all modern improvements. While building they will be designated as Nos. 141, 142 and 143. The names have not yet been decided upon.

The first steamer will be completed and ready for service next summer, and the others will follow within a few weeks thereafter.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Street Railway Officials Promise Some Next Week

The committee appointed by the West Quincy campaign committee to confer with the officials of the Old Colony street railway, relative to better street car service on the West Quincy line, met the officials at their Boston office on Monday afternoon.

The conference lasted over two hours and when it adjourned the committee had accomplished what it desired.

Under the new arrangement trailers will be run morning and night to accommodate the Tubular Rivet employes.

Extra cars will also be run on the West Quincy line between the hours of 6 and 7 in the morning and 5 and 7 at night.

The signs on the cars will also be changed so as to tell their designation better.

It was also given out that commencing next Monday other improvements in the local car service would be inaugurated.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

Masons receive the highest wages paid to workmen in Berlin, receiving $1.90 to $2.14 a day for piece work.

An alloy of sixty parts copper, one part tin and thirty-nine parts of zinc is found to offer great resistance to the action of sea water and has been largely used in naval construction.

It is estimated that the world's international commerce will aggregate this year fully $25,000,000,000. In 1850 the commerce between all the nations amounted to only $4,000,000,000. The increase in the half century has been therefore over 600 per cent.

It is calculated that in making coke in the common beehive ovens used in the United States between 350,000 and 400,000 tons of ammonium sulphate, every pound of it valuable for fertilizing purposes, is wasted yearly. In Germany most of the coke is made in improved ovens which save this by-product.

THE WRITERS.

Oliver Wendell Holmes used to carry a horse chestnut in one pocket and a potato in another to ward off rheumatism.

Longfellow enjoyed walking only at sunrise or sunset, and he said his sublimest moods came upon him at these times.

Twenty years ago a German publisher began to issue a complete collection of Goethe's letters. Thirty-four volumes are now in type, and it is expected that the rest of the letters, which will fill fifteen more volumes, will appear within four years.

The early literary compositions of the late Mrs. Craigie (John Oliver Hobbes) took a somewhat peculiar form. She wrote love letters for the servants, and the unconventionality of these epistles led to frequent quarrels and misunderstandings between the lovers.

STATE LINES.

Illinois leads the Union of states in wealth of farm lands. It ranks every other state in the average real estate value of medium farms per acre, having outstripped New Jersey, its rival in that particular, since the census of 1900 was taken.

Scotland is the hunting ground for easy marriages in fiction. But that is only because the writing persons do not know that in South Carolina it needs neither a clergyman, a magistrate nor a license to marry—simply the agreement of the two parties. No divorce is permitted for any cause.

☞ If you are without a maid you can secure some goodies at the fair for the Nurses' Home. Some delicious mince-meat has been made from an old recipe, also preserves and jellies. Mrs. Bass and Mrs. Tisdale have the table in charge. Mrs. Gilson and assistants are to serve afternoon tea and sandwiches from 4 to 6. There are also to be chafing dish concoctions, ice cream and cake and quantities of home made candy. The King's Daughters of the city are looking after the sweets.

—One of the early records in the United States of a protest against convict labor occurred at a mechanics' convention held in Utica, N. Y., in 1834.

—George Hughes, the only son of Thomas Hughes, famous as the author of "Tom Brown at Oxford," is the owner of a large ranch in Kansas.

24 Horse Hitch On a Casting

The temporary power plant at Quincy Point, which was in use during the construction of the big plant now in use, is being dismantled and carted away.

Several pieces have already been teamed to the railroad at Quincy Adams. Today the largest piece was transported on one of the teams of B. S. Brine, via of City Square.

Little difficulty was experienced except on the Washington street hill near the Canal. In the hitch were 24 powerful horses driven by two men.

☞ The table of fancy articles at the Nurses Home fair promises to be one of the gems of the sale as Mrs. Pfaffmann and assistants have worked hard for its success. They have collected beautiful things which will offer suggestions for Christmas. Go and get ideas even if you do not wish to buy. Mrs. Dasha has a large supply of useful household articles, and Mrs. Babcock will have ferns, potted plants, etc., to make your home attractive this winter also cut flowers in variety.

Interesting Lecture by An Expert At Wollaston

The full capacity of the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church was reached Tuesday evening when the Wollaston club held its monthly dinner, being the largest attendance of the season. A roast beef dinner was served.

President F. E. Parlin presided at the post prandial exercises.

C. J. H. Woodbury of the engineering department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of Boston, gave a very interesting illustrated lecture upon "The development of the telephone system."

He called attention to the extraordinary tasks for the establishment of the business which involved methods as far out of the ordinary in commercial affairs as the telephone instrument was unprecedented as an invention. The expensive lessons of experience required millions of money to develope the system on the larger scale which was demanded by the people, who found in the telephone a utility of such value that it has required every effort on the part of capital, engineering skill and administrative ability to extend the system to meet this commercial demand.

The methods of construction of telephone lines especially among the Rocky Mountains were illustrated on the screen and also the underground work in cities, as well as the equipment of the telephone offices.

While these were questions which in their details and to a certain extent in their general methods pertained to the specialists in electricity, yet the speaker advanced that the great relation of the telephone system with the public was that of the results by which this rapid communication of intelligence is modifying business relations to an extent which is of the greatest commercial importance as an essential part of the great business prosperity which prevails, not only throughout this country from ocean to ocean, but also among the European countries on the opposite side of the North Atlantic. This business prosperity is fundamentally based upon the growth of the indivual increment of effort.

The distance traversed by telephone communications in the United States amounts in the aggregate to thirty million miles locally and fifteen million miles more on long distance and toll transmissions, so that in these communications of forty-five million miles a day a vast amount of travel is displaced. That part which replaces the relatively servile occupations of messengers has relieved them from such nonproductive work, and permitted them to engage in directly productive occupations, thus in a two-fold measure adding to prosperity by changing their condition from one side of the economic balance to the other.

Another influence of the telephone is shown in the high sky-scrapers of our cities which would not be possible if it were not for the telephone service taking the place of messengers who would otherwise more than fill the greatest elevator capacity which could be put into such buildings.

The diminution of the messenger service in cities is indicated by the relatively diminished foot travel in the congested business portions of cities during the day.

The number of telephone communications is counted hour by hour in the large operating rooms in cities and the results may be shown by curved lines which indicate the mountains of talk which are conducted through the telephone service. The character of these curves is peculiar to each city and afford to the student in sociology curious revelations of the customs and habits of a community which do not appear to be indicated by any other form of statistics, such as the hours of labor of office occupants, which are longer in western cities than in the east; the hours of lunch, which reach the minimum in New York and the maximum in Philadelphia; the arrangements for evening entertainments, which are more noticeable in New York where they are also at a later hour than in other American cities.

However important the telephone may be in cities yet as a relative matter its greatest beneficence is in the rural districts, and even in the forest, in which places it is completely changing methods of life and business. Farm districts have been made profitable by the establishment of close relations with the markets by means of the telephone. The lumbering districts of the United States from Maine to Washington are conducted by means of the telephones extending into forests instead of by couriers plodding their way through the the forests amid extreme conditions of hardship and exposure.

The isolation of the population of rural districts is being modified by the personal relations which are available through the extensive telephone service which is available throughout nearly the whole agricultural districts of the country.

The people of this country are paying over one hundred million dollars for telephone service because it is cheaper than the time and travel required for other means of communication, and the problem of telephone rates has been the live issue from the beginning until the present day. The policy in fixing rates from the first has been to establish a price which would balance the expenditures for continuous operation for day and night without cessation, the maintenance of the plant in its complete condition, including not only the wear and tear and break down from storms but also the greater cost of improvements which inventors have produced from time to time, and to this should be added the cost be engineering work and other expenses, especially directories in which the New England company issue each year editions exceeding the number of volumes in any library in the country excepting the Congressional Library which contains copyright duplicates in great numbers, and finally the payment of the interest on the investment and these directories would fill fifty freight cars.

In many details the differences in telephonic conditions of each district produce variations in the cost of operation, and therefore of the rates for telephones, but as a whole these elements have been so nearly balanced in the New England Company that last year there was a balance of only 97 cents per telephone to be applied to a reserve which can be called upon for extraordinary expenditures necessary in case of severe storms or other catastrophes causing extensive destruction of telephone plant.

The suburban district around Boston is one of the areas of great telephonic activity of the world. This population, residing in 38 municipalities, contains 80,000 subscribers stations joined together by nearly a quarter of a million miles of wire of which over 175,000 miles are underground.

Stereopticon Lecture.

Rev. S. D. Turner of Brockton, is to give a stereopticon lecture at the Point church on Sunday evening. Mr. Turner has an excellent lantern and outfit and is to show 80 slides on the life of Jesus. This is one of the services in the course conducted by the Fore River men of the parish. There is of course no admission to this stereopticon lecture. A silver collection will be taken to cover the additional expense of lantern, gas, travelling expenses, etc. The lecture will be in the auditorium and everybody is most cordially invited.

Attorney General Moody Watching the Eight-Hour Law

HE WANTS IT OBEYED

Instructs United States Attorneys to Diligently Investigate Complaints--Cases of "Extraordinary Emergency" Defined

Washington, Nov. 14.—Attorney General Moody has issued a circular letter of instruction to United States attorneys regarding prosecutions of violations of the eight-hour law in which he says the government is determined upon a strict enforcement of this statute as relating to public works of the United States.

The text of the attorney general's letter is as follows:

"By order of the president, your attention is directed to the provisions of 'an act relating to the limitation of the hours of daily service of laborers and mechanics employed upon the public works of the United States and of the District of Columbia,' approved Aug. 1, 1892, commonly known as the eight-hour law.

"The government is determined upon a strict enforcement of this statute and you are directed diligently to investigate all complaints which may come to you from any source of violations of the law and upon your own initiative to make investigation if there appears to you to be any reasonable ground for suspecting violation of this law. In every case in which you can secure sufficient evidence, you will submit that evidence to the grand jury with a view to securing an indictment.

"Your attention is particularly directed to the exception in the first section of the statute under which laborers and mechanics may be worked more than eight hours in a calendar day 'in case of extraordinary emergency.' In a recent case in the district of Massachusetts, Judge Dodge defined that phrase as follows:

"'An extraordinary emergency, such as is contemplated by the act, is the sudden, unexpected happening of something not of the usual, customary or regular kind, demanding prompt action to avert imminent danger to life, limb, health or property. The possibility of danger is not enough. The peril must be certain, unusual, imminent and actual in order to constitute an extraordinary case such as the statute contemplates.' Judge Dodge also ruled that probable pecuniary loss to the contractor, unless due to an extraordinary emergency, as defined above, is only an ordinary business risk.

"I desire to impress upon you the importance of using every effort to execute these directions, of being vigilant and active in this matter. You will make prompt and full report to me of all cases and of your action thereon, with your reasons therefor. You will report immediately the action of the grand jury and the results of all trials, with a specific statement of the penalty imposed."

O. J. Carlton of Haverhill, Mass., has been appointed by the attorney general to have special charge of these cases in the department of justice.

It is stated that while up to two or three months ago comparatively few instances of alleged violations of the eight-hour law were brought to the attention of the department, during the last 10 weeks as many as 300 such have been reported. Carlton will act in conjunction with Commissioner Neill of the bureau of labor, who has furnished much of the evidence upon which the department is now acting.

Triple Murder by Desperado

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 14.—Fighting bravely in defense of their police captain, Patrolmen Blackstock and Bailey were shot to death last night by a negro named Will Harris of Charlotte, N. C., a desperado for whom a large reward has been standing for some time. Prior to the death of the two officers, a negro restaurant keeper, Ben Nelson, was shot and killed by Harris without provocation. Another negro named Tom Neil is mortally wounded, he, too, being shot before the officers took a hand in the melee.

Must Pay Their Own Fares

Washington, Nov. 14.—As the result of the passage of the railroad rate bill, the cadets of both the military and naval academies, who have heretofore been transported by the railroad companies to the annual football game between these two schools without charge, will in the future have to pay their own fares. The war department decided that it was illegal for the offer to be tendered or accepted.

Trying to Escape Prison

St. Paul, Nov. 14.—Attorneys for Thomas B. Clement, former president of the failed First National bank of Fairibault, announce that they will appeal to the United States supreme court from the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals, which decided that Clement would have to serve eight years in prison. Clement was convicted of responsibility for failure of the bank.

Marines' Services Needed in Cuba

Havana, Nov. 14.—It is probable that a force of about 1000 marines will be retained for duty in Cuba. General Bell believes that it is now possible to remove the prohibition upon officers of the marine corps from bringing their wives and families to Cuba.

THE HUNT FOR FRANCIS

Desperado Manages to Keep Ahead of His Pursuers

Thomaston, Me., Nov. 14.—Minot St. Clair Francis, the negro desperado, who broke jail here Monday, is still leading his pursuers, officers from the state prison, local officials and Knox county authorities, by several miles, having covered in the first 24 hours of his freedom nearly 20 miles along the west bank of Penobscot bay.

When the hunt was temporarily abandoned last night, Francis was thought to be in the vicinity of Centre Lincolnville, five miles north of Camden. The search for the negro began in earnest yesterday morning, and for a few hours good progress was made in picking up the trail. An abandoned team which Francis stole Monday night was found, and about noon it was thought that the negro had been located on Ragged mountain, one of the Camden hills.

Before the mountain could be surrounded word was received that Francis had been seen near the pest house just outside Camden, and again the force of searchers concentrated on the new trail. Every effort was made to catch up with the fugitive before darkness shut in, but he succeeded in keeping ahead of his pursuers.

The postal authorities at Washington have offered an additional $100 for Francis' capture, which places the amount of reward at $200.

The officers seem very confident that the negro will be in custody again inside of 24 hours. The chase was renewed this morning.

Pittsburg's Reign of Terror

Pittsburg, Nov. 14.—Holdups on the streets of this city continue to come to light with each succeeding day, and while the police refuse to make them public, a number find their way to the ears of the people. The police express confidence that Charles Buccini, now under arrest, is the slayer of Harry E. Smith, who was killed in his home by a burglar. The rewards for the arrest of the slayers of Smith or James E. McMillen, who was murdered a week ago, have been augmented by one of $5000, authorized by the city.

Corn Farmers Short of Help

Washington, Nov. 14.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has returned from Iowa. He says that Iowa and other corn states furnish no exception to the rule in regard to needing farm hands for the harvesting of crops. The corn crop is enormous and farmers are offering 4 cents a bushel for huskers. This enables good men to make from $3 to $4.50 a day and board.

To Test the Modus Vivendi

St. Johns, Nov. 14.—A colonial fishery inspector expects to issue writs today for the prosecution of colonial fishermen for joining American vessels in fishing operations. The colonial authorities strongly resent the attitude of the commander of the British cruiser Brilliant, who has assured the fisherfolk that the Anglo-American modus vivendi will protect them.

Knighthood For King Haakon

London, Nov. 14.—King Edward last night invested King Haakon of Norway with the Order of the Garter. Although knights of the order are elected from time to time as vacancies occur, there has not been an investure like the one of last night since 1855, when Queen Victoria conferred the honor upon Napoleon III and Victor Emmanuel, then King of Sardinia.

Forgery Charge Against Schooley

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 14.—George B. Schooley, the central figure in the contest over the will of the late J. L. Crawford, has been indicted for forgery. Shortly after Schooley started the contest he was arrested at the instance of one of the heirs on the charge of forging the name of Crawford to the will and codicil, which he was endeavoring to have probated,

Denies Charges of Cruelty

Norfolk, Nov. 14.—Captain Crockett of the Chesapeake bay oyster dredge James A. Whiting, from which the nine "shanghaied" men were rescued by deputy United States marshals and landed here, has arrived from Tangier island. He denies all of the charges of cruelty preferred by the rescued members of his crew.

Three Parties of Boer Raiders

Cape Town, Nov. 14.—According to the latest information received here, the colony has been invaded by two new parties of Boer freebooters in addition to the men operating under Ferreira. The police have had an ineffectual brush with the Ferreira party.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

New York State Republicans Made No Campaign

"MOST ASININE POLICY"

Odell Indulges In Criticism and Says That Roosevelt Did Harm to the Party--Looks Like a Democratic Victory

New York, Nov. 14.—Benjamin B. Odell, former governor and ex-chairman of the state Republican committee, was asked what he thought of the result of the election.

"I would hardly call it satisfactory from a Republican standpoint," he replied. "It seems to me it leaves our party in bad shape, with an important national campaign coming on. I'm greatly concerned over the future. The Republican party is not united as it ought to be."

"What do you think of the management of the Republican campaign?"

"It was most asinine. There was the most asinine policy I ever knew. As a result we have only elected the head of our ticket. There was no reason for this. We might just as well have elected our entire ticket. As things stand, it looks very much like a Democratic victory."

"In what particular was the campaign mismanaged?"

"Why, the Republicans made no campaign at all, and no canvass. The bulk of the work was put on Hughes' shoulders. I heard absolutely nothing about any state campaign up my way. We didn't know there was a headquarters down here. I wasn't notified of anything that was going on. My advice was never asked once. Many of my friends all over the state had the same experience."

Continuing, Odell said: "The people of this state have always resented the interference of a President of the United States in their local elections. They have done so since the days of Dewitt Clinton. I think that the interference of President Roosevelt did more harm than good.

"I do not wish to appear in the role of general critic of the conduct of the campaign, but, so far as I can make out, there was no real campaign. No use was made of the record of the Republican party. It was all a case of personalities between the candidates for governor. We should have stood for many of the things that Hearst advocated, like the eight-hour law and the three-platoon system for the police and firemen."

Mr. Odell went on to say that he had been informed that deputies in the insurance department and in the department of public works were to be promoted by Governor-elect Hughes as a reward to Francis Hendricks and George W. Aldridge.

Mr. Odell said that Hearst was greatly strengthened as a political factor by his campaign and that, while he might not be elected president, he was now a man to be reckoned with in the future. He said that a combination of Bryan and Hearst would be one hard for the Republicans to beat.

"I believe," said Odell, "that with intelligent management the entire Republican state ticket could have been elected. I am not knocking, but I am very much concerned for the future of the Republican party. I believe that by the exercise of mutual forbearance and consideration, the Republican party can be put in shape to make a successful campaign in 1908."

Asked what he thought of the efforts to save the Republican state ticket by having the void ballots counted, Odell said: "I don't believe that any of the candidates want anything unfair done. No attempt to count in the Republican candidates will be tolerated. Attempts to count in candidates always react on the party that seeks to profit by them."

Mr. Odell said that he was confident that Hughes would make an excellent governor. "He will have opportunities to do great things, and I believe he will rise to them," the former governor said.

Massachusetts Law the Best

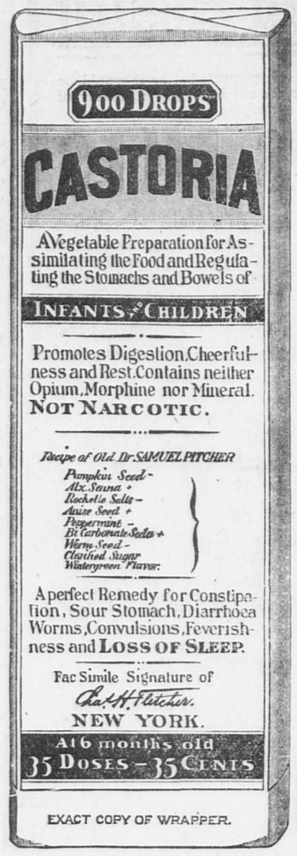

New York, Nov. 14.—Louis F. Payn, a member of the Republican state committee, in an interview last night at the Republican headquarters, declared that "a change of some kind is necessary in the Republican organization in the state if there is any desire to keep the party together. Payn added: "I am thoroughly in favor of ballot reform of the best kind. The Massachusetts ballot law is far superior to ours and that would be a great benefit. We ought to get that law."

Canvassing New York Vote

New York, Nov. 14.—The official canvass of votes cast in the recent election has begun in all of the 61 counties of the state. The final figures from all the counties probably will not be available for several days and it is impossible even to estimate how far the corrections will affect the vote for these state offices about which there is still some slight doubt.

Congratulations to Hearst

New York, Nov. 14.—At a meeting last night of the executive committee of the Independence League, resolutions were adopted congratulating Mr. Hearst upon the result achieved in the recent election in New York state and pledging the continuance of the Independence League as a means for the furtherance of the principles advocated by Hearst.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Draper's Account Shows Heavy Expenditure to Gain Victory

Boston, Nov. 14.—The various candidates at the recent state election are daily complying with the law requiring the filing with the secretary of state of the amounts expended during the campaign.

Governor Guild's account shows contributions of $1850, Lieutenant Governor Draper of $10,000 for his election expenses and $6000 expended for his nomination. Last year Draper's campaign for nomination and election cost him $33,120.

District Attorney Moran, the Democratic candidate, who received over 190,000 votes for governor, filed his statement, which showed no contributions or expenditures.

Among the other returns were A. J. Peters of Boston, candidate for congress, $3491; C. G. Washburn of Worcester, candidate for congress, $350; G. P. Lawrence of North Adams, candidate for congress, $250.

Riot In a Boston Hotel

Boston, Nov. 14.—The police were called on late last night to quell a disturbance in the cafe of the Hotel Lexington in which a score of young men said to have been Harvard students broke two large windows, tables, chairs, mirrors and glassware, resisted the officers and made things decidedly lively for a quarter of an hour. Six men were arrested by a squad of 10 patrolmen on charges of disorderly conduct, larceny, resisting police officers and drunkenness. The police also took the names of 14 others. It is said that the disturbance was due to the refusal of waiters to serve liquid refreshments after 11 o'clock.

Andover Seminary's Decline

Boston, Nov. 14.—The trustees of Andover Theological seminary (Congregational) have received a letter from President James of the University of Illinois, offering to transfer the seminary to Illinois. The offer comes at the most critical stage in the life of the theological seminary, its attendance having declined to only 14 students at the beginning of the present year, with an entering class of only three. The seminary was founded in 1807 and for many years was the most widely known institution of the kind in America. No action has yet been taken on James' offer.

Youth Probably Perished

Lancaster, N. H., Nov. 14.—The search for Philip Conroy, 16 years old, who strayed away from a hunting camp on Kilkenny mountain Sunday noon, was abandoned last night, the belief being that the boy perished in the storm Sunday night. A posse of 200 men, aided by two bloodhounds, scoured the country for a radius of 15 miles from the camp, but the snow was still deep in the woods and the hounds could not pick up the trail.

Capital Punishment Stands

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 14.—Notwithstanding the agitation a year ago in opposition to the hanging of Mary Rogers, the lower branch of the legislature, by a vote of 79 to 140, refused to pass to a third reading a bill abolishing capital punishment. An effort was made to substitute a provision in the bill making imprisonment for life the punishment for a woman convicted of murder in the first degree, but this was also voted down.

Loot Recovered From Pawnshops

Boston, Nov. 14.—Two Philadelphia officers visited this city with Marshall W. Parker, a negro, charged with the robbery of $10,000 worth of jewels at Philadelphia, and the prisoner led them to several pawnshops, where jewels valued at $2000 were recovered. Before leaving for Philadelphia last night the officers stated that practically all the stolen property had now been recovered.

The Immigrant Train Wreck

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 14.—Coroner Carson has received no complete list of the dead and missing in the Baltimore and Ohio wreck. The list he is compiling contains 30 names and it is believed nearly 20 are yet to be obtained. The work of clearing away the debris is proceeding, but nothing further than a mass of twisted iron and piles of bones are revealed.

Peru Wants to Keep Silver

Lima, Nov. 14.—Although there exists no law to the contrary, the government refused to allow a local firm of bankers to ship 12,000 silver sols (about $12,000) to London. Furthermore, the authorities are searching the baggage of passengers leaving the country and all silver coin in excess of 10 sols is being seized. The price of silver in Peru is rising.

Prince Snubbed by Socialists

Brussels, Nov. 14.—Prince Albert of Flanders, the heir apparent to the Belgian throne and nephew of King Leopold, was sworn in yesterday as a member of the Belgian senate. The ceremony was imposing and brilliant. The socialist members of parliament abstained from attending the ceremony.

Strike Danger Disappearing

New York, Nov. 14.—There no longer appears to be any danger of a strike of railroad employes in the east, as the situation with reference to the demand of the members of certain organizations has considerably cleared. Conferences are still in progress.

Lives Lost In Village Fire

Martins Ferry, O., Nov. 14.—The village of Richland was practically wiped out by a fire caused by an explosion of gas. Two children of a foreign miner were burned to death in the flames. The village has no fire department.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

The Peabody club entertained the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs most royally on Wednesday, Nov. 7th, and there was a large attendance of women from all over the state. The morning session was devoted to reports of the biennial held at St. Paul, which were of special interest as the next meeting is to be held in Boston. Lunch was served to over four hundred at noon. Many enjoyed auto rides about the town during the noon recess. The special speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Enos A. Mills, state forester of Colorado. He told interestingly in anecdote and hard fact how to preserve our forests and of the benefit forests were to the country. He said cut down the trees if necessary but plant more to take their place. He advocated large expenditures by the government in tree planting. His subject was a broad one but contained much food for thought for village improvement societies, civic betterment committees, etc. Affairs of national importance are now brought to Women's clubs for help in working them out. Those discussed at the Peabody meeting were:—the saving of Niagara Falls from further encroachment by companies for mercantile purposes; medical inspection in the public schools; saving the forests; working for international peace—more peace and less warships. All received the endorsement of the women present. It is flattering that leaders in all reforms and schemes for the uplifting of humanity and the world generally now turn to the women's clubs for help and sympathy.

The Dorchester Woman's club netted $450 at their recent sale, held to raise money for charitable purposes.

The Hyde Park Current Events club has outgrown the Y. M. C. A. hall and are to meet for the remainder of the year in the lecture room of the Methodist church.

Among the series of free lectures under the auspices of the Women's Educational and Industrial union, at Perkins hall, Boston, are two by Mrs. Ellen H. Richards on Saturday mornings Nov. 17 and 24 at eleven o'clock. Her subject will be "Values in Every Day Life."

The Monday club of Weymouth is seriously considering withdrawing from the General Federation. A motion to withdraw was laid on the table until the next meeting.

Milton W. R. C. is to hold a shirt waist dance on Monday evening, Nov. 26th.

Brightelmstone club of Brighton is preparing for reciprocity afternoon next Monday, when prominent women from other clubs will speak upon club work. Nov. 16th the current events class is to start and the choral class has also been started. A series of whist afternoons is to commence Nov. 20th.

On Nov. 19th at their rooms on Clarendon street, Boston, the art and literature committee of the New England Women's club presents Mrs. Walter Stokes Irons as the speaker, her subject will be "Women of Colonial Days." A club tea will be served at six o'clock.

Members of the Old Colony club of Weymouth are to give a play at the next meeting of the club on Nov. 22.

The Hospital Aid association of Somerville commenced this week a series of whist parties, which they are to hold once a month.

GRIEVANCE OF JAPS

Think Sealing Ships Unlawfully Seized by Russians

THE SITUATION SERIOUS

Would Become Critical Should Japanese Warship Meet Russian Cruiser With Prize--Report That Two Russian Patrol Ships Have Been Sunk

Washington, Nov. 14.—No confirmation of the Victoria report that two Russian converted cruisers had been sunk by a Japanese destroyer in the neighborhood of the seal islands can be had at the state department or the Russian and Japanese embassies here.

Unofficial reports are to the effect that there has been much friction between the Russian guards patrolling the seal rookeries in the neighborhood of Copper islands and Japanese seal poachers, similar to the friction which has arisen in the case of our own seal islands, and the officials would not be surprised if bloodshed resulted off Copper island, as in the case of the Pribilof islands.

One report was that the crew of a Japanese sealing vessel had attacked the Russian shore patrol, firing repeatedly at the blockhouse in which the latter sought refuge. In return the Russian cruisers have captured several Japanese sealing vessels and hard feelings have resulted because the Japanese claim that they were unlawfully seized outside of the three-mile limit, and the fishermen have called upon their own government for protection.

The situation is regarded here as one that might readily become critical in case a Japanese warship should fall in with a Russian cruiser carrying off a prize of this kind.

Converted Cruisers Reported Sunk

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 14.—Two converted cruisers, Sitka and Kelima, according to advices received from the Empress of China, have been sunk by a Japanese destroyer at the seal rookeries off Copper island.

A Japanese newspaper prints a dispatch from Vladivostok telling of the act, and it has created great excitement in Japanese cities where the news has been received. The dispatch adds that excitement runs high in Vladivostok, also.

The two vessels reported sunk had been doing patrol duty in the seal waters. The cause of the clash between the Japanese destroyer and the patrol boats has not been learned.

Copper island lies east of Southern Kamchatka and is in Russian territory. It is believed that the vessels that were sunk were Russian boats.

Tunnel Promoters Sustained

New York, Nov. 14.—That the New York and Long Island Tunnel company has the right to build its tunnel under the East river, and that Fire Commissioner O'Brien was not justified in revoking the blasting permits of the contractors, is the pith of a decision handed down in the supreme court. Since work on this tunnel was begun claims have been made that the company had no franchise and that it was a "tunnel grab."

Lone Robber Loots Bank

Newton, Kan., Nov. 14.—The Midland bank of Newton was held up by one man and robbed of $1000 in currency. The robber advised the clerks and bystanders that they would all die together should any effort be made to detain him. Seven persons were in the bank and all were ordered into the vault and locked in. The robber then secured what currency was in sight and escaped.

Customs Examiner Loses Position

New York, Nov. 14.—Following an investigation of the alleged undervaluation of precious stones in the customs service at the port of New York, General Mindil, for many years chief examiner, has been dismissed from the service by order of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw. Mindil is an ex-army officer and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Loyal Legion.

Six Causes For Absolute Divorce

Train Ran Into Building

Newcastle, Pa., Nov. 14.—One man was instantly killed and three persons probably were fatally injured when a passenger train crashed into a wagon heavily loaded with sawlogs on a grade crossing at Edenburg. After colliding with the wagon the train left the tracks and ran into a flouring mill, demolishing the building.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

Mrs. W. E. Alden will be the hostess for the meeting of the Friday club on Nov. 16th with Mrs. Wilson Marsh in charge of the program, the subject being Charles Algernon Swinburne and Theodore Watts Dunton.

The Social Science and Literary club of Atlantic meets on Tuesday afternoon Nov. 20th.

The Wollaston Ladies' Aid Alliance will hold a sewing meeting on Wednesday Nov. 21st.

Owing to illness in the family of Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, the next meeting of the Junior Friday club will be held with Mrs. Alfred Thompson of Brook street, Wollaston. It promises to be interesting as the subject will be, Oliver Wendell Holmes; the program in charge of Miss Edith Randall.

Mrs. Frederica C. Babcock is to speak upon "Domestic Science—More Domestic Than Scientific," at the meeting of the Home club on Nov. 20th.

Miss C. Belle Kenney of the Quincy Mansion school, secretary of the New England Women's club, brought the greetings of her club to the federation meeting of the Old Colony club of Weymouth last week Thursday.

Many of the Alliance Branch of the Wollaston Unitarian church attended a meeting at Quincy Monday, to hear Rev. Albert Lazenby on English and American Unitarianism. They were much pleased with Mr. Lazenby, and felt they had learned a good deal from his interesting development of the subject.

There was a meeting Tuesday in North Eastern with Rev. Mr. Wendte as the speaker. He is a fascinating speaker, as most of the Alliance Branch know. There was a large attendance.

Over fifty ladies were present at the Alliance meeting on Monday afternoon in the parlor of First church. Mrs. E. C. Butler was chairman of the afternoon's program and secured as the speaker Rev. Albert Lazenby of Lynn, who spoke on "English and American Unitarianism." Mr. Lazenby was born in England and had a wide experience in the pulpit before coming to this country some seven years ago. He is an ardent Unitarian, honest in his convictions and made a forceful address. Besides Alliance members there were guests from Bethany and Christ church. Cocoa and light refreshments were served during the social half hour. The meeting was not as largely attended as usual owing to the dull weather and to several members attending the annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable society which was held at about the same hour.

The Social Science and Literary club of Atlantic held a regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Thompson, Squantum street. Current events were discussed. Literary work King Henry VI. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Eastman, Hancock street, Atlantic.

The Shakespeare club of Atlantic will meet with Miss Elizabeth Cook of Russell street Thursday afternoon. Mrs. John Carver and Mrs. George Richards will read papers on the mythology of the plays already taken up in detail.

QUINCY WOMENS CLUB.

Those who thought they were not interested in the tramp question and did not attend the meeting of the Women's club on Tuesday afternoon, missed one of the best afternoons of the season. There was however the usual large attendance.

For the first time the club had the pleasure of having its second vice president in the chair. Mrs. Hardwick explained that Mrs. Bumpus, had been called to California by the serious illness of her brother, and expressed the sympathy of the club for her.

A short business meeting was held, after which the program was in the hands of the Philanthropy committee; Mrs. Welch, chairman, introducing Miss O. M. E. Rowe of Boston, who spoke on "The Tramp and how to Eliminate Him."

Out of a decidedly uninteresting object, Miss Rowe created considerable interest but aroused no sympathy for the tramp and in Quincy hereafter, there will be less feeding and giving of money at the back door. She put it very strongly that all who gave to these knights of the road encouraged pauperism, laziness, drunkenness, robbery and almost every crime. A man who could beg several dollars an hour was not going to do any regular work. Women should aim to protect the home and by discouraging promiscuous almsgiving much could be accomplished. Do not give without investigating.

The Hospitality committee served refreshments. An inovation was another tea table in the reception room presided over by Mrs. Beattie. In the dining room Mrs. Gow and Mrs. F. H. Smith poured. Chrysanthemums brightened the tables and a spirit of hospitality and sociability prevailed. Interest in the meetings is increasing as the members become better acquainted.

UNITY CLUB.

The program of the Unity club of Wollaston, Nov. 7, was under the direction of Mrs. Bishop. The subject of the evening was "Growth in population of the United States." Dr. Robert E. Park gave a very interesting paper on population, the north-west movement. Miss Gertrude Frances Greene considered the immigration question, and Walter E. Simmons told of "Some immigrants I have known." The music was in charge of Mrs. Donald Blakie and there were solos by Mrs. Mary Hastings Slade. All present passed a very helpful and entertaining evening.

Mrs. Moore's Death Was Accidental

Judge Avery filed his return this morning on the inquest held before him Sept. 24, on the death of Mrs. Bertha Moore, wife of Richard S. Moore of Braintree, who was drowned in Sunset lake, in South Braintree, on the afternoon of Sept. 3.

After reviewing the testimony, Judge Avery says that Mr. and Mrs. Moore were in a canoe which ran upon a rock and stuck. In attempting to move so as to release the bow the canoe was capsized.

In conclusion he says "I find that she came to her death by accidental drowning, and it does not appear that the unlawful act of any person contributed thereto."

☞ If you are without a maid you can secure some goodies at the fair for the Nurses' Home. Some delicious mince-meat has been made from an old recipe, also preserves and jellies. Mrs. Bass and Mrs. Tisdale have the table in charge. Mrs. Gilson and assistants are to serve afternoon tea and sandwiches from 4 to 6. There are also to be chafing dish concoctions, ice cream nd cake and quantities of home made candy. The King's Daughters of the city are looking after the sweets.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Letter from President Pendis

Editor of Quincy Daily Ledger:

In your paper of the 12th inst. we have noticed a meeting of the St. Mary's Catholic Total Abstinence Society on Sunday, the 11th inst., in which it was stated that action was taken by the Society endorsing one of the candidates for Mayor of Quincy.

If you will allow us a few lines in your paper we will state that no such action was taken, or no such an endorsement made. This society never has, or never will take any action in politics, unless temperance is the issue, as otherwise we would be acting contrary to the principles upon which the society is founded.

Trusting you will set us right before the public in this matter, we are,

Respectfully yours,
St. Mary's Catholic
Total Abstinence Society.

Drift of Opinion.

☞When Mrs. Sage announced her intention to give her money away to worthy individuals, she opened the door to a horde of beggars that will drive her crazy if she does not take care. Eighty millions could not last long in such a crowd, but of course she has no intention of turning them in that direction. Her greatest trouble will be in the flood of correspondence that will be turned in her direction. She will have to arrange for a large clerical force and it will afford work for her secretaries to receive, arrange and answer or destroy the millions of letters she will receive.—Lynn Item.

Miss Catherine Horsboel of Copenhagen, Denmark, is the only woman cabinetmaker in the world, and her substantially built furniture is said to be the rage in fashionable Europe.

Mrs. Imogene Paul is the only woman road superintendent in the world, and she lives in Chicago. She is said to be very efficient in her work and makes the teamsters keep their tires of the size required by law.

Mrs. William J. Bryan learned years ago to assist her husband in his work and had a typewriting machine with her and copied all his articles on their trip abroad. On the train it was a common sight to see her fingers pounding away at the keys.

Miss Carrie Moyer, a seventeen-year-old girl living in Macungie, Pa., earned good money all last summer by pitching for various baseball teams in the Keystone State. Her peculiar twist of the sphere is what fools the batsman. Miss Moyer is a handsome girl, of splendid physical development, strictly refined in manner and a leading social light in her home town.

Miss Helen Gould and Mrs. Russell Sage are often seen shopping in New York city, and they never would be taken for two of the richest women in the world. They generally walk from shop to shop, enjoying looking at the window displays, and take the same delight in buying as though either one of them was not able to give a check for the entire store and hardly miss the money.

GETS HER DIVORCE

Anna Gould Legally Separated From Count de Castellane

PROOF OF HIS INFIDELITY

Not Even Given Money Allowance and Must Pay Costs--Woman Has Custody of Children, With Certain Restrictions

Paris, Nov. 15.—The tribunal of first instance of the Seine, Judge Ditte presiding, granted a divorce to Countess de Castellane (formerly Anna Gould of New York), and gave her the custody of her children, who, however, will not be allowed to be taken from France without the consent of their father, Count Boni de Castellane.

The judgment is a sweeping victory for the countess. In granting her petition for divorce, the court gave the countess the custody of her children, the count being allowed only the usual rights to see them and share in the control of their education, which is not contested.

The only point decided in the count's favor was the imposition of an inhibition on the countess to take the children out of France without their father's consent. The court appointed the president of the chamber of notaries to liquidate the affairs of the husband and wife.

The judgment was given with costs against the count. The text of the decree does not go into the details of the countess' bill of particulars, "inasmuch as Mme. de Castellane submitted letters and documents, several of which were from the count himself, establishing sufficiently that since their marriage he had relations and correspondence with various women of easy virtue which was most offensive to a wife, thus rendering himself guilty of acts justifying a divorce, and as he had failed to establish a reconciliation, the petition of Mme. de Castellane is granted."

The count's demand for an "alimony allowance of $50,000 annually" was denied on the ground that the guilty party in a divorce loses all the advantages accorded either by a marriage contract or the course of married life, and consequently the court refused to allow not only the count's original claim for $50,000 per annum, but the $30,000 which the countess offered and which it now seems the count claimed to have accepted Oct. 25.

The court also took a precaution against any unreasonable attitude on the part of the count toward allowing his wife to take her children out of France by providing that in case of his refusal judicial authorization could be granted. The decree orders the countess to send the children on Thursdays and Sundays to their grandmother, Marquise de Castellane, and their surrender to their father for a week at New Year's and Easter and for a month in the summer.

Mme. Gould, as the former Countess de Castellane will hereafter be known, her title having ceased with the granting of the divorce, expressed the greatest satisfaction when she received the news at her residence. Helen Gould was with her at the time.

Although the court denied the count's application for an annuity, there is the best ground for stating that Mme. Gould will make a liberal allowance to the father of her children.

Anna Gould, the youngest daughter of the late Jay Gould, was married to Count Ernest Boniface de Castellane, the eldest son of Marquis de Castellane, at the New York home of her brother, George J. Gould, March 4, 1895, the late Archbishop Corrigan officiating. Miss Gould's dowry was understood to have been $18,000,000, and it was further stated that her income was $600,000 a year. Immediately after the marriage, the couple left the United States for France, where the extravagant manner in which they lived attracted attention. About five years after the marriage the count and countess were reported to be financially embarrassed, it being alleged that the count had already spent about $7,000,000 of his wife's money. An adjustment of their affairs became necessary and considerable litigation followed, with the result that the Gould family intervened and the income of the countess was cut down to $200,000. On Feb. 5 of the present year the countess entered a plea for divorce before Judge Ditte and he, in conformity with the French law, endeavored to arrange a reconciliation before allowing a definite suit to proceed.

The efforts to reconcile the couple were unsuccessful and sensational reports were circulated regarding the count's conduct. The three children of the Castellanes are George, Boni and Jay, the last being the youngest and named after the late Jay Gould.

Terrorists Sentenced to Death

Lynching May Follow Capture

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 15.—Will Harris, the negro desperado, who shot and killed two policemen and three negroes and wounded Police Captain Page in this city, is still at large. Lynching is feared in case the negro is captured.

ROCKEFELLER INDICTED

Three Others Accused of Violating the Anti-Trust Law

Findlay, O., Nov. 15.—The grand jury has found indictments against John D. Rockefeller and three other persons in connection with the Standard Oil inquiry, which was reopened upon the reconvening of that body in adjourned session. The bench warrants issued upon the indictments were placed in the hands of Sheriff Groves, who went to Cleveland, where it is supposed they are to be served.

It is understood the indictments charge the defendants with having continued to contract the oil productions and to fix prices on and after July 7, 1906, in violation of the Valentine anti-trust act, a state law under which the recent prosecution of the Standard Oil company in this county was conducted and in which a fine of $5000 was imposed by the probate court.

Prosecutor David states that no attempt will be made at this time to compel Rockefeller to come here, as his appearance has already been entered by his attorneys in the matter of the information now pending in the probate court.

Cleveland, Nov. 15.—Deputy Sheriff Johns of Hancock county arrived here last night and made public the names of the three other persons indicted at Findlay, in addition to the indictment against Rockefeller. Johns has warrants for the arrest of M. G. Vilas, treasurer of the Standard Oil company of Ohio; J. M. Robertson, secretary, and H. P. McIntosh, a director of the same company. Johns was unable to locate any of them and at their respective homes he was told they were not in the city.

Truth Hurts Russian Authorities

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—The Russ, which appeared yesterday under its own name after nearly a year of shifting titles, again has been suppressed. This measure was taken by the prefect because of the publication of an article by a noted jurist, in which he deplores the debasement of all moral consciousness in Russia. The writer instances the executions of women and children and lays particular stress upon the case of Anna Benedictova, the girl student who was executed at Cronstadt for complicity in the plot to blow up a building. The girl was about to become a mother and the writer quotes from a Russian statute which postpones the infliction of the death sentence upon a woman until 40 days after the birth of her child.

Bryan Talks to Presbyterians

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—William J. Bryan, an elder in the Presbyterian church at Lincoln, Neb., last night addressed the convention of the new church organization to be called the Presbyterian Brotherhood. The speaker said he began church life as a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church when he was 14 years old. Comparing the time he had been in the Cumberland church with that he had been in politics, he said, the "ratio appeared to be all right." He declared there could be no real morality without religion as the foundation of morality. "Tolstoi defined religion," said Bryan, "as the relation between man and his God, and this is one of the best definitions I have been able to find."

No Political Liberty

Moscow, Nov. 15.—The governor of Moscow has issued a circular which extends to a vast number of zemstvo and municipal employes the prohibition that no state employe shall belong to an unlegalized political party. The governor threatens any employe, if discovered, with instant dismissal.

Seattle Isolated by Floods

Portland, Or., Nov. 15.—The Oregonian has received a telephone message from Seattle that that city is cut off from the surrounding country by flood waters. The message says that three lives have been lost and that the damage will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Rockefeller's Daughter Dead

Cannes, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Charles A. Strong, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, died at the Hotel du Parc in this city. Mrs. Strong had been ill for some time and suffered a paralytic stroke on Nov. 12, after which she sank slowly until the end. The body will be sent to America.

New England Democratic Progressive League Formed

NO FAVORED CANDIDATES

President of New Organization Going to Nebraska to Call on Bryan--Consideration of Policies Postponed For a Year

Boston, Nov. 15.—To foster, disseminate, and give effect to Democratic principles, without favoring any presidential candidate or any national issues for at least a year, are the purposes of the New England Democratic Progressive League, formed here by representatives from five New England states, Vermont being absent. Temporary organization was perfected by the election of officers and the adoption of a set of bylaws.

A committee to consider the plan and scope of the league was appointed and, in submitting the set of bylaws, reported that it was not desirable at this time to adopt a platform of principles, although there was no agreement among the members of the necessity for an attack on entrenched privilege and the assertion of the rights of the individual.

The officers chosen were as follows: President, Alexander Troup of New Haven; vice presidents, G. L. Crockett of Maine, A. C. Drinkwater of Massachusetts, N. J. Dyer of New Hampshire, L. F. C. Garvin of Rhode Island and Michael Donovan of Connecticut; secretary, R. J. Crowley of Lowell; treasurer, P. H. Quinn of Providence; executive committee, G. F. Williams of Bedham, Mass., (chairman), C. E. Paul of Rockport, Me., G. M. Wallace of New Haven, H. C. Ledoux of Nashua, N. H., and G. W. Greene of Woonsocket, R. I.

The report of the committee on plan and scope and a resolution favoring constitutional referendum was referred to the executive committee.

The meeting was held behind closed doors, but during the session Troup, who joined with Williams in calling the meeting, denied to the reporters that the object of the meeting was the endorsement of William J. Bryan for president. One of the purposes of the gathering, he said, was the organization of clubs throughout New England, "not especially for Bryan, but for any candidate the party nominates." Troup said that he should be in Lincoln, Neb., next Sunday and would probably tell Bryan something about the meeting.

At the opening of the meeting Garvin offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted, that the consideration of national candidates and policies should be postponed for one year. With candidates and national issues eliminated from the meeting, the gathering proceeded to discuss the objects of the league, and later in the day came the submission of the new bylaws and the election of officers.

One of the sections of the bylaws provided that the members of the league shall meet annually, but that not more than three Democrats from each congressional district shall attend and that the delegates shall be elected by clubs affiliated with the league. Another section provides for a general committee to organize clubs and distribute literature.

May Be Murderer After All

Steubenville, O., Nov. 15.—Charles Buccini, arrested by the Pittsburg police on suspicion of murdering Henry F. Smith, and who was released yesterday, has been recognized here from newspaper pictures as the murderer of Peter Ventreasce on May 6 last. The two men had a quarrel and Buccini shot him and escaped. It is said that Buccini is also wanted in Montreal on a charge of murder.

Crooked Count In Custody

Copenhagen, Nov. 15.—Count Fritz Von Rosen, a captain in the Swedish horse guards, has been arrested, charged with defrauding the Swedish military authorities out of $40,000. He is also accused of endorsing fraudulent checks in the names of members of the royal family. He has been taken to Stockholm. The arrest of the count has caused a sensation.

Rumor Started Run on Bank

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 15.—From some unknown source a rumor was started here that the local savings bank was in some kind of trouble, and so quickly did this rumor spread throughout the city that a run was started. The run appeared to be partially checked before the close of banking hours. The bank has deposits of $4,000,000.

Strike Declared by Erie Firemen

Cleveland, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of the firemen of the Erie road here last night it was unanimously voted to strike to enforce their demands for increased pay and shorter hours. There were 240 men at the meeting.

A $100,000 Freight Train Fire

Houston, Nov. 15.—An entire freight train, consisting of 17 cars, 15 of which were loaded with cotton, was destroyed by fire four miles south of Prenham. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

Safe Arrival at Colon of the Presidential Party

WELCOME IS DELAYED

Officials Were at Other End of Isthmus, as Visitors Came Ahead of Scheduled Time--Rounding Up of Anarchists

Colon, Nov. 15.—The first trip of an American president outside of the boundaries of the United States was concluded yesterday afternoon when the battleship Louisiana, having on board President Roosevelt and his party, dropped anchor in the harbor of Colon. The Louisiana, which arrived ahead of schedule time, was convoyed by the Tennessee and the Washington. The three vessels anchored about a mile from the dock during a heavy rainfall.

Owing to the fact that the Louisiana arrived ahead of time, neither President Amador of Panama nor Chairman Shonts of the isthmian canal commission was on hand to welcome President Roosevelt. They left Panama at 4:30 o'clock in a special train for Colon and at 8:30 last night boarded the Louisiana and extended a cordial greeting to America's chief executive. In President Amador's party, beside Shonts, were Chief Engineer Stevens and Executive Secretary Reed of the commission and Mr. Squiers, the American minister at Panama.

During the afternoon President Roosevelt received the local newspaper correspondents on board the Louisiana. He said that his voyage had been pleasant and uneventful, and expressed himself as gratified with the welcome which the citizens of the isthmus are preparing for him when he lands. He stated that he proposed to look into the Jamaican labor question, and also intended to see everything possible concerning the canal.

Extensive precautions have been taken to protect President Roosevelt during his three days' visit on the isthmus, and it is reported that a number of well known anarchists have been arrested here or at Panama. All steamers arriving at the isthmus are inspected and suspicious characters are being held until the day President Roosevelt departs. He will begin his tour of inspection today and an extensive program of official entertainments has been prepared.

Church Services In Theatres

New York, Nov. 15.—Dr. Madison C. Peters announces that he will soon inaugurate a movement to reach the unchurched masses, regardless of race or creed. For this purpose he has leased the Majestic theatre for morning services, beginning the first Sunday in January. Dr. Peters is also in negotiation for a down-town theatre on Broadway for evening services. His purpose is to become the "people's preacher" and, while the services will be dignified, it is intended to make them popular and attractive and absolutely unsectarian.

STILL HUNTING FRANCIS

Negro Desperado Continues to Elude Those on His Trail

Thomaston, Me., Nov. 15.—Minot St. Clair Francis, the negro desperado, who escaped from the state prison here last Monday afternoon, is reported to be in Woolwich and apparently endeavoring to make his way across the Kennebec river in the direction of Bath.

It is known that Francis was in Wiscasset early yesterday morning and that he got breakfast at a farmhouse in the outskirts of the town. Later he was seen walking along the road leading from Wiscasset to the Bath ferry at Woolwich by a rural free delivery carrier. At that time he was about a mile from the Woolwich town line.

Late yesterday afternoon Francis went to the house of Mrs. George Merrill, in the outskirts of Woolwich, and demanded food. Mrs. Merrill was alone in the house and complied with the demand. After receiving the food the negro hurried away.

Warden Norton believes from information given him by some of Francis' fellow prisoners that the escaped man will try to leave the state by shipping on a vessel at some port.

Militia Looking For Francis

Bath, Me., Nov. 15.—Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning a general militia alarm was sounded, calling out the members of company C of the Second regiment to report at the armory and perform patrol duty along the bank of the Kennebec river with a view of intercepting Francis, the escaped prisoner from Thomaston, who is believed to be headed in the direction of Bath. The company assembled at the armory promptly after the call was issued and was assigned to guard and patrol duty.

Renounced Birthright For Love

London, Nov. 15.—It has become known that hereditary Prince Eberwyn of Bentheim-Steinfurt and Lilly Langenfeld, daughter of a retired tradesman of Cologne, were secretly married here on Oct. 26. It is understood that the father of the prince refused his consent to the marriage, consequently the couple came to London and the ceremony was performed here. The prince had previously renounced his birthright in favor of his younger brother, Victor Adolphus.

Got Warning From Captain

St. Johns, Nov. 15.—Colonial officials boarded the American herring schooner Ralph Hall at Bay of Islands, made note of the names of Newfoundlanders at work on the schooner and notified them they would be prosecuted. The captain of the Ralph Hall warned the officials not to interfere with the men while they were in his service. The officials threaten to prosecute the men in question when they have concluded their service on board the Ralph Hall.

Japan Has Biggest Battleship

Tokio, Nov. 15.—The Satsuma, the biggest battleship in the world, which is to be launched today, embodies all the lessons of the last war. Her details in the main follow those of the British battleship Dreadnaught, whose steaming capacity she is expected to exceed. There is every reason to believe that the British and Japanese admiralties exchanged plans and ideas previous to the construction of this warship.

Robbed the Government

Seattle, Nov. 15.—Fred Adams pleaded guilty to robbing the United States assay office here and was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor in prison. He pleaded guilty to two counts, charging the theft of $35,000 worth of golddust. It was generally reported that the thefts amounted to over $200,000.

Express Train Wrecked

Wildwood, N. J., Nov. 15.—Fifteen passengers were injured, two of them probably fatally, in the wreck of an express train. The accident is believed to have been due to the spreading of rails. NEWTON PAYS $4100

Settles Suit Arising From the Cassie Chadwick Swindles

Boston, Nov. 15.—Rather than relate in open court the manner in which the astute Cassie Chadwick had fleeced him out of his money, amounting, it is said, to over $100,000, Herbert B. Newton, the State street financier, who first started the sensational exposure of Mrs. Chadwick, yesterday agreed to pay $4100 as a settlement of the suit instituted against him by George C. Rankin, receiver of the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, O., to recover on a note for $10,000 which Newton had made out for the accommodation of Mrs. Chadwick in New York in 1904, and which she later endorsed to the bank.

"It was in order to avoid further publicity in this case that Newton agreed to a settlement," said his counsel, Samuel W. Emery, when pressed for an explanation. Further, Emery would not talk.

When the case came up for trial in the United States circuit court, Emery, having previously made overtures to Frank D. Allen, counsel for Rankin, informed the court that an agreement had been reached.

The defense claimed that the note had been procured from Newton by false representation on the part of Mrs. Chadwick, and that as it has been accepted by the bank after its maturity, the defendant was was liable.

Sudden Death of Priest

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 15.—Rev. Charles H. Cullinane, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception of this city, had been in poor health, but he had been about all day yesterday. Last night, when he was called to dinner, he failed to respond, and a few minutes later he was found lying dead on his bed. Death was probably due to heart failure. Fr. Cullinane was born in Andover, Mass., 40 years ago.

Killed by Jump From Car

Lakeville, Mass., Nov. 15.—A man, believed to be Michael O'Donnell, was riding on a trolley car bound from Taunton to Middleboro last night, and while passing through Lakeville the man jumped from the front platform of the moving car. He struck against a stone wall and fell back under the wheels. His skull was fractured and his neck broken. He died in a few minutes.

Tramped to Father's Home

Providence, Nov. 15.—Exhausted and starving after a tramp of 60 miles from Waverly, Mass., to this city, Wilfred Hodson, 15 years old, was arrested here. The boy had escaped from the school for feeble-minded boys at Waverly and had come to this city to seek shelter in the home of his father. He will be sent back to the Waverly institution by the probation officers.

Religious Crisis In Spain

Madrid, Nov. 15.—During a debate in the chamber of deputies on the law of associations, Minister of Justice Romanones admitted that the papal nuncio to Madrid had formally demanded the prosecution of all municipal judges who celebrated civil marriages, but that this demand had been flatly refused. Clericals and conservatives of all complexions denounce the separation of church and state and religious liberty in Spain as madness. King Alfonso is being subjected to very strong influences to get his consent for a policy of reaction. The Liberals declare that reaction will precipitate a revolution.

Bennings Bookmaker Convicted

Washington, Nov. 15.—Bookmaking, as it has been carried on at the Bennings race track, was declared illegal and William Davis, who volunteered himself a defendant to test the law, was declared guilty and sentenced in criminal court to imprisonment for two hours. An appeal was at once taken to the court of appeals. Pending the appeal sentence will not be executed on Davis.

Reign of Crime Continues

Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—The reign of lawlessness in this vicinity continues and the hundreds of police, city detectives, county detectives and private agencies are apparently still unable to stop the depredations which are almost hourly reported to them. Within the past 24 hours the list shows a greater number than any like period since the "epidemic" began.

Growth of Our Country's Wealth

Washington, Nov. 15.—The United States census bureau has estimated the total wealth of the country in 1904 to be $106,881,415,009. The annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable society was held on Monday afternoon, Nov. 12, at half past two, at the club house of the Quincy Women's club. There was a good attendance.

Rev. Edward Norton opened the meeting with prayer. Reports were read by the secretary and treasurer and approved.

The treasurer reported the gift of $100 from the estate of Mary J. Turner. It was voted to put it at interest to be known as the Mary J. Turner fund.

Dr. Jeffrey R. Brackett and Mr. Arthur W. Newcomb spoke and offered some good suggestions, which will be adopted by the board.

The old board of officers was re-elected.

Helen L. Bass, Treasurer.

The report of Mrs. Mary E. Addison the secretary follows:

The Quincy Charitable Society, rated among the oldest of its kind in the State, began its past year's work of usefulness and humanity December 4, 1905, with the following officers as management: President, Rev. Edward Norton; secretary, Mrs. Thomas A. Addison; treasurer, Mrs. Helen Bass; Directors, Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, Mrs. Frederick Pierce, Mrs. Frederick L. Jones, Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Mrs. E. Granville Pratt, Mrs. Robert J. Teasdale, Miss Gertrude Sampson.

This society now has a membership of 175, 11 of which comprise the executive board. The directors meetings, six in number have been held regularly from December 4 to April 6 at the residence of some member of the executive board most convenient. No business meetings are held during the summer months, but the work was nevertheless continued, being done by the directors of each ward, who are to report at the business meeting held on the first Monday of December, 1906.

Applications for help have been treated after prompt inquiry and thorough investigation. Quite a few needy have applied for clothing but as the latter is not dispensed from this society the applicants were at once referred to and received aid from other allied societies in Quincy working along similar lines.

At the annual meeting held in the Unitarian church parlors Nov. 6, an invitation was received from the secretary of the Quincy Women's club for this society to hold its meetings in the executive rooms of the Women's club house but upon motion it was voted to continue in the established custom of meeting at the residences of members of the executive board in turn.

At a meeting December 4 held with Mrs. Charles Porter, Adams street, it was voted upon motion that a copy of Article 4, a clause in the will of late Elias Perkins, relating to the legacy bequeathed this society, together with a number of important papers relative to the Quincy Charitable Society as a body corporate, be placed on file in the secretary's books begining November 6, 1905.

Upon motion it was further voted if permission could be obtained that all the records of this society except those used by the secretary and treasurer be placed in a place of safety, viz., the Quincy Saving Bank.

In March an invitation was received from Jeffrey R. Brackett, Esq., an interested member of this society, treasurer of the "School for Social Workers" and also connected with Simmons College in Boston, to attend one of a series of talks given by Miss Richmond and held in the vestry of the Park Street church, Boston. Several members of the executive board attended and found the talks to be of especial value and importance to those working in our line.

The April meeting, the last of the season, was held with Mrs. Addison, Quincy Point, ten members of the executive board being present. Important matters concerning the best interests of the society were decided upon and the directors were given full power to proceed with the work as in former years.

In closing this, the 69th year of our work, the executive board compliments the society on its high standing in our city and the secretary desires to thank the officers and members one and all for their faithful attendance to their duties, their thorough investigation to applications for help and for the wise expenditure of money.

If the society proceeds with the fine display of good will and activity, sense, responsibility and good cheer as in the past, the success of our association will be most surely achieved.

European Rivers.

A European river forty feet wide handles as much freight as an ordinary American railroad, while the Rhine carries more business to a block than half the Hudson river. Splendid tugboats, fine barges and handsome swift steamers do the work, with anchored chain boats to pull the big loads up the rapids.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Dr. Anderson Wins a Bride

It has been a busy week for Dr. John H. Anderson. On Tuesday evening he was a candidate for the School Committee, and on Wednesday evening he became a benedict. The happy event took place at his residence at 1551 Hancock street, the bride being Miss Vera L. E.

Colin of Allston, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Colin.

Dr. E. N. Hardy of Bethany Congregational church was the officiating clergyman. The groom was attended by Mr. Carl J. Johnson, and the bride by Miss Ruth Colin.

A reception followed the ceremony, and there was a wedding supper followed by speeches. Among those present were Representative Sandberg, Dr. Ameno of the Boston Emergency Hospital, Dr. Charles Murphy of Dorchester, Dr. C. S. Sullivan of New York, and several well known Quincy people.

MILTON.

Alfred Goodhall of Derry, N. H., has moved his family to a house on Granite place.

A very pleasing concert was given at the East Milton Congregational church, Wednesday evening. The program consisted of selections by a male quartet and a reader.

Thomas Whalan of Pond street had three ribs fractured this week by being kicked by a cow. He is now in a very serious condition, pneumonia having set in.

A new time table on the Quincy line of street cars goes into effect Monday. On and after that date cars leave for Quincy at five minutes of and twenty-five minutes past the hour. It is said they will leave on time.

A Long Pull A Strong Pull

Williams, the Washington correspondent of the Transcript says: "There is a 'long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together' for the ship subsidy bill at the coming session. This bill was passed by the Senate last session. It is before the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. It can be favorably reported from that committee by a majority of one or two if Speaker Cannon consents. The fate of the bill is in the Speaker's hands. If the President can handle the Speaker, the measure will become a law.

This will be Grosvenor's last appearance in Congress, for a time at least, and he says he will make a powerful effort to put this legislation through. "The Merchant Marine League," with head quarters at Cleveland, has started the operation of its literary bureau since the election and members of the House of Representatives are receiving daily arguments in favor of the proposed legislation.

One of the most effective workers in the country in behalf of the ship subsidy law is a Massachusetts man, Francis T. Bowles, president of the Fore River Ship Building Company. He was formerly chief constructor of the navy. He began his work for the ship subsidy at that time. His argument before the House committee last session was a model of clearness and brevity and he has been more frequently consulted by the President on the question of ship subsidy than any other man. He will be a potent figure in the fight this winter, though less in the limelight than other less effective workers.

Naval Cadets.

An examination was held on Friday and Saturday of last week at Newtonville for the purpose of securing a candidate for the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, from the twelfth Congressional District. The number of boys who took the examination was fourteen, representing six different towns; the four highest on the list were the following and they will receive the nominations as indicated below:

Principal,—E. C. Howe of Millis.

First alternate,—W. L. Leonard of East Foxboro.

Second alternate,—J. F. Malley of Randolph.

Third Alternate,—J. T. Comerford of Brookline.

Was on School Board Which Elected First Superintendent

Charles Lewis Badger, one of Quincy's pioneer business men passed away at his home on Crescent street this morning, aged 86 years. His death was due to a stomach trouble and general breaking up.

Although Mr. Badger had reached a ripe old age, he was particularly smart and active, and no matter what the weather was he could always be found at his machine shop on Willard street early and late.

He continued his active businesss life until last spring when he gave it up.

Mr. Badger was born in New Hampshire and came to Quincy with his parents in 1827, his father being interested in the Bunker Hill monument.

In 1855, with his brother Leone C. Badger, he opened a machine shop on Crescent street. Later they added granite polishing to their business. The firm was known as Badger Bros., and has never been changed.

They continued business at the old stand on Crescent street until 1880, when they moved into the stone building on Willard street at present occupied by the firm.

In 1868 they purchased what is known as the Wigwam quarry, and added granite quarrying and cutting to their business.

It was from this quarry that the granite for the New York Exchange building, New Orleans custom house, and other public buildings was taken, as well as the Worth monument at New York city, Hale monument in Connecticut, the pedestal of the Washington statue at Washington, D. C., the Gen. Cook monument at Arlington cemetery, Washington, and for other notable memorials.

Later the sons were taken into the business, and it is carried on today by them.

He leaves a widow and two sons, William E. and Russell W. Badger.

Mr. Badger was a member of the School Committee which elected the first Superintendent of Schools in Quincy. In fact at that time superintendents were an exception and it was a radical step. Mr. Badger was first elected to the board in 1858 with William S. Morton, Luther Rice, George White, Dr. William B. Duggan and William W. Baxter, but he resigned during the year.

In 1872 Mr. Badger was again elected and served continuously for seven years —1872 to 1878 inclusive. During these years his colleagues were John Quincy Adams, Charles F. Adams, Jr., Asa Wellington, Henry Lunt, H. Farnum Smith, James H. Slade, William B. Duggan, Edwin W. Marsh and Jason G. Witham.

It was in 1875 when Messrs. J. Q. and C. F. Adams, Badger, Marsh, Duggan and Slade were members of the board, that Col. Francis W. Parker was elected Superintendent, and the schools of the town soon became famous because of the so-called Quincy system which was inaugurated. It was extensively copied throughout the country and even outside.

When the town purchased the Granite fire engine in 1844 Mr. Badger became a member of the first company. He was elected clerk, which office he held for several year. He also served as one of the fire engineers in 1856 and 1857. In 1872 he was elected a constable and served one year.

High Tide and A Shipwreck

There was an unusual high tide this morning and Sea street near Post island was covered by three feet of water. This prevented the street cars from passing, and for several hours the cars on the Hough Neck line did not get below Palmer street.

At Quincy Point the tide was very high last night and this morning. The piers of the Quincy Point bridge were covered, and also the wharf of Patch & Son coal wharf when the water came up to their stable.

No damage was done at Wollaston beach, although the high wind and tide Thursday night gave the beach a wild appearance, and it was thought for a time that damage would be done to yachts. The boulevard escaped damage.

Two men started from Boston at 2 o'clock Thursday in a launch, having a float of lumber in tow for Paddocks island. They had a hard time of it and it was a fight for their lives all night. Finding that they would be unable to land their tow it was cut adrift. Their launch was tossed about the harbor until morning when they succeeded in making a landing off the Adams farm, Quincy.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

From the persistency with which Lieutenant Peary tries for the Pole, he must want to be the ice man.

Tammany Hall has been hearing its "master's voice" across the sea, and it had the ring of battle in it.

The Citizens' Association seems to find many local affairs which need attention, and in many instances are successful.

There is some talk of establishing a "model city" near Pittsburg. If it is too near Pittsburg, it will not be a model very long.

A much smaller vote was cast at the Republican caucuses in Brockton than in Quincy, and there was a contest between two new caudidates. John S. Kent was nominated, receiving 583 votes to 391 for Edwin P. Gleasou.

It will be a good thing for the City Hospital and the sick of the city to have a Nurses' Home. It means more comfort for the nurses and more nurses. May the building be erected early next year.

The War Department mails are heavy with letters protesting against the discharge without honor of the three companies of the 25th Infantry, colored. Most of these originated in Massachusetts, but nearly every section of the country is represented.

The Adams House on Washington street which stands on a part of the Public Library grounds is soon to be sold to be removed. The improvements of the library grounds continue, and an enlargements of the Post Office lot would be appreciated.

According to a Cincinnati business man, Congressman Longworth was re-elected because he is personally popular and because he is the President's son-in-law. Still, he must have received a good many votes because he is Alice's husband.

Now that the caucuses are over, and also the fight for Republican ward committee in Ward One, it might be stated that the circulars and postals issued were both illegal and in violation of the election laws, which require the signatures and addresses of those issuing the same or the names of the chairman and secretary of the political party. The postals had signatures but no addresses and the circulars had neither signatures or addresses.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Colonel Hapgood, of the Fifth New Hampshire, will make a model Superintendent of the Soldiers' home at Chelsea. When the office of State Pension Agent was created by the Legislature it was intended that he should have the place, but it was given to another. Col. Hapgood is popular with the veterans, and he will make Powder Horn hill a veritable home for the old soldiers.—Lynn Item.

Here and There About the City

There will be a full moon Thanksgiving week.

Few people were about last evening other than those called out by business. One's own fireside was good enough for most people.

The Granite Railway Co. is erecting what will be the tallest derrick in the city. The main stick is 107 feet tall, and the boom 96 feet long. The capacity of the derrick in 60 tons. It will be operated by power.

Secretary Gay of the Y. M. C. A. will be the speaker at the Point church this evening, at the fellowship service. The young men of the Pilgrim Fraternity have in charge the music and the Huscarls the ushering.

A rummage sale is being held at No. 15 Granite street under the auspices of the Day Nursery association. There is a large collection of good second hand articles such as clothing, hats, shoes, books, furniture crockery etc.

ACROSS ISTHMUS

President Roosevelt Starts on His Sight-Seeing Trip

IS WARMLY WELCOMED

Assured of Love and Respect of Panama People--President Expresses Affection For Young Republic and Voices Warning Against Revolutions

Colon, Nov. 16.—President Roosevelt spent a busy day on the Isthmus of Panama and settled for the night at the Tivoli hotel, on the line of the canal. He crossed from Colon to Panama, seeing much of the canal and the famous Culebra cut on the way, he took a trip around Panama bay, and was welcomed in Panama City, which lies outside of the canal zone, by President Amador and other officials of the Panama republic. The day passed according to schedule and it was in every respect successful.

Wednesday night President Amador and his party came over to Colon from Panama and called upon President Roosevelt on board the Louisiana. This was the first welcome by local officials. President Roosevelt left the Louisiana at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning and came to the Colon dock. Here he was welcomed by Commissioner Shonts, Chief Engineer Stevens and other officials, and the schoolchildren of Colon sung "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America" for his benefit. A few moments later President Roosevelt was greeted by President Amador and the bishop of Panama and then the president and those who had come to welcome him left Colon for Panama by train.

The trip across the isthmus was made slowly in order to permit the presidential party to have a good look at all the points of interest along the route. Several stops were made on the way over and, at each station, schoolchildren sang patriotic airs. The president thanked all the welcoming delegations warmly.

The presidential train arrived in front of the Tivoli hotel at 10:30. Here Amador left Mr. Roosevelt and went on to Panama, while Mr. Roosevelt continued to La Boca, the Pacific entrance to the canal. Here President Roosevelt boarded the steamer Bolivar, made a trip around Panama bay and came back to La Boca for lunch.

In the afternoon the president came from La Boca to Panama City. He drove from the railroad station to the Cathedral plaza, welcomed all the way by the cheering of the crowds. At the plaza President Amador delivered an address of welcome and President Roosevelt replied.

President Amador expressed his appreciation of President Roosevelt's visit, which he described as an additional cause for the love and respect of the Panaman people. He called President Roosevelt the commander-in-chief of the Panama-American forces, allied to perform the greatest engineering feat in the world, and said that in the hearts of his people there dwelt the indelible memory that in President Roosevelt they had found a generous defender. In conclusion the president of Panama extended the welcome of the republic to the President of the United States, assuring Mr. Roosevelt that he could consider himself in the midst of his best friends and admirers.

In reply, President Roosevelt said that the present was the first time in the history of the United States that an American president had placed his foot upon territory over which the flag of the country did not fly. He said he was glad this foreign territory was the Panama republic, and referred to his affection for the young country. He said the work on the canal was being performed worthily and that his only desire was to see the republic increase in wealth and prosperity until it became a republic whose history was reflected upon the entire world as a land of liberty and order. He voiced a warning against revolutions, and ended by saying that he was immensely impressed by the tremendous undertaking of the canal and the beauty and fertility of Panama, for which he prophesied a great future.

President Roosevelt was welcomed with unbounded enthusiasm by the people of Panama, and there is no question that they are his firm and sincere admirers. While passing over the line the presidential train was cheered by the crowds of laborers removing dirt from the ditch, and in Panama bay American and other steamers whistled him a welcome.

Desperado Shot to Death

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 16.—Will Harris, the negro who killed two Asheville policemen and three negroes, was shot by a posse. Word was received that the negro had been discovered in a barn near Fletcher and aid was requested. A hundred men left Asheville on horseback and surrounded the barn. Fire was opened on the negro, who attempted to escape, returning the shots until he was killed.

Cockran-Ide Nuptials

New York, Nov. 16.—Congressman Bourke Cockran and Miss Annie Ide, daughter of Henry C. Ide, formerly governor general of the Philippines, were married by Rev. Father McKinnon in the Hotel St. Regis. Ide gave the bride away. Supreme Court Justice Keogh was Cockran's best man. The couple left at once for a bridal tour in Europe.

THE ELUSIVE FRANCIS

Many Supposed Clues Prove to Be of No Value

Thomaston, Me., Nov. 16.—Many reports of the appearance in various localities of the negro desperado, Minot St. Clair Francis, who escaped from the Maine state prison here last Monday, continue to be received by Warden Norton, but most of them prove to be groundless.

At the same time that Bath militiamen were patrolling both shores of the Kennebec river yesterday, in the belief that the fugitive was endeavoring to reach that seaport, men were searching Camden, on the shore of the Penobscot, in response to a report that the negro was concealed in an abandoned cottage there. In both cases the clues proved to be unimportant. The Bath militiamen learned that the negro seen in the vicinity of the Kennebec was not Francis, while the searching party in Camden discovered that the report that the negro was hiding there was baseless.

Late last night word was received that a man answering the description of Francis had been seen just before dark in the edge of the town of Rockport, and officers were sent from Rockland to take up the chase of the suspect. Snow began to fall about 6 o'clock and for a time there was a hope that its fall might be sufficient to help the officers in getting on the trail of the missing prisoner, but the snow was succeeded by rain after half an hour.

Curley Gets Renomination

Boston, Nov. 16.—Joint primaries for the selection of candidates for the municipal election next month were held in this city yesterday. Among the aldermen renominated by the Democrats was J. M. Curley, who had served a two months' sentence in jail for impersonating a friend at a civil service examination. The labor men defeated Senator Gartland, who, it was claimed, dodged a vote on the overtime bill in the senate last sprring. C. S. Sullivan defeated E. L. Cauley, the present chairman of the board of aldermen.

No Decision Regarding Shiloh

Augusta, Me., Nov. 16.—After a long hearing before the governor and council, regarding the conditions existing in the Holy Ghost and Us colony at Shiloh, it was decided to postpone a decision as to possible executive interference by Governor Cobb until the next meeting of the governor and council on Dec. 13. The hearing was held in response to written appeals from various citizens who alleged that suffering existed at Shiloh to an alarming degree and asked that action be taken to alleviate it.

Indictments In Chinese Smuggling

Providence, Nov. 16.—Indictments alleging the aiding and abetting of the landing of 22 Chinese laborers contrary to law were returned last night by the grand jury of the United States district court against E. A. Junkins, mate of the schooner Frolic; W. A. Duncan and Alfred Ames, members of the crew of the Frolic, and J. C. Lehneman of Boston, who is said to have been the agent of the syndicate which looked after the landing of the smuggled Chinamen.

Vermont Diseased Meat Case

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 16.—The bill of exceptions filed in the contempt case against the Consolidated Rendering company has been signed by Judge Rowell, sitting in Montpelier, so that the case will now go to the Vermont supreme court. The rendering company has been adjudged guilty of contempt on account of its failure to produce certain books of account asked for by the grand jury which was investigating the diseased meat charges.

Transit Men Plead Not Guilty

Boston, Nov. 16.—George G. Crocker, George F. Swain and Horace G. Allen, three members of the Boston transit commission, were arraigned in the superior criminal court as a result of a secret indictment returned against them, alleging a violation of the eight-hour law. The three commissioners pleaded not guilty and were released on their own recognizance. The date for the trial has not as yet been set.

Storm Came Unannounced

Nantucket, Mass., Nov. 16.—A northeaster came up so suddenly yesterday that the local fishing fleet was caught some distance off shore. Two men who started for Tuckernuck island, 12 miles distant, were tossed up on the island more dead than alive. The fishing fleet scurried back to port under bare poles and all were safely anchored in the harbor last night.

An Unusually Cold Day

Hyde Park, Vt., Nov. 16.—A temperature of 5 degrees below zero was recorded here yesterday. This is an unusually low record for the season of the year, even in this mountainous district.

Irish-Americans to Leave Us

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—"When Ireland gets home rule, as she surely will soon, a small army of Irish-Americans will leave this country and go back home," said Richard Hazleton, member of the English parliament, in this city. Hazleton is touring the United States in the interest of the home rule movement under the auspices of the United Irish league.

Money For 'Frisco Relief Work

Washington, Nov. 16.—The American National Red Cross sent $25,000 to San Francisco for use in relief work during November. This money is one-half of the amount which the relief committee purposes to spend this month. The amount still available in the California relief fund is $2,626,943.

GIGANTIC BUNCO SCHEME

Christian Science and "Eddyism" Denounced by Minister

Baltimore, Nov. 16.—At a banquet of the Churchman's club last night, Rev. Dr. W. H. Van Allen of Boston made an attack upon Christian Science and Mrs. Eddy. He said in part:

"Eddyism uses the Christian terminology, professes reverence for Christ and the Bible, pretends to exalt God more highly than other religions do, and ingeniously mingles much that is good and true and indisputable with its own fantastic errors. It is a gigantic bunco scheme, wherein the victim thinks he has the treasure, but instead holds only the worthless imitation."

Rehearsing some of the things that have been said in praise of Mrs. Eddy, the speaker added: "All this may be true, but if her teachings contradict the Christian faith, no personal worth of her's can made amends. A fair-minded observer sees an uncultivated woman, married three times, passing through various forms of religious belief, and finally settling down on one of her own inventions; manifestly covetous, inconcievably puffed up with vanity, blasphemously claiming divine honors for herself and unable to write a page of clear, rational English prose. Over and over again she places her writings on an equality with the Bible. The name of her religion is a misnomer, for it is essentially anti-Christian. The creed calls God maker of all things, while Eddyism denies that things do exist at all, denies that God made them, and says that they are figments of mortal mind. Eddyism denies the Trinity, denies that Jesus Christ was the son of God, and says that He was the offispring of Mary's self-conscious communion with God."

To Reach Non-Christians

New York, Nov. 16.—Important steps were taken last night towards investigating the work done by missionaries in foreign lands when it was voted at a meeting of the Haystack mission board to have a committee of 30 business men of this country visit the different countries. The trip will last about a year and is to inaugurate a campaign of education among laymen and to devise a comprehensive plan looking to the sending of the messages of the gospel to the entire non-Christian world during the next 25 years.

Shocking Immorality of Chinese

London, Nov. 16.—Both houses of parliament last night debated the unpleasant subject arising from the recent unauthorized publication of the contents of the "Bucknill" report, which gives the results of an inquiry into the conditions of Chinese labor in South Africa, and which reveals the systematic practice of unnatural practices in the Chinese compounds there. The government has hitherto declined to public this report because it was unprintable and had been obtained confidentially.

For Health and Morality

New York, Nov. 16.—"The Public Health Defense League," a national society for the protection of health and morals, was formed at a meeting held in this city. The objects of the society are "to work for the enactment of laws in the interest of public health; to work for the prevention of quackery and criminal practices; to prevent adulteration and substitution of drugs and foods, and to prevent the sending through the mails of matter advocating quack medicines."

Indictments Against Ice Men

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—Six local ice companies and firms alleged to be in a combination to control prices were indicted last night for the third time, the first and the second indictments having been dismissed by the court as defective. The second indictment was passed on by the court yesterday and a special grand jury had been summoned in anticipation of the court's ruling the indictments defective.

Mayor An Alleged Grafter

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—The grand jury returned five indictments against Mayor Schmidtz and Alderman Ruef on charges of extortion. On each charge the bail was fixed at $10,000. The indictments recite that Ruef and Schmidtz demanded money of the proprietors of three restaurants which were said to be conducting business illegally.

Stole For Ten Years

Memphis, Nov. 16.—J. M. Hutchinson, second vice president of the Delta Cotton company, has admitted that he is approximately $70,000 short in his accounts. Hutchinson on the night of Nov. 2 attempted to commit suicide, but has recovered. The shortage is said to cover a period of 10 years.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The United Daughters of the Confederacy adopted a resolution thanking President Roosevelt for the part he played in the passage of the act providing for the marking of the graves of the Confederates who died in Northern prisons.

Lieutenant S. N. Kane, U. S. N., retired, died suddenly while returning from Hot Springs, Va., to his home at Washington. Kane was 60 years old. He was graduated from the United States naval academy in 1866, but retired from the service in 1868.

The death is announced of Ras Mangascia, a son of King John of Abyssinia, who played a most prominent part in the Italo-Abyssinian war over Massovah.

At a meeting of the Massachusetts Democratic state committee it was decided to give up the headquarters in Boston which has been used by the committee for the past few years.

GREAT BATTLE ON

Federal Government Seeks to Destroy Oil Monopoly

SUIT BEGUN AT ST. LOUIS

Promises to Be Greatest and Bitterest Legal Contest In History of United States--Whole World Interested In Result

Washington, Nov. 16.—Simultaneously with the filing in St. Louis of a petition in equity on behalf of the federal government, the purpose of which is to adjudge the Standard Oil combination unlawful and enjoin its further monopolization of the oil trade, Attorney General Moody gave out a statement which outlines the results of the investigations commenced last May at the direction of the president.

The attorney general asserts that the facts uncovered by Messrs. Kellogg and Morrison, the special commissioners appointed by the president, are believed not only to justify, but to require, action by the United States in the courts. The filing of the petition in equity, under the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law, is the result of this opinion, and the action marks the beginning of what will doubtless prove to be the greatest and bitterest legal battle in the history of the United States. The contest will be of world-wide interest, as there is scarcely a country on the globe to which the Standard Oil company has not penetrated.

It is regarded as certain that the final adjudication of the matter will rest with the supreme court, as the case will be appealed regardless of the action of the court at St. Louis. It has been said in the past that the company is more resourceful and more powerful than the government, and whether it is or not will now develop. In anticipation of the filing of a suit against it the company has added to its already large collection of attorneys, and now has in its pay many of the very best lawyers in the country.

This is the first actual blow the federal government has struck at the great oil company, although several states have proceeded against it recently. Evidence that it is a trust has been available for years, but heretofore nobody has had the courage to take the step which President Roosevelt and Attorney General Moody took yesterday.

Nobody authorized to speak for either of these two officials will hazard even a guess as to the length of time the litigation will consume, but it is universally believed that the struggle will be protracted and that it may last many years. If the government wins the Standard Oil company will be dissolved.

Petition Filed at St Louis

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—The United States government made the initial move to dissolve the Standard Oil company's alleged monopoly by filing in the United States circuit court a petition in equity against the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and its 70 constituent corporations and partnerships, and seven defendants, including John D. Rockefeller and William Rockefeller, asking that the combination be declared unlawful and in the future enjoined from entering into any contract or combination in restraint of trade.

The suit is brought under the Sherman anti-trust act, which the Standard Oil company and its constituent companies and the seven individual defendants are charged with violating. In a formal statement, Attorney General Moody says that criminal prosecution is reserved for future consideration.

The government's petition in the suit contains 194 printed pages, or about 100,000 words, and an additional 84 pages of exhibits, consisting of bylaws and minutes of Standard Oil meetings and organizations and a map showing the retail prices of oil in every state and territory of the Union.

The investigation into methods pursued by the Standard Oil company began early in 1905 and the results were laid before congress last May by President Roosevelt, who accompanied the report by a special message denouncing the apparent methods pursued. The president asserted that suits would be instituted in the United States courts to abolish the combination and the filing of the suit marks the initial step.

The defendants are entitled to one month in which to enter their appearance and 60 days in which to file answer to the allegations in the petition. They also have the option of filing a demurrer to the bill.

Criminal Prosecution Planned

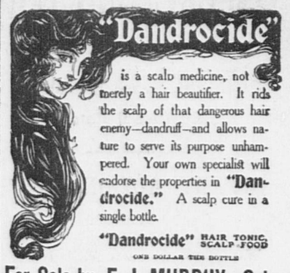

Findlay, O., Nov. 16.—Criminal prosecution of the highest officials of the Standard Oil company will be the next move of Prosecutor David, according to his statement. David says he believes he has sufficient evidence to warrant him in bringing all of the officers and directors of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey before the court.

New Low Record For Stocks

SMASHED TO PIECES

Schooner Wrecked Near Shore and Three of Crew Drowned

Providence, Nov. 16.—The long arm of Point Judith caught the Portland schooner Lugano, for New York with a cargo of laths from Gardiner, Me., as she was being driven before a northeast gale, and 300 yards off shore she was smashed to pieces by the heavy seas. Two members of the crew, including Captain Barker, reached shore on some of the wreckage. The remainder, including the mate and two seamen, were drowned in the surf.

The Point Judith lifesavers managed to get a line across the vessel from their beach gun, but the tackle became snarled and before it could be straightened out the vessel went to pieces. All that remained for the lifesavers then was to wade into the surf and haul the two seamen ashore, which they did at the risk of their lives. Mate Joseph Smith, John Johnson and Joseph Lewis were drowned within a few yards of the beach.

Loyal to Pine Tree State

New York, Nov. 16.—Two hundred sons and daughters of the Pine Tree state gathered at the Hotel Astor last night for the fourth annual dinner of the Maine Society of New York. Suggestions of "home" were in the decorations, and small pine trees fresh from Maine graced the tables. A pair of tiny snowshoes was attached to each menu card. Even the water served was from one of the state's mineral springs.

Convicted of Granting Rebates

New York, Nov. 16.—The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company was convicted in the United States circuit court of granting a rebate of $26,000 to the American Sugar Refining company, and the trial of the latter company for having accepted that sum as rebates will begin today in the same court. Counsel for the defendant company moved to set aside the verdict, which Judge Holt promptly denied.

Serious Floods In the Northwest

Portland, Or., Nov. 16.—Portland is cut off by floods from Seattle, Tacoma, Bellingham, Spokane and every point north and west of Kelso, Wash. The rainstorm that swept over the northwest Pacific coast has created a condition under which the railroads are at a standstill or greatly interrupted. Flooded rivers have washed out bridges and wagon roads are impassable. Many persons have fled to the hills for safety.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

When children are cross, irritable and peevish it does not signify that they have bad tempers; it shows that there is something wrong with the child which it is not able to explain, and which the mother—If She Only Knew—could easily and quickly cure. Mothers, study your child's symptoms; if cross, peevish, nervous, grits the teeth, wets the bed, picks the nose, has variable appetite or bowels, suffers with wind-colic or headache, is irritable and restless, has furred tongue or offensive breath, you may be sure that child is troubled with worms, which cause nearly all the ills of childhood.

Don't delay—disease comes suddenly—a few doses of the wonderful old-time remedy—will give your children that vigorous health which is so important to their future happiness.

Dr. True's Elixir expels the worms, if there are any—if not it acts as a gentle laxative and tonic. It cleans out all waste matter from the stomach and bowels, tones and strengthens the entire system of adults as well as children. Dr. True's Elixir is a safe, pure, vegetable tonic and has been the standard household remedy for fifty-five long years.

Patchwork Peace In Cuba Needs Additional Patching

SPEEDY ACTION NEEDED

We Must Retain Military Control Indefinitely--Muddle Complicated by Injection of an Anti-American Spirit

Washington, Nov. 16.—Evidence is accumulating in Washington of the increasingly unsatisfactory condition of affairs in Cuba. When the president returns from Panama the Cuban situation will demand his first attention. What Secretary Taft and Secretary Bacon foresaw is gradually coming true. The rebel leaders are out for office. The race question has been fanned into flame.

Governor Magoon is besieged with petitions which are really veiled threats that unless the negroes on the island are recognized by the appointment of several of their leaders to important positions under the provisional government, the blacks will "defend their honor" by taking to the field. The patchwork peace arranged by Secretary Taft under orders from Washington must receive additional patching. Military government in name as well as form is the inevitable result in Cuba.

Many feel that it will be better to quiet the elements of unrest by holding the elections in December instead of waiting until next June. Doubtless an undesirable man would be elected, for the Liberal party, representing the "outs," is practically the only organized party in Cuba. Its president, Alfredo Zayas, appears to be losing his grip with the negro faction, and Jose Miguel Gomez, whom Palma defeated for the presidency, will certainly be a candidate for this office against Zayas.

If elections are held next month it will be necessary to announce as soon as the president returns from his Panama trip that a complete evacuation of Cuba is necessarily a question for the indefinite future, and that regardless of the elections the Cuban government must be nursed along under some form of American protection yet to be devised.

The danger of continuing a provisional government in its present form is to be found in the injection of the development of an anti-American spirit, which, if allowed to grow, will greatly complicate the Cuban problem. The rural guard is not yet in condition to put down a revolution, and the American troops would be necessary in such an emergency. Loss of life and great destruction of property are certain to follow.

It was the kindly feeling toward Americans throughout the island which alone made possible the peaceful intervention accomplished by Secretary Taft. The secretary hoped for the best when he left Cuba, but the great difficulty encountered by him throughout the negotiations was the failure of Washington to apprehend the gravity of the situation and the hopeless condition of affairs into which the country had sunk under the Palma government. Financially the country was prosperous, but it was apparent that the government of Cuba had been riding to a fall. The tactful policy of Secretary Taft broke the force of the fall, but the bruises remain unhealed.

That the Washington government is considering the expediency of holding elections next month is evident from the cable dispatches announcing the arrival in Cuba of William I. Buchanan on a mission of inquiry from the state department into this phase of the situation. The Cuban question is far from settled. Its solution is yet to be found.

Cruelty In Training Animals

Chicago, Nov. 16.—At the session of the American Humane association, Mrs. Huntington Smith of Boston read a paper in which she declared that the cruelty practiced on animals which are trained to exhibit in circuses and on the stage was worse than anything seen in Spanish bullfights. The convention pledged itself to take an active part in the suppression of trained animal exhibitions.

THEY FIND IN URIC-O A PERMANENT CURE

Rheumatic Sufferers Rejoice in Receiving such Splendid Results from Uric-O.

If a convention could be held of all the Rheumatic sufferers who have been cured completely by the use of Uric-O, there would be such a rejoicing as to convince every skeptic that there at last been found the true "Fountain" of health, and yet this would be a decided error, for Uric-O is not a "cure all," but simply a cure for Rheumatism and Rheumatism only.

Every sufferer of Rheumatism who wants to be rid of the sleepless nights, the nerve binding, muscle twisting hours of pain, should lay aside all other forms of treatment, get a bottle of Uric-O and start rejoicing on his way to health. It matters little how long one has suffered from the trouble nor how intense the suffering, Uric-O will cure it. Cure it completely, cure it permanently and cure it to stay cured. Muscular, Articular and Inflamatory Rheumatism yield at once to this mighty healing agent. Druggists and physicians everywhere are gladly recommending Uric-O for Rheumatism because they know its wonderful curative propertives cannot be exaggerated.

Uric-O acts directly upon the blood, muscles and kidneys. It neutralizes the uric and rheumatic acid poison, and drives it from the blood.

The story of E. J. Murphy is the "Home of Uric-O" in Quincy and he sells and guarantees it for 75 cents and $1.00 a bottle. We know you can be cured by Uric-O and if you only try one bottle you will thank us from the bottom of your heart for having made you acquainted with this marvelous remedy. Don't delay. Don't put it off. Try it and try it today. Ask Mr. Murphy about it and learn from him the many cures Uric-O has effected right here in your own town. If you desire, you can test and try it free of charge by sending your name and address to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., and asking for a sample free.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Elopers Arrested At Quincy Point

Annie B. Gibhart and Elmer C. Freed were arrested at 1 Sargents lane, Quincy Point, yesterday, by Lieut. McKay upon a complaint charging them with lewd and lascivious cohabitation.

The arrest was made at the instigation of Lottie O'Brien of the Society of the Church of the Recruits of Christ of Telford, Pa.

The O'Brien woman arrived in Quincy Friday morning and says she came at the request of the girl's mother. She said the couple left Telford about a month ago, and came direct to Quincy where Freed secured employment at the Fore River. The couple secured rooms at a house on Sargents lane where they have since been living.

The girl said when at home her companions kept joking her about Freed and that she finally consented to elope with him. Freed on the other hand says that it was the girl who urged him to elope and it was at her solicitation that he came away with her. They were arraigned in court.

No evidence was introduced against them and they were discharged for want of prosecution. They will be taken back to Pennsylvania by Miss O'Brien. Both were under twenty years of age.

For County Commissioner Evan F. Richardson of Millis, the Republican, received 14,005; Richard Cunningham of Wellesley, the Democrat, 7,434, and William J. Whiting of Quincy, the Socialist, 1,362.

Special Commissioner to qualify public officers, Jonathan Cobb and J. Raphael McCoole, administered the oath of office to Evan F. Richardson of Millis on Tuesday as County Commissioner. Mr. Richardson is to fill out the unexpired term of James Hewins, late of Medfield. At the recent election he was the Republican candidate for the full term of three years, which begins January 1, and was elected.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE

Emery L. Crane To Become A Mayoralty Candidate

There seems to be but little doubt now that there will be an independent candidate for Mayor at the coming municipal election. There were more or less anti-caucus rumors to this effect, but it was not until this morning that anything developed.

This morning William P. Thompson took out two nomination papers for Emery L. Crane of Whitney road.

It was not stated that Mr. Crane was to be a candidate for Mayor but it is generally understood that the papers were for that purpose.

This means a four cornered contest for Mayor and a lively interest in the election is assured.

In addition to these, a paper was also taken out for William T. Shea as a Citizens candidate for Mayor.

Mr. Crane is a well known resident of Quincy having resided there all his life. He was for several years a member of the school committee, part of the time as its chairman. He is also a past master of Rural lodge of Masons. He is a property holder and has a fine estate on Whitney road.

Will Give Better Telephone Service

Owing to unavoidable delays, it will be two or three months yet before the telephone company gets into its new building on Merrymount road. It was the intention at first to have the new building ready for occupancy July 1. Then the date was fixed for the first of October. Delays in the arrival of the material, however, have prevented the building being completed.

Carpenters are now at work putting on the finish, which should not take long. New switchboards of the latest pattern are to be installed, and change will have to be made to all subscribers' instruments, for under the new systems the simple removing the receiver from the telephone will call central.

The present exchange is not sufficient to handle the business in Quincy. It was designed for 5000 calls per day whereas it is now doing a 7000 call per day business. This the management claims is responsible in a measure for the present poor service.

When the new building is occupied the company promise that no place in the state will have better service than Quincy.

MUST BE ISOLATED

Crown Prince of Servia In a Bad Way Mentally

HAS VERY BAD RECORD

Reputation of Late Kings Milan and Alexander Were Spotless In Comparison With That of "Semi-Insane Young Savage"

Vienna, Nov. 17.—An unconfirmed report is in circulation at Belgrade that Crown Prince George of Servia has become insane. The Servian minister here says that it is true that the crown prince has shown lately excessive irritability and that this had caused great anxiety in court circles. He does not believe the prince's affliction will be admitted officially, although the efforts of physicians to cure him have ended in failure.

The minister has no official information on the matter, but believes the prince may be sent to a sanitarium, probably in some other country, and that further endeavors will be made to effect a cure. The prince has shown such abnormal symptoms that he must be isolated.

According to advices received here from Semlin, there is talk of changing the succession to the throne of Servia in favor of Prince Alexander, the second son of King Peter.

Prince George, the heir apparent to the throne of Servia, was born Aug. 27, 1887. Many reports of an unfavorable nature have been circulated concerning the young prince since the accession of his father, Peter I., to the throne in 1903. It has been said that, compared with Prince George, the late Kings Milan and Alexander may be regarded as having been the perfection of western civilization. In fact, one writer classed Prince George as a "semi-insane young savage, regardless of every restraining influence of law, conventionality, decency and civilization," and said it was "frightful to contemplate his being placed in the possession of a European throne and in charge of the destinies of one million of Servians."

In November last the prince was reported to have been confined in a fortress for three days, the result of grossly insulting his late tutor, and he is said to have escaped and to have rushed through the main streets of Belgrade toward the palace, followed by an officer whose clothing gave evidence that he had scaled a wall in pursuit of the fugitive. King Peter is reported to have ordered the prince back to the fortress immediately.

In December, 1904, Prince George, according to a dispatch from Belgrade, eloped with an actress of the National theatre and went to Vienna, where they were found drinking in a cafe, in the midst of a band of gypsies. The prince was taken back to Belgrade and the actress forbidden to return to Servia.

Prince George was regarded as practically under the direction of the Russian court and a report printed shortly after the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga said that he was to eventually occupy the throne of Servia. But since then, in July, 1903, not long after the accession of King Peter, it was stated in a dispatch from St. Petersburg that a specialist in the treatment of backward children had, at the command of the imperial government, examined and observed Prince George and had reported to Emperor Nicholas that the prince was a degenerate.

Prince Alexander, the second son of King Peter, was born Dec. 4, (old style) 1888. The king also has one daughter, Princess Helene, born in 1884.

Fugitive Marrin Captured

Buffalo, Nov. 17.—Francis E. Marrin, one of the principal figures in the Storey Cotton company failure in Philadelphia in 1905, was arrested here last night in the Genesee hotel. Marrin disappeared from Philadelphia on March 17, 1905, when the postoffice department raided the Storey Cotton company, and since then he has been in Europe. He came back to America but a few weeks ago. He registered at the Genesee under the name of James Johnstone.

Pittsburg's Reign of Crime

Pittsburg, Nov. 17.—While detectives are still hunting for the murderers of H. F. Smith and J. A. McMillen, who were victims of thugs last week, and with the sections of the city where holdups have been most frequent fairly swarming with policemen and plain clothes officers, reports of robberies and burglaries continue to be made public.

Washington, Nov. 17.—It is officially stated at the office of the United States district attorney that the government will not try George E. Green of Binghamton, N. Y., upon the remaining indictment alleging bribery in connection with the postoffice irregularities.

FARMS UNDER WATER

Floods Cause Immense Damage In Puget Sound Region

Seattle, Nov. 17.—A heavy rainfall Wednesday, 2.48 inches in four hours, and a chinook wind which melted recent fresh snows in the Cascade mountains, were the causes of the heaviest and most disastrous floods in the history of the Puget sound region. The valleys of seven rivers are under water, flooding 200 square miles of territory.

This includes practically every acre of lowland lying back of the eastern shores of the sound and extending from Seattle to Tacoma. These lowlands are thickly occupied by small towns, hop fields and dairy farms. The damage done to fields and herds will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Seattle's milk supply comes from them, so this city will be without milk for days.

Six persons have been drowned. The greatest loss by the streams to the north has been done to the lumbering interests, where millions of feet of logs and shingle belts have been carried out to sea.

High tides, combined with the floods, have converted all the river deltas, which are great tracts of fertile farms, into muddy torrents, hundreds of farmhouses and villages are submerged to the second stories and many persons are homeless.

The feeling throughout the valleys is that the worst is over, and that if conditions which now prevail continue for another 12 hours all further danger will have passed.

Prosecution of Fishermen

St. Johns, Nov. 17.—Two colonial fishermen, Du Bois and Crane, who shipped aboard the American herring vessel Ralph Hall outside the three-mile limit, were tried at Bay of Islands, charged with having, in violation of the bait act, put herring on board the Ralph Hall. They were convicted and fined $500 each, with an alternative of serving three months in prison. An appeal will be taken to the supreme court. The colonial government expects this prosecution will result in stopping Newfoundlanders shipping on board American vessels and will therefore virtually nullify the modus vivendi.

Tenor Caruso Arrested

New York, Nov. 17.—Enrico Caruso, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera House company, was arrested while a visitor at the menagerie in Central park, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by Mrs. Hannah Graham, who alleged that Caruso had repeatedly insulted her. Caruso was released on bail furnished by Henrich Conried. At the police station Caruso created a scene and it was only with difficulty that he was induced to submit to the routine examination and search. At its conclusion he was on the verge of collapse.

Intruder Met Spring-Gun

Milford, Mass., Nov. 17.—A spring-gun set in the cellarway of the summer residence of Escoval Woodbury in Bellingham shot George Proctor last night. Woodbury has been troubled much by depredations about his cottage in Bellingham, and recently he set a spring gun in a cellarway. Last night while he was visiting the cottage, he discovered a man seriously injured in the cellarway. Papers in the man's pockets determined his identity. It is believed that he cannot recover.

"Church Children Become Enemies"

Rome, Nov. 17.—The pope has requested Cardinal Respighi, his vicar general, to order special prayers for the enemies of the church, this being the only means left the pontiff in the present "sorrowful condition of the church, now fought and oppressed by many of her own children, who have become her enemies." This letter is taken to indicate that the pope believes he has exhausted all other means to reach a satisfactory understanding in the French difficulty.

Wrongfully Used $1,000,000

Toronto, Nov. 17.—Application will be made to the attorney general for a commission to go to New York and take the evidence of the brokers with whom former Manager McGill of the Ontario bank did business. McGill's alleged defalcations amount to over $1,000,000. His books indicate that a large part of the bank's funds was lost in speculation.

Tunnel Worker Crushed to Death

New York, Nov. 17.—Following a blast in the Manhattan end of the Pennsylvania railroad's East river tunnel, tons of sand and rock tumbled down, filling an excavation which had been hastily vacated by a gang of workmen. One man was buried by the mass and it was hours afterwards when the body was recovered.

Great Strike Meets Defeat

London, Nov. 17.—The strike of the Clyde boilermkers, which began Sept. 29 and in which 10,000 men were involved, has come to an end by the men returning to work. They did not gain any of the points in dispute.

The Complete Lovemaker

By NANCY HAZLITT

Copyright, 1906, by E. C. Parcells

"I know my place, also my danger. You see, I have been hearing of you this long time," Grierson said, looking up at my lady, with a lazy smile.

My lady had a way with her—it could be sharp and short when she chose. It could likewise be very meek. Now she set her finger tips together, asking plaintivly: "Mr. Grierson, is there nothing else you would as soon say? You are the ninth man to tell me that since I came to the picnic. I ought to feel my sins very deeply, but somehow I can't."

"Who says you have sins? I meant only your perfections," Grierson began, but she stopped him with a gesture of appeal.

"That's the very worst of all," she murmured. "You'll be telling me next that you came on purpose to see and be conquered. I do wish pretty speeches didn't run in ruts so much. If I could I'd write a book about them, telling men what not to say."

"I see! 'The Complete Lovemaker,'" Grierson answered, his eyes twinkling. "If you wrote from the riches of your experience I dare say the treatise would be most authoritative."

"There wouldn't be any treatise if I did that. You all say so much the same sort of foolishness," my lady came back at him, with just the least toss of her head.

My lady of course had a name, a pretty one—Elinor Clare. Only strangers and the older people ever called her Elinor. Somehow, at school she had been rechristened my lady, and my lady she was likely to be to the end of the chapter.

A very pretty girl, with money to her name and much more money in prospect, withal sprightly and good hearted, she was easily the belle of the countryside. She had had beaus, indeed, before she was out of short frocks. One of them, who as a tall lad had carried her on his shoulder and cradled her asleep in his arms, was still constant, notwithstanding he was thrice eligible, and the kindest, most unsuspicious soul alive.

Grierson had heard of him likewise. Indeed, Philip Darcy, the constant one, was, after a sort, his kinsman.

"Phil's the man you have got to beat," Grandfather Grierson had said in explaining the situation.

Grandfather liked my lady, but not nearly so well as he did her possessions. Therefore he had sent imperatively for Arthur, his grandson, and bidden him as imperatively court the girl and marry her.

Grandfather's was moneyed avarice, therefore the more eager. He had piled up a fortune and held on to it like grim death. Because his only son liked to spend money even better than to make it the old man excused his clutching—at least to himself.

Since that young gadabout Arthur had no knack of making money, being worse in that respect than his father, it was but right he should marry it. Grandfather Grierson said this over and over, in so many keys and tenses, Arthur had been tempted to run away before anything was begun. He would have run away, indeed, but for catching a glimpse of my lady. The glimpse refreshed his endurance and modified sensibly his estimate of grand-paternal wisdom.

"Suppose we write the book together," Grierson suggested valiantly. "I can make myself understood on the typewriter—can't say any more than that—but you—you have reams of wisdom, I'm sure, all ready to your hand. Do take me as secretary. I promise you shall find me willing and obliging, with no objection to long hours."

"I have a great objection to them. I couldn't stick at anything half a day unless it was to save my life," my lady confided, adding gayly: "I don't believe you could either. Confess! Don't you love to go and do the things you didn't intend?"

"Sometimes—only sometimes," Grierson said, smiling down at her. "This is one of them. I meant to ask consideration as a possible husband, yet see how you have reduced my soaring ambition!"

My lady met this with a look of wide eyed innocence and said appealingly: "Can't you understand I'm not the sort of girl you have to talk love to? There are so many other things better worth talking about."

"For instance, Philip Darcy?" Grierson said, with a keen glance.

My lady laughed joyously. "No, not Philip," she said. "I know him—all about him—more and better than anybody can tell me. He would be a saint on earth if he were not so much of a man."

"H—m! The most part of saints were men," Grierson supplemented. Then, most irrelevantly: "You have relieved my mind wonderfully. No girl of today can possibly love a saint. It is the weirdly wicked fellows who bowl over our sweethearts—even now and then our wives"—

"Dear me! And you are not weirdly wicked—just an ordinary sinner," my lady interrupted, her eyes twinkling merrily.

Grierson laughed. "Cry quarter!" he said. "You won't get me to admit I'm no match for you—that would be a bad precedent—but I will say I know when I've had enough. Now, to get back to the beginning, what about taking me on as amanuensis? I'm sure I gave myself a character, having nobody else to give it."

"A-man-u-ensis! That's a city word. I'm afraid of it," my lady said, dimpling sweetly.

Grierson shook his head at her, saying severely: "At this rate 'The Complete Lovemaker' will never get itself written. Think how the world needs it! We ought to begin work on it tomorrow."

Grierson forgot the carrying quality of his voice, even when, as now, he spoke very low. He further overlooked a slim creature in half mourning, seated just beyond my lady.

Now the figure turned half about, saying, with pretty malice: "You could not have a better collaborator, Miss Clare. Arthur can give an example of a nice definition of every style of love making yet invented." Then, throwing up a crape bordered veil: "You didn't expect to see me, Arthur. I know that very well. Indeed, I myself am surprised at being here, but Phil Darcy wrote me I had better come down and look after some investments."

There was a pause before the last word so significant it made my lady gasp. She turned red and white, staring helplessly from Grierson to the woman and only by a strong compulsion overcoming her impulse to run away.

It was a great relief to see Philip Darcy approaching—she almost ran to meet him, a question in her eyes. He answered it with a reassuring glance and turned to the pair, who stood eying each other uncertainly and in silence, saying as he stood in front of them:

"I think, Clorinda, it will be best on all accounts for you to announce your engagement to Grierson. Your scruples against it before you are out of mourning, of course, do you credit, but people down here are used to seeing widows courted, married almost, in their weeds. And nobody really knows how long your husband has been dead—whether it is a year or five makes no difference. I have just been telling Uncle Jack how the case stands"—

"Does he agree with you?" Grierson asked, his face averted.

Philip laughed. "Uncle Jack, like all the rest of us, is amenable to the logic of accomplished facts," he said. "But I don't think you'll find him very hard to fetch around. I told him also that Elinor was going to marry me early in the fall."

Mrs. Clorinda Markle, relict of the late Solomon, was not without a sense of humor. She held out her hand to my lady, saying with a frank smile: "We may flatter ourselves that 'The Complete Lovemaker' is in two editions, each limited to a single copy. I shall keep mine henceforth under lock and key. How about yours?"

"I don't think mine will permit itself to be stolen," my lady said, taking the offered hand. "I have been engaged since I was five—if in fifteen years Philip has not repented of his bargain it seems he is to be trusted to know his own mind."

Clorinda tried to speak, to say something lightly flippant, but her lips trembled and a troublesome lump rose in her throat. She took Grierson's nerveless arm and walked away, her head high; but her eyes dim behind her veil. Darcy looked after the pair compassionately, saying, "She is too good for him."

"But she doesn't think so. Let us hope she never will," my lady answered eagerly.

Darcy looked down at her, smiling happily.

Augustus a China Patron.

Augustus the Strong of Saxony was a great lover of china, and his belief in the transmutation of metals into gold was accidentally the cause of the discovery of the celebrated Dresden ware. Any one fortunate enough to be the possessor of a piece of this old china will invariably find his initials, A. K., on the back of it. An apothecary's lad by the name of Bottinger had, it is said, composed a tincture that was supposed to be capable of being transformed into gold. So successful an alchemist was by order of Augustus placed under lock and key, but, unlike most prisoners, with a laboratory at his disposal. This restraint almost deprived the lad of his reason, and accordingly he was removed to Dresden and allowed a certain liberty. It was here while pursuing his experiments that Bottinger discovered the Meissen porcelain, commonly called Dresden china, which to Augustus was as welcome as if the youth had been successful in transmuting gold, for he had expended large sums in what is known as the Japan palace. Many workmen were engaged from Delft to work the new ware, and in 1710 the manufacture of Meissen began the supply of the demand which soon became European.

Repairing a House In China.

In China when a house is to be repaired wonderful forethought is necessary. The evil spirits which are supposed to occupy each dwelling that mortals have inhabited cause the carpenter no end of trouble and no trifling expense. First an astrologer must be consulted with regard to the most lucky day for beginning the work. Then a square suspended from the ridge beam is a notification to the spirits of darkness that their dwelling place is to be disturbed, wherefore the square thing for them to do is to move out quietly and peacefully. Next the carpenters make offerings to these unseen residents. These gifts seem to say, "If you please, spirits of darkness, accept this bribe and speedily take your flight." Next the neighbors must be warned that these evil influences are about to be turned loose perhaps to seek shelter under a neighboring roof. Every house on that street receives a notice that upon a certain day and hour repairs are to begin on the dwelling of Ah Sin. Each household can then pay the imps not to enter its doorway, but to go to the next neighbor.

A MENACE TO CITIES

Professor Fessenden Sounds a Note of Warning.

Cities Not Adapted to Operate Business Enterprises—Loss of Capital Through New Developments — The Danger a Real One.

It is becoming more and more generally recognized that undertakings founded on the great public needs of the highly organized society of modern times should be controlled by society. Whether, having the power, it is advisable that municipalities should actually engage in such undertakings or whether they should merely maintain their control, as it has been aptly put, through their powers as a landlord, is a matter which will be determined by the municipalities from political, social and economic as well as engineering considerations.

Considering the question from its engineering side alone, it is found that from the very essential nature of the matter only a certain class of engineering undertakings can be efficiently and properly operated by states or municipalities. It is very important that this limitation should be recognized, as where the limitation has been overstepped it has resulted in heavy financial losses to the governing bodies immediately concerned, it has seriously checked development in engineering lines, and these results have in consequence afforded a strong argument to those opposed to municipal operation of public utilities.

It is true that under state or municipal operation some minor and sporadic developments may be expected, but nothing of a general or important character. Important developments generally come only from the hands of individuals or bodies responsible only to themselves and provided with the incentive of a large profit. The elimination of self responsibility and incentive would inevitably produce a condition in industrial and scientific development analogous to the dark ages.

It is to be noted that this conclusion is derived from engineering considerations alone and does not include any consideration from the political, social or economic side. There may, it is conceivable, be political, social and economic considerations which tend to affect this limitation. Considered, however, from the engineering standpoint alone there can be no question but that the field of state and municipal operation should be limited to undertakings in which there is no immediate prospect of or need for improved method.

A danger which is always associated with the ownership of industrial undertakings is that the capital invested may be lost through the development of new and cheaper methods and processes. The extent to which industrial machinery of certain types is rendered obsolete by new improvements is not always realized. The writer is personally acquainted with one street car railroad plant in which the entire electrical equipment of the power house was thrown out and replaced with improved machinery four times within a period of ten years. The Carnegie company is reported, correctly, it is believed, to have scrapped on one occasion more than $1,000,000 worth of new machinery which had never been used.

This has already become a serious matter for many municipalities which have engaged in undertakings lying outside of the engineering limits defined above. Many of these municipalities installed plants for the production of electric light at a time prior to the advent of important improvements in generating and distributing electricity, and as these municipalities in common with most municipalities made no proper allowance for depreciation the capital invested has been practically lost, and in addition the cost of electric light to the consumer is much higher than it is in other places equipped with later and more economical types of machinery. In addition, heavy and expensive repairs have been necessary and the taxes correspondingly increased. This has reacted upon the municipalities, since the heavy rates have caused manufacturers to move away to other towns, and this again has still further increased the burden upon those remaining. There are already indications that a considerable number of these municipalities which have engaged in improper undertakings are entering upon a period of financial difficulty.—R. A. Fessenden.

As a Socialist Sees It.

Every recognized authority on Socialist economics, from Marx to Ferri, has been and is an avowed economic evolutionist. They all without exception recognize that public ownership under capitalism must come before the full Socialist programme can meet with realization.

When the Socialist party shall succeed to power in municipality, state or nation it will fall heir to the holdings of its capitalist predecessors. Every dollar's worth of property that we can wrest from private capitalism through public ownership will fall into the hands of the Socialist party without a struggle upon its succession to power.—International Socialist Review.

What Government Is For.

It is the appropriate function of the government to safeguard the individual and to see that the game of business is fairly played, that the cards are held above the table and that everybody is given a square deal. It is not the appropriate function of the government to sit in the game.—Hon. Leslie M. Shaw.

GETS TWELVE YEARS

Sentence of a Highwayman Whose Two Pals Escaped

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 17.—A sentence of not less than 12 years and not more than 15 years, with solitary confinement of three days, was imposed by Judge White in the superior court on William Bedeau, one of the men who held up Arthur L. Green, cashier of the Webster company, at Attleboro, and robbed him of a bag containing $3000. Bedeau retracted a previous plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to the charge of highway robbery.

The robbery was a sensational one. Green had taken $3000 from the bank to pay the help of the Webster company and was returning from the bank on a bicycle when three men attacked him on a lonely street. A blow over the head from a section of iron pipe rendered him unconscious and his assailants fled across the fields. One of them who carried the money bag stumbled over a low stone wall and dropped it. He was too closely pursued to stop and pick up the bag, so that the stolen money was soon recovered by its owners. Bedeau's two companions made their escape.

Discussed Wage Advance

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 17.—The executive committee of the Fall River Manufacturers' association met to discuss the demand of the Textile Council for a 10 percent advance in the wages of the cotton mill operatives. None of the committee would make a statement concerning the conclusions reached, but it is thought that a compromise arrangement will be suggested to the Textile Council. The council named Nov. 19 as the latest date for the receipt of a reply.

Numerous Maritime Disasters

St. John, Nov. 17.—The severe storm which swept over the New England states and eastern provinces Thursday night and yesterday wrought havoc among shipping. A dozen or more vessels were wrecked at various points in the maritime provinces, but no lives were lost so far as learned up to the present. In the Bay of Fundy the wind reached a velocity of 72 miles an hour. A blinding snowstorm prevailed, and the seas caused great damage along the beaches.

Condition of Trade

New York, Nov. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that trade expands under the stimulating influence of colder weather and mercantile collections improve, although rates for money continue high. Traveling salesmen send in large orders to leading distributing points, but the movement of merchandise is still retarded by inadequate transporting facilities.

Platt's Resignation Ready

New York, Nov. 17.—The Evening Post sys: Thomas C. Platt's resignation from the United States senate is said to be ready for filing with Governor Higgins. Platt, it is reported, has decided to retire altogether from public life. Recent disclosures concerning his domestic troubles are declared to have forced him to the decision to relinquish his office.

No Known Motive For Crime

Cleveland, Nov. 17.—When Albert Peters returned from work to his home last night he found his wife lying dead with her head crushed by a machinist's hammer. Everything about the room indicated a terrific struggle. The police have no clue to the murderer. Robbery, from all evidence at hand, was not the motive. The couple always lived amicably.

Says He Was Offered Bribes

Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—Mayor Dempsey appeared before the grand jury yesterday as a witness. It is believed that he was called to testify regarding his statement during the recent campaign that he had been four times approached with offers of bribes during the first few weeks of his official life, saying he was offered the equivalent of $50,000.

Three Deaths Result From Holdup

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—Stephen Lynch, who was wounded Thursday night during the holdup of a saloon, died yesterday. His death is the third that has resulted from the holdup. John O'Connell, a pensioned police officer, and Thomas Burke, one of the robbers, were killed Thursday night.

Standard Oil Stock Still Dropping

New York, Nov. 17.—Standard Oil stock declined further on the curb stock market yesterday, selling down to 525, or 25 points below Thursday night's closing price and 71 points since Monday. The stock sold at $591 a share on Nov. 1, at $700 last January, and at $840 in 1902.

Did Not Recover From Knockout

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 17.—Harry Lewis, the Philadelphia prize fighter, whose battle Thursday night with Mike Ward resulted in Ward's death yesterday, is under arrest, together with Referee Ryan and Frank O'Brien, who acted as second for Lewis.

Used Axe on Dynamite

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 17.—The powder house of a cement company at Mitchell exploded, killing two men and injuring several others. William Taylor, an employe, started to open a box containing dynamite. Concussion from the blows of an axe set off the explosive.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title – Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL
(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE BIRD OF FREEDOM.

Mode of Life of the Famous Bald Headed Eagle.

Eagles are popularly supposed to be quite different from hawks; but, in a word, they are nothing more than large hawks. They reach sometimes the age of nearly 100 years. They live singly or in pairs and dwell in the wilder places in all kinds of country, from tropical deserts to the arctic regions. In their search for food, however, they often wander far and, emboldened by hunger, even approach the abodes of man. In story books and newspapers eagles have many times been accused of carrying off young children, but such tales are unreliable.

The bald eagle, white headed eagle, white headed sea eagle or bird of Washington is of particular interest to Americans as the national emblem of the United States, to which dignity it was elevated on June 20, 1782. The name "bald" eagle originated from the white head and the erroneous impression of baldness it gives at a distance.

This bird measures about three or three and a half feet in length, from six to eight feet in extent of wings and weighs from six to twelve pounds. Under most circumstances wary and difficult of approach, this eagle nevertheless is often surprisingly tame and unsuspicious. Unprovoked it rarely attacks man, although such instances have been reported. It prefers trees for watching and roosting, but in spring sometimes descends to ride the cakes of ice in the river, apparently looking for fish.

This species breeds throughout its range wherever suitable places exist, and it has been known to lay and hatch eggs in confinement. In the southern part of the United States, from Florida to Texas, it breeds very early, depositing its eggs usually during the first half of December; in the middle states and in California it lays in February or March, about the middle of April in southern Alaska, sometimes in May or even June in the arctic regions.

The nest is located nearly always in the vicinity of a stream or body of water. The favorite site is the top of a tall tree. Where there are no trees a rock or a niche in a cliff serves the purpose.

The same nest is occupied year after year and annually repaired or augmented until it becomes an immense structure five, six or even eight feet high and as much in diameter, containing fully a carload or two of material. It usually forms a strong platform with only a slight depression in the center and easily sustains the weight of a man.

Ducks of various kinds fall regularly a prey to the bald eagle, and they are stolen from unwary sportsmen just as readily as larger birds. Wounded ducks, with those purloined from hunters, form at some seasons a good share of its food. At favorable opportunities this eagle preys upon fawns and, pressed by hunger, will sometimes attack a full grown deer, particularly if the latter be wounded.

In most of the states of the Union and in many of the Canadian provinces the bald eagle is protected by law, either specifically or by general enactment, but in a few it is still specially exempted from the provisions of the general nongame protection acts.—Bulletin by the United States Biological Survey.

Origin of a French Dish.

The names bestowed upon certain dishes have often an origin entirely distinct from technical consideration. This is true of the well known epigrammes d'agneau a la Michelet or a la Toulouse, as it is more frequently called. Michelet was the cook of a young French marquise of the century who was noted for her lack of education. On a certain occasion she gave a dinner to the officers of the regiment Choiseul-Cavalerie. During the function her guests spoke of a banquet that they had attended on the previous evening, at which the host had entertained them with many new and brilliant epigrams. The marquise supposed that "epigrams" referred to culinary surprises. Consequently she summoned Michelet, her cook, and ordered him to prepare some epigrams for dinner on the following day. Michelet was greatly troubled as to how he was to obey the order. He recollected, however, that he had in the larder some very superior lamb. He braised the breast, removed the bones, cut the meat into pieces and bread crumbed and fried them. He then cooked the cutlets, arranged them on a dish alternately with the braised breast and served them with a suitable garnish under the name of epigrammes d'agneau a la Michelet, by which name, or a la Toulouse, the concoction has ever since been known.

Do the Hard Thing First.

He who defers an unpleasant duty does it twice. Anticipation of it may become a continued torture. It is wise to be done with it in the first place, and then contemplation of it becomes a pleasure. The undone task, resting upon your head, weighs you down and holds you back. The well finished one, beneath your feet, raises you up and helps you forward. Somehow or other it seems that the hard things are the important things. Maybe it is because they are hard and sometimes left undone that their importance is realized. If you have not met with the success you think your efforts merit do not sit down to groan and rail against fate, but just quietly cast about for the disagreeable parts of your work from which you have shrunk. There you will find your point of weakness. You may not attach much importance to these things you shirk from, but you can never know how your neglect of them has changed the current of your life.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

The character attained in this life determines its eternal destiny.—Rev. Josephus Stephan, Methodist, St. Louis.

Joy of Life.

The joy and gladness of life are in keeping with the commandments of God. The solid satisfaction of existence is in living what we know to be the truth.—Rev. W. A. Bartlett, Congregationalist, Chicago.

Most Sacred Institution.

The deepest thing, the grandest thing, the most sacred institution under the blue heavens is man—man, made in the image of God—man, made for companionship with God!—Rev. Dr. J. Wesley Hill, Methodist, Brooklyn.

Go Ahead and Work.

Don't stop to ask what you can do. Go ahead and do something. Some of us are so impractical that we like to think about things, but do not seem to have the power to map out a course of action.—Rev. W. W. Nevins, Baptist, Washington.

A Love That Wanes Not.

Our theologies do dry up and crumble into dust, our sects rise and wane, religious and social movements come and go, but that love which is the soul of all social evolution has no waning.—Rev. Frank Crane, Congregationalist, Worcester, Mass.

Value of the Confessional.

The perfect calm, the consolation that the world and yourself are powerless to give you, can be secured from God in the confessional because there only can you see yourself as God sees you.—Rev. W. J. Garrigan, Roman Catholic, Philadelphia.

Cultivate Cheerfulness.

Look on the bright side of life. There is an angel in every block of rough marble, a diamond in every unsightly pebble and gold in every piece of seemingly worthless rock. Find these things. Cultivate the habit of cheerfulness.—Rev. C. C. Pierce, Baptist, Los Angeles, Cal.

Mission of Mankind.

Every human life has its mission to accomplish, and every life involves the highest powers in the universe. One important phase of each life is to bring the soul into harmony with God, to build the soul and fashion it to the likeness of God.—Rev. Z. M. Silbaugh, Methodist, Pittsburg.

Work of the Devil.

He who does the devil's work is in his service. Every untrue word, every fragment of diabolic gossip, every unholy insinuation, every syllable of slander, every word that wounds sensitive souls, every false witness against our neighbor, is a part of the devil's work.—Rev. P. H. Swift, Methodist, Chicago.

Respect For the Self Reliant.

The man or woman who is swayed simply by public opinion, who lives only for self interest at the expense of conscience and principle, dooms himself or herself to extinction. Even the world learns to respect at last the few who dare to be true in the face of overwhelming odds.—Rev. Donald Sage, Presbyterian, New York.

A Laymen's Revival.

The world will never be converted through the preaching of preachers. The great body of the business men of our churches must be moved and stirred and set on fire for God before any great revival can come in these busy, practical times. The next great revival will be a laymen revival. The next great revival will be a business men's revival.—Rev. E. H. Libbey, Congregationalist, Chicago.

Religion.

What does the kingdom of God mean? It means, first of all, square dealing in business. It means the carpenter's making a good joint, the plumber's making a pipe that will not burst, the employer of labor paying fair wages, the workingman's doing good work. It means square, upright, honest dealing of a man with his fellow man. This is religion. It is the very thing Christ came to establish on earth. To do the right thing is more religious than to talk about it. For a carpenter to make a square joint is more religious than for me to tell him to do it. It means the carrying of peace and good will into our daily life. It means the using of one's influence to make commerce not a war, but an emulation for service, not a struggle to see how much we can get, but to see how much we can achieve. It means that kind of spirit of brotherhood that will take life and lift it up out of drudgery and make it a noble, elevating, inspiring purpose because it is working toward the kingdom of God on earth.—Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Christian Patriots.

Man serves God in performing the duties of citizenship. He who strives against wrong and oppression and who toils for the good of humanity, who contributes to the sum total of human happiness, is as truly the servant of God as those who minister in sacerdotal robes or wait, in the attitude of praise and supplication, at the sacred altars of holy worship. Christ would have every man a patriot. No man can be a good Christian who is not first a good citizen. Caesar is ever to have his rightful dues, but our obligations to God are supreme. The laws of just government will never infringe upon the sacredness of man's obligation to God. We are under no obligation to discharge a duty demanded by the laws of our country if in doing so we must necessarily violate our conscience toward God. The governments of earth have no right to conflict in demand with the government of Almighty God. All just government is founded upon the eternal principles of justice and righteousness as outlined and revealed in his law, and God's domain in civil life is holy.—Rev. Dr. J. E. McDonald, Methodist, St. Louis.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Half the fun of being rich, seems to be trying to get richer with it.

It seems that when a Cuban can't get office, he becomes a revolution.

Timothy E. Byrnes, the former assistant to President Mellen of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., has been promoted to vice-president. Quincy, when it desired some improvements, found Mr. Mr. Byrnes always attenitve and ready to respond, and the promotion is therefore pleasing. The road has been more popular since he came to Boston.

One of the ladies who has attended the cooking demonstrations at Wollaston, and is enthusiastic over some new methods, is experimenting on the editor of the Daily Ledger. If she or any other lady wants the good will of newspaper men, they may continue to send samples to this office, even if they are not quite as good as the delicious apple pie received today. We have a weakness for all kinds of good pies which our good wife finds it difficult to satisfy.

Drift of Opinion.

☞It is often said, in looking back over even a generation, that so little progress has been made that it is difficult to estimate it, but often even in the circuit of one year events occur or new forces come into play in such a way that at once memorable changes come to effect the future course of history. If all who were prosperous, and at the same time wise and good, would at any time band themselves together, face the actual facts of modern civilization, and say to one another and the world: "This is good: it shall be strengthened. That is bad: it shall be abolished, and to these ends we pledge ourselves and our fortunes," the human race would instantly feel the uplift throughout all its widely scattered parts.—Christian Register.

☞The New York election has a double significance. It cuts in two directions. Financial interests may well rejoice in the defeat of demagogy, but they should stand up and take notice of the solemn warning which the great vote for Hearst conveys to them. The people of the United States are in revolt not againts wealth but against the wrongful use of wealth, not against the corporations, but against the abuses of corporations. They are in revolt not against private property, or individual liberty, but against excessive financial concentration, against dangerous swollen power irresponsible hands, againts oppressive methods of destroying competition, against gross overcapitalization, against wicked manipulation of markets and prices, against graft in corporate management, against corrupt financial control of politics, against violation of law in the name of commercial necessity and against concealment of facts, figures, income accounts and balance sheets to which investors are entitled. The great mass of business men are honest and they want great business conducted honestly. Can it be that those who are guilty of these things want another and more deadly warning than that given by the Hearst campaign?—Wall Street Journal.

This is done to accommodate patrons who on Saturdays get through business about 1 o'clock. The train will make the same stops as the 12.45 but will arrive 25 minutes later at each station.

First Reuionn Of War Veterans

Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Post 87, G. A. R. held its annual fall inspection on Friday evening, Nov. 9th. Chaplain George A. Fletcher of Post 102 of Milton inspected the post. The work of the post was carried out to perfection, speaking by Comrades Fletcher of Milton, Commander Bean of Post 13 of Brockton, County Commander Whitton of Avon, Chaplain Pierson, Commander W. L. Gage of Post 87 and others. After the services were over a light collation was served. Comrades came from Milton, Quincy, Weymouth, Randolph, Brockton and Avon to the number of ninety.

A very pleasant feature of the evening was the meeting of two comrades who had not met for 42 years. They were Edward O. Pierson, chaplain of Post 87, and George F. Hayward, chaplain of Post 13 of Brockton, who never had met since their regiment was mustered out of service Nov. 1864. Neither one knew the other until entering into conversation, when it was found out that they had both served in the same company.

The Pond Home To Be Enlarged

The annual state convention of the King's Daughters and Sons was held in Boston on Tuesday and Wednesday, and delegates were present from Quincy. It was one of the largest conventions in the history of the order.

The report of Mrs. M. M. Sawtelle of Readville, secretary of Norfolk county, of work done at the Pond Home for the Aged at Pondville, Mass., was to Norfolk county King's daughters of much interest, as this philanthrophy is the distinct work of the King's Daughters of the county.

Pond Home was established a few years ago for the purpose of giving a home to refined, elderly men and women, who in their latter years find themselves alone and with no friends to care for them. The trustees have received so many applications for admission from distinctly worthy people that they have determined to build an addition to the home at a cost of $5000. With unbounded faith in the work and the belief that in one way or another the money will be forthcoming, committees have been appointed to look into the matter of plans, and to carry on all work incident to building.

Men's Work.

Last night in the various church prayer meetings the subject considered was "Men's work," as carried on in the movement of the Young Men's Christian Association. A number of speakers, sent out by the local association, addressed the various meetings, as follows: L. F. Crowell at Bethany, J. A. Sedgwick at Wollaston Baptist, W. F. Cummings at Wollasten Congregational, H. P. Bailey at Wollaston Methodist, C. T. Sherman at Memorial Atlantic, A. L. Hayden at First Presbyterian, and E. G. Gay at Point Congregational. These services completed the program for the Week of Prayer for the Association Brotherhood.

Here and There About the City

A delightful day.

A checker tournament is in progress among the juniors of the Y. M. C. A.

A cameo scarf pin was picked up a few mornings ago on the walk at the Public Library.

It is the warmest day of the week but Quincy has had no 50 degree temperature since last Saturday.

The Quincy W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Collins, 41 Edison Park on Tuesday next at 3 P. M.

The funeral of Charles L. Badger will be held Sunday afternoon from his late residence on Crescent street.

A rummage sale under the auspices of the Day Nursery is being held at 15 Granite street. The sale closes tonight.

The Woman's Guild of Christ church will have an all day sew next Wednesday with Mrs. George H. Brown of Elm street.

The late John D. Nutting was one of the founders of the Quincy Reform club, who own Faxon hall, and for several years has been its president.

John C. Pendis, who was well known at West Quincy, died yesterday. He leaves a widow. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon.

The Fore River players of Quincy who went last Saturday to assist in the New England league have created a very favorable impression, and given entire satisfaction to the manager.—Herald.

The cup ties of the Merrimac Valley football league will be played in two sections the first during the present fall and the second in the spring of next year.

Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy preached in the Pilgrim church, North Weymouth, Sunday morning, and in the evening Mr. E. E. Craig, assistant pastor at the Bethany church, Quincy, preached.

The Quincy Historical Society will meet at the chapel of the First church, Thursday, Nov. 22, at 7.45 P. M. It is understood that Dr. Everett's address will be in review of the character and services of the late Honorable Edward Everett. Admission is by ticket only, to be obtained of the members.

Henry Bahe's house on Billings street is now completed and occupied by his family. The pretty building and pleasant grounds which are being laid out with lawn and shrubbery make a very attractive place and a great addition to the neighborhood. The house is the first in Atlantic to have chandeliers for the combination of gas and electricity.

Because of Thanksgiving, the next meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held at the clubhouse of the Women's club on Thursday afternoon next at 3 o'clock. It is hoped to have reports of all committees on the fair for the Nurses' Home, which netted over $700.

The improvements which are being made in Music hall, Atlantic, and which have surprised everyone by their extensiveness after a period of inattention to the needs of the building, are due entirely to the effort of the Shakespeare club. The electric lights, stone steps and the footlights and improvements in masonry that are to follow, will make the hall assume a dignity and desirability for leasing that it has hitherto lacked. And the Shakespeare club ought to have the entire credit, for through its president's and its members' earnest efforts it has been able to accomplish a need that has been left since Music hall was first built.

Rummage Sale.

The annual rummage sale in aid of the Quincy Day Nursery, which opened yesterday in the Post Office block on Granite street, will be continued today and tonight and is attracting a large number of shrewd buyers. They are looking for bargains and they are finding them. While not as many articles were received this year as usual there was a good assortment.

There were quantities of ladies and children's millinery, hats, and shoes for all classes, and a large asortment of clothing suitable for children.

The ladies in charge report good sales Friday, and are looking for a rush this afternoon and evening.

Adding to Plant.

The Hall Lock Co. who recently purchased the large factory of the United States Standard Scale Co., have commenced work on the foundation for a large addition to the building. It will be fully as large as the present building. The company has not moved its plant to Quincy as yet, but will do so at an early date.

—Willard C. Kinsley post 139, G. A. R., of Somerville, has inaugurated a public movement intended to result in the erection of a memorial monument in honor of civil war veterans on Central Hill Park.

A STRANGE CIPHER.

The Message on the Bridge and the Fall of Strassburg.

The word that Strassburg was ready to capitulate to the French in 1681 was transferred from that city to Paris by a strange cipher, which, though not so rapid as a modern telegraphic message, was as effective.

Secret negotiations had been going on for some time with the magistrates of Strassburg, and one day the French minister summoned a young man named De Chamilly and gave him the following strange instructions:

"Start tonight for Basle, in Switzerland, which you will reach in three days. On the fourth day at 2 o'clock sharp station yourself on the bridge over the Rhine, with paper for taking notes and pen and ink. Watch all that takes place and write down carefully every detail. Do not leave the bridge for two hours, and do not let one thing that transpires escape your notice. Have horses awaiting you. At sharp 4 o'clock start for Paris and travel night and day until you reach it. On the instant of your arrival bring me your notes."

De Chamilly obeyed, reached Basle on the day and hour appointed and took up his position on the bridge. For a time nothing happened. Then a wagon rolled slowly across the bridge, and presently an old woman with a basket of herbs followed it. An old man posted by on his horse, a couple of children gathered flowers in a nearby field, and 3 o'clock chimed from a neighboring tower. Still De Chamilly waited, and his pen scratched off each incident as it occurred. Four o'clock began chiming, and at the first stroke a tall fellow in yellow breeches ambled out on the bridge, lounged over the rail and then suddenly, taking a step backward, struck three sound blows on the bridge with a heavy cane that he carried. And De Chamilly noted it in his book.

The clock ceased striking. De Chamilly turned and vaulted on his horse. Two days later he presented himself to the minister.

The latter glanced over the notes. When he came to the incident of the man with the yellow breeches a gleam of joy flashed over his face. At dawn a dozen couriers were swinging away on different routes, each with a message of importance. Eight days later Strassburg was surrounded by French troops, and on Sept. 30 its gates were thrown open in surrender.

Evidently the three strokes of the stick given by the man on the bridge were the signal of an intrigue between the French minister of war and the magistrates of Strassburg. No doubt the man in the yellow breeches was as ignorant of the motive of his act as was De Chamilly of the reason of his errand.—Sunday Magazine.

Unpopular Street Lamps.

"It is strange how shy people are of street lamps," said the night watchman. "The most unpopular house in the block is usually the one whose front door is on speaking terms with the lamp post. I could understand this retiring disposition if New York's weather bureau furnished nothing but June zephyrs the year around and the population was made up of young couples given to spooning on the front stoop, but when you take into consideration the fact that a large percentage of our numbers consist of staid married folk, whose romantic days are over, and children whose mushy period is still to come, the peculiarity is hard to explain.

"Renting agents tell me they frequently run up against this prejudice in letting their houses.

"'Is it opposite a lamp post?' the prospective tenant inquires, and when the agent says it is, which he has to do because there is no use lying in a matter of that kind, the housekeeper goes elsewhere beyond the range of a gas jet. Some real estate holders have even gone so far as to petition the city to remove certain lamps because they damaged their property, but I never heard of the municipality acceding to the request."—New York Press.

Dr. Johnson and the Alphabet.

Those who are readiest to condemn as "scornful innovations" or "Americanisms" various suggestions for an altered orthography are apt to forget how arbitrary the greatest of English dictionary makers occasionally was in his choice between variant spellings. It was Dr. Johnson who added the "k" to "musick" and "rhetorick" and "physick," which before his day were more commonly spelled as we spell them now. "Labor" and "honor" and "favor" irritate many readers, who style them Americanisms. But it was Dr. Johnson who introduced the unnecessary, though perhaps graceful, "u" and who wrote in addition "authour" and "errour" and "governour." The last spelling has only dropped out of the English Prayer Book in the twentieth century. How many churchgoers have noticed the change?—London Spectator.

A Mathematical Sorcerer.

In the sixteenth century, when the Spaniards were endeavoring to establish communications between the scattered branches of their monarchy, they invented a complicated cipher which from time to time was varied in order to confuse those who might try to pry into the mysteries of their correspondence. This cipher was composed of fifty signs and was of great value to them through the troubles of the Ligue until Henry IV. intercepted some of the messages and set Viete, a noted mathematician, to deciphering them. Viete soon found the clew and was able to follow easily all the variations that from time to time were made. When the Spanish court found that the cipher was public property in France they accused Viete of being a sorcerer and in league with the devil.

BRAINTREE.

Mrs. B. T. Genthner who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. R. Williams, returned to her home in Foxcroft, Maine, on Saturday last.

The Cochato club of this town and the Norfolk club of South Weymouth will probably be seen in the new American bowling league of Massachusetts. The league will adopt bottle pins and rolling will begin in December.

The candidates for the basket ball team in the high school are practicing in their hall. A number of good players will not be allowed to represent the school, for standing in studies will be considered this season.

The ministers of Braintree assembled in the minister's study at All Souls' church the first of this week and arranged for a union Thanksgiving service, Nov. 29th, at eleven o'clock, in All Souls' church. Rev. W. O. Ayer of the Baptist church will deliver the sermon.

The harvest dinner given by the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church, Wednesday noon, was one of the largest ever given in the village. Over 100 sat down to the splendid meal. The ladies wish to thank the large delegation from the factories who contributed largely. A business meeting was held in the afternoon and at six o'clock supper was served.

Carleton D. Beal of Harvard University dental school, entertained at his home on Tremont street, last Saturday and Sunday, several of his friends from the Boston University, Tufts dental, Amherst, Wellesley, Simmons, Boston Normal school of Gymnastics, New England Conservatory of Music, and Cushing academy.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Young, who had charge of the entertainment at the Cochato club last Wednesday evening, gave the club members a musical program that is appreciated by lovers of music. The Boston Rivals are four professional entertainers, Miss Josephine Knight, soprano; Mrs. Maud Paradis Lane, accompanist and pianist; Mrs. Belle Temple Priest, in original monologues; and Mr. Karl Barleben, violinist.

Mrs. Brown daughter of Mr. B. Edson Fish has returned to her home in the West.

A service of more than usual interest was held in the Methodist Episcopal church of East Braintree last Sunday morning. Two members were received on probation, four into full membership, and five by letter. The Sunday school recently purchased new books for use in the Sunday evening service. These contribute to the interest and helpfulness of the meetings.

Rev. B. F. Eaton of Dover, N. H., with his son Rev. Clarence Eaton of Medford were present at the funeral service for Mrs. Marcia P. Hunt. Rev. Mr. Eaton a former pastor of the First Universalist church assisted the Rev. M. S. Nash who officiated.

Ten members of Court Autumna No. 9, L. K. L. S. attended the twenty-fifth anniversary of Court Mizpah No. 1 at Knights of Honor hall, Boston, Monday evening. There was a reception followed by a banquet and a fine entertainment. As of the latter feature, Fred W. Calkins was presented with a beautiful gold watch and chain in recognition of his faithful services to the order at large.

Tuesday evening Camp 32 S. of V. was inspected by J. W. Powell. Members from the camps at Whitman, Brockton and Randolph were guests of camp 32. After the meeting they adjourned to the supper room where refreshments were served by the ladies of Auxiliary 16. After supper all returned to the hall where speeches and stories occupied the remainder of the evening.

Through the courtes of the Desmond Publishing Co., Boston, Mrs. Amos Loring has presented to the Jonas Perkins school two beautifully bound volumes of Northrop's Students' History of the U. S. This gift is highly prized by both teachers and pupils, and they greatly appreciate Mrs. Loring's efforts in their behalf.

J. W. Baker, who was successfully operated upon at the Quincy hospital three weeks ago, is so much improved that he is able to be about his home on Union street.

Gypsy Smith, the noted English Evangelist who is holding a series of meetings in Tremont temple, Boston, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Slade of Middle street this week.

Mrs. Mary A. Ford, mother of Mrs. Wentworth of Quincy avenue, died at the home of her other daughter, Mrs. M. J. Clarke, Front street, Weymouth, Wendesday, aged 87 years. The funeral took place yesterday and the interment was at Woodlawn cemetery, Chelsea.

The members of the class of 1907, grade 8, Noah Torrey school, have organized a class in Self Government. The following preamble to their constitution shows their aim and presages an influence that can result only in good to all, with whom they come in contact.

Rev. M. F. McDonnell, pastor of the St. Francis church at the services on Sunday last, expressed himself as highly pleased at the kindly reception accorded him on his annual visit to his parishioners and at their ready and generous response to his plea for aid in reducing the debt incurred by the purchase of their desirable church site.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church reaped a harvest from the one-day fair held yesterday in the vestry of that church. Unfortunately the vestry was not large enough to properly display the numerous articles on sale and give purchasers all the room they needed. So many articles were sent in to be sold that one staunch supporter of the church thought it would take several days to sell them. When the Observer representative looked in about 8 P. M. the candy table had less than fifty cents' worth left for sale. All the tables were patronized nearly as well. Ice cream and cake also sold readily.

Bachelors.

"Bachelors can be found roaming at large in all parts of the world. They inhabit apartments, clubs, open fields, bodies of water and music halls. They are also seen behind the scene. They hover at times near front gates, and have been found in back parlors with the aid of a searchlight.

Bachelors are nomadic by nature and variable in their tastes, never going with one girl long enough to be dangerous.

"Bachelors make love easily, but rarely keep it. Rich bachelors are hunted openly and shamelessly, and are always in great danger. Those who finally escape are, as a rule, useless ever afterwards,"—Tom Masson, in the December Delineator.

Vocal Recital.

At the vocal recital of advanced pupils of Joseph Gregory in Huntington Chambers hall, Boston, on Thursday evening, Mrs. Louise Flowers, formerly of Quincy, made an excellent impression with the musical critics as well as the large fashionable audience. Exquisite in tone and color Mrs. Flowers sang "Caro Nome," from the opera Rigoletto.

She has an unusually high soprano voice of clearness and purity singing E above high C, with the greatest of ease. Only experience is needed to make her one of the most successful concert singers.

Mrs. Flowers is soprano soloist at All Souls' church, Braintree.

Historical Exhibit

The Milton Historical Society is to hold a loan exhibit of articles of historic interest opening at the Town hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 20, at 7 o'clock, and continue through to Friday, the hours being from 1 to 10 o'clock p. m. Among the material promised is a large amount of old-time kitchen furniture and utensils, also some ancient chamber furniture.

Among the unique exhibits will be several old-fashioned gowns, some of them wedding gowns, that will be shown on forms. There will also be a large quantity of books, documents, copies of early surveys and the like, that are particularly interesting to students of history. The collection of daguerreotypes is to be exceptionally complete.

Whist Party.

At Poland hall, Norfolk Downs, last evening, whist was enjoyed, 24 tables being in play. Twenty handsome and useful souvenirs were presented to the following: Mrs. L. C. Zepperwick, Mrs. J. Thomas, Mrs. John Poland, Mrs. E. R. Thorpe, Mrs. B. Porterfield, Miss Mabel Cody, Mrs. Daniel Phelan, and Messrs. E. H. Sears, F. E. Burgess, James Thomas, J. F. McLeod, W. F. Carmen, Edward M. Dunn, Daniel Barnes, L. F. Langelier, J. Hildebrand and Frank Ogle.

—An exhibit of special note is now to be seen at the gallery of Charles E. Cobb, Boylston street, Boston, some fifty water colors of Japanese scenes by Genjiro Yeto. Beautiful subjects artistically treated and worthy of an inspection.

President Roosevelt Makes a Personal Examination

MOUNTS A STEAM SHOVEL

Hears Complaint That Engineers Are Not Paid For Overtime--He Shakes Hands With All the Americans He Meets

Panama, Nov. 17.—President Roosevelt, who stopped at the Tivoli hotel Thursday night, started at 7 o'clock yesterday morning with the members of his party to make an examination of the Culebra cut. The weather was overcast, threatening rain. At 8:30 the presidential train arrived at Pedro Miguel, where some steam shovels were at work. The president had his train stopped for the purpose of making a personal examination.

At this point in the cut the peculiar soil conditions have resulted in more or less frequent landslides, and this fact was brought to the resident's attention. President Roosevelt descended from his train and climbed up on one of the steam shovels, taking a seat alongside Engineer Gray, whom he subjected to a searching fire of questions regarding the work. During his conversation Gray took the opportunity, on behalf of himself and the other engineers, to declare that, unlike the railroad engineers, they were not paid for overtime. The president promised to look into this matter. He stayed on the steam shovel about 20 minutes.

By this time it was raining hard. President Roosevelt told Chief Engineer Stevens that he wanted to see all the works in connection with the excavation, even to the temporary laying of tracks. With this in view, he boarded a work train near Pedro Miguel and went on to the next point where steam shovels were at work. Here there was no danger of landslides.

The work of the second steam shovel was observed and the president made a detour to examine the site of the Pedro Miguel lock. He shook hands with all the Americans he met while walking over the ground. The president next entered a deep portion of Culebra cut, his train going slowly in order that he might observe the workings of the drill machines and shovels. One shovel was decorated with a sign reading: "We will do our best to help you build it."

The president spent some time in the deepest portion of the cut, where last Sunday nearly two tons of explosive was used to throw down 35,000 cubic yards of materiai.

The rain was now coming down in torrents and the water poured in rivulets down the funnel-shaped sides of the famous cut. Several charges of dynamite were exploded in order that the president might see the effect before he went back to his own train.

At Rio Grande Stevens pointed out to the president the laborers' quarters under construction. The president decided to leave his train again and inspect personally the sleeping quarters of the Jamaicans. He inquired how the men were fed and patiently listened to their complaints. He went through the commissary and also penetrated into the living quarters of the families of several Jamaican laborers. This inspection lasted for three quarters of an hour, at the end of which the president returned to Culebra, wet through and spattered with mud. At Culebra the president went through the local offices of the canal constructors.

IN ARMOR TIMES.

Strength of English War Horses In the Days of Henry VIII.

The size of the English war horse reached its maximum in the reign of Henry VIII., when the relations of body armor to "hand guns" were analogous to those of the early ship armor and cannon. There was good reason to believe, says the London Spectator, that by adding a little to the thickness of the coat of steel the soft, low velocity bullet of the day could be kept out. So it was for a time. But the additional weight required a still larger horse to carry it. The charger had to be armored as well as his rider, and the collection in the Tower of London shows the actual weight which it carried. The panoply of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, the brother-in-law of Henry VIII., still exists. That of the horse covers the whole of the hind quarters, the back of the neck, forehead, muzzle, ears, shoulders and chest. It is exactly like a piece of boiler plating and fastened by rivets.

The rider sat in a saddle, the front of which was a steel shield ten inches high, covering the stomach and thighs as the "breastwork" on an ironclad's deck covers the base of the turret. The total weight is eighty pounds fifteen ounces. To this add the weight of the rider's armor, ninety-nine pounds nine ounces, and of the rider himself, say sixteen stone (224 pounds), and the total is twenty-eight stone twelve pounds eight ounces, or 404 pounds 8 ounces. This bears out Hollinshead's statement that in the days of Henry VIII., "who erected a noble studderie for breeding horses, especially the greatest sort," such as were kept for burden, those animals would bear four hundredweight commonly.

MAKING OLD OAK.

One of the Tricks of the Cabinetmakers' Trade.

You will have to go a long way before you find a body of men more clever than those cabinetmakers who produce goods to satisfy the desire of the public for furniture made of old and fancy woods. They can transform whitewood into all kinds of exotic woods by means of chemicals, and a chemist would be surprised if he were to have the run of one of those factories for a day.

The manufacture of "old" oak is one of the easiest of their processes. The boards, moldings, panels or whatever pieces are required are made of oak which has just had time to dry sufficiently to prevent excessive warping.

They are then placed in a dark room, on the floor of which and quite close to the furniture to be "aged," are placed several bowls, plates and so forth, of liquid ammonia. The room is then hermetically closed up, and the wood is left for a month or so, according to the age which is required. The coloration will extend to a depth of nearly a quarter of an inch if the room is kept closed for a few months.

That is why there is so much old oak furniture about. Of course, a little reflection would show that it could not be genuine—the forests of the middle ages would not have furnished one-half of it—but people do not always reflect. —London Graphic.

Shoe Buckles.

When Evander Berry Wall, king of the dudes for twelve years and really the most inconspicuous man about town, because he was homely of face and a very bad dresser, besides being rather short and blotchy, undertook to reintroduce shoe buckles he made his first big failure as the sartorial dictator of our "jeunesse doree." I think it was poor Al Claggett who said: "Why, Berry, you make a fool of yourself. Shoe buckles go with long stockings and knee pants. You can't wear 'em with socks and trousers. They interfere with the set of the trousers around the feet. Then, of course, you've got to have a low quartered shoe. Cut it out, Berry, cut it out." Wall immediately quit. — New York Press.

Wearing Glasses.

Wearing glasses need not be permanent. If the first hint of derangement in the eyes is heeded a short time spent under the direction of an oculist will safely tide over the difficulty. It is most restful to close the eyes frequently for a few minutes. This rest does them great good. Particularly should this be done in trains and street cars. Many a headache and smarting pain may thus be saved. Traveling in public conveyances is exceedingly hard on the eyes, even for those that are strong and perfect. The gaze should be confined to the interior of the car. Looking out of the windows to the rapidly changing scenery is a great strain.—Philadelphia Ledger.

No Regrets.

"Hello, old man. Haven't seen anything of you since you got married. How goes it?"

"Thanks, fairly well. But marriage is a costly job! If you only knew what the dressmakers charge!"

"So I suppose you regret it?"

"Oh, no. I married a dressmaker."—Meggendorfer Blatter.

In After Years.

Smith — When Green was courting that young widow a couple of years ago he declared he couldn't live without her. Jones—And did he marry her? Smith—Yes. And now he is trying to get a divorce on the grounds that it's impossible to live with her.—Exchange.

A Suitable Book.

Customer (hesitatingly)—I suppose—er—you have some—er—suitable books for a man—er—about to be married? Bookseller—Certainly, sir. Here, John, show this gentleman some of our account books, largest size.

THE RISE OF LLOYD'S

STORY OF THE FAMOUS ENGLISH INSURANCE CONCERN.

Started Originally In a London Coffee House For Marine Insurance, It Will Now Accept Risks Against Almost Anything Under the Sun.

Llody's is a name known in every corner of the globe. But there are probably few outside the shipping trade who if asked "What is Lloyd's?" could give an intelligent answer to the question.

Lloyd's was originally a coffee house in Tower street, London, kept by a very enterprising and wide awake man, whose establishment was much frequented by merchants engaged in the shipping and underwriting trade. Marine insurance had been first introduced into England by the Hanse merchants and by the Lombards, who enjoyed for a considerable time a practical monopoly thereof. Queen Elizabeth put a stop to this, however. At the time of her war with Spain she ordered all foreign traders to quit her dominions and not long afterward caused Sir Thomas Gresham to devise an act, sanctioned by parliament, establishing marine insurance on a legal basis, this being the first mention thereof in the statute book of England. The merchants and brokers engaged in this branch of commerce used to meet in the various coffee houses of the city, and by the end of the seventeenth century Edward Lloyd's establishment had become their favorite trysting place. In 1688 his name appears in the London Gazette in connection with an advertisement offering a reward for any one giving information to "Mr. Edward Lloyd at his coffee house in Tower street" as to the whereabouts of a man who was "wanted" on a charge of theft.

By 1692 his business had prospered to such an extent that he moved to the corner of Lombard street and Abchurch lane, all his customers following him, while in 1696 he went so far as to produce a news sheet, called Lloyd's News, containing all sorts of information, particularly relating to shipping, calculated to be of interest to the people who gathered each day at noon at his coffee house. Unfortunately the seventy-seventh number of his paper (which he issued three times a week) contained a paragraph condemning certain proceedings in the house of lords relating to shipping, and the result was that he was arrested, summoned to the bar of the house, fined and compelled to abandon the publication for a time. In 1721, however, it was resumed under the title of Lloyd's List and has appeared uninterruptedly from that time until the present day, being with the exception of the official London Gazette the oldest English newspaper in existence.

The next half century saw the gradual crystallization of the Society of Underwriters and Merchants, which had its headquarters in Lloyd's coffee house, into a clearly defined corporation. Lombard street was left for Pope's alley in 1770, whence four years later Lloyd's moved to the Royal Exchange, where it has ever since had its home. This step was immediately followed by an immense expansion of insurance business, due in a measure to the succession of wars in which England was at that time involved. Not merely ships of the English mercantile navy, but also men-of-war and even merchantmen belonging to the enemy, were all insured at Lloyd's. If the risks were great, the premiums were high, and the scrupulous care with which Lloyd's always punctually fulfilled its obligations, its triumphal issue from the ordeals of several parliamentary inquiries and, above all, the active role which it assumed in national and patriotic movements, all contributed to establish its hold upon the good will of the people.

Thus it was Lloyd's which first initiated that lifeboat service which has been adopted by every civilized country in the world boasting of a seaboard, and it was Lloyd's name that figured for $10,000 at the head of the subscription list for the building of the first lifeboat ever launched. Indeed, for a quarter of a century the entire lifeboat service of the United Kingdom was maintained by Lloyd's until it was taken over by the National Lifeboat institution. Again, it was Lloyd's which originated with a subscription of $100,000 in 1803 that patriotic fund which is still in existence and which has provided for the welfare of the widows and orphans of those who have lost their lives in the naval or military service of their country, besides caring for men who have wrecked their health or who have been crippled while fighting England's battles.

In 1871 Queen Victoria affixed her sign manual to an act of parliament providing for the organization of Lloyd's in its present form. It comprises about 600 underwriting and about 200 nonunderwriting members besides about 500 annual subscribers. The underwriters pay an entrance fee and an annual subscription, and to place their credit beyond a doubt they are required to deposit as a minimum $25,000 security with the committee. Membership of Lloyd's is most jealously guarded. Candidates must come before the committee with the written recommendation of six members and prepared to answer all questions of whatever kind put to them. The election takes place by ballot, and for seven days previous to its occurrence the name of the would be member must have been posted in the so called "chamber of horrors." The object of the corporation, as proclaimed by the 1871 act of parliament, is, first, the carrying on of the business of marine insurance by the members of the society; second, the protection of the interests of members of the society in respect to shipping, cargoes and freight, and, third, the collection, publication and diffusion of intelligence and information with respect to shipping.

It is especially for this latter undertaking that Lloyd's is admirably equipped. It has thousands of agents, spread over the seaports in every quarter of the globe, who are in constant communication with the office in London, which day and night throughout the year is open for the reception of news. Appointed by the committee, carefully chosen for their trustworthiness, these agents dispatch every item of information of interest to the shipping community to Lloyd's by the quickest possible route, telegraphic or otherwise. The arrivals and departures of vessels from the various ports, the fact that they have been signaled at sea, the occurrence of wrecks and casualties, are known at Lloyd's within an incredibly short time, a shipwreck being often announced within fifteen minutes of its happening, while prior to the establishment of telegraphs the government was largely dependent upon Lloyd's for early news as to what was going on in the various parts of the world. All this intelligence thus gathered and received is at once embodied for reference in the Index, a gigantic compilation comprised in twelve folios and kept for consultation in the reading room. Thanks to the Index, an underwriter can learn by a search which is only a matter of moments where and in what condition is every vessel in the British mercantile marine and a great number of foreign ships. Indeed, the movements of some 100,000 craft are chronicled in these volumes from hour to hour by a large staff. Side by side with the Index is Lloyd's Captains' Register, a biographical dictionary of all certificated masters of the merchant service, containing every detail of their careers since the time they received their certificates. By order of the government, all information that reaches the state registrar general of shipping and seamen is at once furnished to Lloyd's, so that the dictionary, in which over 70,000 pages are posted up in the course of the year, is as complete and as perfect as unceasing revision can make it. I may add that there are about 40,000 certificated masters of the British mercantile marine.

In classifying and registering ships Lloyd's uses various marks and signs. Thus ships in the first class are noted by the distinctive marks "A 1." But if the ship is set down as "A 1 at Lloyd's" it means that the vessel is not in good order and not a satisfactory risk. Therefore the addition of the words "at Lloyd's" is a stigma of inferiority and may be taken as an indication that further information of a detrimental character will be furnished regarding the ship in question "at Lloyd's." It would require too much space to give in detail here the meaning of the various letters and abbreviations used by Lloyd's to designate the rating of the ship without exposing themselves to legal action by the owners, but I may merely mention that the addition of a Maltese cross signifies that the vessel has been built under special survey and is therefore a particularly safe risk.

On the ground floor in a special room is installed an inquiry office, at which the friends and relatives of those that go down to the sea in ships can learn without charge whatever is known at Lloyd's of the whereabouts and safety of the vessels which carry their husbands, their brothers, their sons or their lovers. Close by is the "chamber of horrors," where the telegrams giving details of all disasters are posted up, whence the name of the room.

Although primarily organized with a view to marine insurance, Lloyd's extends its operations to all sorts of other risks. Indeed, it will underwrite almost anything. It will insure against burglary, against its raining on a certain day. In fact, a mere enumeration of the most curious risks would be a wearying task. When insurance is effected at Lloyd's the procedure is different from that of an ordinary insurance company, for Lloyd's does not insure as a body, the business being done by individual members. These members split up the risk. Each takes a small portion only, thus insuring stability by the extension and consequent curtailment of the risk as far as each individual is concerned. The names of these members are indorsed on the policy, together with the amount of risk undertaken. They are written on the policy one under the other—hence the term of "underwriter."—New York Tribune.

The Ingoldsby Legends.

The author of "The Ingoldsby Legends" was Richard Harris Barham, a clergyman of the Church of England, who was born in 1788 and died in 1845. He was entered at St. Paul's school, London, and while there formed a friendship with Mr. Bentley, his connection with whom in after life was the means of giving to the world, through "Bentley's Miscellany," the mirthful and marvelous "Legends," on which their author's fame securely rests. In 1821 he was elected to a minor canonry in St. Paul's, which was the turning point in his literary life, as it occasioned him to reside in London. In 1837 Mr. Bentley brought out his "Miscellany," in which Mr. Barham began the "Legends" under the nom de plume of "Ingoldsby." His incognito could not be long preserved, and he was soon hailed by his assumed name in literary circles as often as by his own. The flexibility of the English tongue was never displayed to greater perfection than in these mirthful productions. But Mr. Barham was not without higher poetical qualities. The last lines he composed, "As I lay a-thynkynge," are exquisitely beautiful.

LIBERALS IN LEAD

Would Surely Win In Case of New Cuban Elections

MODERATES ARE WRATHY

Prefer Annexation to the United States to Submission to Liberal Rule--Charged With Preparing to Inaugurate an Outbreak

Havana, Nov. 17.—The bitter feeling between the Moderates and the Liberals is growing more intense as a consequence of rumors that the former party is preparing to go to any length to prevent new elections, the result of which, it is a foregone conclusion, would be an overwhelming Liberal victory.

The Moderates are believed to prefer an indefinite American occupation and even annexation to the United States to submission to Liberal rule. The Liberals assert that the Moderates are prepared to instigate disorders in all provinces as soon as the date of the elections is fixed, hoping by this means to compel the provisional government to abandon its intention of holding elections.

Shortly after it was rumored that the government intended to hold municipal elections in December, it was asserted that the Moderates would inaugurate an outbreak within two weeks. But such intentions are vehemently denied by the Moderate leaders, who, however, are frankly opposed to the election projects and who advocate the continued retention of American troops in the hope that this delay will bring about dissensions in the Liberal ranks and the consequent extinction of the present Liberal preponderance. This would also give time for the organization of the conservatives. The Moderates characterize the rumors that they intend to oppose the Americans as Liberal calumnies.

Fears of an outbreak are not seriously considered by the provisional government. The rural guards have been reinforced and redistributed, in accordance with previous plans, to more than 500 posts throughout the island, and it is believed these men will be able to deal promptly and decisively with the first symptoms of disorder.

The Diario De La Marina, commenting editorially on the possible withdrawal of the American troops from Cuba next summer, says: It must be well understood that, together with the Americans, a large part of the capital and the whole credit of this country also will depart. The last crop will be harvested and those who are able will liquidate their accounts.

Magoon Interested In His Work

Havana, Nov. 17.—Governor Magoon denies the rumor that he intended to resign his post in Cuba. He said: "I have never filled a post which pleases me more than this one and I never have been so deeply interested as in the work in which I am now engaged."

Plan of Insurance Agents

New York, Nov. 17.—That agents of the New York Life Insurance company are preparing to form an insurance company with a capital stock of $2,000,000 if the administration ticket of trustees of that company be defeated in the election now progressing is stated by W. O. B. Clifford, a general agent of the company in this city. Clifford says the agents intend to elect Thomas A. Buckner, now vice president of the New York Life Insurance company, president of the new company.

Valuable Barn Burned

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 17.—A barn on the "Ramparts" estate, owned by F. A. Raymond of Cleveland, was burned last night with a loss of $25,000. The caretaker, Frank Allen, has lived in the barn since the Raymond family left the estate several weeks ago. The livestock and nearly all the farming implements in the barn were saved. The cause of the fire is not known.

Crapsey Verdict Not Made Public

New York, Nov. 17.—A decision has been reached by the Episcopal court of review which has heard the appeal of Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey, D. D., from the verdict of the diocesan court of the western diocese of New York which found the Rochester clergyman guilty of heresy. The decision will not be made public until the formalities of the court are concluded.

Report of Castro's Death

London, Nov. 17.—The Mexico City correspondent of The Tribune says a prominent Venezuelan refugee there has received cable advices which declare authentically that President Castro of Venezuela is dead and that the Venezuelan government is concealing the fact in order to prevent a revolution.

Taps the Coal Fields

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The last spike in the Delaware and Eastern railroad was driven at East Branch today. This is a branch of the projected Schenectady and Southwestern railroad, which taps the coal fields of Pennsylvania and connects with the Boston and Maine at this city.

Cannot Be District Attorney

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—Judge Seawell has decided that Abraham Ruef has no legal right to the office of district attorney, to which he was appointed by acting Mayor Gallagher after the board of supervisors had suspended W. H. Langdon.

ON FRANCIS' TRAIL

Pursuers Think They Have Him Surrounded In a Swamp

Camden, Me., Nov. 17.—Warden Norton of the state prison at Thomaston, who is leading the search for the escaped prisoner, Minot St. Clair Francis, is confident that he has the elusive negro surrounded in a swamp on Beauchamp point, between this village and Rockport, notwithstanding the failure of the efforts to drive Francis from his supposed cover. So many guards and overseers from the prison were pressed into the service that the force left at that institution was inadequate to guard the prisoners according to the regular routine, so the prisoners were kept locked in their cells yesterday and operations in the workshops were suspended.

With all this array of prison guards, assisted by county deputies and local officers of Rockport and Camden, Norton feels that he has a force sufficient to prevent the escape of Francis from the swamp and to insure his capture if he should attempt to break cover.

The fact that there has been no report from the fugitive is regarded by the warden as strengthening the belief that the man is still in hiding in the Beauchamp swamp. Had he emerged and succeeded in evading the guards who had been watching for him throughout the day he could hardly have escaped the vigilance of people of the countryside who are thoroughly aroused to the presence of the desperado and are continually on the lookout for him.

Insurance Company Enjoined

Boston, Nov. 17.—A temporary injunction prohibiting the American Fire Insurance company from transacting business in the state of Massachusetts was issued by Judge Morton in the supreme court as a result of a bill of information filed by Attorney General Malone, who stated that further transactions in Massachusetts by the American Fire Insurance company would be hazardous to the public and to its policyholders. The insurance company is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts.

Act of Roosevelt Denounced

Boston, Nov. 17.—Resolutions strongly disapproving of the action of President Roosevelt in discharging from the United States army three companies of the Twenty-Fifth infantry, composed of negroes, were adopted at a negro mass meeting here last night. The resolutions declare that the dishonorable discharge of the soldiers "becomes an act of unmerited severity, unprecedented in justice and wanton abuse of executive power, and as such we brand and denounce it."

An Embarrassing Situation

Providence, Nov. 17.—The cotton manufacturers of this state are unable to obtain the higher grades of cotton such as they must have if they are to maintain the standard of their products. Similar complaints are heard from the manufacturers whose plants are in adjoining states. In addition to the shortage of the staple article necessary to keep the mills in operation, there is a scarcity of help.

Played With Loaded Revolver

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 17.—Laurie Perry, aged 12, and a young companion, Edgar Boonville, were at the home of Perry's father. They rummaged about a closet and Perry found a revolver which he playfully pointed at Boonville and pulled the trigger. Boonville fell dead, with a bullet over his left eye. The medical examiner pronounced it a case of accidental shooting.

Boston Elevated Raises Wages

Boston, Nov. 17.—The Boston Elevated Railway company, which controls practically all the trolley lines in Boston and vicinity, and also the elevated system, announced last night that a voluntary advance in wages will be granted to its 5300 employes on Jan. 1. The increase will average 10 cents a day and will amount to $160,000 a year.

Captain and Cook Drowned

Biddeford Me., Nov. 17.—The captain and cook of schooner Marshall Herrin were drowned, the third member of the crew saved himself, and the schooner became a total wreck in the gale and sleetstorm on Wood island. The dead are Herbert P. Bray, captain, and William Jarvin, cook. John Burke, the mate, was saved.

TRAINING DOG POLICE.

Breaking In of the Seine Patrol One of the Sights of Paris.

The training of the young Newfoundlands that are periodically added to the staff is one of the sights of Paris. It takes place in the headquarters of the agents plongeurs, a small building on the quayside not far from the Cathedral of Notre Dame. Dogs and men enter into the exercise with zest, and there is usually a crowd of onlookers. Only dummy figures are used, but the "rescue" is nevertheless a very realistic affair. The big dogs know perfectly well what the exercise means, and they wait with comic enthusiasm until the dummy is thrown into the water and an agent plongeur rushes out on hearing the splash and the outcry of spectators. While the men are busy with lines and life buoys the dog plunges into the water, swims to the dummy, watches with rare intelligence for an opportunity to get an advantageous hold, and then it either swims ashore or waits for its master, who brings to the rescue long poles, cork belts and the like. The more experienced dogs, however, will easily effect a rescue from first to last without human assistance, and it is an inspiring sight to watch them looking for a foothold on the slippery sides of the river bank and pulling the heavy dummy into a place of safety.

It takes about four months to train the dogs efficiently. They are also charged with the protection of their masters when attacked by the desperate ruffians who sleep under the arches of the bridge in summer. Thus in Paris the police dogs are a proved success.—Century.

A GREAT BEER HOUSE.

Munich Owns the Oldest and Largest Saloon In the World.

The Hofbrauhaus of Munich is perhaps the oldest and largest saloon in the world, owned by the king of Bavaria and patronized by an average of 12,000 customers a day. On holidays the number often runs up to 15,000 and 16,000. Nothing to drink is sold but beer, brewed at the royal brewery, which was started by King Ludwig the Severe in 1255. The present Hofbrauhaus was built in 1644, and the beer was brewed on the spot until 1878, when the brewery was moved into the country to less expensive quarters.

There are seats for 1,500 customers, plain wooden benches without backs beside plain wooden tables without covers. In the garden or court are 100 empty beer barrels set on end, which are used for tables. The steins, which are very heavy and hold a quart of beer, are piled up in stacks before the bar on the floor in the morning, where they remain until they are used.

When a customer wants beer he picks out a stein, takes it to one of the basins of running water which line the walls and washes it himself. Then he carries it to the counter and hands it over to the bartender, who fills it with beer from the barrel. The price is 6 cents a stein, and the profits support the hospitals of the city, although the king could claim them if he desired to do so, as the brewery and the Hofbrauhaus belong to him by inheritance.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Surfeit of Oratory.

One of the mistaken theories is that a "public speaker" is necessary to the success of any public affair. This theory had its rise at a time when oratory was a fad. Orators were cultivated, and they were supposed to take human passions in their hands and toy with them. In this practical age public speakers are a bore, and nobody cares anything about them. People gather to be entertained and not lectured. But, this theory having been established that a "public speaker" is important to a picnic, an orator is hauled out and set loose on a few old gentlemen with canes and a few mothers who must occupy the benches in taking care of the children.—Sabetha Herald.

Shot an Angel.

Now and again we hear of strange and rare birds being shot in England, but how many sportsmen except Mr. Wells' clergyman can claim to have shot an angel? One such man exists, though it is doubtful whether he is proud of his skill. It was nighttime, and he was passing Crayford parish churchyard with his gun over his shoulder when he saw what he took for a ghost. He leveled his piece and fired, but his aim was wild. He had failed to wing his quarry. Investigation showed that the ghost was a sculptured angel on a tomb, and he had shot off one of its toes!—London Chronicle.

High Finance.

"Say," began Burroughs, "lend me a five, will you?"

"See here," replied Markley. "If you'd only save your own money you wouldn't have to borrow from your friends."

"But by borrowing from my friends I do save my own money."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Sleep.

Now blessings light on him that first invented sleep. It covers a man all over, thoughts and all, like a cloak; it is meat for the hungry, drink for the thirsty, heat for the cold and cold for the hot.—Cervantes.

Quite Different.

He—But I thought you'd forgiven me for that and promised to forget it? She—Yes; but I didn't promise to let you forget I'd forgiven it!

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and some couldn't tell to save their necks how it happened.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE.

No musical play of recent years has met with a greater measure of success than "His Honor, the Mayor," which will be seen at the Boston Theatre next Monday evening, when it will enter upon a fortnight's engagement, including besides the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees, a special Thanksgiving Day matinee. There are one hundred people in the company, most of whom are singing and dancing girls. Harry Kelly is featured as Deacon Flood, the funniest character in the play. Then there are Alfred E. Aarons' English Ponies, the young girls from Tiller's London School of Dancing, who are the reigning sensation on Broadway. The music of "His Honor, the Mayor," was written by Julian Edwards, the composer of such light operas as "Dolly Varden," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," and Madame Schumann-Heink's "Love Lottery," and by Mr. Aarons, the composer of "Mamzelle 'Awkins," "My Antoinette" and "The Knicker bocker Girl."

Peter Pan Side Show

There is never a matinee performance of Peter Pan at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, without its side show. These latter occur among the audience, they are either delightfully humorous or perhaps touchingly pathetic. But Miss Adams herself tells the most interesting anecdote of the perfect self loss in illusion which a black haired little chap experienced at the last matinee performance of "Peter Pan."

"He sat beside his mother in a stage box," she says, "leaning very far forward over the edge of the box, eagerly drinking in every incident of the play. But at last his silence was broken in a very decided and unexpected manner.

"It is at the moment when Tinker Bell, having drunk the poison left by the pirate Hook, is thought to be dying. Nothing can save the perishing fairy but for the audience to show by some sign their belief in fairies. This day as at times during our Boston engagement, I felt the audience, as the saying is, overwhelmingly 'with me.' Hence sure of saving Tinker's life I rushed to the footlights exclaiming—'do you believe? oh, say quick that you believe'—but I got no further. The little chap in the audience interrupted me by crying out—'Hi! I do!' And the audience burst into a thunder of applause. The little fellow's mother evidently embarrassed by attracting so much attention, gently chided him for his spectacular outburst, and at her words his little face puckered up into something which seriously threatened to end in tears. But he did not cry. I saved him as he had saved Tinker Bell. We received the usual curtain call, and as I stepped out front I stood before the box in which my little admirer sat and deliberately tossed a kiss right into his lap. Then a wonderful thing occurred. The downcast mouth, the damp eyes, and the guilty look all vanquished as if by magic and my little friend broke out into hearty laughter."

The Popular Show

The recent voting contest for choice of play to be presented at the Castle Square during the week of December third drew out many thousand ballots. Among the plays voted for were Sag Harbor, Rip Van Winkle, Little Lord Fauntleroy and a dozen other popular dramas, and of them all "Sag Harbor" headed the list by a substantial majority. So many ballots were received that it took a full week to count and tabulate them. It will accordingly be presented the week following Thanksgiving, a season to which it is especially appropriate. The patrons of the Castle Square are to be congratulated upon having chosen a play, so amusing, so interesting and so true to life. It is one of the best of James A. Herne's dramas of rural life and it easily rivals the celebrated "Shore Acres" in popularity.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. So Quincy Board of Trade Enjoyed Visit To State Prison

Members of the Board of Trade on invitation of Representative Sandberg to the number of about thirty visited the State Prison at Charlestown on Saturday afternoon and learned a great deal concerning the labor problem, as well as the corrective influence which the Commonwealth brings to bear upon those who transgress her laws.

The party were met by the warden, Gen. B. F. Bridges, who personally conducted them through the institution explaining to them everything of interest pertaining to it. Many interesting facts were observed and learned. The absolute cleanliness of the place and the abundance of sunlight in all parts of the building were noticeable features of the institution.

There are at present 850 inmates in the prison. Of these 250 are employed solely in doing the work of the institution. The rest are performing other useful labor and the product of their toil is placed on the market or sold to other public institutions. A great many shoes are made; also hand-woven blankets, harnesses, personal clothing, mattresses and many other articles of merchandise.

Last year it required $95,000 to run the prison, this in addition to the substantial income which it receives from the articles which it manufactures. If the warden were allowed to install machinery and manufacture goods in the ordinary way, the institution would more than support itself. Public sentiment however, is opposed as yet to allowing this and the warden considers it best to defer to the public desire. He has no personal interests at stake; he simply strives to serve the commonwealth within the limits of his authority.

There is no doubt that his views on prison labor in its relation to organized labor would be interesting, but he was not disposed to speculate on the matter or to express his private opinion. He stated a significant fact, however, in this connection. The shoe department is the only one in which any machinery is used. From the output of this department last year there was realized the sum of $23,000.

The library, consists of 8,000 volumes, and is used extensively by the prisoners. Their cells are lighted until nine o'clock, thus giving them opportunity to read. A correspondence school has been in operation for several years, conducted by prisoners only. The visitors were given a chance to observe some surprising incidents of what this school is doing. One colored prisoner who was entirely illiterate ten years ago is today possessed of a well rounded education. In proof of this the visitors were shown a story which he contributed last winter to "Our Dumb Animals" concerning a stray bird which had flown into his cell and remained with him. By the way, the percentage of colored prisoners is five.

The cells for incorrigibles, concerning which a certain physician in Boston has agitated so much, were visited. They differ from the ordinary cells in that they are twice as large and even better lighted in order that the prisoner may carry on his work while in the cell. These cells are seldom used. There is only one "incorrigible" at the present time. They average three or four a year.

Reverting for a moment to the correspondence school. Warden Bridges informed us that of all the illiterates whom they had taught since the school was begun, only one had come back after gaining his freedom. Another significant statement which he made was that a man with a trade seldom landed in the State prison, and a good mechanic hardly ever came there. It is the man who has no particular occupation that preys on society and must be sent to the State prison.

While the Warden was not disposed to discuss prison labor as an economic factor he was quite positive in expressing the opinion that for the good of the prisoners labor was absolutely necessary. "They must be employed," said he; the only alternative would be to shoot them immediately after conviction."

We were conducted to the death chamber, the place where many have paid to society the extreme penalty of wrongdoing. The electric chair is very simple in its construction. The electric appliances are also simple. The death cells differ but little from the ordinary ones. The room is in an isolated portion of the building and quite ordinary in its appearance. In fact, there is hardly anything about the death chamber that would suggest to a casual visitor that it was a theatre wherein is played every now and then the last scene of a grim and fearfully real drama. The Warden stated a fact not generally known. The first application of electricity to the doomed man extinguishes life completely and in a fraction of a second of time. Subsequent currents serve only to cause a cessation of the vital functions; life itself, and with it all consciousness, goes out immediately with the first shock.

After watching the prisoners playing football in the yard and other games after their day's work, the visitors were conducted by the warden to his office where he showed some exhibits to illustrate the ingenuity of those who try to smuggle morphine and other articles of contraband to the prisoners. The drug is found in the binding of magazines, in innocent-looking base balls, and even under the flaps of envelopes containing letters addressed to the prisoners. Three small saws were found in a groove hallowed out of the frame of a lookingglass sent through the mail addressed to a convict. Great vigilance is observed by the warden and his 95 officers, and escapes are of rare occurrence.

In the warden's office remarks were made by Representative Sandberg and T. L. Williams, president of the Quincy Board of Trade, both thanking Gen. Bridges for the courtesy and attention he had shown and congratulating him on the manner in which he was discharging his responsibilities and the results that were being obtained. The General responded by assuring them that anybody who desired to know anything concerning the work done at the institution and the manner in which it was conducted, was at liberty to come and see for himself. He was always pleased to give information to the public or their representatives, to the end that there might be no misconceptions regarding the place.

Each visitor was given a copy of the "Monitor," a monthly paper gotten up and published by the prisioners. Nothing but original matter is used in it, and all the articles must be written by the prisoners. Some of the contributions are well written and indicate that there are men of culture and liberal education among those who are restrained of their liberty at Charlestown.

After a thorough inspection lasting over two hours, the gentlemen from Quincy were agreed that the State prison was being conducted in a manner creditable alike to the commonwealth and to the administrative ability of Gen. Bridges. The prisoners are treated with firmness, fairness and kindness in proper proportions.

If there was one thing that deserves especial commendation it is the correspondence school. Its results are nothing short of wonderful. And if there was anything observed that was particularly pathetic, it was the intellectuality displayed in the faces of some of the prisoners, showing that men possessing talents and training had abused their privileges as members of society, and thereby forfeited their right to freedom; and incidentally showing that the law is no respecter of persons, and that the way of the transgressor is indeed hard.

Quincy High Shuts Out Boston College

A large crowd saw the Quincy High football team administer a crushing defeat to the preparatory team of Boston College on Saturday afternoon at Merrymount park. The Quincy boys showed themselves to be more than a master, and only once during the whole game did the visitors come anywhere near scoring a touchdown. This was near the end of the first half.

Quincy High kicked off, and the ball had not been long in play when Duncan forced the ball over the line for a touchdown. Tupper followed this up a little later with a side line trick and dash that added another touchdown to Quincy's score. The visitors tried hard to even things up, but the first half ended with the score 10 to 0 in favor of Quincy.

The second half was characterized by a brilliant play by Murray. Hardly had the whistle sounded that put the ball in play when Murray secured the ball from a kick and by a long clever run across the field along the side lines, outdistanced his pursuers and got a touchdown from which a goal was kicked. This seemed to take the vim out of the visitors. Although losing heart and being unable to score themself they prevented the Quincys from adding to their score. It was dark when time was called the score being 16 to 0 in favor of the Quincy High.

The line-up was;

QUINCY H. S.	BOSTON P. S.

McGregors Win Four to Nothing

The McGregor football team squared accounts on Saturday with the Brockton Cricket club on the Ward Three playground. At Brockton the home team won 1 to 0, but at Quincy the McGregors won 4 to 0.

The Granite City boys had the best of the match throughout but no score was made during the first half hour. During the last ten minutes of the first half Drysdale won a goal on a "daisy cutter," and another in a scrimmage. But for good stops by Brockton's goal tender the score would be larger.

The Shoe City team made several rallies in the second half, but the McGregors were always there. For 20 minutes there was no scoring, although once McGregor kicked the ball so that it hit the goal bar and went over. After 24 minutes of play Smith scored the third goal for McGregor.

Then the goal for the home team was threatened, but a few minutes later the ball was kicked over the Brockton goal. McKinley made the fourth goal for the home team a little later. Good work by Malcolm prevented Brockton scoring on two occasions, and the final score was 4 to 0.

The line up was:

McGREGORS.	BROCKTON.
Malcolm, g	g, Burford
Melville, rb	lb, Hurley
Neil, lb	rb, Jones

AS FLASH OF LIGHTNING

Candidacy of E. L. Crane Adds Interest To Campaign

The announcement in Saturday's Daily Ledger that nomination papers had been taken out for Emery L. Crane as an Independent candidate for Mayor came like a flash of lightning from a clear sky.

Politicians could not understand why, not having entered the contest at the caucuses, he should now come forward as a candidate. Some had an idea that the papers were taken out without his consent. Mr. Crane, however, quickly settled this point by declaring that the papers were taken out with his consent and that they would be filed.

The contest this year can in a measure be likened to the contest of December, 1901, when Charles M. Bryant came out as an independent against Frederick L. Jones the regular nominee. But Mr. Bryant was defeated in the convention.

That year Bryant carried Wards Two, Four, Five and Six and Jones had majorities in Wards One and Three. Tirrell, the Democratic candidate, did not carry any ward. The vote for each of these three candidates that year was as follows:

	Bryant.	Jones.	Tirrell.
Ward One	248	326	156
Ward Two	178	169	157
Ward Three	185	376	184
Ward Four	278	188	269
Ward Five	384	232	27
Ward Six	274	95	101
	1547	1306	894

Other city elections since 1901 have resulted as follows:

In 1902.
Bryant, Rep.	2053
Wilson, Dem.	1821
Richards, Soc.	283
In 1903.
Bryant, Rep.	2155
Wilson, Dem.	1860
Sargent, Soc.	135
In 1904.
Thompson, Rep.	2582
Fallon, Dem.	1518
Bates, Soc.	180
In 1905.
Thompson, Rep.	2822
Wilson, Dem.	1178
Whiting, Soc.	147

Last year Mayor Thompson undoubtedly received hundreds of Democratic votes. If Mr. Crane's friends conduct a vigorous campaign, the result will be problematical.

Councilman Otto Gelotte who was defeated at the caucuses has taken out nomination papers as an Independent Republican for the City Council from Ward One.

Papers have also been taken out by William C. Cunniff of Ward Three as an Independent Democratic Ward Councilman.

The time for filing nomination papers expires Wednesday at 5 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sykes and son Bradley of Highland avenue left last week for Philadelaphia, Penn., where they will make their future home.

The employes of the street railway longest in the service are now operating cars on the West Quincy line. It is rumored that the cars will be run as close to the schedule as it is possible, which the people of West Quincy and the officials of the road will appreciate.

Misses Ethel and Marion Clifford of Berlin street entertained their friends from 7 until 10, Thursday evening, Nov. 15. Music and games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. There guests were: Dorothy Cole, Beulah Collett, Margaret Hamilton, Kathaleen Jones, Grace Purdom, Lillian Purdom, Elizabeth Merrill, Fannie Lavalle, Gertrude Lavalle, Ruth Smith, Margaret Taylor, Marene Whitelaw and Dorothy Stevens.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

On Dec. 14, 1909, it will be 500 years since the University of Leipsic was organized by the secession of several thousand German students from the University of Prague.

William Edward Lee, a colored man, chairman of the committee of music of the Cambridge (Mass.) school board has been called to the head of the department of music of Lane college Jackson, Tenn.

The new building for the pathological laboratory of the Hatch experiment station at the Massachusetts Agricultural college is to be named Clark hall, in honor of President Clark, one of the early promoters of the college.

The idea of teaching children to read phrase by phrase or sentence by sentence at the outset instead of the old fashioned alphabet method or the present word system is advanced by Director De Croly of the Brussels Institute of Special Instruction.

Congress has enacted a compulsory education law for the District of Columbia, providing that children between the ages of eight and fourteen must attend school. It is estimated that more than 7,500 children of school age reside in the District who were not attending school during 1905.

CHASE IS GIVEN UP

Convict Francis Has Outwitted Prison Officials

EVADED ARMED CORDON

One of Posse Mistakes Fellow Searcher For Francis and Shoots Him In the Leg—Warden Norton's Statement

Camden, Me., Nov. 19.—The systematic search for Minot St. Clair Francis, the escaped negro convict, which has been in progress since last Monday, came to an end last night, so far as the neighborhood about Camden and Rockland is concerned. Warden Norton of the state prison and Postoffice Inspector Robinson, who had been conducting the search, have reached the belief that Francis succeeded in breaking through the cordon of armed men who were supposed to have surrounded him and has made his escape from all danger of immediate recapture.

Warden Norton issued a statement last night giving the reasons for abandoning the search for Francis and expressing his opinion that the state should not be put to further unnecessary expense in the search for Francis in this section.

Early Sunday morning a posse of armed men believed that they had the fugitive surrounded in a strip of woods near the Forcheimer cottage, and they were closing in upon him when Charles Dyer, a Thomaston member of the posse, mistook a fellow searcher, Jerry Rhodes, for the fugitive, and fired at him, wounding him in the leg. Francis was not located and it was supposed at the time that he had made his escape during the confusion that followed the shooting. Developments later in the day indicated that the hunted negro was not in that vicinity at the time.

The woods and cottages around Beauchamp point, the tract of land where, for two days, Francis was supposed to be in hiding, were searched thoroughly yesterday, but the convict could not be found, and after the searchers had returned last night Norton issued a statement, announcing the abandonment of the search. The statement says:

"The dress suit case, the draperies, deerskin and other articles, stolen from the Chatfield studio, the shoes and rubbers and all other articles left by Francis at various places on the point, were thoroughly saturated with water, showing that they were left by Francis at least two days ago, or previous to the rainstorm.

"There is no evidence to show that Francis has been on the point since Friday morning. In addition to this, a thorough search of the point was made today, and the entire territory was covered by a posse of more than 100 armed men. It does not seem possible that Francis would have remained undiscovered.

"The time of his escape from the point is a matter of conjecture. The best opinion is that Francis passed through the guards on Friday night. The officers do not feel warranted under these circumstances in continuing the search on Beauchamp point and in putting the state to further, what seems to them, unnecessary expenditure of the state's money."

The principal development yesterday was the finding of the suit case which Francis had stolen from the Dorset house Friday morning. The case contained 18 biscuits, which formed a portion of the food supply he took. The searchers also found in an old fish-house on the edge of Rockport harbor near Beauchamp point a pair of prison shoes which Francis wore at the time of his escape. These shoes were covered with rubbers which he had stolen.

The systematic manner of Sunday's search would seem to indicate that Francis could not have been in the vicinity yesterday morning when Rhodes was shot through mistake.

Governor Cobb refused to make any statement excepting that he felt that the state was doing all it consistently could do to apprehend the criminal.

Mayor Thompson of Rockland deplored the failure of the attempt to recapture Francis, but said that it was a matter that was now up to the Thomaston jail officials. This seems to be the general verdict in this section.

Students Shot Policeman

Fayetteville, Ark., Nov. 19.—Students of the University of Arkansas were parading the streets and giving their college yells because of an athletic victory over a rival college. When Police Officer Rough asked the students to become less riotous they defied him and he arrested one of them. The students then surrounded the officer and in the melee he was shot in the back. Rough is seriously injured.

Steamers Fare Badly In Gale

Fort William, Ont., Nov. 19.—In a terrific gale which has raged on Lake Superior steamer Theano struck a rock near Thunder cape and was wrecked. Steamer Philip Minch and steamer Strathcona were also blown ashore and the former may be a total loss. The crews of all three steamers are safe.

Newfoundland Awaits Developments

St. Johns, Nov. 19.—There is much speculation here as to what course will be pursued by the British and American cabinets in view of the repudiation of the modus vivendi by the fining of two colonial fishermen for alleged infringement of the bait act.

STORM IN THE SOUTH

Eight Lives Lost and Great Damage to Property and Crops

Memphis, Nov. 19.—Telegraph and telephone messages from points in Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee, for a distance of several hundred miles, report that territory to have suffered from a destructive rain and windstorm.

Only meagre details are as yet obtainable, but eight lives are known to be lost and great damage done to property and crops. Railroad traffic from Memphis is demoralized by numerous washouts and many trains have been annulled.

From the reports so far received, the greatest damage occurred in the central and delta regions of Mississippi. At Winona, Miss., the Catholic, the Christian and the negro Methodist churches and a brickyard were demolished and many buildings unroofed and damaged. Among the largest buildings damaged at this place are the postoffice, the opera house, the oil mill, the compress and a warehouse. Besides these, 25 other buildings were partly destroyed. Telegraphic communication is prostrated.

Carnival of Crime Ended

Pittsburg, Nov. 19.—The epidemic of crime that has swept over this city and vicinity since Nov. 1 has apparently run its course and yesterday only a few small burglaries were reported. During 16 days three murders were caused by thugs bent on robbery; carbolic acid was thrown in one woman's face, disfiguring her for life; half a hundred men were badly beaten; a hundred or more men and women were held up on the streets at the point of guns and robbed; houses in all sections of the city were broken into and thousands of dollars' worth of valuables stolen. The police express the belief that the outrages were committed by a roving band of expert criminals who have departed for other fields.

O'Connor's Efforts Appreciated

London, Nov. 19.—A dinner was given at the Hotel Cecil last night to T. P. O'Connor, to celebrate the passage of O'Connor's music copyright act. There was a notable company of over 200 persons present. All the speakers praised O'Connor's energy and skill in pushing a measure that will prove beneficial to the musicians of all lands whose works for so long have been pirated in the United Kingdom.

Demonstration Worthy of Heed

Brussels, Nov. 19.—There was a great popular demonstration here in favor of obligatory education, which hitherto never has been insisted upon in Belgium. Not less than 60,000 persons marched in procession to the city hall and presented a petition to the mayor, voicing their demand. This petition has 200,000 signatures. The mayor promised to bring the matter to the attention of parliament.

To Canvass Referendum Vote

Peoria, Ills., Nov. 19.—Grand Master Hannahan of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen started last night for New York to take in hand the demands of the Erie railroad switchmen for an increase in pay and uniform working day. The referendum vote of the members of the order on the system will be canvassed when he reaches New York.

Disaster to New Steamer

Owen Sound, Ont., Nov. 19.—The big new steel steamer Winona, which cleared from this port with 3000 tons of cement, ran on the Jenny shoal. She was released, but her bow was so damaged that she was beached. She only went into commission this fall. There are prospects of saving her.

Many Victims of Bandits

Athens, Nov. 19.—Reports are being received here constantly concerning the activity of brigands in the Saloniki district. It is declared that a number of men, women and children have been massacred at Kossiuco and Rameli, and that a band killed 15 Greeks in the neighborhood of Niacusta.

Hotel Fire Killed Two

Goldfield, Nev., Nov. 19.—The list of dead in the fire at the Hotel Goldfield Saturday has narrowed down to two. Dismembered bodies were found in the debris which made it appear that there were many dead. Many were injured by jumping from the second and third stories.

Wreckers Raise the Bavarian

Montreal, Nov. 19.—The big steamer Bavarian, which went ashore on Wye rocks below Quebec in October, 1905, was successfully floated last evening by wreckers engaged by the underwriters to whom the steamer had been abandoned.

Burglars blew the safe in the post-office at Unionville, N. Y., secured $300 in cash and stamps and escaped.

Five members of the family of S. H. Baker of Somerville, Mass., are ill as the result of eating salt codfish supposed to have contained ptomaines. Baker's father is in a critical condition, but the others are out of danger.

Schooner William F. Green, St. George, S. I., to Portland, Me., with a cargo of coal, was towed into Portsmouth, N. H., harbor, having lost her rudder in a collision with a submerged wreck two miles south of Thatcher's island.

WORK IS WELL DONE

Roosevelt Has Praise For Progress on the Big Ditch

SPEAKS OF ITS CRITICS

Says They Will Sink Out of Sight, While the Works Will Remain When Criticism Is Forgotten --He Sails For Porto Rico

Colon, Nov. 19.—President Roosevelt and his party sailed Saturday night at 10 o'clock for Ponce, P. R., on board the battleship Louisiana.

After riding on horseback through the muddy streets of Colon Saturday afternoon, the president went to the residence of Mr. Biers, general manager of the Panama railroad, for dinner. Those present included Chairman Shonts, Chief Engineer Stevens, Secretary Latta and Dr. Rixey. The secret service men with the presidential party dined at an adjoining house.

At 8:30 o'clock President Roosevelt reached pier 11, where there was an enthusiastic gathering of 800 persons, principally canal employes. Here the president ascended the bandstand and made a 30-minute speech. In giving his impressions of the work on the canal, he said he was pleased with what already had been done and paid his respects to those who had adversely criticised the work.

"How about Poultney Bigelow?" came from among the auditors.

With much deliberation, the president remarked that in every large work there was always someone to find something that was not done as it should have been; but the employes should on no account pay attention to such criticisms, as the critics would sink out of sight while the work the men were doing and had done would remain long after all criticism had been forgotten.

President Roosevelt said also he was so impressed with the magnitude and greatness of this work that he would like to see one of his sons engaged therein. He congratulated all the heads of departments upon the work being done and with especial warmth he congratulated Captain Shanton on his success in maintaining order in the canal zone and in perfecting the splendid police force under his control. In conclusion the president said he would like to remain longer on the isthmus, but that it was necessary for him to get back to his work in the United States.

The president went off to the Louisiana at 9 p. m. The Washington and Tennessee were delayed in coaling at Chiriqui and did not get back here in time to sail with the Louisiana. They doubtless will join that warship on the way to Porto Rico.

President Roosevelt is due to arrive at Ponce on Wednesday. From there he will cross the island to San Juan by automobile for a one-day visit to the capital. He will embark at San Juan for Hampton Roads on Thursday and expects to reach Washington Nov. 27, in order to spend Thanksgiving day at the White House.

King's Life In Jeopardy

Rome, Nov. 19.—The local police have been informed that several people who are in the habit of renting windows along the route usually taken by royal processions have been approached by mysterious persons who wish to rent not only windows, but entire rooms, for the day when King George of Greece arrives here. The police believe this is to be an evidence of an anarchist plot. King George is expected here Nov. 23.

Warm Welcome to Explorers

Christiana, Nov. 19.—Captain Ronald Amundsen and his companion explorers arrived here on board the steamer Helig Olav. A salute of 15 guns was fired from the fortress and the explorers were welcomed by a number of officials and prominent citizens. A banquet was given last evening in their honor.

Three Locomotives Wrecked

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 19.—One man was killed, four others injured and three locomotives and two milk cars destroyed in a head-on collision near here. The milk train was passing the switch at Lehigh when the empty engine in charge of Engineer Gill attempted to run onto the main track, the collision following.

Theatre Lacks Financial Backing

Baltimore, Nov. 19.—Following a protracted meeting of the stockholders in the Irwin-Luescher company, lessee and managers of Albaugh's theatre, the theatre has been closed. The refusal of the financial backers to furnish further aid when called upon was given as the reason for suspending.

Skull Fractured by Great Hammer

Boston, Nov. 19.—The hammer of a pile driver struck Charles Zeigler, 30 years old, a laborer, killing him instantly. Zeigler was at work near the machine when the hammer was accidentally released, and he received a glancing, but terrific blow, on the head, which fractured his skull.

PANIC IN CHURCH

Bomb Explodes In St Peter's, the World's Greatest Basilica

CROWD ESCAPED UNHURT

No Trace of Man Responsible For the Explosion--The Pope Was Expected to Pray Before Tomb Where Outrage Occurred

Rome, Nov. 19.—A bomb was exploded in St. Peter's yesterday. The edifice was crowded and an indescribable scene of confusion followed. There were no fatalities. No trace of the perpetrator of the deed has been found.

Since Saint Anacletus erected an oratory in 90 A. D. on the site of the present basilica to mark the spot where the remains of St. Peter are buried, no such distardly occurrence is noted in the annals of the church.

Yesterday was the anniversary of the dedication of the basilica to St. Peter, and it was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Holy relics were exposed and a large number attended the services. The last mass had just been concluded when the explosion occurred and only one canon, who had not quite finished, remained at the altar of St. Petronilla. As the canon turned to bless the communicants there was a tremendous roar, which echoed through the lofty arches and the immense dome like a thunderclap. At the same time a dense smoke spread throughout this portion of the basilica and a strong odor of gunpowder filled the air.

Confusion and panic at once seized the people. The canon at the altar tried to stem the tide of fear, but the people continued their headlong flight. Chairs were overthrown, making the confusion more serious. Men and women fled, stumbling in all directions, and the screams of children and cries of anguish were heard on all sides, and for a few moments it seemed as if nothing could obviate a grave disaster. The vast size of the church, however, gave room for the crowd to scatter and at the end of a few moments the people were surging toward the doors.

As soon as the smoke cleared away a hasty examination showed that nobody had been hurt in the crush and furthermore that no one had been wounded by the explosion. Calm was gradually restored.

It was discovered that the bomb had been placed under a scaffolding which had been erected to facilitate repairs to the roof exactly over the celebrated tomb of Clement XIII, which consists of a figure of the pope and two lions, and which is the most remarkable piece of sculpture in the basilica. When the first gendarmes reached the spot the scaffolding was found to be smouldering, but this fire was easily extinguished. The tomb was found to be uninjured. It is believed that the bomb had a very long fuse in order to enable the criminal to gain the piazza before the explosion. It has been impossible to trace him, and no one has any recollection of seeing a man who, by his movements, might have aroused suspicion.

The explosion produced no alarm outside the basilica, the sound being taken by everybody for the noonday gun, but by afternoon the news was known all over the city and a stream of people went through the church to view the result of the explosion.

The rumor having spread that the pope intended to visit St. Peter's yesterday to pray before the tomb where the outrage was committed drew an exceptionally large crowd to the basilica. This rumor was unfounded, for only Cardinal Rampolla entered with the procession. A three days' service of prayer will be held in all the churches in expiation of this offense to religion.

Yesterday's bomb explosion made the third anarchist outrage in Italy in four days, the others having been the murder of Professor Rossi in Naples Saturday and the explosion of a bomb in front of the Cafe Aragno in this city on Nov. 14. The attempt of yesterday has caused deep-seated and universal horror and indignation.

St. Peter's is the greatest basilica in Christendom. Three hundred and fifty years were occupied in constructing the edifice, which stands today a result of the efforts of 43 popes and the genius of Michael Angelo, Bramante and Rafael.

The theory is held that this attempt was not directed against the papacy, but rather a challenge to society in general by attacking religion, the most sacred institution of the people.

Anarchist Threatens Further Crime

Naples, Nov. 19.—Saverio Lagana, who stabbed and killed the famous zoologist, Giovanni Rossi, of the University of Naples, in this city Saturday night, is from Calabria. The police have not yet succeeded in taking him into custody. In a communication to the chief of police and to certain colleagues of Professor Rossi, Lagana declares with unconcealed rage that on the occasion of the funeral of his victim, which is set for tomorrow, he will give an even more disastrous evidence of what he can do.

No One Admits Knowing Lagana

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 19.—No one can be found here who admits knowing the anarchist, Lagana, who killed Giovanni Rossi at Naples. It is believed here that the man claims to be from this city simply because others of his character have said they were from Paterson.

SEARCHING FOR RIFLES

Thousands of Arms Secreted by Former Cuban Volunteers

Havana, Nov. 19.—Governor Magoon is making strenuous efforts to recover the arms the volunteer forces of the late government failed to surrender. It is known that thousands of volunteers succeeded in secreting their guns, and it is for these that diligent search is being made. The American officers doing this work are being assisted by the secret police.

One officer succeeded during the past few days in recovering 1200 government rifles, and it is believed that the search will result in finding many hundred more. The efforts in this direction are especially active in Sancti Spiritus and Cienfuegos, where large numbers of rifles have not been accounted for.

"Never Again a Candidate"

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 19.—W. R. Hearst passed through San Antonio on his way to Monterey, Mex., where he has mining property. In reference to politics in New York he said: "I will never again be a candidate. I shall continue to advocate and support the principles of reform which I have always stood for, but these principles of reform are now sufficiently understood by the general public for it to be no longer necessary for me to be a candidate and on that account to be attacked with much bitterness."

Developing the Congo State

Brussels, Nov. 19.—Concessions in the Congo Independent state have been granted to three companies, one of which is to construct a railroad, the second to conduct mining operations and the third to exploit India rubber resources. One of the principal promoters of the mining and India rubber companies is declared to be Thomas F. Ryan, while the name of John D. Rockefeller is mentioned in connection with them.

Troup Pays a Visit to Bryan

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 20.—Alexander Troup of New Haven, who was prominent at the recent meeting of the New England Democratic Progressive League at Boston, at which Democratic presidential possibilities were discussed, arrived at Lincoln yesterday. Neither Troup nor Bryan would say the Boston gathering had any particular candidate in view, and Bryan said the visit was a social one.

Barber Stuck to Principles

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—John McConnaghan, a recruit at the barracks here, is a union barber. Because he refused to shave his fellow soldiers for a nickel and cut their hair for a dime he was called before the commanding officer and severely reprimanded. He was obdurate and was then placed in the guardhouse. McConnaghan could have made $40 a week at the low rates.

Authorities Expect Trouble

Paris, Nov. 19.—There is considerable anxiety over the recommencement of the taking of church inventories under the separation law. All the troops have been ordered to remain in their barracks to be in readiness to assist the civil authorities in the event of disturbances. It is not believed inventories can be taken without disorder.

Fire Chief's Ribs Broken

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 19.—While responding to an alarm for an insignificant fire, Chief Hosmer of the fire department was thrown from his wagon and had three ribs broken. The accident was the result of Hosmer's effort to avoid running down a woman by swerving his horse suddenly to one side. The woman escaped unhurt.

Flood Losses Not Serious

Seattle, Nov. 19.—With the rapid subsidence of flood waters in western Washington it is said that the general loss is not great. The entire country is rapidly regaining its thriving appearance. Railway officers say that through rail trans-continental service will be resumed in a few days throughout the northwest.

Steamer's Cargo Got Afire

New Orleans, Nov. 19.—Steamship Custodian, which sailed from New Orleans for Liverpool Nov. 14, returned to port after having had a fierce fire burning in her hold for three days. Part of her cargo, which consisted of 24,000 bales of cotton and lumber, has been discharged and the fire is now under control.

Blizzard In the West

Trinidad, Col., Nov. 19.—A severe blizzard is raging, the storm extending into the Pan Handle of Texas. The Santa Fe reports a blizzard along its line as far as Kingsley, Kan. In northern New Mexico the blizzard is the worst. Trains are running hours behind schedule time.

His Second Shooting Affair

Flushing, O., Nov. 19.—Silas Conaway, a miner, last night shot and killed Marcus Piverotti, an Italian storekeeper, with whom he quarreled. Conaway escaped. In 1884 Conaway shot and badly wounded Marshal McConnaughey of Bridgeport, O., and served 12 years for the crime.

Miners In Fatal Affray

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 19.—During a quarrel at Sayres' mines "Doc" Mann and Oscar Linn, both white, engaged in a shooting affray, in which both received mortal injuries. Sam Stephens, a negro bystander, received injuries from which he will die.

What Police Expect to Prove Against Daniel Harkins

Boston, Nov. 19.—Technically charged with being a fugitive from justice, but really wanted on a charge of bigamy preferred against him by the New London, Conn., authorities, Daniel G. Harkins, 55, reclaimer of the fallen, seer, palmist, phrenologist, a man with many homes and aliases, was arrested by Inspectors Patterson and Norton of police headquarters last night.

Harkins, the police claim, has four known wives, while they believe that the publicity given his arrest will disclose the existence of many more.

Not the least of many accusations that the police lay at his door is that in 1903 he was a "white slave" dealer, who made a business of securing young girls for disreputable houses.

Some time ago he was arrested on the charge of obtaining money from a 75-year-old South End woman, whom he promised to marry less than two months after he had married a pretty Roxbury girl.

Harkins, has, the police say, had a remarkable career. In many respects a man of mystery, the police have but little knowledge of his past. They do not feel even sure that his right name is Harkins, although at police headquarters he solemnly averred that while in the past he had given a number of false names to the police, he had at last given them the only name he had any legal right to. Just what sort of a career Harkins had up to 10 years ago is at present unknown.

To Prepare Sunday School Teachers

Boston, Nov. 19.—The first convention of Sabbath colleges was held in this city with the object of forming a national society. C. D. Pugsley of New York was elected president. Pugsley stated that the Sabbath college provides for a large class of young men and women who have outgrown the Sunday school. It is expected that the members of the Sabbath college will be prepared to become teachers in the Sunday school.

A Tardy Discovery

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 19.—A cigar-maker about 40 years old, supposed to be Frank Florian, was struck by a trolley car at Southport and knocked senseless. His head was bandaged by a doctor for a superficial cut and he was brought here on the car and locked up, as it was believed he had been drinking. Later he was found dead in his cell. Medical Examiner Downs found death was caused by a fractured skull.

Muskrat Caused Much Trouble

Upton, Mass., Nov. 19.—A muskrat burrowed into the dam of the million-gallon reservoir of William Knowlton & Sons and caused a leak that not even the powerful pump of the West Upton pumping station could overcome. When the water had been drained off, workmen found that the hole led into a blind drain. While the work was going on the employes of the concern who live on Rockdale hill had to go without water.

Searchers Overlooked Body

Peabody, Mass., Nov. 19.—The body of Mrs. Annie C. Smith, aged 76, who wandered from her home on Nov. 8 and for whom an extended search was made by the local authorities, was found yesterday in an open field about three-quarters of a mile from her home. Death was due to exhaustion. The body was in plain view from the railroad tracks, although the distance gave it an appearance as that of a log.

Attempt to Wreck Street Car

Groton, Conn., Nov. 19.—An attempt to wreck a trolley car came near being a success last night as it was coming into Groton from Westerly. A stone weighing about 75 pounds was placed on the rails. The car, which was going only moderately, struck the stone. The fender was thrown up and the headlight torn off, but the car stuck to the rails. None of the passengers was hurt, although all were shaken up.

Will Find Independent Dealers

Boston, Nov. 19.—When the promoters of the "fish trust" get ready to do business, fishermen all along the Massachusetts coat declare it will be up to the "trust" to find its own wares. The fishermen expect to be very busy then hustling for independent dealers. Whatever fish are left after they have supplied Boston and suburban dealers will be taken to Gloucester and sold to the "splitters," they say.

Sophomores Kidnapped Freshmen

Hartford, Nov. 19.—Under the impression that the annual banquet of the Trinity college freshmen was scheduled for Saturday night, members of the sophomore class made prisoners of as many of the freshmen as they could lay hands on. Some of these were released on parole when it was found that the supper would not be held before tonight. Others are still prisoners.

Not Poisoned With Arsenic

Amesbury, Mass., Nov. 19.—Both the local and state authorities have given up the investigation of the sickness in the family of Samuel T. Pickard, in the belief that the meat which it is said caused the sickness was bad through being an outside cut, and not because, as was at first thought, that it was poisoned with arsenic.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 19.—The final adjudication of the estate of the late Mgr. Cremin, rector of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church, shows that the value of the estate appreciated about $20,000 since the clergyman's death. The estate is now worth, after the payment of all claims, $377,157.

Brunswick, Ga., Nov. 18, 1906—Five hundred people greeted the new steamer Satilla, built at Quincy, which steamed unassisted into her berth here today. During the afternoon she had over 1,000 visitors, and the general comment was. "She's a beauty." The Satilla exceeds all expectations. Extend congratulations to the people of Brunswick. In our Satilla every Brunswickian will take special pride.—Journal, Brunswick.

Although taken unawares Mr. Tutton was able to respond, and with Mrs. Tutton, thanked their friends for their kind remembrance, and bade them partake of the hospitality of their pretty home. Songs and dancing comprised the evening's entertainment, with music furnished by Thompson's orchestra. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Miss Harmount

[Original.]

When the wealthy Miss Harmount came to arrange for the hospital she was to build I saw in her carriage a lovely girl of twenty, attended by a short, fat old woman, a sort of duenna, I supposed, whose presence would prevent any liability to scandal. To me the old woman served as a background to bring out her companion's beauty. I understood that Miss Harmount was enormously rich; but, judging from her apparel, which was plain, and her expression, which was sad, her wealth did not bring happiness. It occurred to me that like families who dress plainly and put their servants in gorgeous liveries she lavished the finery she might have bedecked herself with on her duenna, who was arrayed in silk, while her fingers sparkled with jewels.

Miss Harmount's face haunted me. If I read, her dreamy eyes thrust themselves between me and the page. If I walked out, I saw them looking down from the blue heavens. I was impatient for the evening, for I had an invitation to a reception to be given to Miss Harmount at the residence of one of the magnates of the town. I was so impatient that I arrived among the first. Miss Harmount was standing with the hostess and her duenna "receiving." The host offered to present me to her, but I told him that Miss Harmount belonged to us all, and I went up and spoke to her. I tried to say something about her munificence, but she fixed her eyes upon me with an embarrassed surprise, and I supposed any reference to her gift must be repulsive to her, so I stumbled in my speech, whereupon she smiled kindly.

Giving place to newcomers, I went away to dream of the lady and to blame myself for not remembering that she must be surfeited with being called generous. She was so surrounded during the evening that I had no further opportunity to get a word with her. Her duenna never left her, and I judged that she must have some secret influence over her companion and the disposition of her millions, for I noticed that she received quite as much attention as Miss Harmount. Doubtless she was the key that unlocked the money vaults and decided for the young heiress upon her bequests.

Miss Harmount made us several visits during the summer. One day I was passing the place where the hospital was being erected, and, seeing her carriage there, I went into the grounds, hoping to get a word with her. I found her sitting alone on a wooden bench, while her duenna, or manager or whatever she might be, was walking about the building superintending the work as if she had been a man. I approached Miss Harmount with hat in hand and reminded her that I had met her at the reception. She had no need to be reminded of the meeting. Indeed as soon as she saw me coming her sad face lighted up with pleasure.

"You seem," I said, "to have an excellent executive."

"She is a remarkable woman," replied Miss Harmount, with the same smile she had given once before.

"I suppose you will never have a husband to manage your affairs?"

"Why not?"

"You women of wealth can never know but that you are loved for that wealth and not yourself. Therefore you either do not marry or risk making a mistake."

"You are right. That is the penalty women pay for large possessions."

Now I had been dreaming of Miss Harmount ever since I had first set eyes on her. Yet I knew that her wealth was an inseparable barrier between us. I chatted awhile with her on the subject I had started, saying presently:

"Would it please you to know that there is one who would love you for yourself alone?"

Miss Harmount lowered her eyes, and a color came to her cheeks.

"Yes."

"I know such a person."

"Who is he?"

"To know who he is would do you no good. He is poor. You are rich. He would never take you and your millions together."

"Would he have me give them up for him?"

"No."

"Then why have you told me of his love?"

"Because to know there is one who loves you for yourself alone must give you pleasure."

Miss Harmount turned away.

"You have not told me this person's name," she said presently. "Do not tell it. This fortune, as you say, stands between us. Think what a position I might place him in if I were to say, 'Take me without the fortune.'"

"He would be overjoyed if the fortune had never existed."

"You may tell me his name," she said softly.

At this moment I looked up and saw the fat little figure of the manager waddling toward us. I would have wondered why so refined a girl as Miss Harmount should have selected so unattractive a person for an executive were it not for her manifest capability. My companion rose and as the old woman joined us said:

"Miss Harmount, this gentleman we met at Mrs. ——'s reception."

For a few moments the situation failed to pierce my stupid skull. Then it rushed upon me, and with it rushed a great joy. The barrier between me and my love had vanished. She whom I had mistaken for Miss Harmount was her paid companion.

A Bird Performer.

Canaries and other tame birds are sometimes taught to perform tricks, but it always has been regarded almost an impossibility to train a wild bird. Andrew Hume, the famous Scotch bird lover, trained one of the wildest of Scotch birds to perform all sorts of remarkable tricks—to jump and keep time with the skipping rope, to perform on the slack and tight rope, climb an upright rope, stand on top of a running carriage, draw cards out of a box, mount a ladder and ring a bell, go round a wheeling stair step by step and fly to its owner's head when called upon.

Fame and Fortune.

"That young physician is working hard."

"Yes," answered the veteran practitioner. "He is on the track of a discovery that will mean fame and fortune. He is trying to invent a new name that will make some old ailment fashionable."—Washington Star.

Barely Remembered.

"I suppose your late uncle didn't fail to remember you in his will," said the sympathetic friend.

"You can hardly call it a remembrance," replied the poor relation. "It was more like a faint recollection!"

Three Years.

"How long," asked the judge of a vagrant negro, "have you been without any means of support?"

"Since my wife died in 1903, suh," responded the darky respectfully.—Lippincott's Magazine.

An English Superstition.

A quaint superstition is prevalent in many English villages. When a woman is going to be married every effort is made to prevent her from seeing her wedding ring before the ceremony, as it is considered that a sight of it except at the altar is bound to bring bad luck.

CHANGE WANTED

Where Objection Comes to Reelection of Mayor Thompson

There are numerous rumors about the street that the Citizens' Association is backing a certain candidate for Mayor. President Kincaide of the association, when seen this morning, was very emphatic in his denial of the rumor. He desired the Daily Ledger to deny the rumor and say that the association was not backing any of the candidates for Mayor.

The municipal campaign has not warmed up much as yet, but a great deal of quiet work is being done, and the smouldering kindlings of the political fire are likely to burst into flames at any minute.

The absence of over 750 Republicans from the caucuses this year, and a drop of 626 in the total vote of Mayor Thompson, shows something. Had these citizens voted for Mr. Gray, his total of 1,290 would have been in excess of the 1,237 received by Mr. Thompson, which probably includes some Democrats who will not support him on election day. Most of the vote cast for Mr. Gray was because of a desire for a change.

There would be practically no objection to the reelection of Mayor Thompson were it not for his appointments. Three or four of these are criticised, but one in particular, that of Commissioner of Public Works. The present Commissioner has demonstrated very conclusively, they say, that he is incompetent. It is shown very plainly in the situation at the new High School building, which some people say will never be completed unless there is a change. It is shown in construction and repair of streets; in the delay in awarding contract on the new Atlantic schoolhouse; in the management of the Water department; in improvements at Mt. Wollaston cemetery; in the small returns received for large expenditures of money; in the large deficits of 1905, etc.

The appropriations of which the Commissioner has the expenditure amount to over $300,000.00 this year, over $1,000.00 per day. The delay at the High school will be a serious handicap to the graduating class of 1907 all through life. It may prevent some from going to college. They have been handicapped all through their High school careers by the overcrowded condition of the building, and their health and eyesight injured. They needed this last year for the finishing touches of their education, but they cannot obtain it in ten hours or less per week, late in the afternoon. It is a serious matter which only the parents of the pupils and the teachers realize.

If the voters were assured by Mayor Thompson that there would be a change in the office of Commissioner of Public Works, it is probable that there would be no independent candidate for Mayor this year.

Rev. Dr. Cutter of Watertown will preach at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday.

CRAPSEY LOSES

Court of Review Upholds Decision to Suspend Him

A FAMOUS HERESY CASE

Brought to a Conclusion, as No Further Appeal Can Be Taken --Respondent Had Questioned Virgin Birth of Jesus

Buffalo, Nov. 20.—Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey, D. D., of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Rochester, is condemned to suspension from the church as a result of the decision of the Protestant Episcopal court of review just made public.

The court of review sustains the decision of the lower court, and the decision of the lower court was that Crapsey should be suspended for alleged heretical teachings.

Dr. Crapsey, in his sermons and writings, questioned the Virgin birth of Jesus. He also contended that there were fallacies in other beliefs and doctrines forming the foundation of the Protestant Episcopal church.

The decision was delivered to Bishop Walker by Rev. Henry Austice, clerk of the court of review. Accompanying it was a statement from Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, bishop of New Jersey and president of the court of review.

The full context of the decision covers 40 typewritten pages. This document will be delivered to Crapsey at Rochester.

It was stated by Bishop Walker that, contrary to the general belief, there could be no appeal taken from the decision of the court of review. The decision of the trial court, which is affirmed by the highest court of the church, was as follows:

"That the respondent, Dr. Crapsey, be suspended from exercising the functions of a minister of the church until such time as he shall satisfy the ecclesiastical authorities of the diocese that his belief and teaching conform to the doctrine of the apostles' creed and the nicene creed, as the church hath received the same.

"However, we express the earnest hope and desire that the respondent may see his way clear, during the 30 days which, under the canon of the church, must intervene before sentence can be pronounced, to fully satisfy the ecclesiastical authority of such conformity on his part."

May Make Statement Later

Rochester, Nov. 20.—The probability that Dr. Crapsey will recant any of the opinions, or that he will in any way deflect from the position he has taken, as a result of the verdict, are so very slight as not to be worth consideration.

When told by a reporter of the verdict of the court, he intimated that later, after he had time to consult with his counsel, he will issue a full statement which will plainly set forth his position in the controversy.

As to the plans he may have made for the future, in the light of the decision yesterday, Dr. Crapsey also declined to touch upon them.

Foxy Move of Belgian King

Antwerp, Nov. 20.—A royal decree, just issued, grants to an American company, for rubber and other exploitation, about 2,300,000 acres for 60 years and a 10-year option on 1,250,000 acres. The press generally regards the concession as being a clever move on the part of the Congo government to involve the United States in any future international complications which may arise, owing to the conduct of affairs of the independent state.

Will Not Be Deaf to "Call"

Buffalo, Nov. 20.—Chairman Conners of the Democratic state committee, in an interview, said: "The interview with Mr. Hearst, sent out from San Antonio, Tex., in which he is quoted as saying 'I will never again be a candidate,' means that he will never seek the governorship of New York again. Hearst is, however, a loyal Democrat, and if the party demands his nomination for higher honors he will honor the call."

Woman Kills Former Employer

New York, Nov. 20.—Gustave Simon, senior member of the Queen Waist company, was shot in his office, receiving a wound from the effects of which he died last night, A woman, a former employe of the company, is charged with the shooting. She had called upon Simon to collect money said to be due her from the firm. The prisoner described herself as Mme. De Massy, a shirt designer.

Ryan Drops Some Corporations

New York, Nov. 20.—Because of his accumulating business interests and fearing that he could not attend to all of them properly, Thomas F. Ryan last night announced that he had resigned from the board of directors of a number of railroad and industrial corporations. Neither Ryan nor his business associates would furnish a list of corporations from which the former had resigned.

Cities "to Be Wiped Out"

Washington, Nov. 20.—Boston and 28 other large cities of this country are to be wiped off the map within the next two years. This has been prophesied by Edmund S. Stevens of this city, self-styled "prognosticator, astrologer and royally appointed regent of King Cyrus the Great," for whom he says he will act until the long dead ruler comes to revisit the world.

A CHILD WITH CRAMPS

should have immediate attention, as cramps are positive proof that there is some foreign substance in the stomach or bowels that nature cannot get rid of unassisted, and in most cases the trouble proves to be worms. Worms are the cause, either directly or indirectly, of the majority of childhood ills, and in a great many cases adults are also sufferers.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

the only safe, sure, entirely vegetable worm remedy ever compounded, has been working wonderful cures for over half a century, and stands without a peer in in all complaints of the stomach, liver or bowels—especially constipation and worms. The familiar symptoms of worms are disturbed health, deranged stomach, furred tongue, variable appetite and bowels, increased thirst, itching of the nostrils, bed-wetting, wind colic, irritability, restlessness, grinding of teeth, slow fever and often in children, convulsions.

When any of these symptoms are noticed, do not delay, but give Dr. True's Elixir at once and restore the patient to perfect, robust health. A few drops of the Elixir taken occasionally will guard against worms, and if present will expel them.

FORTY-TWO DROWNED

Small Steamer Sunk In Collision In Puget Sound

Seattle, Nov. 20.—Forty-two lives were lost in a disaster off Alki point, when the little steamer Dix was run down by the steamer Jeanie. There were 79 persons on the Dix when she went down. Of the five women aboard the only one to escape was Alice Simpson, 15 years old. She is believed to be the only person who escaped from the main deck of the steamer, where more than half the Dix's passengers were shut in when the crash came. She could not swim, but her clothing kept her afloat until she was pulled aboard one of the two lifeboats lowered by the Jeanie.

It is believed that the 37 passengers who were rescued included every person who was on the open deck of the Dix when the little craft plunged down stern foremost into 100 fathoms of water.

Tom Cooper Killed In Smashup

New York, Nov. 20.—Tom Cooper, well known as a bicyclist and automobilist, was instantly killed in an automobile accident in Central park late last night. He and three companions were riding in Cooper's automobile, when the machine collided with another automobile on the drive. Cooper was hurled 20 feet and struck upon his head. He was lifeless when picked up. A man named Barlow was also thrown from the machine and sustained a fractured skull. He will probably die. Miss Virginia Vernon and Miss Helen Hall, the other occupants of the automobile, suffered severe injuries. All were removed to a hospital.

Latest From Roosevelt

Washington, Nov. 20.—The latest word received at the White House from President Roosevelt before he left Colon on his way to Ponce, P. R., indicates that he will reach Washington much earlier than the original itinerary of the isthmian trip contemplated. He left Panama Saturday night instead of Sunday night, and is expected to finish his visit to Porto Rico by Wednesday night. He should reach Washington not later than Monday morning. The dispatch from the president announced that his visit of inspection had been successful.

"Black Hand" Man Laid Out

Pittsburg, Nov. 20.—Antonio Tuscia, a member of an alleged Black Hand society, was shot and killed at McKeesport by Joseph Sparatto, whom he threatened to kill unless $500 was paid to the society. Tuscia had called at Sparatto's home several times, demanding the money and threatening to kill if he informed the police. Each time the money was refused.

Terminal to Cost $8,000,000

New York, Nov. 20.—Mayor McClellan announces that the city has finally adopted the plan to build an immense loop terminal at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn bridge, which will be a railroad station and office building in one. All the legal formalities have been complied with. The estimated cost will be approximately $8,000,000.

Schooner and Cargo Lost

Rabel managed to get the vessel into Bulls bay, where she foundered in four fathoms of water. The Rabel was owned at Portland, Me. Vessel and cargo are a total loss.

For Child Labor Legislation

Minneapolis, Nov. 20.—The American Federation of Labor decided that a national child labor law would be unconstitutional and therefore agreed to urge the passage of state laws that will "stop the crushing out of child life in the mills and factories and coining its life blood into dollars upon the counters of commercialism."

A NEW DIPLOMACY

Occasioned by the Remarkable Growth of Our Country

EXTENSION OF COMMERCE

Secretary Root Says Right Conduct In Dealing With Foreign Nations Will Make Substantial and World-Wide Peace

Kansas City, Nov. 20.—A world-wide peace, substantial and enduring, made possible by closer commercial and friendly relations between nations, was the keynote of a notable speech delivered here last night by Secretary of State Root. Following Root, the diplomatic representatives of five Latin-American republics made speeches along the same lines, offering trade extension between the countries of North and South America as a means of bringing these countries into closer relations.

The occasion was the 12th annual banquet given by the Kansas City Commercial club in commemoration of the signing of the John Hay commercial treaty. Five hundred plates were laid, and many notable persons were present.

Secretary Root, who addressed himself to the toast "Our Relations With South America," spoke in part as follows:

"Since John Hay made the tariff treaty which is commemorated by the annual dinner of this club, the United States has passed through a period of comparative isolation and indifference in foreign affairs. Now, however, our growth has been so great as to bring us again in the wider field of the world's trade and constructive enterprise and into contact with all the great and active nations of mankind.

"We have entered anew, whether we will or not, by the necessities of our development, into the field of intimate relations with all the nations of the earth. It is a field in which the guiding principle laid down by Washington of 'friendship for all, with entangling alliances with none,' is as wise a rule of conduct as it was in Washington's time. It is as true now as it was then that Europe has certain primary interests in which we are not concerned, and into which we should not permit ourselves to be drawn; yet it is a field in which we care no longer to be indifferent or to be ignorant, for in it the interests of our vast production and trade are vitally concerned; and in it we have responsibilities and duties, duties to civilization and to humanity, which we cannot escape if we would, and which the conscience of America will not permit us to escape if we could.

"In this time of vast immigration, of international investment and ownership, of opportunities for enterprise and of enlarged peaceful intercourse and, above all, of steadily progressing popular government, a new diplomacy has found place. We already realize that the same rules of right conduct which obtain in our individual intercourse with each other apply also to our internal political action and the exercise of the powers of self-government. We realize that what is wrong and to be condemned in the conduct of man to man is wrong and to be condemned in the conduct of public officers and in the conduct of politicians.

"In the relations which the great body of the people now control there should be a general, all-prevailing and controlling sense that the same rules of conduct ought to be followed. Nations have souls and consciences as truly as individuals. To be narrow and hard, selfish and grasping, to be arrogant toward the weak—all these things make an individual man despised or hated in the community.

"We should take the same pains to help our country avoid them that we would take to avoid them ourselves. America has given to the world an example of a democracy made up of individuals capable of that self-control and self-restraint which enables the defeated contestants in a most excited political controversy to accept peacefully the judgment of the majority and leads the entire community, however keen may be its feelings, to bow with respect to judicial judgment.

"The same spirit, reinforced by the sentiment for humanity and the desire to help the progress of civilization, the rule of peace and justice throughout the world may exert a powerful influence not only upon our own affairs with other nations, but upon the international intercourse of mankind. Mediation and arbitration are useful methods of solving international controversies without recourse to war, but the true preventive of war is the willingness of the people of the world to be just toward one another."

ON TAFT'S ORDER

Suspension of Further Discharges of Negro Soldiers

OLIVER GIVES HIS VIEWS

Says Infantrymen Were Ordered Discharged Because They Cannot Be Trusted.-Shot Up a Town and Shielded Murderers

Washington, Nov. 20.—Acting under orders of Secretary Taft, Major General Ainsworth, the military secretary, has directed that further discharges of the men of the three negro companies of the Twenty-fifth infantry, on account of the shooting at Brownsville, Tex., be suspended, pending further orders.

The action, it is stated, is to await the return of Secretary Taft to Washington and is pending further advices from President Roosevelt, who has been communicated with on the subject.

The war department has been deluged with protests against the order directing the discharge of the three companies. It is reported that a further investigation will be made and that certain officers may be called on for an explanation in connection with the movements of these men at the time the Brownsville incident occurred.

"The three companies of the Twenty-fifth infantry were ordered discharged because it is not safe to have them in the army. They cannot be trusted, and for the protection of the public and the preservation of the discipline of the army their discharge is necessary," Acting Secretary Oliver of the war department said yesterday. "The idea seems to prevail that the men were ordered discharged because they refused to tell on their companions and because they are black. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"These soldiers shot up a town. All of them refuse to tell anything about the disgraceful affairs at Brownsville which resulted in murder. The companies are shielding murderers. There are men in the companies who are criminals of the worst sort. Every effort possible has been made by the war department to find the guilty men, but without avail. If these companies were permitted to remain in the service and were to shoot up another town and again endanger the lives of citizens, the war department would be in an indefensible position. It is impossible to court martial each of the men in these companies, for a charge cannot be preferred against every one of the members of the companies. The government has no means of punishing the crime committed except by discharging all the men."

Negro Ministers Take Action

Boston, Nov. 20.—At a meeting of the negro ministers of Boston and vicinity resolutions were adopted denouncing the discharge from the service of three negro battalions of the Twenty-fifth infantry. The resolutions are in part as follows:

"We denounce Theodore Roosevelt for his prejudiced action for withholding the order of discharging these three battalions of the Twenty-fifth infantry until after the elections, which showed he feared the negro vote in the north.

"We call upon all negro organizations throughout the country to assist in raising a fund to prosecute this case before the courts of the United States.

"We request that the Massachusetts delegation in congress offer resolutions to reinstate them, and we also request that all colored ministers of this country meet at Washington on Dec. 5, 1906, to have an interview with congress and the President of the United States."

GOES TO FULL BENCH

Shoe Workers' Presidential Row Before a Supreme Court

Boston, Nov. 20.—After listening to the claims of Thomas B. Hickey and John F. Tobin, rival candidates for the presidency of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, Judge Morton, in the supreme judicial court, intimated that counsel should agree upon some plan to carry on the affairs of the union pending a decision by the full bench of the supreme court on the question of the legality of the recent election of Hickey.

The proceedings were on a petition for a writ of mandamus directing Secretary Baine to issue a certificate of election to Hickey. Judge Morton said that if counsel could not agree upon some method of carrying on the union's affairs he might feel obliged to issue an injunction forbidding the new election, which is scheduled for Dec. 6. He said he did not know whether his injunction would be effective, as the local unions are scattered all over the United States, but he felt that something should be done to preserve the welfare of the order.

The counsel for the two presidential aspirants will endeavor to carry out the wishes of the court, pending the action of the full bench and the questions of law which have arisen in the controversy.

On the face of returns the recent election resulted in favor of Hickey, but Tobin disputed it on the ground of irregularity.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

A Strong Stomach

We must eat to live. It is not a matter of choice but an everyday necessity. Food is the fuel of the body. From it the stomach supplies nourishment to the brain, blood, muscle and bone. The health of the stomach is very important to the welfare of the whole body. To keep the stomach well and strong, eat wholesome food and assist it occasionally with Beecham's Pills when there is need to arouse the liver or move the bowels. Always be careful to take when late meals, hasty eating, rich food or other causes interrupt the digestion. A sick stomach affects the head, interferes with work, gets on the nerves and prevents restful sleep. Take Beecham's Pills in season and avoid the unpleasant consequences of neglected indigestion. These little health-regulators increase the supply of the digestive fluids, settle the stomach, sweeten the breath and clear the brain. Use them once in awhile to exercise the liver and to keep the bowels open and regular.

Beecham's Pills

Beecham's Pills are the people's remedy for stomach and liver troubles and a prompt and safe medicine to

SOME GIANTS OF OLD

NOTEWORTHY SPECIMENS THAT ARE TOLD OF IN HISTORY.

The Prodigious Strength of Polydamus, Who Rivaled Hercules—Feats of Maximinus, the Imperial Giant of the Third Century.

If there is one thing in the show business which can be depended on to draw it is a giant, provided always that he be big enough.

But giants existed long before this profitable business was invented, and the names of many of them have been handed down to posterity simply because they were of huge proportions and combined with their abnormal development a proportional amount of strength. Thus it is probable that had Goliath of Gath, whose height theologians place at over ten feet, not been the strongest as well as the biggest warrior among the Philistines we should never have heard of him. The same argument applies to Moab, king of the Amorites, and Og, king of Bashan. Orestes, too, was eleven and a half feet high, according to the Grecian legends, and he, together with Ajax the Greater, had they not been gifted with strength in proportion to their bulk would have been only ordinary soldiers of the Grecian army before Troy.

When history begins, however—that is, when Rome began to reach its highest point of civilization in the time of Augustus and learned men began to write about the times they lived in instead of the times that had gone by long before they were born—we get authentic records of giants. In Augustus' time, for instance, there were, according to the authority of Valerius, two giants in Rome who were over ten feet high. Their names were Idusis and Secundilla, and they were keepers of the gates of the gardens of Sallust.

Then again we have a record in Pliny of one Polydamus, the son of Nicas, who was over nine feet high and whose strength rivaled that of Hercules himself. Polydamus used, in fact, to boast his superiority to that Roman deity and perform his special tricks. For example, he once slew a lion with a blow of his fist and scattered its brains about the arena. He could with his hand stop the swiftest chariot dead and on one occasion seized a bull by the hoof in order to carry it away, but the animal struggled so violently that the hoof was left in his hand. In the end he was killed by the falling in of a cave. When his companions noticed that the roof was falling they left, but Polydamus was so vain about his strength that he thought he could not be killed. So he stayed and was finally crushed to death.

The Emperor Vitellius sent to Darius by way of a present a Jew named Eleazer, who was seven cubits high—that is, reckoning the cubits at eighteen inches, ten feet six inches—and a giant who is mentioned by the historian Tacitus was over nine feet. His name was Corbulo, and he lived in Nero's time and was a more than usually skillful general and soldier, besides being an enormously strong man. An account of the ancient giants would be incomplete without mentioning Maximinus, the imperial giant of the third century. The most extraordinary stories are told of this emperor of Rome. His height was eight feet ten inches, he could draw unaided a loaded wagon which six oxen could not move, while his appetite was so great that his usual rations for the day consisted of forty pounds of meat and a whole amphora of wine, besides bread and dried and fresh fruits.

Mediaeval giants are plentiful, but, strange to say, the records of them are not so authentic as those of the times of the emperors. Funnian, a Scottish giant who flourished in 1827, seems to be the most authentic of these, but as he is put down as being over eleven feet high the statement should not be criticised too closely. Still more startling, however, is the following, which is vouched for by a monastery full of monks: In 1509 some workmen, digging near Rouen, came across a cave in which were some human bones and a copper plate, bearing the words, "Here lie the remains of the great and mighty Chevalier Ricon de Vallemont." The skull was large enough to have held a bushel of wheat and the shinbone was over four feet long. It (the bone) was preserved by the above mentioned monks, and it was estimated that the height of the defunct knight must have exceeded eighteen feet. A stranger though somewhat similar legend comes from Ireland, but in this case the discoverers thought that they would, to use an expression popular some years ago, go "the whole hog or none." It happened in 1608. Some men were digging in Ireland when they came across a brick tomb which contained a human skeleton no less than 120 feet long. But there is a "raison d'etre" for all these legends. According to a German professor, these bones which were supposed by ignorant persons to be those of human beings, were probably those of mastodons or some other fosslized remains which to the uninitiated would look exactly like those of a man.—London Standard.

An Amiable Duel.

There was a duel in Edinburgh recently between two Italians over a girl with whom both were smitten. It took place at midnight in the presence of a party of friends. The duelists had but one revolver and drew lots for the first shot. The winner shot at forty paces and missed. Then he walked up to his opponent and politely handed the pistol over. When the man had walked back to his station the second shot was fired and also missed. So the two men rushed forward and embraced each other, and the feud ended.

FIRE DISTRICTS

Building Ordinance Prohibits Stores of Wood

The new ordinance dividing the city into fire districts, and establishing rules for buildings to be erected in Quincy in the future, as reported to the City Council Monday night, by the joint Committee on Ordinances and Public Buildings is one of most important measures brought before the City this year.

The subject of a building ordinance and building regulations is not a new one. As long ago as in Mayor Hall's reign, it was taken up. An ordinance was passed that year, but met with a veto. The subject has been before every City Council since that time, but it was not until this year that it was got into such shape that it could be reported again.

The ordinance as reported, divides the city into three fire districts and establishes an Inspector of Buildings and defines his duties. District No. 1 includes Hancock street, Washington street, Quincy avenue north from Scammell street, School street, Franklin street, north from Water street, Water street west from Franklin street, Copeland street, Newport av. from South Central avenue to Elmwood avenue, Beale street, from Hancock street, to Safford street, Brook street from Newport avenue to Farrington street, Sagamore street from Hancock street to Newbury street, and extends one hundred feet in all directions from any street or part of street mentioned above.

District No. 2 includes all remaining parts of the city except such as are mentioned in District No. 3.

District No. 3 includes Squantum to the New York and New Haven railroad on the west, Atlantic street and the Boulevard on the south, also that part of Quincy known as Houghs Neck east of a line drawn from Quincy bay five hundred feet west of Shelton road to the Town river. Buildings in this district, except brick uildings and buildings used wholly or in part for mercantile, mechanical and manufacturing purposes, are exempt from the rules of the ordinance.

No wooden or frame buildings, except dwelling houses and private stables are to be allowed in District No. 1. The removal or repair of a building partly destroyed by fire in said district cannot be done without a written permit from the inspector. Persons intending to erect or make additions to any building already erected must obtain a permit, and submit plans.

The Inspector has the authority to enter all buildings under the process of erection, to see that the ordinance is being lived up to at all times. He is required to examine all buildings reported dangerous or unsafe from any cause. He is required to examine and inspect all buildings where shavings or other combustible material may be deposited, and be vigilant in having the same removed, whenever in his opinion there seems to be any danger from fire.

The rules for building provide how certain kinds of buildings shall be built, and it would be impossible in a short review to summarize the regulations. The ordinance comes up next Monday evening for its second reading.

ALL DAY CONVENTION

Sunday School Workers from Many Towns at Quincy Point

Tuesday was a glorious day, both as to ideal weather and for the Sunday school interests in our county. The Sunday schools of the East Norfolk District Sunday School Association met at the Point church at 10.15, with Mr. Luce of Braintree, the Vice President, in the chair. Mr. Fred Barnard of Quincy Point conducted the opening praise service, followed by prayer by Rev. Geo. Credford of East Milton.

The address of welcome was given by Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, the pastor of the Point church, who welcomed the delegates and visitors to a hospitable, working and growing church.

The vice-president responded, thanking the church and desiring a Pentecostial session.

Rev. George Scrivener of East Weymouth gave a Bible reading and exegesis, emphasizing that Sunday school teaching should be sensible, serious, spiritual and serviceable.

Mr. Marshall A. Hudson of Syracuse, N. Y., gave the address of the morning on "Senior and adult classes." He emphasized the need of a separate room for classes, especially for young men's classes, and that young men wish in the Sunday school to study not sociology, history, morality or ethics merely, but they want the Word of God and it alone will hold, interest, keep and save.

The afternoon session was opened by a praise service and prayer by the Rev. H. C. Alvord of South Weymouth, followed by a Bible reading by Rev. E. E. Williams of Randolph, who spoke concerning the rightful place of the Bible in our schools and in our hearts.

After the reports from the Primary, Home and Normal departments, Dr. J. D. Pickles of Boston addressed the association on "The teacher's preparation of the lesson"; emphasizing the need of both mental preparation thro study of God's word and the need of spiritual preparation thro prayer. The great address of the afternoon was given by the Rev. Dr. A. M. Ayde of Brockton, from the topic, "The cradle the hearth-stone and the altar," after which Dr. Hardy of Quincy conducted an interesting Question Box.

In the evening the praise service was lead by Prof. A. Sidelinger of North Weymouth. Rev. A. E. Kirk of South Braintree spoke on "The need of Bible reading" and Mr. Hudson on "The young man in the Bible school."

The Ladies Aid society furnished a fine lunch at noon, and a course supper at six after which Mr. R. F. Raymond of New Bedford conducted a Superintendents Conference. One of the musical treats of the day was an excellent organ recital by Mrs. Henry Higgins of Braintree, about 350 people were in attendance.

Secretary Root For Ship Subsidy

Secretary of War Root was the principal speaker on Tuesday at the Trans Mississippi Commercial congress at Kansas City, and he declared for ship subsidy.

Mention of our lack of facilities for direct communication with the great South American ports suggested, naturally, a consideration of the causes of the decline in our shipping. Mr. Root ascribed the decline to our protective tariff on the one hand and foreign government subsidies to foreign lines on the other. The tariff raised the standard of living and of wages, so that American seamen demanded more than those of other countries. Subsidies from their governments gave foreign competitors an additional advantage.

Discussing the remedy Secretary Root said in part: "There remains the third and obvious method: to neutralize the artificial disadvantages imposed upon American shipping through the action of our own government and foreign governments by an equivalent advantage in the form of a subsidy or subvention. In my opinion this is what should be done; it is the sensible and fair thing to do. It is what must be done if we would have a revival of our shipping and the desired development of our foreign trade.

"We cannot repeal the protective tariff; no political party dreams of repealing it; we do not wish to lower the standard of American living or American wages. We should give back to the ship owner what we take away from him for the purpose of maintaining that standard; and unless we do give it back we shall continue to go without ships. How can the expenditure of public money for the improvement of rivers and harbors to promote trade be justified upon any grounds which do not also sustain this proposal?

"Would any one reverse the policy that granted aid to the Pacific railroads, the pioneers of our enormous internal commerce, the agencies that built up the great traffic, which has enabled half a dozen other roads to be built in later years without assistance?

"Such subventions would not be gifts. They would be at once compensation for injuries inflicted upon American shipping by American laws and the consideration for benefits received by the whole American people—not the shippers or the ship builders or the sailors alone, but by every manufacturer, every miner, every farmer, every merchant whose prosperity depends upon a market for the products.

PAPERS READY

But Rumors Are Persistent That Crane Will Not Enter Fight

There was a presistent rumor about City Square this morning that Emery L. Crane would not file his papers as an Independent candidate for Mayor.

Today is the last day under the law to file nomination papers for the City election, and they must be in the hands of the City Clerk before 5 P. M.

The law requires that papers shall be signed by at least fifty voters in regular form for all candidates at large, as Mayor, Councilmen at large, and School Committee at large. For Ward nominations a smaller number of signatures is required.

If Mr. Crane's papers are not filed, it will not be because there has been any difficulty in getting signatures, because it is a well-known fact that the papers are already to file.

Perhaps there has been an understanding along the lines of the article in yesterday's Daily Ledger, so that the friends of Mr. Crane do not find it necessary to nominate an Independent candidate.

The political article in the Daily Ledger of yesterday has caused much comment, but most of that which reaches the writer is in commendation, and seems to voice the opinions of the majority of Republicans.

Up to 1 o'clock four nomination papers had been filed with the City Clerk of candidates to be voted for at the City election. Two of these were filed by James F. Edwards as Citizens Nomination Labor candidate for Councilman at large.

The other two papers were filed by Councilman Otto Gellotte as Republican Independent candidate for Councilman from Ward One, and by William C. Cunniff as Independent candidate for Ward Councilman from Ward Three.

James Edwards of West Quincy has taken out nomination papers as an independent citizens' labor candidate for Councilman-at-large.

The classified "ads." in the Daily Ledger bring prompt returns.

Some Quincy people improved the mild weather of Sunday and Monday to take a trip over the new boulevard from Adams street into the Blue Hills reservation. It is now practically completed and makes a delightful ride.

Mrs. E. G. Hollis who has leased the Hancock house comes from Point Allerton, where she has a summer Hotel called Allerton Gables which is well known for its hospitality. Charge Against a German Midwife at New York

A DOZEN DISPOSED OF

Woman's Daughters, at Instance of Police, Entered Into Business Arrangements With Her In Order to Obtain Evidence

New York, Nov. 21.—Mrs. Wilhelmina Eckhardt, a German midwife, 60 years of age, was arrested at her home on the East Side and, after arraignment, locked up without bail on a charge of malpractice. Of two other women occupants of the Eckhardt house, one was sent to a hospital and the other was taken to the district attorney's office, where she was interrogated.

In asking that the prisoner be refused bail, a representative of the district attorney's office said that the charge against her would probably be changed to infanticide when she was given a hearing. He said that affidavits made by Mrs. Eckhardt's own daughters formed the basis of the charges preferred. A representative of the New York County Medical society, which is also interested in the case, told the court that his office had evidence that the bodies of 12 infants had been burned in a cookstove at the Eckhardt home.

The investigation leading up to the arrest was instituted after certain reports had been made to the board of health, the medical society and the district attorney by Mrs. Marie Schoch, who is said to be the wife of a merchant of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Wilhelmina Ihrig of this city. Both are daughters of Mrs. Eckhardt, the former having been the guest of her sister here for the past two weeks.

According to the authorities, these women had protested against their mother's occupation when she had asked them to join her in business. The sisters reported the matter to the authorities and later, at the instance of the police, entered into a business arrangement with the mother.

Mrs. Eckhardt was held in the technical charge of performing an operation in the case described by Mrs. Schoch. A little boy known as Tommy Eckhardt, and said to be an adopted son of the prisoner, was questioned at the district attorney's office and later sent to the rooms of the Gerry society.

The Eckhardt home was guarded by police last night and will be searched. Counsel for Mrs. Eckhardt alleges that her arrest is the result of a conspiracy to injure an innocent woman.

Won't Talk About Negro Troops

Washington, Nov. 21.—Secretary Taft refuses to make any statement concerning the negro troops which have been ordered discharged at Fort Reno. He refused to say whether he had been in communication with the president by wireless. Immediately after his arrival in Washington Taft went to the war department for a conference which lasted more than an hour. It is assumed that Taft has decided to let the case of the negro troops stand just where it is until after he gets in touch with President Roosevelt.

Why Run the Hazard of accepting personal security upon a bond, when corporate security is vastly superior?

The personal surety may be financially strong to-day and insolvent to-morrow; or he may die, and his estate be immediately distributed. In any event, recovery is dilatory and uncertain.

Because of its greater stability, the United States Government prefers Corporate Suretyship; and many firms require it of their bonded employees.

The American Surety Company, capitalized at $2,500,000, is the strongest Surety Company in existence, and the only one whose sole business is to furnish Suretyship Bonds. Apply to

A TEN PERCENT RAISE

Textile Workers at Fall River May Insist That It Be Granted

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 21.—The Textile Council last night voted to refer the offer of the manufacturers to advance wages 5 percent next Monday to the individual unions. The council issued a call for special meetings of the five unions affiliated with it for Thursday night. A two-thirds vote of three of the five unions is necessary before a strike can be ordered, although if the majority of the members of three unions is in favor of accepting the offer the 5 percent advance will go into effect on Monday.

The unions will first vote on the question of accepting or rejecting the manufacturers' offer, and if the offer is rejected they will vote on the question of striking or remaining at work after this week.

The general opinion among the operatives is that the unions will reject the 5 percent advance and insist on the original demand of 10 percent.

MORGAN'S ADVICE

Favors the Race Issue In Next Presidential Campaign

WOULD ELECT PRESIDENT

Suggests the "White Man's Party" For a Platform Declaration by Democrats--North as Well as South Interested

Washington, Nov. 21.—Senator Morgan of Alabama, in a remarkable interview printed here, proposes the insertion in the next Democratic platform of an anti-negro plank to this effect: "Resolved, That the Democratic party of the United States is, and has always been, a white man's party."

Although preferring that this remarkable proposition emanate from a delegation representing a northern state, he advocates its presentation by a southern state, if such shall be necessary to its insertion. Senator Morgan is quoted as saying: "Should the delegates of any one state submit this plank with the declaration of withdrawal in case it is rejected, it would carry through. Moreover, it would carry the presidency, it would overtop every other issue. In the southern states the question is acute today. Such a declaration by the Democratic national convention would bring the negro question immediately home to the people of the north, who sooner or later must meet it face to face as we of the south are doing today.

"I believe the spirit of the Most High was the controlling force that directed the work of the convention that framed the Constitution of the United States and submitted it to the states and the people for ratification. I believe that 'The people of the United States' were then set apart to establish and execute that plan of government which had no precedent or model in the wisdom of nations. I do not believe the Indian tribes or the African race were chosen for that trust in the birth hour of this republic. I find no place for either of them in that new political creation—'The people of the United States.'

"The people entrusted with that vast and precious duty were named in the preamble of the constitution, and they and their delegates were all white people assembled from many countries and of many languages. They came here by common impulse. This was the inauguration of the sovereignty of the governing people of the United States, as a racial nation, a dynasty of white people. Negroes were here in every state and territory, but they were slaves and not even recognized in the constitution as constituting a people or a tribe that did not belong alike to all human beings.

"Except the Indians there were no other people in the country and the Indians and the negroes were not represented in that convention. We established 'the people' whose racial distinction was won from the British crown and so it will be while the preamble of the constitution shall stand and bear witness to an established fact. Our white people have always recognized these truths and have never denied or abandoned them.

"In one cardinal principle I am now, as I have always been, true to the conviction that as a government I would search into the foundations of our creeds for the true stuff for the making of a plank in our national platform such as that proposed above. If any candidate for the presidency should decline to mount this platform, I would not help him to do so by yielding my position, nor would I refuse to support him. I would say to him: 'When you are better acquainted with the foundations of our government you will welcome this saving truth to which we will turn at last in order to purify it and make it perpetual.'"

Discussion of these remarkable sentiments attributed to the venerable Alabama senator overshadows other topics in official circles here.

Anarchists Are Plotting

Rome, Nov. 21.—Anarchists held a meeting here and discussed the advisability of making a demonstration against the police during the approaching sojourn in Rome of King George of Greece. The most energetic measures have been taken by the police to prevent disorders. All people not inhabitants of the city and without occupation will be sent away from Rome before King George arrives.

To Raise Price of Peanuts

Norfolk, Nov. 21.—The peanut growers of Virginia and North Carolina will demand 5½ cents a pound for prime grade peanuts in this year's crop. Failing to receive this price in the open market, the growers are pledged to hold the entire output. The growing crop is inferior and short.

For Norwegian Neutrality

Cologne, Nov. 21.—In a dispatch from Berlin, the correspondent of the Cologne Gazette confirms the report that Norway intends to propose that the powers, including Russia, shall guarantee the neutrality of Norwegian territory. Germany is favorably disposed to this idea.

ON A LARGE SCALE

Several Concerns Said to Have Got Money Fraudulently

GREAT RAID AT CHICAGO

Officials of Underwriting and Brokerage Companies In Custody--Used Mails to Carry on Alleged Illegitimate Business

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Several underwriting and brokerage companies, which are alleged to be fraudulent, were attacked by United States marshals, assisted by postoffice inspectors, and seven men, accused of promoting the alleged fraudulent enterprises, were arrested.

According to federal officers, the men arrested obtained nearly $1,000,000 from persons throughout the country. The men arrested and the companies with which the federal authorities say they are connected follow:

W. J. Root, president; W. H. Welch, vice president, and W. D. Hulburt, secretary of the Central States Underwriting and Guarantee company; C. E. Brown, president of the Prudential Securities corporation, brokers; F. S. Winslow, president American Corporation and Security company; E. C. Barnum, president of the National Stock and Guaranty company and of the Bankers' Credit and Mercantile company; D. C. Owings, National Stock and Guaranty company.

Hulburt, Root and Welch gave bonds of $5000 each. The other men arrested were unable to furnish bonds.

According to federal officers, the underwriting companies were in league with the brokerage companies, with whom they divided the fee taken for the underwriting.

In using the mails to circulate their methods of doing business, the alleged fraudulent brokerage companies informed corporate enterprises desiring money that they could procure funds by calling at the Chicago offices. On arrival in Chicago the corporation officers would be introduced to alleged capitalists who said that they would buy the stock, provided the corporation would have the stock underwritten. The brokers would represent to the applicant that they would be content with a commission of from ½ to 1 percent on such stock as they sold.

The brokers would then take the men seeking the underwriting to the offices of one of the guaranty companies and arrange for guaranteeing the bonds on payment of a fee of 1 percent. The federal officers assert that in each case where the underwriting company was given a fee the broker would get half the money and the underwriting venture would then be closed by the underwriters and the brokers, no attempt being made to sell the stock. The government officers say that the men arrested never entered into a scheme in which less than $100,000 was involved, but they in many cases obtained as much as $5,000,000 worth of stock to underwrite.

The men involved were arrested on indictments returned by a federal grand jury. Late last night George K. Monroe and F. C. Struckmeyer, alleged comrades of the men arrested earlier, were arrested.

The arrest in Milwaukee of N. E. Cameron was responsible for the arrest of the two men late last night. While looking for evidence against Cameron the authorities learned that Monroe and Struckmeyer had been using the same office with Cameron.

Confession of Cameron

Milwaukee, Nov. 21.—As the result of a signed confession, the existence of a thoroughly organized gang of swindlers has been uncovered and arrests will be made in several cities by federal officials. It was through the arrest and indictment of N. E. Cameron of Milwaukee that the existence of the alleged organization was brought to light. Prior to his arrest Cameron was an ostensible dealer in stocks and bonds and acted as promoter. Immediately following the signing of the confession Cameron was taken to the chambers of Judge Quarles, where the proceedings were held which resulted in Cameron paying a fine of $1000 and his being discharged. He was immediately rearrested on a minor charge and will be held on that charge, pending the examination of the cases against his accomplices.

Charity Worker Drank Poison

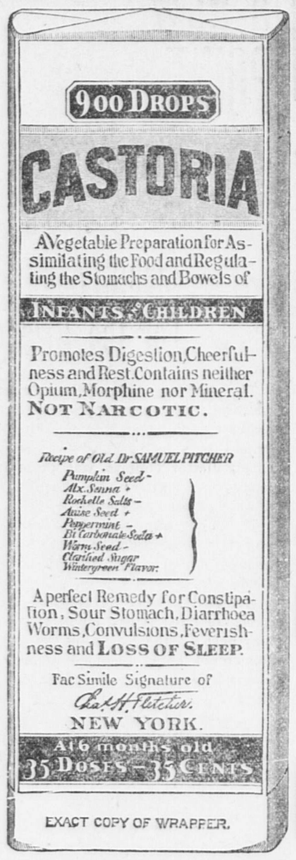

New York, Nov. 21.—Miss Alice Martin, 20 years old, died last night at her home. It is said her death was caused by drinking a prison, but how she came to take it was not determined. Miss Martin had been a sufferer from various maladies since her childhood. After completing her school education she became interested in charity work, to which much of her time had recently been devoted.

No Relief Fund Graft

New York, Nov. 21.—Dr. Devine, who, as special representative of the Red Cross, had supervision of the work of the society at San Francisco during the earthquake disaster, declares that while mistakes might have been made in the distribution of the relief funds, there was no "graft" there.

Fifty Dead In Dix Disaster

Seattle, Nov. 21.—To the death list of the wrecked steamship Dix eight names have been added, making a total of 50 known dead as a result of the collision in Puget sound.

SITUATION PERILOUS

Warships Said to Be Prepared to Land Men In Morocco

Madrid, Nov. 21.—As a consequence of the receipt by the cabinet of dispatches setting forth that the situation of Europeans in Morocco is growing worse, Minister of Marine Alvarado decided, after consultation with the premier and his colleagues, to order the battleship Pelayo to the Moroccan coast. The Pelayo will proceed today for Tangier, where she will join the French warships. She will take 500 marines. It is reported here, though the rumor lacks confirmation, that the British squadron now on the coast of Spain has also been ordered to Morocco.

In official circles the opinion is held that the Moroccan situation is immediately perilous. The present precautions are intended to forestall the serious developments rendered possible by the giving of increased powers to Raisuli, the bandit. The attitude of all the powers concerned is declared to be perfectly harmonious, and the first act of hostility on the part of the Moors will be the signal for the disembarkation of landing parties from all the foreign warships.

Cubans Cannot Govern Themselves

Havana, Nov. 21.—The sentiment in Cuban industrial and financial circles in favor of the establishment of a strong American protectorate over the island is crystalizing. There are two independent movements for this purpose, the instigators of which are gathering signatures to petition the president, opposing the idea of annexation, and pointing out the inability of the Cubans to direct their own affairs unaided.

Terrorism In Full Sway

Odessa, Nov. 21.—A desperate attempt was made here by a band to murder the chief commissary of the Odessa police. The band did not desist until the police had opened fire on it with a Maxim gun, killing three men and wounding three more. The others escaped. Another band seized $2000 in the office of the Russian Navigation company. Before taking this money the band killed a police official.

Black Hand Activity at Pittsburg

Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—Following the murder of a member of the Black Hand society here Monday by an Italian who had been threatened with death if he failed to pay the society $500, Dr. Sadowski and J. M. Nowak, a banker, received letters from the Black Hand society, demanding $1000 and threatening death unless they accede to the demands. The Polish residents of the city are greatly excited.

Sugar Company Accepted Rebates

New York, Nov. 21.—The American Sugar Refining company was found guilty by a jury in the United States circuit court of accepting rebates amounting to $26,000 from the New York Central railroad. The New York Central was recently found guilty of giving rebates to the American Sugar Refining company and fined $108,000. The defense offered no testimony.

Workmen Caught In Landslide

Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Seven trackmen in a gang of 19 engaged in removing a slide on a railroad, were killed as the result of a landslide. The men were swept down the mountain side and into the river. Twelve men escaped. All of the victims were Italian laborers and were known only by numbers.

Hot Day at Pittsburg

Pittsburg, Nov. 21.—All previous records for warm weather during this time of the year were broken in this city yesterday when the mercury in street thermometers registered from 78 to 83 degrees. During the whole day the sun was invisible because of the overcast skies and a heavy fog.

No More Games With Harvard

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—The University of Pennsylvania Athletic committee announces that all athletic relations with Harvard have been severed. The stand taken by Pennsylvania was brought about by the action of Harvard in refusing to meet Pennsylvania in football this fall.

Bridges Succumb to Flood

Memphis, Nov. 21.—Owing to the pressure of water of Wolf river against two spans of the Illinois Central railroad bridge across that stream, they were swept away and all northern traffic over the road has been suspended. More than 50 county bridges are washed out.

Eighteen Hundred Rifles Still Out

Havana, Nov. 21.—The process of recovering the rifles which the disbanded government volunteers failed to surrender at the end of their services is progressing rapidly. Of the 21,200 rifles issued to volunteers only 1800 are unaccounted for.

End of Run on Bank

Chillicothe, O., Nov. 21.—A run on the savings bank of Chillicothe that began Monday has ended. The statement of the bank that the institution was not embarrassed had a reassuring effect and the panic ceased.

Cossacks Are Uneasy

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—Martial law has been proclaimed for the province of Kuban, in the Caucasus, by an imperial ukase. This step is taken in consequence of the agitation among the Cossacks in this province.

AS BINDING AS EVER

Root Speaks For the President Regarding Monroe Doctrine

Kansas City, Nov. 21.—Using Secretary of State Root's speech before the trans-Mississippi Commercial congress as a medium, President Roosevelt last night warned Europe and the world that the famous Monroe doctrine is as binding and effective today as it ever was. Mr. Root said:

"The famous declaration of Monroe arrayed the organized and rapidly increasing power of the United States as an obstacle to European interference and made it forever plain that the cost of European aggression would be greater than any advantage which could be won even by successful aggression.

"That great declaration was not the chance expression of the opinion or the feeling of the moment; it crystalized the sentiment for human liberty and human rights which has saved American idealism from the demoralization of narrow selfishness, and has given to American democracy its true world power in the virile potency of a great example.

"The particular circumstances which led to the declaration no longer exist. But those conditions were merely the occasion for the declaration of a principle of action. Other occasions for the application of the principle have arisen since; it needs no prophetic vision to see that other occasions for its application may arise hereafter.

"The principle declared by Monroe is as wise an expression of sound political judgment today, as truthful a representation of the sentiments and instincts of the American people today, as living in its force as an effective rule of conduct whenever occasion shall arise, as it was on Dec. 2, 1823."

The Roosevelt Short of Coal

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 21.—A dispatch from St. George's bay, N. F., says that Commander Peary's Arctic steamer Roosevelt, which arrived there short of coal Saturday, is still anchored in St. George's bay, but ready to sail for Port au Basque at the first favorable change in the weather. The Roosevelt sought to renew her coal supply there sufficiently to carry her across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Sydney, a distance of 230 miles. The expedition party, however, was able to secure only eight tons of coal there and will be compelled to put into Port au Basque for additional fuel before attempting the passage of the gulf.

Dresden Group Brings Small Fortune

London, Nov. 21.—A Desden China figure, 11 inches high, representing a lady wearing a huge crinoline and carrying a pug dog, with another pug dog at her feet, brought $5250 at Christie's auction rooms here. This group was made during a famous period in the history of the Dresden factory, from 1735 to 1756. The figure represents Countess de Kosel, one of the beauties of Augustus II, then elector of Saxony. The group was brought to Christie's by a man who offered to sell it for a small sum, but instead of buying it Christie auctioned it for his benefit.

Escaped Prisoner Drowned

New York, Nov. 21.—Ina Williams, 15 years old, was drowned last night in the Harlem river, which she attempted to swim in an effort to escape from Randall's Island reformatory. A companion, Rose Traub, of the same age, who had participated in the Williams girl's plan to escape, succeeded in swimming across the stream and, landing in the Bronx, eluded the authorities.

Labor Will Continue In Politics

Minneapolis, Nov. 21.—The American Federation of Labor last night endorsed the political policy of President Gompers during the last campaign and urged a continuance of activity "to organize as an independent political force." The idea of affiliating with any party was condemned on the floor, as was the suggestion of forming a national labor party.

Comparatively Quiet Proceedings

Paris, Nov. 21.—The net result of the inventory operations conducted throughout the country yesterday and last night show that a total of over 5000 inventories were made. Four gendarmes and several peasants were wounded and about a dozen demonstrants were arrested. They were at once tried and sentenced to short terms in jail.

Finnish Concession to Russia

Helsingfors, Nov. 21.—The Finnish senate has decided to yield to the demand of M. Stolypin, the Russian premier, for co-operation with the Russian police in arresting Russian refugees. The various Finnish governors have been instructed accordingly and Finland will be thus compelled to renounce the right of asylum.

Calvin Austin, president of the various steamship companies now owned by Charles W. Morse and his associates, announces the appointment of O. H. Taylor as passenger traffic manager of all the lines.

Steam canalboat Thurba, coal-laden, from New York to New London, sprang aleak off Westbrook, Conn., and in order to save her from going under the captain beached her on Long Sands shoals. If a storm should come up it is thought that the Thurba will pound to pieces.

CLUB NOTES.

As a special feature of modern club life we have to note the active interest taken by the various clubs and associations in the important questions of the day, and the remarkable unity of spirit with which they join forces in the furtherance of matters of general welfare. Women's clubs, men's clubs, mixed clubs and denominational clubs all unite in the endeavor to give strength to public movements that are worthy of their support. Among the organizations which have already agreed to cooperate in the work of the Social Education congress to be held in Boston on the three days following Thanksgiving are: The Association of Collegiate Alumnae, the Boston School Principals association, the Boston Teachers' association, the Brookline Education association, the Catholic union of Boston, the Harvard Teachers' association, the Massachusetts Association of Women Workers, the Massachusetts State Teachers' association, the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs, Fathers' and Mothers' club, New England Woman's Press association, Newton Education association, Boston Private School Teachers' association, Rhode Island Institute of Instruction, Twentieth Century club, Vermont State Teachers' association, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Worcester Public Education association. It is significant of the widespread interest in the development of public education as a social and industrial force, that notable speakers from many states of the Union have agreed to come to Boston for the sessions. Distinguished men and women are coming from the following states: California, Nebraska, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Connecticut as well as Massachusetts and the District of Columbia.

The Outlook club of Lynn began last Saturday afternoon sewing classes which they conduct each winter in one of the poorer sections of the city.

Lynn club women expect to have their club house ready for occupancy in 1908.

The November meeting of the Lawrence Woman's club was open to the public and largely attended. Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth gave a dramatic impersonation of "Monna Vanna," a play written by Maeterlink.

The New England Woman's Press club observed its twenty-first anniverrary on Saturday afternoon at hotel Vendome, Boston, by a largely attended gathering. Mrs. Kate Tannatt Woods, president, was assisted in receiving by the former presidents. Members ushered and assisted as hostesses at the tea table. It was a particularly enjoyable occasion Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth members and friends were in attendance.

The Boston Equal Suffrage association is giving an excellent course of lectures on practical citizenship which is free to members of the federated clubs on application to the Secretary, 6 Marlborough street, Boston. Club women who are interested in good citizenship are availing themselves of the opportunity. The subjects and speakers are: November 27, "The Duties and Powers of the Mayor," by Hon. James M. Head; December 4, "The Board of Aldermen and Common Council," Alderman F. R. Bangs; January 6, "The School Department," David A. Ellis; January 22, "The Police Department," G. F. Pinkerton and G. W. Patterson; February 12, "The Health Department," Dr. S. H. Durgin; February 26, "The Street Department," speaker to be announced; March 12, "Institutions for Adults," Herbert S. Carruth; March 26, "Children's Institutions," Lee M. Friedman; April 9, "Parks and Public Baths," Joseph Lee and Dr. W. R. The Home club of East Boston, is one of the oldest clubs in New England and most prosperous. It has recently celebrated its 30th birthday, and has an active membership of over 200 women. All were present Tuesday evening to listen to Mrs. F. C. Babcock of Quincy who read an original and interesting paper on domestic science. Mrs. Babcock went back to the earliest days of civilization and traced the evolution and progress of domestic and home life to its present high standard.

Closet Fire.

The alarm from Box 42 at 3.38 Tuesday afternoon was for a fire in a double house at 25 Gordon street, owned by the heirs of John Gordon and occupied by William Ross and Mrs. Murdock. The fire was in a closet in the part occupied by the Ross family. The family were away at the time, and as the closet adjoins a chimney, it is supposed that the fire caught from that. The fire was confined to the closet, the contents of which was ruined. Chief Litchfield estimates the loss at $75.

—The fourth anniversary of the dedication of St. Gregory's church at Dorchester Lower Mills, will be observed this evening. Fr. Thomas I. Gasson, S. J., of the Church of Immaculate Conception will preach the sermon.

—The Waltham Business Men's Association held their annual banquet Tuesday evening, with addresses by Mayor Harney, Representative Luce and George Fred Williams.

—Oliver Houghton, ex-Chief of Police of Weymouth was 85 years of age on Monday. The event was observed in a quiet manner.

A NEW POINT

Raised as To Boston's Liability For the Bridge

The hearing before the Superior court on approval the apportionment of the cost of building the Quincy Point bridge, was held Tuesday afternoon. City Solicitor Thomas was present to look after the interest of the city, but did not object to the award.

It was expected that there would be objections raised on the part of Hingham and Cohasset, but there was practically none.

Mr. Burdett, who represented Hingham, reserved what rights the town may have by the reason of the city of Boston not being included among the places who are to assume the cost of the bridge.

This raised a new point and the court took the matter under advisement that it might look into this subject. The finding of the court will be made later.

Camp Boyd.

John A. Boyd Camp, No. 2, Spanish War Veterans held an enthusiastic meeting Tuesday night, and plans were made for the winter. One meeting each month will be devoted to entertainment, and it is the intention of the committee to have something of an interesting character at the meeting.

As the Spanish War Veterans of Massachusetts have become amalgamatwith the United Spanish War Veterans of the United States, a new interest has already been shown. The United Spanish War Veteran has camp in nearly every state, and is rapidly increasing, and it is for the interest of all who served in the Spanish-American War, and who have honorable discharges from the army or navy to become members at once.

Old Masons.

The late Charles L. Badger was one of the oldest Masons in the city. He was admitted to Rural lodge Oct. 21, 1858, at the same time as Franklin Curtis. His neighbor, Frederick J. Fuller, became a member of the lodge the next month, but was a Mason previously. Albert Keating became a Mason in 1863, Francis P. Loud in 1864, James W. Rideout in 1865, R. M. Sanborn in 1866, Elisha Packard and Charles H. Porter in 1867, and Frederick L. Jones in 1869.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles G. Whitcomb was fined $5 for being an unregistered druggist at Holbrook.

Cyrus Harriman was arraigned for non support at Braintree. Case continued until Thursday.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Electric Boat Co. Is Not Affected

The Boston News Bureau this week publishes an item that the J. P. Holland Company of New York are about to go into the hands of a receiver. Holland was the inventor of the submarine boats, and after selling out all of his interests and patents to the Electric Boat Company, he formed a company for the purpose of building submarines with what he claimed new patents. The J. P. Holland Company is in no wise connected with the Electric Boat Company located at the Fore River shipyard.

MANY PAY INTEREST

Only One Fourth Of Taxpayers Able to Pay Before Nov. 1

Up to the first of November, when interest commenced on taxes of 1906, but $133,716.38, had been paid out of a total of $513,440. This shows that taxes are a burden upon property holders, as they feel compelled to pay interest on nearly three-quarters of the assessment, or on $379,724.

The tax paid in before Nov. 1 was larger than last year, and in fact each year shows an increase. But in three years the levy has increased $100,000, so that the balance unpaid on Nov. 1 is increasing each year. The following summary will be of interest:

Year.	Levy for year.	Paid Nov. 1.	Balance.
1903,	$414,780	$97,972	$316,808
1904,	446,600	109,713	336,887
1905,	482,297	125,246	357,051
1906,	513,440	133,716	379,724

On Dec. 31 last year, the collections on the taxes of that year amounted to $300,440.73, and the amount uncollected was $180,097.68.

On Dec. 31, 1904, the collection of taxes of 1904 amounted to $265,908.10, and the balance was $181,702.35.

On Dec. 31, 1903, the collection of taxes of 1903 amounted to $243,104.00, and the balance was $173,554.23.

On Dec. 31, 1902, the collection of taxes of 1902 amounted to $225,819.65, and the balance was $177,124.88.

For the four years the balance did vary $10,000.

This year the collection of back taxes of previous years amounted on Nov. 1 to $167,430.81. Last year to the same date they were $171,549.64. In 1904 they were $207,673.78, and in 1903 but $152,496.13.

New Industry At the Shipyard

The Fore River Shipbuilding Company has just signed a contract with the Industrial Oxygen Company of New York for the manufacturing of gas producing and oxygen apparatus for a number of years. This means that the Industrial Oxygen Co. will have an office at the shipyard and plans have already been prepared for the erection of a small office and testing laboratory.

All equipment to be installed for the manufacture of the apparatus at the commencement will be limited, as the high rate of taxes and valuations makes the persons connected with the company hesitate in establishing a plant of any size.

The oxygen apparatus is a French patent and very successful abroad, and its use in this country has heretofore been very limited, but the promoters have great expectations and already several plants have been ordered.

After singing several familiar C. E. hymns, prayer was offered by E. F. Dyer, vice-president of the Union. The president of the entertaining society, Henry Taylor, introduced in the absence of Dr. Hardy, pastor of the church, Mr. Craig, assistant pastor, to make the address of welcome. Mr. Craig in well-chosen words gave a hearty welcome. In giving reasons, he emphasized the unity of the same C. E. devotion and work.

The president of the union, Wendell Harvey, made an earnest and enthusiastic response. He thanked the entertaining society for their welcome, for, after hearing it, he felt, perfectly at home, reminding him of his visits when a boy to his grandmothers, where he was always received with gladness. In closing, he said that Jesus Christ was always wanting us to feel at home in His service, and therefore as Endeavorers, we should try to labor earnestly and faithfully for Him. In brief, "As Bethany society has endeavored to give us the best they can, let us endeavor to give our Lord the same."

Much jollity and amusement was obtained from the many interesting games that were played. The list included Japan Quiz, a new game which was tried successfully. But so much solemnity prevailed, when "solemn occasion" was played, that the social committee of the entertaining society had fear that the mirthful phase of the social would be spoiled.

The Endeavorers were indeed favored, when Aubrey Peters, accompanied on the piano by Miss Campbell, sang two solos. Likewise when Miss Helen Lincoln rendered a piano solo, and Miss Isabella Mitchell, accompanied on the piano by Miss Newcomb, sang two solos.

Refreshments were served, and fearing that some might forget that they were Endeavorers while they were eating, they were given C. E. napkins. All in all it was an enthusiastic occasion.

Grand Officers And Other Guests

Wilson's hall was well filled Wednesday evening, with 150 members of the Knights and Ladies of Honor, from Brockton, Boston, Charlestown, Cambridge and other cities, who came to participate in the entertainment of the board of grand officers, the deputy and suite, and past deputies, by Maple lodge of this city, Mrs. Laura E. Holt protector.

The initiatory work was performed on one candidate, by the degree team, under the captainship of M. Lizzie Furnald, in on exemplary manner, which called for words of praise and was more than congratulated for the perfect manner in which it performed the work.

After the business of the lodge, remarks were made by the Grand Protector G. W. Viles, and Grand Secretary Samuel Hathaway, which were very interesting as well as instructive. A very pleasing and enjoyable entertainment followed, in the charge of Effie L. Rhines, which consisted of a song by Herbert Curtis; skirt, Spanish, and fisher hornpipe dances by Miss Florence Barker; recitation, by little Joe Beal; banjo solo by Carleton Beal; piano solo by Mrs. Effie L. Rhines; recitation by Carleton Beal. All kindly responded to encores.

At the close a social and general good time was enjoyed by all, such as Maple lodge is always noted.

A concrete engine and boiler house is being built at the O. T. Rogers granite quarry on Willard street.

CRANE IS OUT

Friends Did Not File Papers As Candidate For Mayoralty

Emery L. Crane will not be a candidate for Mayor!

His withdrawal was decided upon at a meeting of twenty or more of his supporters on Tuesday evening. A fact which the Daily Ledger knew Wednesday morning.

When interviewed by the Ledger all that Mr. Crane would say for publication was that "It was decided in th interest of good government that it was the best course to take."

In reply to several other questions, Mr. Crane's invariable answer was:—"I have nothing to say."

Mr. Crane's supporters express the opinion however, that had he become a candidate he would have received more votes than Mayor Thompson.

It is a well known fact, that all the friends of Mr. Crane desired was a change in the office of Commissioner of Public Works. This they insisted upon. Now they are supporting Mayor Thompson. See the point. The Mayor is to be congratulated on the happy solution of the perplexing situation which threatened his reelection.

The Registrars of Voters were in session nearly all of Wednesday afternoon to examine any nomination papers that might be filed.

Under the law all papers had to be inspected by the Registrars to see that the law had been complied with as regards the correct number of names, address, etc.

The paper had to examined and certified to the City Clerk before 5 o'clock.

It was therefore possible, if a paper did not arrive until 4.45, it might be too late.

Up to one o'clock papers of James F. Edwards, for Councilman at large; Otto Gelotte, for Councilman from Ward One, and William C. Cunniff as Councilman from Ward Three, had been received as noted in Wednesday's Daily Ledger.

Late in the afternoon the papers nominating James E. Corpew as Independent Citizens candidate for Councilman at large came in.

There were three other papers out. Two in the interest of Emery L. Crane as an Independent Republican for Mayor, and one in the interest of William T. Shea as Citizen's candidate for Mayor.

The Registrars remained in session up to 5 o'clock but neither of these three papers arrived.

There was a great deal of speculation about City Square as to why these papers were not filed.

Some had one opinion and some another but there was no one who could speak with authority.

It is impossible now to add any new names to the ballot, although withdrawals are in order until Friday.

The names therefore on the ballot for Mayor and Councilmen-at-large will appear as follows:

FOR MAYOR.
Charles J. Axberg, Socialist.
William T. Shea, Democrat.
James Thompson, Republican.

FOR COUNCILMEN AT LARGE
(five to be elected.)
Arthur C. Beal, Republican.
Galen V. Bowditch, Democrat.
James E. Corpew, Independent Citizen.
James F. Edwards, Citizens Nom. Labor.
J. Leonard Ferguson, Republican.
Walter S. Pinkham, Republican.
Walter E. Piper, Republican.
Eugene R. Stone, Republican.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Although efforts have been made to stop the "Endless chain prayer" which is said to have been written by Bishop Lawrence it seems impossible. The editor of the Daily Ledger received one this week from a friend in Ohio, recommending that it be sent to nine others.

In the present condition of city finances, with practically no margin inside the debt limit, it will be surprising if the street orders and loan orders, which passed the City Council this week, are signed by Mayor Thompson. Possibly there is no balance after deducting the sums which the city must pay for the Quincy Point and Atlantic bridges, but even if enough money can be squeezed out for these purposes there are many reasons why the orders should not pass. Perhaps most important is the fact that the work cannot be done in 1906 or for six months, Then the money may be needed for more important improvements. Already there has been this year a large net increase in the debt of the city. The amount of city debt maturing this year was $79,-670, but the new debt which includes the new schoolhouse at Atlantic are in excess of $100,000 without the orders passed this week. This causes an increase in the expenditure for interest.

Early next year many want to see a start on a new Coddington school house, but it will not be possible if the city's money is to be squandered on streets. The city should not increase its debt further this year. We understand there was an effort to date the new loan order in 1907, but that is even worse and should never be allowed.

Whether the city is ready for a building ordinance like the one reported in the City Council this week, is a question which will admit of considerable debate. To say that no wooden building (except a dwelling) shall be built on our main streets is a severe stricture on real estate. It does not apply just to the business centers, but to Hancock street for its whole length, Washington street for its whole length, and several other streets.

Were such an ordinance in effect, such a business block as the one being built for Johnson Bros. could not have been erected. Perhaps it should not have been of wood, but had brick been required it might never have been built.

Had the law been in force a few years ago, the Y. M. C. A. building could not have been constructed of wood, and brick would have been prohibitive. None of the store buildings on Washington street at Quincy Point could have been built of wood; none of the business blocks on Newport avenue at Wollaston, none of the store buildings on Water and Copeland street at South and West Quincy and so on.

It should be remembered that the city has only a very few brick buildings. When we mention the Greenleaf block, the Durgin-Merrill block, the Kincaide building, the Music Hall block, the Court Room building, the Adams building, the Savings Bank building, the Dr. Welch and Post Office blocks, those are about all, but there are the small blocks at the corners of Hancock and Merrymount, Hancock and Beach, Sagamore and Prospect, and on Brook street.

There are many little buildings on our main streets, in business centres which should never have been allowed, but to say that no wooden business block shall be erected on any part of Hancock street is going too far. It will be an injury to Quincy.

FELLOW CITIZENS

President Roosevelt's Salute to the People of Porto Rico

CITIZENSHIP IS PROMISED

Chief Executive Will Make Personal Effort to Hasten Its Accomplishment--Islanders Greet Him With Great Enthusiasm

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 22.—President Roosevelt yesterday journeyed in an automobile over the famous military road from Ponce to San Juan and was accorded an ovation by the people of Porto Rico. The 80-mile trip was made in 6½ hours, counting the time taken up by stops at the principal towns along the route, where the president made short speeches to the people.

When the greetings were over upon his landing at Ponce, the president was driven to the city hall in an automobile. The president was kept busy acknowledging cheers all along the two-mile line of march from the landing place to the principal plaza of the town. At the entrance to the plaza a huge arch had been erected from which little girls threw flowers to both the president and Mrs. Roosevelt as they passed. Ponce was in gala attire, the American colors being interspersed with Spanish flags.

At the city hall an address of welcome was read to the president. He delivered his reply from the balcony of the building, addressing the largest crowd that had ever assembled in Ponce. The president said in part:

"I shall continue to use every effort to secure citizenship for Porto Rico. I am confident this will come in the end and all that I can personally do to hasten that day I will do. My efforts will be unceasing to help you along the path of true self-government, which must have for its basis a union of order, liberty, justice and honor."

In conclusion the president said: "I salute you from my heart as fellow citizens."

The reference to the citizenship of the islanders brought out enthusiastic applause from the people.

Before leaving Ponce the president was driven to the Roosevelt high school. Here several hundred schoolchildren had been assembled and sang "America" as the president drove up. The cornerstone of this school was laid in April, 1903, by the president's daughter, now Mrs. Longworth. The president was greatly pleased with his reception at the school and made a short address. He was showered with flowers by the children as he drove away. Mrs. Roosevelt was presented with a beautiful piece of embroidered work, the handwork of the girls of the industrial school, before she left the city.

The presidential party left Ponce at 10:30, the time set by the schedule, for the run to San Juan over the famous military road. It took 11 automobiles to convey the entire party. Stops of three minutes each were made at Juana Diaz, Coamo and Aibonito. At each place the president was welcomed by the local mayor and spoke briefly from his automobile. His remarks were practically the same as the speech in Ponce.

At Cayey luncheon was served in the barracks by the officers of the Porto Rico provisional regiment. He received a remarkable reception at Caguas, the most important town on the military road. Here he spoke at length, repeating his previously expressed views as to Porto Rico citizenship.

Passing through Caguas and the Cayey tobacco district, where American capital has worked a wonderful development, the president was greatly impressed with the fertility and flourishing condition of the plantations. Between towns along the military road scattering crowds eagerly awaited the chance of a fleeting glimpse of the president. They came from the outlying plantations, many walking from the mountain districts, miles away; peons, women, children, beggars, cripples—all came to pay tribute.

At Rio Piedras, the last town before reaching San Juan, President Roosevelt received an enthusiastic welcome from the schoolchildren and the pupils and teachers of the Porto Rico normal school. To them he spoke facetitiously about college life and outdoor sports. From Rio Piedras to San Turco, a distance of seven miles, along both sides of the roadway were immense crowds, which cheered the president.

Through San Turco, a suburb of San Juan, where there is a large American colony, the balconies and roofs of houses and the sides of the road were crowded with enthusiastic throngs, through which the automobile moved slowly. The president was kept busy acknowledging the greetings of the Americans.

Arriving at the original entrance of the city of San Juan Mayor Todd and the city officials extended their welcome to the president. He responded in a brief speech and was then escorted to the governor's palace.

The city was elaborately decorated, every American flag available being used to the best advantage. Fort Eleza street, which is narrow, was congested with an enormous crowd, as likewise were the housetops, balconies, windows and every point of vantage. President Roosevelt was in a happy mood and bowed and waved his hands to the cheering throngs. The president complimented Chief of Police Hamil for the perfect police arrangement. He was much impressed with his reception by the people.

Bay State Laws Protect Working Women and Children

Boston, Nov. 22.—"Massachusetts leads the country in laws for the protection of women and children employed in factories," was the statement of Mrs. J. E. Foster, the special commissioner recently appointed by President Roosevelt to investigate the conditions of women and children workers in the different states.

Mrs. Foster's visit to this state is somewhat limited, but she will hold a conference with Chief Shaw of the state police, gather some statistics at the bureau of statistics of labor and go through some of the large factories in the nearby cities and towns.

Mrs. Foster declared her intention of returning here later in the year and investigating the labor situation in New England as it affects women and children.

Lives Lost In Ocean Collision

Cherbourg, Nov. 22.—Steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which left Southampton and Cherbourg yesterday for New York, has been in collision with the Royal Mail steamer Orinoco. Both vessels were severely damaged. It is declared that four members of the crew of the Kaiser Wilhelm were killed, while 12 were injured. Five members of the crew of the Orinoco are missing and are supposed to have been drowned. The Orinoco left Southampton yesterday for West Indian ports and New York.

Threat of Longshoremen

St. John, Nov. 22.—The opening of the winter business of ocean steamship lines at this port was marked by a declaration from the Longshoremen's association that the Canadian Shipping Federation must grant them either a raise in wages or recognize the union. The declaration is considered tantamount to an announcement that the handling of the cargoes of the big liners already arrived, and others due at this port, will be tied up by a strike.

Twenty-Five Killed by Poison

Budapest, Nov. 22.—Analytical examinations of portions of 25 human bodies which have been exhumed at Knez showed that every one bore strong traces of arsenical poisoning. As a result two peasant women have been arrested and it is charged they made a regular practice of selling arsenic in this district to persons who desired to rid themselves of their spouses.

Green Indictments Dropped

Washington, Nov. 22.—Justice Stafford has made the formal order of nolle prosequi in the case of George E. Green of Binghamton, N. Y., charged with conspiracy and bribery in connection with the postoffice irregularities of 1903. Green was acquitted on three of the four indictments returned against him and the government decided to abandon the remaining indictment.

Passenger Train Ditched

Golden, N. Y., Nov. 22.—A passenger train was wrecked here last night. Ten of the passengers were injured, but none of them fatally. The cause of the accident is unknown. The train was running at the rate of about 30 miles an hour when the baggage car and two day coaches jumped the track and toppled over in the ditch. The engine remained on the rails.

Responsible For Awful Disaster

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 22.—Frank Detnauer, engineer of the passenger train which was wrecked recently at Woodville, causing 63 deaths, broke down before the Indiana railroad commission and took all blame on himself. He said he got no answer to his whistle from the freight train, but took it for granted that it would be all right and went ahead.

Suicide of Expert Shooter

New York, Nov. 22.—John Howley, famous as a pistol shot, killed himself with a revolver in his room at the Everett house. His nephew, Edward Howley of Montreal, who had come to take him to Canada to undergo an operation for cancer of the lip, found the body last night. Howley was 62 years old.

MORAL COURAGE

Our Country Needs More Patriotism Born of It

SHOWN BY CARL SCHURZ

Found Immunity From Defilement In Purifying Political Surroundings--Grover Cleveland Dwells on Public Welfare

New York, Nov. 22.—A memorial meeting in honor of Carl Schurz, the first public move to further the permanent memorial as planned by a representative committee organized soon after the death of the distinguished German-American citizen, was held here last night. The attendance was large and eulogistic sentiments were expressed by a notable list of speakers. After the speeches Chairman Choate explained the plan of the committee for raising a fund to provide a permanent testimonial to Schurz.

Former President Grover Cleveland was heartily applauded as he was introduced and again when he said of Schurz: "In recognition of the affirmation that ours is a government by party he did not disparage political organization or hold aloof from party affiliation. He assumed party relationship as an arrangement for united effort in the accomplishment of purposes which his judgment approved, but he never conceded to party allegiance the guidance of political thought nor the dictatorship of political conduct."

Mr. Cleveland said among other things:

"It would by no means be entirely out of keeping with the occasion to extol the courage of battlefields, where patriotism expects the giving of human lives for country's sake. But this physical courage is so much a part of our national character that its recognition is universal and its stimulation is not among our country's needs. What our nation sorely needs is more of the patriotism that is born of moral courage—the courage that attacks abuses and struggles for civic reforms single-handed, without counting opposing numbers or measuring opposing forces. It is this kind of courage and the great public service that has been rendered under its inspiration that we memorialize tonight.

"I believe that the man whose memory we honor never knew moral fear and never felt the sickening weakness of moral cowardice. With him it was only to see what he believed to be injustice or error to hurl himself upon its defenses with the impetuosity of a zealot and the endurance of a martyr. He did not shun politics. He had no toleration for the overnice foppery that drives many who claim patriotic impulses away from politics through fear of contaminating defilement. He entered politics because he saw his duty there; and he found immunity from defilement in cleansing and purifying his political surroundings.

"Political organization will always be a factor in the equipment and conduct of our government, and as long as parties exist there will be party leaders. But every thoughtful man who loves his country ought to realize in this time of political awakening that the public welfare demands that parties should be in purpose and mission something better than mere machines to serve selfishness and the ends of low and perverted partisanship.

"Nor should any fail to detect the humiliation and disgrace that attaches to those who follow party leadership after it has grown to partisan dictatorship and become a thing of proprietary control, prostituted to the use of base bargaining and treacherous schemes. No one can know so little of partisan human nature as to suppose that an honest voter, thus threatened with betrayal or disgrace in his party relationship, can save his honor and political integrity by any less radical remedy than loud protest or open desertion."

Prepared For Eventualities

Madrid, Nov. 22.—Minister of Marine Alvarado has assured parliament that there is no necessity for alarm in connection with the presence at Tangier of the Spanish battleship Pelayo. Troops will not be disembarked unless circumstances of peril necessitate the enforcement of respect for European interests, in which event Great Britain also will co-operate in the movement.

Military Authorities Making Gas

Warsaw, Nov. 22.—The gas workers in this city threatened to strike for higher wages and the director of the gas works consequently announced that he could not be responsible for the lighting of the city. The military authorities thereupon arrested the director, discharged the gas workmen and started making gas.

Durand's Possible Successor

London, Nov. 22.—A rumor is current in the lobby of the house of commons to the effect that James Bryce, the author of "The American Commonwealth" and now chief secretary for Ireland, is likely to be selected to fill the vacant ambassadorship at Washington. No confirmation of this rumor can be obtained.

Hillton, Col., Nov. 22.—Two passenger trains collided head-on here. Fireman Kerr was killed and two passengers were probably fatally injured. Both locomotives and a mail car were demolished. The engineer of one train was unable to control the air brakes.

CARUSO IN COURT

Practically a Flat Denial of the Charges Against Him

WOMAN DOES NOT APPEAR

Police Officers Say He Implored Complainant Not to Prefer Charges--Great Crowd Listens to Testimony In Police Court

New York, Nov. 22.—Enrico Caruso, the famous Italian tenor, faced an audience of 600 persons in the Yorkville police court and denied positively that he had offered insult to a woman in the monkey house in Central park last Friday. He declared that his arrest was due to pique upon the part of a woman who described herself as "Hannah Graham," and because he failed to respond to advances which she made to him.

Mrs. Graham was not present to press the charge which she lodged against the singer and the police officers interested in the affair testified that they had made every effort to find the woman, but without result.

Park Policeman Cane, who made the arrest, told a circumstantial story of the alleged incidents which led to the arrest of the tenor and he was corroborated in part by other witnesses. Several other policemen corroborated the officer as to happenings in the police station at the time of the arrest. They declared that Caruso pleaded with the woman not to prefer a charge against him and that, with outstretched hands and in an imploring voice, he declared that "it was all a mistake, madame; I meant no harm." A young man who gave his name as Jeremiah McCarthy corroborated Cane's testimony as to Caruso's alleged action in the monkey house. He said his attention had been called to Caruso by the officer.

Against all this the singer placed what amounted practically to a flat denial of the whole case of the prosecution. He denied the ability to speak English and declared that, consequently, it would have been impossible for him to have made the statements attributed to him by the police. He declared that the woman upon whose complaint he was arrested had smiled at him first in a manner equivalent to an admission that she was a woman of doubtful character and invited attention which he did not condescend to give. Many of his answers were given by a nod or shake of the head before the interpreter had finished the repetition of the question. Caruso was attended in court by Dircetor Conreid of the Metopolitan Opera house and a number of prominent singers.

Yorkville police court probably never before harbored such a gathering. Its normal capacity is scarcely more than 200, but long before the hour set for the appearance of Caruso three times that number of persons had crowded into the little room. They were packed so closely that it was almost impossible to move about. The corridors outside the courtroom were thronged by a curious crowd and hundreds unable to find accommodations in the building crowded the sidewalk outside the building.

When the cab containing Caruso, Conried and several of his friends reached the building an army of photographers greeted them and the crowd on the sidewalk sent up a yell. Again, when the singer and his friends were leaving the place, after the case had been adjourned until today, Caruso was given a rousing cheer.

Alleged Attempt to Defraud

Pittsburg, Nov. 22.—C. S. Cameron, president of the Tube City railroad, and William Martin, a member of the common council, were arrested here on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Tube City railroad of $70,000. It is said that other councilmen will be arrested in connection with the case. Cameron and Martin were held in $10,000 bail. It is alleged that they tried to defraud the railroad in connection with a number of ordinances now before the Pittsburg council.

Comment on Monroe Doctrine

London, Nov. 22.—The Standard, commenting on Secretary Root's Kansas City speech, says it shows that the Monroe doctrine is still a living principle of the external policy of the United States, but believes that in the long run, and especially after the opening of the Panama canal, the nations of Europe will not continue to look upon it with that "indifference which has been up to the present its only safeguard."

Chicago Experiences Severe Weather

Chicago, Nov. 22.—A severe rain, snow and windstorm did much damage in Chicago and its suburbs. Many signs were blown down and several pedestrians sustained slight injuries. The maximum velocity of the gale was 58 miles an hour. On all sides of the city barns and sheds were unroofed and many of them were blown down. The damage to trees and shrubbery in the parks and suburbs was extensive.

ONE DEAD, SIXTY SICK

Wedding Guests Said to Have Partaken of Poisonous Food

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 22.—One man is dead and 60 other persons have been dangerously ill from poisoning following a wedding banquet at which corned beef and tongue were among the articles served. No chemical examination of the suspected viands has been made as yet, but it is thought probable that the poisoning was due to ptomaines. The wedding was that of Miss Anna F. Slavin and Samuel B. Brosslin. It took place in Highland hall Tuesday night, and the food for the banquet which followed the ceremony was supplied by the bride's father, who is a butcher.

Max Odens, an uncle of the bride, died yesterday and those who are ill include most of the guests who were present, among them being some of the most influential Hebrews in the city. Nearly all those on the sick list are thought to be on the road to recovery after several hours of very severe illness. The police have begun an investigation.

The physicians who attended the sick ones agree in placing the blame for the trouble upon one of two articles which were served at the wedding supper—pickled tongue and corned beef. Abraham Slavin, the father of the bride, insists, however, that both the tongue and beef were of fine quality. He expresses his belief that some enemy stealthily poisoned the meat while the ceremony was doing on.

Old Home Week Proposition

Boston, Nov. 22.—At a meeting of the New England Passenger association a proposition was submitted to have all the New England states unite in a uniform Old Home Week, in order that the railroads of this section may be able to secure low annual Old Home Week excursion rates from the western lines. It was admitted by all who participated that some such change is necessary if the co-operation of the western roads is to be secured. The question will come up for definite action at the next meeting of the association.

Moran Disagrees With Court

Boston, Nov. 22.—There was another difference of opinion in the superior criminal court between Judge Brown and District Attorney Moran over the disposition of several cases. Brown had refused to place on probation a number of persons convicted of minor crimes, although requested to do so by Moran. After the probation officer had failed to report on several other probation cases, Moran announced that he had nol prossed four cases, thus disposing of them without their being considered by the court.

Ansonia, Conn., Nov. 22.—Suit for $40,000 damages has been brought by the Ansonia Water company against the Schneller, Osborne & Cheeseman company for alleged wrongful use and waste of water for 11 years. This suit is now pending.

Wrong Count of Votes

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—A sensation developed in municipal politics last night by the discovery of errors in the counting of the ballots cast in Tuesday's Democratic primaries, and as the result of the changes Mayor Thurston, instead of failing of renomination, as was announced yesterday morning, defeated his opponent, J. F. Aylward, by 109 votes.

Probably Fell From Bridge

Danvers, Mass., Nov. 22.—The body of John Hardiman of Peabody, 55 years old, who had been missing from his home since Sunday night, was found embedded in the mud at the bottom of Porter's river in this town. AGAIN CLOSE TO FRANCIS

Prison Officials Expect to Soon Have Convict In Custody

Rockland, Me., Nov. 22.—With the three only exits from the little town of Liberty carefully guarded by determined deputies, Minot St. Clair Francis, the Thomaston jail-breaker, keeps to the cover of the dense woods here.

Warden Norton, Postoffice Inspector Robinson and others who are heading the scouting parties are certain that there can be no escape. Hampered as he now is by the horse and wagon which he stole at East Searsmont Monday night, and in which he made his sensational flight through three towns in order to throw his pursuers off the track, the officers believe that his capture is already an assured fact. If the prisoner does not surrender peaceably, there is little doubt that the Liberty woods will be the scene of a bloody battle.

One of the prisoner's legs is known to be in bad condition. In prison he wore a leg strap, and since his escape the irritation engendered by his continuous flight has made his condition so bad that the officers are confident that he can no longer get away from them on foot.

Result of Celluloid Explosion

New York, Nov. 22.—By an explosion of celluloid in the plant of the Bouffard Comb factory, the owner of the business, his wife and a boy employe were blown through a window to the street below. The woman was instantly killed. Bouffard is dying and the boy is seriously injured. The building in which the accident occurred is honeycombed with small manufacturing plants and the 300 persons there employed were thrown into a panic. The cause of the accident was not established. The monetary loss was $10,000.

Instant Remedy Needed

New York, Nov. 22.—Recommendations made by the state railroad commission, designed to relieve somewhat the Brooklyn bridge crush, found a startling echo when Vice President Calderwood of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company declared that the bridge was being worked to its limit and that his company lived in expectation of a great calamity there. Almost similar sentiments were expressed by General Manager Edley of the Interborough regarding the East Side traffic in Manhattan.

Gifts to Battleship Connecticut

New York, Nov. 22.—With much ceremony Governor Roberts of Connecticut presented to the commander of the battleship Connecticut a handsome silver service composed of 36 pieces, a gift of the state of Connecticut. A stand of colors, consisting of four flags, a gift of the schoolchildren of Norwalk, Conn., was also presented to the battleship. A delegation of 250 officials from Connecticut participated in the ceremonies of presentation at the navy yard.

Peary Ship Again Starts

St. George's Bay, N. F., Nov. 22.—The Peary Arctic steamer Roosevelt sailed last night for Port au Basque, whence she will coal and proceed to Sydney, N. S. The Roosevelt took on eight tons of coal, all she could obtain here, but not sufficient to carry her across the Gulf of St. Lawrence. The steamer will touch at Port au Basque only to renew her coal supply.

Held on Terrible Charge

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Henry Papineu was held to the grand jury on the charge of murdering his wife by pouring gasoline on her clothing and setting fire to her. Mrs. Papineu was badly burned by a fire in her home and at the coroner's inquest the answers of Papineu were so unsatisfactory concerning the cause of the fire that the coroner ordered Papineu's arrest.

JAPANESE FAIR

Brilliant Scene At Atlantic Music Hall Last Evening

A Japanese fair in all the airy beauty of butterfly and blossom, of lantern and parasol, was held in Atlantic Music hall, Wednesday afternoon and evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Benevolent society of Memorial Congregational church. Eighty-seven workers, directed by Mrs. William Cummings as chairman of the general committee, showed their combined efforts in the elaborate display of twelve booths, each one of which originally carried out the art and delicate draping of the Japanese. The entire hall was strung with brilliant butterflies, below which hung lanterns of bright coloring and the flowers trailing over the booths with their mystic ornamentations; the costumed attendants, the gay flags and streaming ribbons gave the effect of a Japanese tea garden.

The donations were more plentiful this year than they have ever been, and were not confined to Atlantic, but the whole town responded magnificently to the spirit of giving. The proceeds were remarkable and the fair will reflect credit on those who have given time and energy to the bringing about of a splendid achievement for Memorial church.

Roll Call at John Hancock Lodge

Members of John Hancock lodge of Odd Fellows made a special effort on Wednesday evening to be present at the regular meeting of the lodge. Odd Fellows generally of Wollaston were invited, and told their names would be on the roll call.

There was a very large attendance and an interesting and profitable meeting. One absent member sent a check of $50 for the contingent fund. Others sent letters explaining their absence.

For entertainment there were readings, vocal solos, and an address by Rev. W. H. Morrison, the Universalist pastor of Brockton, who is a member of the order delighted the brethern.

One of the gentlemen present, Capt. Benjamin King, has been a member of the order for 44 years, and each year seems to add a little to his enthusiasm.

The lodge is in a prosperous condition, with several new applications for membership. A banquet closed the festivities of the evening.

Coliseum Rink.

The largest crowd of the season attended the Coliseum rink Saturday night for it was packed to capacity. Many were disappointed in securing skates. Commencing at 9 o'clock Howard's moving pictures were shown which took the house by storm. "A Mother-in-law, a domestic comedy, was shown amid laughter, which certainly was funny. The pictures will be here every Wednesday and Saturday. Coming last night and continuing the rest of the week Dutch Dracount, the great Norwegian skater, will appear in an exhibition of fancy novelty trick unicycle and stilt skating. The only man in the world who spins on the top of a flour barrel. Mr. Dracount will be at the rink every afternoon to teach and instruct all learners free of charge.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put toge her, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Listen to an Interesting Address On Edward Everett By Dr. Everett

Dr. Everett was at his best Thursday evening, when under the auspices of the Quincy Historical Society, he lectured on his father, Edward Everett, LL. D., D. C. L. His birthplace, he said, was on the Quincy and Boston road and his later residence in Norwood, a Norfolk county town, hence there would be some local interest.

The doctor told of Mr. Everett's ability in college and early life. How he became a teacher at 16 years, and pastor of a church at 19. Of his trip abroad at 21. He was best known as an orator, but was a Governor of Massachusetts, a minister to England, president of Harvard College, Secretary of State, and a United States senator.

He never forgot that he was born during Washington's term as President, and always endeavored to follow his example. He had been called cold, but he loved others better than himself, and responded to frequent calls for his services at sacrifice of personal desires. He was a delight to his children; playful with them at home, and his natural habit was bright and gay. He had trouble and was misrepresented but he had patience.

In a short review the Ledger cannot do the speaker justice, for his address was forty to fifty minutes long and interesting throughout.

Dr. Everett was introduced by Brooks Adams, Esq., the president, who at the close of the lecture invited the large gathering to remain for social tea.

A large table was spread in the church parlor, in the centre a magnificent bunch of large chrysanthemums, surrounded by silver candle sticks and silver tea services. Tea was poured by Mrs. Charles A. Spear, Mrs. William B. Rice, Mrs. J. Henry Emery and Mrs. Richard R. Freeman.

Members of the society assisted in serving. Social chat was enjoyed over the teacups. The church was open for the inspection of the new tablets which were much admired.

Governor a Guest.

The Massachusetts State Board of Agriculture will hold its usual public winter meeting at G. A. R. Memorial Hall, Springfield, on Dec. 4, 5, and 6 next. These yearly meetings mark the opening of the winter lecture season on agricultural topics. The lectures and discussions appear later in the reports of the board. The program presented for this meeting is a varied one, and something of interest to every one, specialists and general farmers alike, will be found at one or another of the sessions.

On the second evening the Springfield Board of Trade will tender a reception and banquet to Governor Guild, the Board of Agriculture, and others attending the meeting. The occasion promises to be unusually enjoyable and interesting.

The headquarters of the board will be at the Cooley Hotel. J. Lewis Ellsworth, Secretary, State Board of Agriculture, State House, Boston, will be glad to furnish any further information regarding the meeting.

Frequent Visits By Railroad Agent

The following item will be of interest to business men of Quincy who use the freight facilities of the railroad. The frequent visit of such an agent as contemplated will serve to bring the business men and railroad into closes relationship and prove a benefit to all parties.

Announcement has been made by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad company of the appointment of several "general agents of the freight department." This, the company says, will be of special interest to all shippers along the line of the road.

According to the statement issued the duty of the agents will be to keep in close touch with every industry upon the company's lines located in their respective districts, the intention in a broad way being that every industry upon the line of the road shall be personally visited by a competent representative of this department at least once every two weeks, in order that the relations of the company to the industry shall be more intimate and the affairs more intelligently administered than is possible through any other method.

C. F. Harper the Speaker.

Harper head master of the Quincy High school, who will address the club along educational lines. The club membership is not confined to the men of the church, but all gentlemen interested in the welfare of Wollaston are eligible and will be welcome at the meeting. They expect a large increase in membership this year.

His Sixty-Ninth Birthday Today

Mr. Galen Vinton Bowditch celebrates today, Nov. 23, his 69th birthday. He was born in Roxbury, Nov. 23, 1837, and came to Quincy with his parents when a boy.

For the past thirteen years he has been a veteran news carrier for the reporters in this city to the daily press of Boston. Every night about eleven o'clock he can be seen wending his way to the Quincy station, his pockets stuffed with thrilling events from this important city.

This year the Democrats have nominated him for Councilman-at-large, which pleases the "boy" much, and there is no doubt but he will receive a handsome vote. He is a regular Jacksonian Democrat, and one is sure to know where he stands.

DOUBTS AN AGREEMENT

City Official Ready to Wager That There Has Been None

The political horizon seems to have been cleared the past week. Up to Saturday of last week there were dire forebodings which did augur success for the present administration of the city government. The vote of Mr. Gray in the recent caucuses may have given some the opinion that that was the strength of the opposition, but many desiring a change did not vote for Mr. Gray because they feared he might be nominated.

Several weeks ago the opposition united on Emery L. Crane. They endeavored to secure the withdrawal of Mr. Gray that Mr. Crane might make a man-to-man contest with Mayor Thompson at the caucuses, but Mr. Gray would not withdraw.

This explains why it was the intention of the opposition to run Mr. Crane as an Independent candidate rather than in the caucuses. When Mr. Crane's friends showed their hand last Saturday, by taking out papers for an Independent nomination, and showed their determination to make a contest, there was a prompt effort made to find out the reason. It was found out that, while there was opposition to some of the department officials, that one change only would pacify all.

When the opposition had accomplished their purpose, Mr. Crane's name was withdrawn, and those who for weeks have been talking against the present administration are now signing papers endorsing Mayor Thompson for reelection.

Everyone, however, does not place full confidence in the reports that there has been an understanding whereby there will be a change in one of the principal offices. Another prominent city official has offered to bet two to one that there has been no agreement, and that appointments next January will show it; he is willing to wait until then for decision on his bet.

The claim is made that the Ledger had no authority to report that an agreement had been made, and that is right the Ledger has not so stated. The Ledger has drawn an inference, however, and so have others.

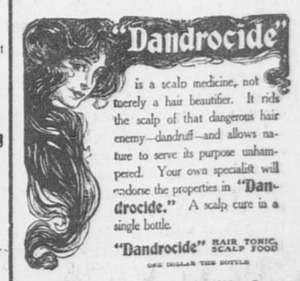

One of the most anxious to find out the exact situation is William T. Shea the Democratic candidate, because he counts on the opposition to the Commissioner of Public Works and other department officials to be successful himself.

In either case, he says, he will know how to proceed, and is confident of an election. He does not expect that Mayor Thompson will throw over Mr. Burke.

It is reported that the Wage Earners Club has voted to endorse the candidacy of William T. Shea for Mayor, and Alfred J. La Croix and William Cunniff for Councilmen.

Wonder if there are not several wage earners worthy of support among the Republican candidates for the City Council. Some of them are not property holders and therefore should not be classed among the capitalists.

The time for withdrawals of candidates nominated for municipal offices expires at 5 o'clock tonight. Up to noon no one had exercised that right and the chances are that no one will.

Drift of Opinion.

☞Hearst says he will not again be a candidate and that the principles for which he has stood are now sufficiently understood by the public for it to be no longer necessary for him to be a candidate. We think the people do understand. Probably a more unprincipled candidate in many ways never yearned after political preferment. Nothing seemed too vile for his bilious newspapers to parade under glaring headlines. We hope he will keep his word. If he would conduct a decent, truthful campaign in his journals he would be more appreciated in the end even by the class to whom he strives to cater.—Milford Journal.

☞The gentle habit of shoplifting will be broken in Boston with a good many now in the grip of kleptomania if the courts are going to impose $500 fines for stealing in the stores. To be sure it doesn't make much difference to the average stealer from the stores whether he or she is fined $50 or $500, for there will be inability to pay in the mass of cases on either fine, and three months' imprisonment for a $500 fine is no longer than three months served for a failure to pay $50. Really prosperous people will, however, doubt the business sense of trying to economize by stealing $10 worth of goods at an expense of $50; and people who are not prosperous at all and who have no bank accounts and no rich friends will realize that heavy fines means jail for them for inability to pay the sums demanded, and the shock of that thought may bring about a reform. Anyway, it has been brought to the attention of people who get part of their living by stealing from merchants that they are in danger of something more than probation or a minimum fine; and the result is likely to be to check at least a percentage of the wholesale stealing that goes on in the holiday season.—Brockton Enterprise.

FOR FULL DEMAND

No Compromise Acceptable to Fall River Operatives

WANT 10 PERCENT RAISE

Five Unions Vote to Strike Next Monday Unless Manufacturers Yield--Would Throw 25,000 Operatives Out of Work

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 23.—The five unions of operatives, at special meetings last night, voted by large majorities to reject the offer of a 5 percent advance in wages and to go out on strike next Monday morning unless the full demand for a 10 percent increase is granted before that time.

Mayor Coughlin is endeavoring to arrange a conference between the manufacturers and representatives of the Textile Council in order to prevent a repetition of the business paralysis which occurred in 1904-05, when the mills were idle for nearly six months. There is a feeling in business circles that even if a strike occurs on Monday that it will be of short duration, as it is held that the manufacturers are not in a position to permit their mills to be closed for any great length of time in view of the prosperous condition of the industry.

Should a strike go into effect on Monday about 25,000 operatives would be thrown out of work, and more than 30 corporations, operating 75 cloth mills, would be affected.

There was very little discussion at any of the meetings last night. After the meetings had been called to order the secretaries read the call and the correspondence which had passed between the Textile Council and the Manufacturers' association. Within a few minutes a vote was reached.

The Weavers' union, by a vote of 426 to 32, declared against accepting an advance of 5 percent and in favor of a strike should the full amount not be granted. The slasher tenders took the same position by a vote of 70 to 3, the carders by 74 to 10, the loom-fixers by 279 to 12, and the spinners by 127 to 14.

President Tansey of the Textile Council said: "I hope the manufacturers will see the wisdom of changing their attitude. There seems to be no power on earth to stop these people from striking unless wages are advanced 10 percent."

Secretary Taylor said: "The operatives had apparently made up their minds before they entered the meetings. There was almost no discussion, and unless the manufacturers recede from their position, the looms will be idle next week."

The demand for a 10 percent advance was made about three weeks ago. The Textile Council set forth in its request that, in view of the prosperous condition of the textile industry, wages should be restored to the schedule paid previous to the reductions which were begun in 1903 and which amounted to 22½ percent. Last spring a partial restoration was made, bringing the price of weaving standard 28-inch, 64x64 print cloths to 19.80 cents per cut. The price paid in 1903 was 21.78, the amount now asked for.

New Bedford Manufacturers Hesitate

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 23.—The New Bedford cotton manufacturers have not yet sent an answer to a demand for a 10 percent advance in wages made by the Textile Council last week. It is thought that no decision will be reached by the mill owners until the Fall River situation is cleared up.

Worried Over Witte's Prestige

St. Petersburg, Nov. 23.—The hostile feelings toward Count Witte held by almost all the members of the present cabinet, combined with the distrust inspired by the supposed intentions underlying his recent return to Russia, has taken the form of an active campaign to counteract his influence. An official has been sent to Berlin to start a press campaign against Witte for the purpose of undermining the prestige still enjoyed by the count in Europe and the United States.

Wilson's Remains Laid In Tomb

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—With impressive ceremonies, the remains of James Wilson of Pennsylvania, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, a leader in the convention which framed the federal constitution and one of the original justices of the supreme court of the United States, were placed beside those of his wife in a tomb in the graveyard of historic Christ church. The body had lain in a North Carolina grave for 108 years.

Granger Resolutions

Denver, Nov. 23.—The National Grange convention adopted resolutions condemning free seed distribution by the government as being of no benefit; opposing a national fertilizer law and favoring amendment of the oleomargarine law by striking out the word "knowingly" to the end that convictions may be procured for violation of the law.

TORTURED DAY AND NIGHT

Rheumatism Crazes the Mind.

An Internal Blood Treatment Called Uric-O is Widely Recommended to Cure it.

Every sufferer from Rheumatism who wants to be rid of the sleepless nights, the nerve binding, muscle twisting hours of pain, should get at once a bottle of Uric-O, the marvelous specific for the cure of Rheumatism. It matters little how long one has suffered from the trouble nor how intense the suffering. Uric-O will cure it. It cures by its direct action upon the blood, muscles and kidneys; it neutralizes the rheumatic acid poison and drives it from the system. Druggists and Physicians everywhere are recommending Uric-O because they know that at last there has been a remedy prepared which actually cures the trouble and cures it to stay cured. It has stood all kinds of tests and never been found wanting. Uric-O is a cure for Rheumatism and for Rheumatism only. Mr. E. J. Murphy is the agent for Uric-O in Quincy, and he would be glad to meet all sufferers from the disease and explain the action of Uric-O on all forms of Rheumatism. The Smith Drug Co., of Syracuse, N. Y., are the makers of Uric-O, and will be glad to send any rheumatic a sample of this marvelous specific on request. They sometimes send a full sized bottle to people sending for samples.

PANIC ON BIG LINERS

Crash In English Channel Resulted In Thirteen Deaths

Cherbourg, Nov. 23.—Two big liners, the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the Orinoco, collided in the English channel Wednesday night at 9 o'clock. As a result 13 steerage passengers and sailors were killed, each vessel was seriously damaged and the two steamers have returned to port for repairs.

The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse belongs to the North German Lloyd Steamship company. She carried 258 first-class passengers, 389 in the second cabin and 697 in the steerage. She left Southampton and Cherbourg Wednesday for New York. The Orinoco, which belongs to the British Royal Mail Steamship company, had cleared from Southampton for West Indian ports and New York.

The passengers of the German vessel will be trans-shipped and leave France for New York tomorrow. The Orinoco's passengers will be sent forward from Southampton on Nov. 28.

The shock of the collision was terrific and there was a panic on board each ship. Order, however, was quickly restored, but not before a small boat, lowered from the Orinoco, had been swamped by the efforts of the fear-stricken passengers to crowd into it.

Those who lost their lives were killed either by being crushed by the grinding timbers or being thrown overboard and drowned. The persons who suffered wounds have been transferred to hospitals.

As soon as the accident occurred a number of small boats from Cherbourg put out to the scene and succeeded in rescuing some of the sailors and passengers who were struggling in the water.

Killed Girl He Loved

Adrian, Mich., Nov. 23.—Miss Ola Kelly, aged 23, was murdered at her home in Holloway by Joseph Ehlich of Adrian, 20 years of age. The victim's throat was cut with a pair of scissors, which were left sticking into her heart. Ehlich, when arrested, confessed to the crime. He had been paying attentions to the girl, but she wrote him that she did not care to receive his attentions longer. He went to her home last night to talk the matter over. Finding her unyielding in her determination to reject him, he killed her.

The Fishery Muddle

Washington, Nov. 23.—The state department has received word from Ambassador Reid that he will sail for the United States on Dec. 5. It is expected he will bring important data regarding the Newfoundland fishing cases that may result in a complete understanding concerning recent arrests of colonial fishermen on board American vessels for violation of the bait act. This government has not made any official representations to Great Britain concerning the arrests.

Dowager Empress' Life Threatened

Copenhagen, Nov. 23.—The Danish and Russian police charged with the safeguarding of the Dowager Empress of Russia are trying to discover the whereabouts of an Italian female anarchist who recently crossed Europe, pursued by foreign police until she reached the Danish frontier, where all trace of her was lost. Anxiety is felt for the safety of the dowager empress, who arrived here in September to visit the Danish royal family.

Railroad Allowed Rebates

New York, Nov. 23.—Judge Holt, in the United States circuit court, fined the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company $18,000 for rebating freight charges to the American Sugar Refining company. The fine was the result of an indictment charging the company with rebating in the sum of $26,000 to the American Sugar Refining company, on which charge the defendant company had been found guilty.

Discontent on the Roosevelt

Sydney, C. B., Nov. 23.—The Arctic steamer Roosevelt left Port Aux Basques, N. F., for Sydney yesterday afternoon. The steamer is leaking and is otherwise disabled, and her alleged unseaworthy condition has caused discontent among her crew. Commander Peary would have left the ship at St. George's bay, but he is staying on board the Roosevelt for the moral effect upon his crew.

Train Went Into River

Elmira, N. Y., Nov. 23.—In a collision at Corning between a way-freight train and an empty engine, the freight engine and 10 cars were thrown down an embankment into the Chemung river. Engineer Doolittle and Brakeman Spencer were killed. The bodies are under the engine in the river.

A WOMAN IN WHITE

Appears In Court as a Witness Against Caruso

DEFENDANT GETS UNEASY

Prosecution Claims That the Woman Was Subjected to Indignities by the Singer In 1904 --Defendant Denies Charges

New York, Nov. 23.—Hannah Graham, the woman who caused the arrest of Enrico Caruso, the famous Italian tenor, on a charge of annoying and mistreating her in the monkey house in Central Park last Friday, may appear in police court today to press the charge against him. Just before court adjourned last night, at the end of the second day's hearing of the charge against the singer, Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot, who is conducting the case for the prosecution, said there was only one witness for the prosecution and when that witness appeared he would require less than 10 minutes to complete his case.

Despite the most diligent efforts upon the part of the police it had been found impossible to present the witness yesterday. Hannah Graham dropped out of sight when she left the police station five minutes after she had preferred the charges against Caruso.

When court adjourned Wednesday night Caruso himself was on the stand and his examination was resumed when the case was taken up yesterday. Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot began to question the defendant very closely concerning his past life and particularly with reference to the past four years, when he has appeared in this country under the direction of Heinrich Conried.

Caruso acknowledged that he was in New York in 1904 and that on Feb. 4 of that year he sang in "Parsifal" at the Metropolitan Opera house. It was at this point that the real sensation of the day came. The wide doors directly behind the magistrate's bench swung open and a handsome woman, garbed entirely in white and with a white veil drawn close over her face, stepped into the room.

"Caruso, look upon this woman," said the deputy police commissioner, as the woman raised her veil and revealed her features. "Did you ever see her before?"

The defendant moved uneasily, hesitated and then replied: "No, I have never seen her."

"Did you not, on the afternoon of Feb. 4, 1904, during the second act of "Parsifal," stand behind this woman in the Metropolitan Opera house and subject her to exactly the same indignities to which it is charged Hannah Graham was subjected at the Central park monkey house?"

"I did not," replied the witness hotly. "I never saw the woman before as far as I can remember."

"Is it not true that on that afternoon not only this woman, but other women, were the victims of most indecent actions upon your part?" persisted Mathot.

Before Caruso could reply his counsel broke in with a vigorous objection. Such a proceeding was unprecedented and unwarranted, he declared. His objection was sustained.

One of the diverting features of the day was the appearance as a witness for the defense of Dr. Denziger, former American consul at Madrid. Denziger testified he was in the monkey house at Central park during Caruso's visit there last Friday and that he observed no improper action upon the singer's part.

Caruso was cheered heartily as he left the court, though some hisses mingled with the cheers.

Italians "Unlucky" In America

Rome, Nov. 23.—The local press has received long dispatches from New York concerning the trial of Caruso. In this connection it is recalled that several noted Italians have been unlucky in the United States. Mascagni, the composer, was arrested; Biondi, the sculptor, lost $10,000, and now Caruso risks going to jail. While the disappearance of Mrs. Graham is held to be significant, the newspapers trust in the fair dealing of American justice.

Cement Company Receivership

Detroit, Nov. 23.—Federal Judge Swan has appointed the Michigan Trust company of Grand Rapids receiver for the Great Northern Portland Cement company. The Great Northern company is capitalized at $4,000,000 and its plant is said to have cost $1,000,000. The receivership was brought about through the Union Trust company of Detroit suing for the foreclosure of a mortgage of $600,000. The company defaulted in the instalment of interest due Nov. 1.

Steamer Wrecked--Crew Safe

Ontonagon, Mich., Nov. 23.—The steamer Panama, with iron ore from Duluth, was driven ashore off Ontogagon. The crew is safe, but the vessel is probably a total loss. The tow barge Matanzas, consort of the Panama, rode out the storm and was picked up by a tug.

Bomb For Aristocrats

Constantinople, Nov. 23.—A bomb outrage was perpetrated in the Pera quarter yesterday. No details are obtainable. The Pera quarter of Constantinople is an aristocratic suburb, where most of the European embassies are situated.

ELUSIVE FRANCIS

Seen on a Woodlot by the Owner of the Property

QUICKLY TOLD OFFICIALS

By the Time They Appeared, However, the Negro Desperado Had Disappeared, Leaving the Stolen Team Behind

Belfast, Me., Nov. 23.—The horse and wagon stolen by Minot St. Clair Francis, the negro desperado, was recovered late yesterday afternoon in the town of Monroe, 15 miles from Belfast, the capture affording a new clue to the whereabouts of the fugitive.

After Francis stole the horse and wagon near Searsport Tuesday night, he was traced by a searching officer over a roundabout course which seemed to lead to Sandy point, on the shore of Penobscot bay, not far from this city. Yesterday the attention of the officers centered mainly around Sandy point, and the whole region about that neighborhood was being thoroughly explored under the direction of Postoffice Inspector Robinson of Portland when word came that Francis had been seen in Monroe.

The clue to the whereabouts of Francis was discovered by Clifton Moore, who lives in Monroe. Moore saw smoke rising above the tops of the trees in a woodlot on his property and investigated the source of it. Going along a wood road, he found a horse and wagon, and a little way beyond saw a fire. There was a negro working about the blaze and Moore immediately recognized him as Francis from the descriptions of the latter, which have been spread through all this part of Waldo county. Moore lost no time in driving to the village of Monroe and notifying by telephone Warden Norton in Thomaston. The latter sent word to Inspector Robinson at Sandy point and directed that men from Monroe village be stationed at Lord's bridge to prevent the escape of the fugitive by that highway until the arrival of Robinson and his force from Sandy point.

In the meantime, however, a Waldo county deputy sheriff who had heard of the location of the fugitive went to the woodlot and found the horse and wagon there, but failed to capture the negro. The deputy drove the team to Monroe and it was identified fully later on as the one stolen in Searsport.

Francis, meanwhile, disappeared, and although Warden Norton arranged to station a cordon of guards about the woods and along the highway leading to Lord's bridge, it was considered very doubtful if the capture of the desperado would be effected.

It is believed that Wednesday night Francis broke into the general store and postoffice at Park, half way between Searsport and Stockton Springs. Nothing in the postoffice was disturbed, but provisions were taken from the store. It is now believed that Francis took a direction inland with the stolen team, with the intention of making some point on the main line of the Maine Central railroad.

Spreading Rails Caused Wreck

Lakota, N. D., Nov. 23.—By the spreading of the rails a trans-continental passenger train was wrecked at Doyon. Engineer Comfort and Fireman Morrissey were killed. Seventeen persons were injured, none fatally. When the rails spread every car left the track. Engineer Comfort was sitting in his cab when found. The running board of the engine had severed his body. He was gazing straight ahead and apparently had not moved.

Mine Bosses Perished

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 23.—After searching parties had scoured the workings of the Central mine for 36 hours to locate Mine Foreman Evans and Fire Boss Williams, who were lost, they last night came across the body of Williams, burned to a crisp. He was caught in an explosion of gas. Evans and Williams went into the mine to locate a fall. The search is still being continued for Evans.

Steerage Passengers in Conflict

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—While the steamship Haverford was fog-bound on Tuesday night a free-for-all fight broke out among the 900 steerage passengers. Stewards, who tried to quell the excitement, were roughly handled and a panic prevailed until six of the ringleaders were placed in irons. They were turned over to government authorities upon the Haverford's arrival here.

Disasters on Great Lakes

Buffalo, Nov. 23.—The gale of Wednesday night and Thursday on the Great Lakes caused the loss of 11 vessels and 23 lives were lost. The barge Resolute sank off Toronto and six men were drowned. The barge Athens is probably lost off Sandusky, O., with eight men. All hope for the Athens has not been abandoned, and tugs are scouring Lake Erie for her.

25,000 American Ships

Washington, Nov. 23.—The annual report of the commissioner of navigation states that on July 30 last the documented merchant vessels of the United States numbered 25,006, of 6,674,969 gross tons. The report urges the enactment of the merchant marine commission bill which has passed the senate, including the provision for American mail lines to South America.

MUSTERING OUT NEGROES

Troops Who "Shot Up" Town Will All Be Dismissed

Washington, Nov. 23.—A dispatch was received at the war department last evening from Major Penroe, commanding the Twenty-Fifth infantry at Fort Reno, saying that the order for the discharge of the negro troops under President Roosevelt's original order had been received and was being executed. He said the men were being mustered out at the rate of 25 a day and that the mustering out would be completed by Monday.

Secretary Taft says that he has not considered any action by congress in relation to the discharge of the negro troops who "shot up" Brownsville, Tex., and were dismissed from the service in consequence of their acts. "But there is one thing I have learned that congress can do," he said. "It can investigate. I know that from experience, for congress has investigated everything I have ever had anything to do with."

Planning Blow For Roosevelt

New York, Nov. 23.—Intended as a direct slap in the face aimed at President Roosevelt, a movement was perfected here for making a tour of the country with the three companies of the Twenty-Fifth regiment, now being dishonorably discharged at Fort Reno, Okla. The friends of the negroes, having failed in their efforts to save the men from dishonorable discharge, are now determined to appeal to the sentiment of the country. They claim the action of the president was unwarranted, and they believe the most effective protest will be to keep the men in their company formation and take them on a tour of the country.

Chicago Won't Have Negro Judge

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Ferdinand L. Barnett, a negro, who, according to the police returns, was elected judge of the new municipal court of Chicago on Nov. 6, has been counted out by the canvassing board. The police returns gave Barnett a plurality of 499, but the official count, which was completed yesterday, shows that Thomas B. Lautry, a Democrat, was elected by a plurality of 304. Barnett was the only Republican defeated for a city office at the election.

Stumped For Her Father

Minneapolis, Nov. 23.—Because she went on the stump in behalf of her trade-unionist father, William B. Wilson, who was a successful candidate for congress from a Pennsylvania district, Miss Agnes Wilson was called before the convention of the American Federation of Labor and rewarded for her "brave and courageous efforts" with a diamond-studded watch and a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Third Death From Auto Smashup

New York, Nov. 23.—Helen Lambert, the actress who was injured in the auto smashup in Central park in which Thomas Cooper, the bicyclist, lost his life, is dead. Cooper, with two other men and two women, was driving an automobile at a racing gait through the park late at night when his automobile ran into another machine. Cooper was instantly killed. Another of the men died the next day.

Fishermen Encounter Obstacles

St. Johns, Nov. 23.—Fisheries Inspector O'Reilley has arrived here from Bay of Islands for the purpose of conferring with the ministry regarding the course to be pursued in the matter of the herring fishery question. O'Reilley says the American fishermen are seriously hampered in getting herring, owing to the vigorous enforcement of the laws against them.

Forty-Two Lepers In One Town

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 23.—During yesterday's session of the national congress on leprosy Dr. Allende declared there were at present 60 cases of leprosy in the province of Cordoba, of which 42 are in the town of Cordoba. Dr. Somers spoke in support of the theory that leprosy is propagated by mosquitoes.

Bothered by Biliousness?

Many people are. It is a very common form of liver trouble. Properly speaking the liver is not an organ but a gland—the largest in the body and a very important one. Its office is to secrete the bile which is carried to it by the blood. When you are bilious your liver is not working right and the best thing you can do is to take because they act directly on the liver, relieve the congestion, regulate the flow of bile and carry off all the impurities.

Beecham's Pills

But the good effects of Beecham's Pills do not stop with the liver. The stomach, kidneys, bowels and blood are benefited at the same time. The skin freshens, the dark circles under the eyes disappear, the head clears and the general health is greatly improved.

Beecham's Pills are purely vegetable and a safe medicine for man, woman and child. Take them as directed whenever there is need to

PTOMAINE POISONING

Probable Cause of Death of Guest at a Jewish Wedding

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 23.—An autopsy performed on the body of Max Odens, who died as a result of food eaten at a Jewish wedding Tuesday night, revealed acute inflammation of the stomach and small intestines. The inflammation is of such a character that the doctors believe it could not have been caused by a metallic poison and was probably caused by ptomaine. An examination of the contents of the stomach will be made by the Emerson laboratory.

The theory that the poison was maliciously introduced into the food is practically upset by the discovery that it was ptomaine and not a metallic poison. The 60 other victims of the poisoning will recover. An important development in the case is the entrance of District Attorney Moxom into the arena.

Close Squeeze For Big Seamer

Boston, Nov. 23.—After being held in the harbor for four days at a demurage cost of $3000, steamer Induna, with a cargo of 6400 tons of sugar, was successfully worked through two drawbridges in Fort Point channel with a margin between her sides and the woodwork of the bridges of scarcely more than an inch. In order to get the big vessel through, the sheathing of both drawbridges had to be ripped off. The American Sugar Refinery company saved at least $6000 by having the steamer discharged at their wharf instead of lightering the cargo.

Work of the Civic League

Boston, Nov. 23.—The Massachusetts Civic League held its annual meeting in this city. Reports showed that the work planned for the public good had met with some degree of success during the year. The league has sought to restrain billboard advertising, suppress drunkenness, regulate newsboys and encourage the laying out of playgrounds and other town and village betterments. The league was active in support of the new law for medical inspection of the public schools and for the new juvenile court in Boston.

May Squeal on Smugglers

Providence, Nov. 23.—John C. Lehnemann, under indictment in the Chinese smuggling schooner Frolic case, is believed to be on the verge of squealing on the chief conspirators. Lehnemann is becoming restive in prison, where he is held in default of $2000 bail, and says: "I don't see why I should be deprived of my liberty. There is quite a bunch of men involved in this smuggling scheme, and not one has tried to bail me out. They'd better get busy, or everything will come out, and that mighty soon."

Minister's Daughter Elopes

Medford, Mass., Nov. 23.—Cupid's arrow, which almost a score of years ago brought Rev. W. W. Downs, then pastor of the Bowdoin Square Baptist church, Boston, into the limelight, when one of his parishioners sued for divorce and named him as the co-respondent, again makes him prominent, for yesterday his daughter, Edith, eloped to Providence and married Charles C. Robinson, a Medford man.

Trout For Maine Lakes

Bucksport, Me., Nov. 23.—Stocking almost all the principal fishing resorts with game fish, it is planned to maintain the angling prestige of the Maine lakes. On a recent two days' trip 24,600 trout fry were distributed by agents of the United States fish hatchery. The set was regarded as very successful, only 50 fish of the entire lot being lost. The government has six special fish cars in actual use.

Organized Labor a Trust

Boston, Nov. 23.—Organized labor was severely arraigned in a speech delivered by President Harvey of the Philadelphia museum before the members of the Commercial club in this city last night. During the course of his remarks Harvey said that organized labor was the most dangerous trust in the country and further declared it to be one of our greatest menaces.

Combine of Fish Dealers

Boston, Nov. 23.—Nearly a score of captains of Massachusetts fishing schooners, at a meeting on T wharf, expressed a willingness to sell their catch to the proposed fish dealers' combine, provided they received satisfactory treatment and average prices for their fish. The fishing schooner captains own, as a rule, a good share of the vessels which they command.

Offensive Pictures Confiscated

Providence, Nov. 23.—After a complaint made to the police board by a clergyman that a gross and scurrilous set of moving pictures were on exhibition at a local penny vaudeville place, the pictures were confiscated by the police. When the scalp throws off either dandruff or a gummy substance, it is an evidence of scalp disease, and no time should be lost in correcting it. You certainly would not hesitate to take treatment were you to look at this matter through a magnifying glass. When highly magnified it resembles a working mass of insects. These creatures absorb the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp causing the scalp to become dry and feverish, resulting in the loss of hair and finally baldness. Danderine works wonders in all such cases. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scalp bacteria and makes the hair grow unusually long, strong and beautiful. One 25 cent bottle is enough to show you that it will do all this and even more. NOW at all druggists, three sizes, 25c., 50c. & $1.00 per bottle.

DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

As a reliable family tonic, in all complaints of the stomach, liver or bowels, especially constipation, Dr. True's Elixir stands without an equal: it is a pure vegetable compound with a wonderfully successful record since 1851. Adults as well as children are troubled with worms. The symptoms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; foul tongue, offensive breath, hard and full belly, with occasional gripings and pains about the naval; eyes heavy and dull, itching of the nose, short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth, starting during sleep; slow fever, and often in children, convulsions and bed wetting.
A few doses of Dr. True's Elixir will expel the worms if there are any: if not it acts as a gentle laxative tonic, clearing the stomach and bowels of all waste matter, leaving these organs sweet and clean—it increases the appetite, causing pure life-giving blood to flow through the body, thus invigorating the whole system with rugged, robust health. If taken regularly it will prevent coughs, colds, fevers and worms.
Sold by druggists, 35c., 50c., $1.00. Write for booklet, "Children and Their Diseases."

It was voted that the hearty thanks of the Hospital Aid Association be extended to all who in any way contributed to this great success.

A nominating committee was appointed to prepare a list of officers for the coming year. The annual meeting will be December 27, the last Thursday, at three o'clock in the Quincy Women's clubhouse.

President Bowles Is Reelected

Francis P. Bowles, president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. of this city, was on Thursday reelected president of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at their annual meeting in New York.

In his annual report President Bowles expressed gratification in quoting the remarks of Secretary of State Root in his speech before the trans-Mississippi congress, in favor of the measure advocated by the merchant marine commission for development of foreign commerce under the American flag.

He predicted that "we in the United States shall not be much longer subject to the reproach that our tonnage in the foreign trade is less now than it was 100 years ago." He said that American shipbuilders had reason to be proud of the new naval vessels completed the past year.

Quincy Y. M. C. A. Was Victorious

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. defeated a team from the Boston Y. M. C. A. in the Suburban Social League, Thursday evening. The Quincy pool team was composed of Holton, Badger and Robert Mitchell. All the Quincy men won their games. The Boston bowling team failed to show up, and the match was forfeited to Quincy. All the pool contests were close and exciting and furnished good sport for an audience which filled all the available standing room. The next match is with South Boston at South Boston.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Fair a Success.

The Japanese Fair in Atlantic Music hall was as largely attended Thursday afternoon and evening as it was the preceding day and the tables were speedily cleared of the remaining salables which proved that those present came to buy as well as to admire the fair's artistic setting in color and atmosphere of the Orient.

The net proceeds have not been ascertained as yet but the results bid fair to go ahead of anything given by the Ladies' Benevolent society for many years past. Great credit is due the chairman of the general committee, Mrs. William Cummings for her efforts have been untiring to bring about the remarkable success that has been achieved in this work and her host of helpers found her an excellent director.

WHO WILL BE ENDORSED?

The Citizens Association Is Investigating All Candidates

The special committee of the Citizens' Association appointed to examine into the qualifications of the several candidates seeking election to Municipal offices met last evening.

The committee had an official list of all the candidates before them. It is quite well understood that they will endorse some candidates but who these will be is not made public at the present time.

A special meeting of the Association has been called for next Wednesday evening to hear the report of this committee, after which the report will be made public.

In view of the many rumors that are in circulation, it is probable that a subcommittee of the special committee will wait upon Mayor Thompson between now and next Wednesday evening to find out how he stands on certain matters. The only interest of the association is good government.

New London, 2.30.—Harvard has the ball on Yale's 130 yard line.

Prizes for Monuments.

Nothihg but Quincy granite will do for the Pilgrim monument at Provincetown, but we have not yet been informed whether it is specified in the five designs chosen for prizes.

The prizes are of $200 each. There were 115 designs submitted. It is not probable that any single design will be used in its entirety. The type that the committee has in mind is the Tower del Mangia in the public square, Sienna, Italy, the sides of which are perpendicular.

The monument is to be taller than that on Bunker Hill, built of Quincy granite, at least 250 feet. It will stand on a hill 90 feet high, and will be the first thing seen by approaching steamers. The government has contributed $80,000.

The monument will be of granite with concrete for the interior, which will contain an inclined walk to the top. It is hoped that the dedication may be on Aug. 1, 1907, the anniversary of the Pilgrams' departure from Deft Haven.

Peary Closes Gap of Hundred Miles In Previous Surveys

PRAISES THE ROOSEVELT

Says No Other Ship Could Have Stood Battle With Ice--Congratulations Pouring In Upon the Intrepid Arctic Explorer

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 24.—Commander Robert E. Peary of the Arctic steamer Roosevelt and party, who arrived here yesterday, will leave today by rail for New York. They may stop for a day or two en route at Portland, Me. The Roosevelt will undergo temporary repairs here, a new crew will be signed and the steamer will sail next Tuesday for New York.

There was a gap of 100 miles in the survey of Greenland by the English expedition on one hand and that of the Sverdrup discoveries on the other. Peary has closed this up. Probably the only section of unknown coast remaining on the Arctic is the northeast coast of Greenland, embracing 150 miles.

Commander Peary is enthusiastic about the performance of the steamer Roosevelt. Asked if the very advanced point to which he had been able to place the Roosevelt in winter quarters was due to careful and increased knowledge of the movements of the ice, he said it was due to the Roosevelt herself. He did not believe there was ever another ship afloat which could have stood the battle with ice the Roosevelt successfully fought. The boilers were the one defective feature of the ship. More than half the power of the ship was represented by water tube boilers and these gave out shortly after the Roosevelt left Sydney in 1905.

Commander Peary said he ought to get back to New York before discussing the prospects of a new expedition. Commander Peary has received a large number of congratulatory messages, nearly every prominent scientific society in the world being represented, and he requests the press to circulate the following general acknowledgment:

"Commander Peary desires to make preliminary acknowledgment and express his deep appreciation of the numerous letters and telegrams of congratulation which have been sent him. As rapidly as possible he will make direct and individual acknowledgment."

The Roosevelt occupied anchorage opposite the yacht club's pier, usually reserved for vessels of war. The squadron flag and the Canadian ensign were hoisted as a further mark of honor. The Stars and Stripes on the United States consulate were raised when the Roosevelt came into port. Among the early callers upon Peary at the Sydney hotel was American Consul West.

A slight difficulty arose in connection with the navigation of the Roosevelt to New York by her present master, Captain Bartlett. He does not hold an American master's certificate, which is required in order to take a vessel of American register to an American port. An exception is allowed when it is difficult to get a captain with an American certificate and American consuls are given authority in their discretion to issue the necessary authority in such cases. Consul West has decided to exercise this discretion in the present instance.

Walter Clarke, a fireman, who was in charge of one of the supporting parties bringing up supplies to fortify Peary's dash for the pole, had an experience which almost cost him his life.

Clarke is small and slender, and working in the firehold, was not looked upon as a likely man to captain a party of Eskimos. Clarke volunteered to lead a supporting party.

He is a native of Fall River, Mass., and a machinist by trade. He had three Eskimos and 20 dogs, and took third place on the line of communications.

In the great storm Clarke and his party were driven over 100 miles to the east toward the north coast of Greenland with only a watch compass to guide them, all trail marks having been wiped out.

The three Eskimos declared Cape Columbia, the objective point, was in the opposite direction to which it really was. Clarke tried to persuade them they were wrong, but without avail.

They were three against one, and he had to follow their lead, going east. Provisions ran out, and they ate 13 of the 20 dogs. They were saved by Commander Peary accidentally crossing their trail.

Navy Department Congratulations

Washington, Nov. 24.—Acting Secretary Newberry of the navy department received the following dispatch from Commander Peary, dated Sydney, N. S., Nov. 23:

"Respectfully beg to report my arrival with the Roosevelt at 6 this morning. The expedition of the Peary Arctic club, which I have the honor to command, has penetrated polar basin beyond 87 degrees north, eliminating probability of existence of any land between north shores bordering that basin through 10 degrees of longitude between parallels of 81 and 83, and secured interesting series of soundings."

Mr. Newberry sent this dispatch of congratulation in reply:

"Navy department congratulates you on your splendid effort and success, and on the safe return of your expedition."

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

No matter how low a man may fall, if the rebound is toward God the man is blessed.—Rev. B. F. Riley, Baptist, Houston, Tex.

Home Discipline.

The discipline of the home has enabled many a man to stand firm where without it he would have fallen.—Rev. C. A. Langston, Unitarian, Atlanta.

A Helpful Church.

The only hope for the city is a church that has not only ministers and stewards and class leaders, guilds and hospitals, but also members who realize that Christianity is a life rather than a creed, a spirit rather than a form.—Rev. C. F. Goodell, Methodist, New York.

Patience.

Patience is the calm endurance of those changes and sufferings that may come to us. Sailors say it is but lying to and riding out the gale. Paul says our God is a God of patience. His great patience is shown in the patience and perfection of creation, awaiting and abiding its proper time and order.—Rev. C. O. Jones, Episcopalian, Atlanta, Ga.

Effect of Corruption.

A country like ours, whose institutions rest so entirely upon moral principles, must realize that its safety depends upon the moral conscience of its people. Commercial bribery passes into political corruption and goes in a straight line from business transactions to the head of our system of government.—Rev. Minot Simons, Unitarian, Cleveland, O.

Human Brotherhood.

No man can flourish long and be at peace who disregards the principle of the brotherhood of man. And the higher the civilization the greater the demand for the consideration of the rights of others. The famous declaration that "all men are created free and equal" is founded upon the divine idea of man's relation to his fellow man. Rev. E. K. Bell, Lutheran, Baltimore.

A Christian Ideal.

The fullest life is the disciplined and temperate life. Without godliness, abstinence and high thinking the pleasures of sense are gross and brutal, and they perish in the using. Thus it may be that living for God means vastly more than to die for him. A martyr may be less noble than a servant. Not death, but life, is the Christian ideal.—Rev. J. B. Marlott, Methodist, Tacoma, Wash.

Stern Masters.

Adversity, poverty, obscurity, are stern masters, but they write their lessons deep, and what their scholars learn they never forget. They are the teachers of industry, frugality, integrity, ambition and ruggedness, and without these virtues no man can be great. The pocketbook is not the size of a man, nor does what he gets out of college depend on the amount he spends or the luxuriance of his surroundings.—Rev. Dr. N. McGee Waters, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Golden Reign of Brotherhood.

Religion presents a wholly new ideal of life. The natural heart finds pleasure but in material things, and in its grasping ardor to possess these the finer sensibilities are throttled; hence the dishonest practices in business we see condoned by men of repute. But when one attains to a nobler ideal and finds happiness in right and in making others happy then ensues the golden reign of brotherhood.—Rev. Junius B. Remensnyder, Lutheran, New York.

Heaven's Sweetest Music.

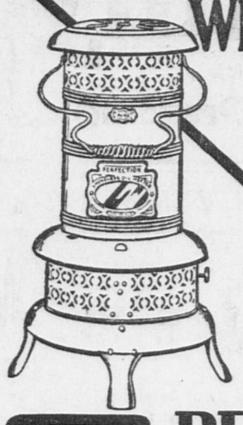

The brightest crowns in heaven were won on earth's field of bitter battle; its fairest faces were washed into beauty with the salt spray of the tempest; its purplest robes are dyed sackcloth, and the heartstrings which down here were stretched nigh to the breaking make heaven's sweetest music. I reckon that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.—Rev. Dr. William L. Watkinson, Wesleyan, Llandudno, Wales.

Value of Attending Church.

To neglect the sanctuary is to stand in the way of the conversions of sinners, of the edification of believers and of the promotion of God's glory. Let me urge you to resist that tendency which we see in many places—namely, to minimize attendance upon the sanctuary. I am anxious that you get the largest possible help out of the sanctuary. If we neglect the sanctuary we leave ourselves so much the weaker for the daily conflict to which God calls us.—Rev. A. B. Nicholls, Presbyterian, Pittsburg.

Every Man's Man.

One of the great characteristics of Christ's life is that he is every man's man. When we think of him and his life we cannot think of him as a man of any particular race. Since his life ended in Jerusalem he has appealed to men of every nation. His life is admired by all, and there is something about him that appeals to the peculiar traits of every race. He did not belong to any particular social sphere. His ancestors were of all positions of life. In himself he had the best characteristics of both sexes and therefore is admired by both men and women. He did not belong to any particular school of thought. When you read Plato you know you are reading of ancient culture of the ancients; when you read Emerson you know he is of a modern school, but when you read of what Christ said you cannot class him with any. He belongs to all ages. His intellect spans the centuries. The temptations which he met are the same that every man and woman meets today. Therefore Jesus is every man's man and is able to cover every man with his cloak of righteousness.—Rev. Dr. G. A. Johnston, Presbyterian, Cambridge, England.

How the Mikado Gives Thanks

By K. T. TAKAHASHI.

AT 4 o'clock in the dusk of early morning of Oct. 17 in the imperial shrine begin to flicker candlelights, pure and fresh, just snatched from a concussion of flint and iron. This is the place where presently the emperor, holding the sacred scepter of justice over 40,000,000 souls, the mikado of great Nippon, comes to officiate in person at the time honored ceremony of the Japanese thanksgiving.

You are accustomed to associate gorgeousness with all that is oriental, and I am afraid you will hardly believe that in the farthest east a pure simplicity is the emblem of sanctity. Indeed, in this sanctum sanctorum of Japan there is nothing to excite your earthly notion of magnificence. It is only a rectangular room of no extraordinary size under a thatched roof of rice straws, situated off the innermost wing of the imperial palace. After passing through halls and corridors, where the picturesque arts of Japan greet you everywhere, the contrast is strange, as you enter this little shrine, with plain wooden floor and walls and ceilings, shorn of any ornaments.

But stay awhile. There come in the assistant officers of ceremony, in short gowns and broad trousers, both of white, and wearing square pieces of stainless fabric over their noses and mouth that the human breath may not defile the articles of sacrifice. They go about transferring their candlelights to lamps of old, old fashion, which you often see in pictures of ancient Greece, with a few lines of their wicks swimming in a small, plain earthen basin of seed oil, resting on top of an unstained wooden stick perhaps three feet high, which in turn is fitted erect on a more substantial stand. As these become lighted one after another at equal distances along both sides of the room you follow up the narrow strip of reed mattings which cover the center of the bare floor. Toward the rear end there rise one behind and higher than the other some four or five altars of narrow, plain wooden tables. And yonder, high up on the top of the last of these steps, behind some fresh cut branches of evergreens—what, can these be reflecting lights? Ah, it is the traditional mirror!

"Lo," said the Goddess of Sun to her regal representative to the nether world as he was taking leave of the celestial court, "I give thee this mirror, this precious stone and this sword that ye may look up in the evening and morning into this mirror, even as unto me, and see that there is no blemish in the discharge of thy grave duty, and this jewel that," etc. And the divine ancestor of our revered emperor descended to the island of Japan. So says the tradition.

You can well imagine what a hallowing association arises within him as a Japanese stands reverently looking up into a disk of mirror shining forth through green foliages of sakaki, which is the symbol of sanctity. Once, therefore, you enter into the spirit of the place you will feel its very simplicity and plainness become pregnant with air of strange sweetness. Of elaborate candle frames of gold and silver there are none, nor the heavy smokes of incense. But the soft fragrance as it waves out uncertainly from pillars and posts and floorings of unstained cedar, smoothed and polished under skillful slide of joiner's plane until they shine out of their own beauty, more beautiful than hard coats of paints and varnish—how agreeable! And as you watch those ancient lamps burn in serene steadiness you imagine you are standing in the hovering presence of unseen gods.

But here comes the master officer, with strange hat and in strange costume. He proceeds to the altar in measured steps, and there follow after him a train of underofficers holding up to the eye's level wooden trays of strange make, each heavy with a pile of first gatherings of the season. In this tray there is a heap of first grains of rice from the imperial field, where the emperor himself sowed the seed in early summer, and in that pair of earthen bottles the sweet liquor of sake, the first brewed of the harvest of Ise. Tray after tray the master officer receives the first productions of land and water, the feathered traveler of air and finned visitors of sea, and in hushed silence he places them on different steps in due order. The offerings are now on the altar. The officers take their seats in single rows on both sides of the center mattings. Hark the rustling sound! There comes the emperor. Attired in his ancient costume of state, the majestic form advances slowly to the altar. Ho; he stops! Hush; he takes a parchment roll! "Ware Kashi-Komi Kashi-Komi Maosaku"—in dread adoration. Oh, fathers in heaven, we come to pray. As an awful stillness falls around, the clear, vibrant voice goes on extolling the virtues and greatness of heaven and heaven made ancestors, and flows on thanking for the unerring return of the joyful season of harvest and plenty, and rises higher, invoking their undiminished aid and protection that the imperial house may reign over the loyal people and rejoice with them in the goodness of divine power into eternity. The end is reached, and with an impressive clap of hand, twice repeated, he seals the prayer, and the imperial figure moves out in the same august stateliness.

The sun is up, and as its first rays strike the royal chrysanthemums, embroidered in gold, against the purple ground flapping over the imperial gateway the whole of Japan awakes in joy.—Montreal Star.

THE FAMILY LOVE FEAST.

It Resulted In Strained Relations and Hysterical Sobs.

"Now," said dear old Grandpa Smithkins, "we are a family that sort uv keeps in touch with our relations, and yit we never seem to really git together. Here we are all alone in this great big homestead. What do you say, mother, to us having a big sociable family reunion and love feast Thanksgiving dinner? We'll invite all our relations, old and young. What do you say to that?"

Grandma Smithkins' cheerful face fairly beamed. "It will be the very thing!" she said enthusiastically.

So the big table was set with forty covers. All the male and female Smithkinses, cousins, uncles, aunts and nephews, sent fraternal acceptances of the invitation, and for a week Grandpa and Grandma Smithkins kept their servants working overtime.

Thanksgiving came, and so did the relatives—just in time for dinner. Grandma and Grandpa Smithkins hugged and kissed everybody, and dinner was announced.

Uncle George was placed next to Cousin Charley, who had borrowed $50 of his uncle and had never returned it.

Aunt Emma was placed next to Cousin Fanny. The latter had married into a family Aunt Emma considered beneath her.

Brother-in-law Hardupp Smithkins sat beside Uncle Gottmoney Smithkins, who had foreclosed a mortgage on Hardupp.

Aunt Caroline and Aunt Jane were close together. They always quarreled on woman's rights.

Uncle Abner and Uncle John were respectively tariff revisionist and "stand patter."

Cousin Mary and Cousin Matilda were placed side by side. They had had a property division quarrel ten years before that still existed in a lawsuit.

Uncle Mumford and Nephew Henry were table neighbors. Uncle Mumford had allowed Nephew Henry's note to go to protest.

Even the American boys who regarded face washing as a task rather than a pleasure were sandwiched between Aunt Stuckupp Smithkins' eight Fauntleroy dressed sons.

Finally Uncle Bill, whom everybody thought was in jail and who had not been invited, came in intoxicated and made a few remarks apropos of those present and their failings and in about five minutes—

* * * * * * *

"Well," said dear old Grandpa Smithkins as he viewed the wrecked dining room, "talk about strained relations! Uncle Gottmoney's collar bone is broken and"— But the hysterical sobbing of Grandma Smithkins as she gazed on the havoc wrought broke off his train of unpleasant thought.—New York Journal.

SIXTY DAY THANKSGIVING.

Spectacular Fetes of the Wine Dressers of Vevay.

"Our Thanksgiving day?" said the Frenchman. "We don't call any of our fetes by that name, but we might as well. The finest 'Thanksgiving day' celebration I ever saw took place at Vevay in 1889. It was organized by wine dressers, and the magnificent pageant lasted sixty days. The idea of the fete was to reproduce all the familiar objects and phases of local life and work.

"The festival was opened by a great chorus singing the national hymn. The abbot delivered an impressive speech. Ballets were danced in the great market square—a ballet of the reapers, a ballet of the grape pickers, a ballet of the Fauns and Bacchantes, a ballet of the spring and a dance of Ceres and Pallas. Floats, exquisitely decorated, represented the dairy industry, the miller's work, the grape picking and wine making, spring and autumn. Music, color and grace marked this glorification of agriculture, labor and patriotism. It all meant the same thing as your Thanksgiving day."—New York Times.

Johnny's Afterthought.

There's one thing I'm more thankful for since Thanksgiving is past—
And I expect they's other boys that's jest as glad as me—
And that is, though I "gobbled" lots and got "stuffed" full and fast,
'Bout like a turkey, no one cooked or carved or et me. See?

AFFECTS 100,000

General Increase In Wages In New England Cotton Mills

STARTS AT FALL RIVER

Voluntary Action by Borden Is Followed by Manufacturers In Several States--Great Strike Is Thus Averted

Boston, Nov. 24.—According to advices received from cotton mill centres in southern New England, the advance of 10 percent in wages granted yesterday by the Fall River manufacturers to their 30,000 employes will affect nearly 100,000 operatives in southeastern Massachusetts, Rhode Island, eastern Connecticut and in several towns in other sections. It is not expected, however, that the raise will amount to 10 percent except in Fall River and several print cloth mill towns.

The New Bedford cotton manufacturers have under consideration a demand for an increase of 10 percent, but as the reductions in that city were not as great as those in Fall River two or three years ago, it is thought that an offer of a 5 percent advance, to go into effect Dec. 10, will be made. The New Bedford cloth mills employ about 13,000 hands and the yarn mills 4000. The New England Cotton Yarn company, which employs 2500 operatives in New Bedford, is not a member of the Cotton Manufacturers' association.

The leading manufacturers of Rhode Island, who have offices in Providence, say that they will meet whatever advance is given by the New Bedford millowners, their principal competitors. An advance in Rhode Island will affect 20,000 hands and, in addition, will benefit 15,000 operatives in eastern Connecticut mills controlled by Providence mill officers, and about 5000 persons in Massachusetts factories owned in this state.

The Fall River advance will be given by half a dozen print cloth mills which are located in this state and New Hampshire, and it is considered probable that several mills in this state not controlled by New Bedford or Rhode Island interests will adopt the New Bedford rate of increase.

While Boston mill officers, which direct the affairs of cotton mills in northern New England and in Palmer, Ware, Chicopee and Holyoke, are much interested in the situation in southeastern New England, no action looking to a change in the wage schedule has been considered here. It is impossible to tell at this time whether an advance will be ordered in the mills controlled from this city or in the mills of Berkshire county. The mills controlled by Boston and Berkshire county interests employ about 90,000 operatives.

M. C. D. Borden, an independent cotton manufacturer of Fall River, employing 5000 operatives, took the lead yesterday morning by announcing that the scale of wages in his mills would be restored to the standard paid by him prior to the big strike of 1903. No demand had been made upon the proprietor of the Fall River Iron Works mills, his action being voluntary.

At the time that Borden made his announcement the executive committee of the Manufacturers' association was in session, giving serious consideration to the ultimatum thrown down by the mill operatives. These workers not only declined the proffered 5 percent increase in wages offered by the manufacturers earlier in the week, but they voted to go out on strike if the millowners persisted in their refusal to grant the 10 percent demanded.

The strike vote caused a deep impression throughout the city, among merchants as well as among millowners, and prompt steps were taken to head off a repetition of the prolonged suffering from cold and hunger which characterized the strike of 1904. Mayor Coughlin set about to bring the millowners and Textile Council into conference. Before such a meeting was arranged, however, 70 manufacturers, representing 92 mills, called a meeting of their executive committees for the purpose of dealing with the situation.

It was while this committee was in session that Borden announced the increase in wages in the Fall River Iron Works mills, and shortly afterwards the committee announced that they would meet their employes' demands and increase their wages 10 percent, the increase to go into effect next Monday.

Federation Settles Brewery Row

Minneapolis, Nov. 24.—The American Federation of Labor settled the old fight as to jurisdiction between the brewery workers, engineers, firemen and teamsters by allowing each organization to establish itself under a separate charter. The brewers contended that all men engaged directly or indirectly about breweries should belong to the brewery workers. The other three organizations claimed jurisdiction over the members of the trades now affiliated with the brewers.

Did Not Criticise Negro Troops

Washington, Nov. 24.—The war department has received a letter from Colonel Pitcher, Twenty-seventh infantry, at Camp Columbia, Cuba, denying that he criticised negro troops transferred to Fort Sheridan, Ills. An article recently was published in which Pitcher was made to criticise the troops and by direction of the president he was asked for an immediate explanation of the alleged quotation.

DEAD GIRL'S HAIR

Introduced as Evidence In the Murder Trial of Gillette

Herkimer, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The rowboat in which Chester Gillette and Grace Brown ventured forth upon the waters of Big Moose lake last July, the girl never to return alive, was the most important and interesting witness introduced against Gillette yesterday at his trial here on the charge of murder. Clinging to the cleats in the bottom of the boat at the stern, and twining about the braces which hold the rear seat in place, were a score of strands of long, dark hair.

Robert Morrison, who found the boat floating bottom side up on the lake, testified that he had removed enough hair from the cleats and braces to make a lock the size of a lead pencil. This hair was also introduced in evidence.

Then immediately followed a dramatic sequel. The prosecutor called to the stand Frances Brown, a sister of the dead girl. She had brought with her a lock of hair cut from the dead girl's head after the body was brought home. It was identified, placed in evidence as an official exhibit and attached to a piece of paper side by side with the hair taken from the bottom of the boat. Then the paper was passed to the jurymen to make their own comparisons.

The defense fought the introduction of the two samples of hair and protested with vigor against the jurors comparing the locks. Judge Devendorf overruled all the objections of the defense, but granted the demands that exceptions be noted upon the record.

Gillette an Adopted Son

Chicago, Nov. 24.—The Gillette family, of which Chester Gillette is said to be an adopted member, resided at Zion City for two years. The father was active in the affairs of the church.

A Fairbanks Demonstration

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 24.—At the state fair grounds, at the conclusion of an address by Vice President Fairbanks to 5000 persons assembled in observance of Educational day, President Brown of the Fair association said: "I know I express the sentiments of every person present when I pray for God's richest blessings upon our worthy vice president, and may we yet see him President of the United States. I propose three cheers for this sentiment." The great audience rose and gave cheer after cheer of approval. The demonstration was entirely unexpected by Fairbanks, who was evidently deeply affected.

Was About to Wed Sister

Lander, Wyo., Nov. 24.—Richard Watson, a miner, discovered a few hours before his marriage to her that the young woman who has been known by the name of Anna Mills was his own sister. Miss Watson was kidnapped from the home of her parents near Toronto when she was 4 years old, and deserted 10 years ago in Butte, Mont. From there she came to Wyoming, where she and Watson met a few months ago.

Crapsey Conferring With Friends

New York, Nov. 24.—Edward M. Shepard, counsel for Rev. Dr. Crapsey, said concerning the report that Crapsey had decided to withdraw from the Protestant Episcopal church: "Dr. Crapsey is in New York to consult with friends of his with whom he had advised from the beginning of the prosecution against him. His decision as to his future course will not be made public until these conferences are concluded."

Investigating Steamship Disaster

Cherbourg, Nov. 24.—The preliminary investigation made into the cause of the collision off this port between the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the steamer Orinoco, in which 13 were killed and 15 injured, seems to establish the fact that the former vessel should have heeded the Orinoco's signal that she was going to starboard of the German ship.

Good Trade In Holiday Goods

New York, Nov. 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that weather conditions have retarded trade in seasonable staple lines of merchandise, but holiday goods have begun to move unusually early and in a volume that promises satisfactory results.

Mrs. Stetson's Revolt

By JOHN BARTON OXFORD.

[Copyright, 1905, by John Barton Oxford.]

It was commonly said in Centervale that old John Stetson held the strings of his own purse and "kep' a pretty tight holt on 'em too." This kernel of truth from the chaff of the town gossip Mrs. Stetson was turning over in her mind as she darned socks under the yellow light of an ancient kerosene lamp one evening early in Thanksgiving week. On the other side of the table her lord and master, old Jim—he of the closely held purse strings—perused the pages of the Weekly Mirror through two pairs of spectacles.

Stetson was a middle aged man of medium height, inclined to portliness of figure and baldness of the head. His face was clean shaven save for the stubble of iron gray beard on the chin, and this rather emphasized the hard, straight lines about his mouth which gave his face that expression locally characterized as "sot."

Mrs. Stetson was little, gray haired and bent of figure. Her hands were knotted by an unfortunate combination of housework and rheumatism. Her voice was at once appealing and apologetic. The neighbors said thirty years with old Jim had "crushed her sperrit."

"TURKEY? I GUESS CHICKENS 'LL DO WELL ENOUGH."

She glanced covertly across the table many times and furtively cleared her throat before she found sufficient courage to address her liege.

"Father," she began at length, a trifle more apologetical than usual, "so long's Marthy's goin' to bring her husband home here for Thanksgivin', don't you think we'd better have a turkey?"

Her husband turned to her. The two pairs of spectacles gave his face an expression of ridiculous ferocity.

"Turkey?" he inquired explosively. "I guess chickens 'll do well enough."

"Last year when we was up to Marthy's place we had turkey," Mrs. Stetson pursued. "Seems to me we ought to do as much for them."

"I calc'late a pair of them chickens will be full as good," said Stetson.

"They're nice chickens, I know," said Mrs. Stetson. "Them Plymouth Rocks is as plump as can be. But it seems though turkey fitted Thanksgivin' better, specially when you're goin' to have company. Why couldn't you kill one of them two turkeys I hatched out under the old black hen last spring and like to run my legs off bringin' up? They're likely lookin' fowl, and one would be plenty big enough for us."

"I sold 'em this mornin'," said Stetson.

"Sold em!" she gasped.

"Yes. Tom Babb wanted a pair of turkeys to raffle off up to his store the night before Thanksgivin', so I let him have 'em."

Mrs. Stetson straightened herself in her chair. She felt the "stiffening" go out of her knees, but her eyes flashed. Under the gross injustice of this thing her "crushed sperrit" had revolted.

"Them turkeys was mine," she said in a voice whose tone was new to him.

"I s'pose you paid for all the corn and grain they et," he sneered.

"They was mine," she reiterated, and there was neither appeal nor apology in her words.

"I guess it's pretty well settled who they belonged to," he said grimly.

She rose from her chair and stood before him. She trembled violently, but her eyes never faltered as they looked into his.

"Jim Stetson," she said chokingly, "I'm goin' to have Thanksgivin' as I want it. I'm goin' to have a turkey—if I have to steal it."

To his amazement she swept from the room before he could reply and banged the door after her.

* * * * * * *

In the big bare room back of Tom Babb's store the Thanksgiving raffle was in full swing. The room was hazy with rank tobacco smoke, and the pungent smell of recently consumed spirits pervaded the place. The sporting element of Centervale, with much laughter and many broad jokes, shook the dice on an old counter from a dilapidated dice box. In one corner the two turkeys were hung conspicuously for critical inspection.

At 9 o'clock the door leading from the front store opened. The crowd as one man craned heads to greet the newcomer, but instead of boisterous gibes they stared in amazement and suddenly fell silent, for into the room, thin, frail, but determined, strode Mrs. Stetson.

"I want to raffle," she said simply. "How much does it cost?"

"Twenty cents for three throws," said Babb.

Mrs. Stetson passed over the change.

Much might be written of her experience in that dingy room—of how she threw to the limit of her cash capital (60 cents); of how one of the Dayton boys showed her how to count the dice and as he bent above them slyly turned them over to count higher. But that has all passed into the official (unwritten) history of the town. Suffice it to say that at 9:30 Mrs. Stetson strode homeward with a plump turkey under her arm and the odor of vile tobacco about her clothes.

Her husband sat by the kitchen table as she entered. She threw her bundle on the floor beside him.

"I got my turkey," she said in challenge.

"Eh! Where'd you git it?" he said, stupefied.

"At the raffle," she said defiantly.

She was prepared for a storm of his wrath. She knew in that event just what she would say. To her surprise he calmly undid the bundle and critically inspected the bird.

"Good looking critter," he said. "You done fust rate."

She felt the hot tears in her eyes. Her throat seemed parched and choking. She sank into a chair.

"I never done fust rate, neither," she said brokenly. "It was all tobacco smoke, and they'd been drinkin', but you drove me to it."

He smiled grimly. The hard lines about his mouth softened. He came over to her chair and gently placed a hand on her shoulder. Her sobs were unrestrained.

"Sho!" he said uneasily. "Don't take on so, mother. I promise you you won't never have to raffle for another turkey—never."

HOW CHINA CELEBRATES.

Thanksgiving Day In the Celestial Kingdom.

In China at the beginning of winter a thanksgiving festival is held at which the deities are especially thanked for the preservation of life and health during the preceding twelve months. Offerings are presented on the family altar, and the ceremony is brought to a close by a grand dinner at which all members of the family can partake. The feasting and rejoicings are kept up for some days and extend to the last night of the year. On that evening it is a common practice in some parts of the country for boys to cry aloud in the street, "Maisou"—"I sell my folly"—in order that they may be wiser the next year.

Every year on the fifteenth day of the first moon the emperor of China goes in great state to a certain field, accompanied by the chief officers of his household, and prostrates himself, touching the ground nine times with his head in honor of the god Tien, and pronounces a prayer invoking the blessing of the Great Being. Then as high priest of the empire he sacrifices a bullock to heaven as the fountain of all good. While the victim is being offered, a plow drawn by a pair of highly ornamented oxen is brought to the emperor, who throws aside his imperial robe, lays hold of the plow handles and opens several furrows. The principal mandarins follow his example, and the festival, which is really a species of thanks in advance for good harvests, ends with a distribution of clothes and money to the poor.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

First Proclaimed by Washington at Request of Congress.

The first national Thanksgiving was proclaimed by George Washington on the 3d day of October, 1789, assigning Thursday, the 26th day of November, as the date, says a writer in the Saturday Evening Post. He did this by the request of a joint committee of both houses of congress "to recommend to the people of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness."

Washington bore out admirably the pious tone of its sentiments. In his first sentence he said, "It is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits and humbly to implore his protection and favor." In his second proclamation for the next Thanksgiving, which occurred on the 19th of February, 1795, he used this phrase: "Sincere and hearty thanks to the Great Ruler of nations for the manifold and signal mercies which distinguish our lot."

The Thankful Mouse.

[A fable.]

It was a hungry pussy cat,
Upon Thanksgiving morn,
As she watched a thankful little mouse
That ate an ear of corn.

"If I eat that thankful little mouse,
How thankful he should be
When he has made a meal himself
To make a meal for me!

"Then with his thanks for having fed
And his thanks for feeding me—
With all his thankfulness inside—
How thankful I shall be!"

Thus "mewsed" the hungry pussy cat
Upon Thanksgiving day,
But the litle mouse had overheard
And declined (with thanks) to stay.

Drift of Opinion.

☞The Boston Herald is busily conducting a canvass in the interest of biennial elections for state officers, and on the face of its returns there seems to be a large preponderance of sentiment in favor of such a change, but we observe that the mass of the people have not been heard from, and they are determining factor in making a change. We feel entirely sure that the voters as a whole are in favor of keeping the reins in their own hands awhile longer. The fact that there are but few states that now retain annual elections is a matter of very little importance to the people of Massachusetts, who are in the habit of thinking for themselves and determining for themselves questions of public moment.—Waltham Free Press.

Men's Day

Next Sunday at the Universalist church will be observed as men's day. The pastor extends a special invitation to the men of Quincy whether affiliated with any church or not to be present. The women are not excluded and it is hoped a large number will attend, but the sermon will be a frank talk to men about the posibilities of church work and the means by which such work can be carried forward successfully. Dr. Perkins will have many new, perhaps startling ideas to present which he hopes will arouse interest in many who are now indifferent to the church.

Harvest Festival.

First church Sunday school will observe its annual Thanksgiving service on Sunday in the chapel at 11.50 A. M. An interesting program has been arranged under the direction of Supt. C. H. Johnson. Special music, selections by the children and a Thanksgiving story by the popular reader, Mrs. Isabella Davis. Chapel will be decorated with fruits and vegetables. All are cordially invited, especially children.

The impression has gone about that the James F. Edwards, who is running on nomination papers for Councilman-at-large, is the wellknown lawyer of Quincy. On the contrary, however, the Mr. Edwards who is seeking election is a West Quincy barber.

HIGH SCHOOL

Should Be Ready In Part for Occupancy in A Few Days

Considerable progress is being made on the additions and alterations to the High school building, and there seems to be no good reason why fifteen of the rooms in the old part of the building cannot be ready for use in a few days.

The interior finish of these rooms is practically completed and the blackboards are in place. The flooring in some of them is already completed and the doors hung.

All that remains, therefore, to make them ready for occupancy is to oil the finish and put in the furniture.

The stairway in the old part, however, is not ready, as the railings are not in. Some of the corner posts have been set, however.

In the new part work seems to be progressing. The section of the roof on the east side that has been open to the weather, is nearly closed in, and should be tight tonight.

Nearly all of the rooms in the new part of the building have been plastered. The lathing in the assembly hall should be finished today, and Mr. Harkins the sub-contractor, says that all of the plastering will be completed next week, including a good part of the skim coating.

There was a large gang of men at work in the building yesterday, although it seems as if more men could be used to advantage.

The heating plant at the building has been in operation for sometime, so that the interior is dry and practically free from moisture.

The date for the completion of the entire building has not been set and Mr. Lord the contractor refuses to make any predictions.

Cochato Club, Braintree.

At the club social next Wednesday evening bridge will be played promptly at eight o'clock, late comers losing their score, so that dancing may commence promptly at ten o'clock.

At the last meeting of the executive committee three gentlemen were voted in as members, Mr. Louis E. Flye of Holbrook, Mr. G. E. E. Street and Mr. H. D. Higgins of Braintree.

Next Monday afternoon bridge will be enjoyed by the ladies of the club. This series is proving very popular.

In Defence of Building Ordinance

Editor Daily Ledger:

I have read with interest your opening criticism of the proposed building ordinance, and I wish to say that I stand for its defence in all the particulars which you have set forth as being undesirable.

That Quincy has been so long without a building law is in a great measure responsible for the niggardly, boxed-up, home-made appearance so impressive to strangers who have occasion to visit this city, and also responsible for the general query of through passengers both on the electric and steam cars, "Who built the shanties?"

You say that it is a severe stricture on real estate that no wooden building except a dwelling shall be bullt on our main streets: Of course we know that the initial cost of a brick building is more than of a wooden building, but this is more than compensated for in the items of repair; and in durability, and the difference of cost would deter no one from building who wanted to build a respectable looking building.

The one who was seeking to insult the public by a grab on some prominent main street location for a built-in-the-night-disease-breeding-business--establishment: which we have seen done many times, would have to acknowledge the rights of the permanent business man, who pays high rent for respectable quarters.

Unfortunately the merchants now have no protection against this class of men, but the city has arrived at a place in its era of progressiveness when it should say to its business tenants, we will protect you from fire and disaster by properly constructed buildings.

If you mention the Greenleaf block, the Durgin-Merrill block, Savings Bank building, Dr. Welch block, and others to show how few brick buildings have been built, and I would like to ask why these buildings were built of brick; did any of these owners particularly desire to spend more money than a wooden building would cost? or was it because they thought a more permanent structure the best adapted to the location because indirectly the most profitable.

I think the latter, and if such men have found these investments profitable, as you will agree with me they have, why not unite on a universal rule which will not restrict but add to the profit of real estate investments, the tax levy of the city, the safety and convenience of its citizens (storekeepers and customers alike) and the dignity, and healthfnlness of the coming Quincy.

Let the Mayor and Councilmen respectively approve and vote for the building ordinance, and one of the most important pieces of legislation of the year will reflect the wisdom and progressive ability of the administration of 1906. J. W. Pratt.

Scarcity of Cars For Granite

The Quincy granite industry should profit from the situation at Barre. A dispatch to the Transcript says: Over $1,000,000 worth of granite dressed and undressed, awaits shipment from the quarries at Barre, held up on account of scarcity of freight cars. Much of the granite is already overdue at its destination, and many contracts of quarrymen have been forfeited on account of delays.

Quarrymen of Barre have been instrumental in presenting a bill in the Legislature for the imposition of a penalty on railroads when cars are not furnished within three days after notice is given to the railroad, but no action has been taken as yet on the measure.

In an interview, a Central Vermont railroad official said today that this railroad is suffering from a scarcity of freight cars which is prevalent throughout the country.

Leon Forrest Foley.

When Mr. and Mrs. Leon F. Foley went to St. Johnsbury, Vermont, in September they were as happy as any young couple could be for Mr. Foley had received a professorship in the St. Johnsbury academy and they would have the pleasure of living in one of the prettiest and healthiest places in that state. Relatives who visited them there congratulated them upon the congenial people with whom they were making acquaintance, the attractiveness of St. Johnsbury and the bright future. But soon, too soon, a cloud gathered upon the horizon and developed fast. We quote from the St. Johnsbury Republican of Wednesday, Nov. 21:

"Leon F. Foley, teacher of science and mathematics at St. Johnsbury Academy, died Monday evening of pneumonia, at his home on Summer street. The illness was a short one, beginning November 11 with severe hemorrhages and finally developing into pneumonia.

Mr. Foley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foley of Brockton, Mass. and was 27 years of age. He was a graduate of Boston University in the class of '06 and came here last September to begin the work for which he had painstakingly fitted himself. He was an able instructor and in the few months here made a strong impress upon the school, endearing himself both to the faculty and student body. Mr. Foley was married three years ago to Miss Belyea of Braintree and much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing young widow.

The funeral will be held from the South Congregational church this afternoon at 1 o'clock, with Rev. S. G. Barnes, D. D., officiating. The academy students and faculty will attend in a body. Just preceding the service at the church, prayers will be said at the house. The remains will be taken to Brockton this afternoon for interment. Mrs. Foley will be accompanied by Mr. Foley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foley of Brockton, her sister, Miss Dora Belyea, and brother-in-law, Arthur Cass of Braintree, Mass., who were called here Sunday."

The body accompanied by relatives arrived in Boston Wednesday evening and was taken to Holbrook, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Foley, and Thursday afternoon services were held in the First Congregational church, Rev. John O. Paisley officiating. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Fannie Hatch Thayer, one of her numbers being "Abide With Me," which was a favorite hymn of the deceased. Mr. T. H. West of Brockton presi ed at the organ. Mrs. Foley will be remembered as Miss Arvilla Belyea daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Belyea of Mt. Vernon avenue, Braintree, and she has the symoathy of her relatives, classmates and friends in her bereavement.

Leon Forrest Foley was born Aug. 24, 1879, in Middleboro. The son of Walter C. and Susan J. Foley. The family moved to Brockton in 1881. Educated in the public schools of Brockton the deceased was graduated from the Brockton high school with bigh honors. By hard and faithful study he received a scholarship for the Boston university where he studied for nearly three years but owing to lack of means he gave up, for a time his college studies.

Mr. Foley was foremen of the finishing room of the Williams, Kneeland Co. factory. Leaving that position to take up the same work in the George G. Snow factory. For one year he was the foreman of the finishing of the McElwain factory at Bridgewater. While employed at the Williams, Kneeland Co. factory he was married to Miss Arvilla Belyea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Belyea of Braintree.

Working hard to save the money whereby he could again take up his studies and thereby attain the position in the professional life which so long had been his ideal he again entered Boston university to finish his four year course. Graduating in June of this year.

Not caring to lose any time, a characteristic of Mr. Foley very apparent to all who knew him, he returned to work.

In August a call came to him to take a position in the St. Johnsbury, academy which he accepted and was enrolled as a teacher up to the time of his death.

The foregoing is just a brief outline of his life. Words cannot do justice to the clean character and life of Mr. Foley. Thoughout his school life his motto, we believe had been, that all who came in contact with him should find a friend.

This surely was borne out for those who did come in contact with this noble character were benefited by having known him, from the man at the bench to the dean of the university from which he graduated. Some men have to live many years but the young man, boy we might say accomplished his God given work in just a little more than 27 years. Many are those who mourn today with the widow, many are the heartaches which go out to her in her sorrow.

A whole academy from the principal down the line of teachers to the last pupil in that school are mourning today the loss of this young man. When we consider that only a little over two months of teaching, reaching as it were, his highest ideal and then to be cut off, the loss seems greater.

Mr. Foley was Chancellor Commander of Norfolk lodge, K. of P. of Holbrook for one year. His loss to that lodge seems irrepairable. His friends are numbered in legions.

Wednesday morning a there was simple service of prayer at the late home of the deceased led by Mr. Barnes, pastor of the church where the deceased attended. The body was then conducted to the church where services were conducted by the principal of the academy. The body was escorted to the church by thirty young men, members of Mr. Foley's class.

After the services the body was taken to the station escorted by the entire student body led by the principal. The long tedious journey home started, not the home coming which had been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Foley, but sadder indeed, man proposes but God disposes, leaving St. Johnsbury at 2.15 Wednesday and arriving in Boston at 8.15. The party were met at the station in Boston by a delegation from Norfolk lodge, two brothers of the widow and a cousin of the deceased. The body was taken in charge of undertaker Fay.

The many floral designs at the funeral stood as silent yet impressive monuments to the esteem in which the deceased was held. The Knights of Pythias attended in a body.

We mourn and saddened are our hearts when we think of the life and possibilites which were sure to be his, but God's ways are not our ways, so we must be comforted by believing in Him for he has taught us to say "Not my will, but thine be done."

The following printed and framed motto was always conspicuous at Mr. Foley's home and he firmly believed in it:

> I shall pass through this world but once. Any good therefore that I can do or any kindness that I can show to any human being, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again.

One Man Who Rose Despite a Silver Spoon

A Railroad President Who Is Considerate and a Multimillionaire Who Is Courteous

Stuyvesant Fish, Former Head of the Illinois Central and Harriman's Opponent In a Railroad War, Is Big All Over, Level Headed and Democratic In His Tastes — Would Rather Hunt Ducks Than Attend a Social Function—Novel Entertainments Given by Mrs. Fish, Who Aspires to Be Society's Leader

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

IN the ousting of Stuyvesant Fish from the presidency of the Illinois Central railroad more issues appear to be involved than, in the language of Abraham Lincoln or somebody else, you can shake a stick at. The event is interesting both socially and sociologically.

If reports may be credited the ambition of Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish to become the "leader of society" was used by E. H. Harriman to encompass the defeat of Mr. Fish. This matter affects personally only the Four Hundred who constitute society with a big "S" as it consists in New York city and at Newport. But in the sociological trend of the incident are concerned life insurance, Standard Oil and other interests of importance to the general public. Thus the vote of the eight Illinois Central directors who removed Mr. Fish on the 7th of November affects practically as many persons, in some degree, as did the general elections throughout the country the preceding day.

Two Set Purposes Achieved.

By the removal of Mr. Fish from the railroad presidency, which he has held for nearly twenty years, Mr. Harriman achieves two set purposes. He extends his railroad holdings so that he is now master of 25,000 miles of railroad and $2,500,000,000 capital, and he punishes Stuyvesant Fish for that gentleman's admirable obstinacy in refusing, at Harriman's demand, to serve as a dummy in the attempted dummy investigation of the Mutual Life Insurance company from the inside. Harriman already was president of a dozen railroads and three or four steamship companies, with practically absolute power over many other companies, and it is held by astute Wall street men that the Standard Oil company is behind him in all his operations. Mr. Harahan, it is true, was chosen president of the Illinois Central, but the name sounds so much like Harriman that it fits in finely with the fact that Harriman and not Harahan is now running the Illinois Central.

MR. AND MRS. STUYVESANT FISH.

Stuyvesant Fish is now very "widely and favorably" known. He is an international character. The bold stand he took in favor of insurance policy holders as against the machinations of plunderers when he resigned from the Mutual Life and took up the fight for investigation from the outside made him of international size. There are so few other big fishes of this sort in the financial seas that it is quite worth while to tank Stuyvesant Fish in the public aquarium for a brief inspection.

The Fish family is a big family in America. It dates back to our foundation as a republic. Nicholas Fish was a corps commander in the Revolutionary war. Later he was the firm friend and executor of Alexander Hamilton, after whom he named his son. This Hamilton Fish was President Grant's secretary of war for eight years after serving as congressman, governor of New York and United States senator. His son Nicholas became a distinguished diplomat. His son Hamilton made a wide reputation as a politician and parliamentarian. One of the first American soldiers to fall in Cuba during the war of 1898 was Hamilton Fish 3d.

Big All Over.

Stuyvesant Fish is the youngest son of the great secretary of state. He has struck out in new waters. He appears never to have had any taste for politics, and there was no war during his fighting age, so he became a financier. Physically he is big enough to stand proxy for his whole historic family. He is six feet four inches long and would be that high were it not for a perceptible stoop, said to be due to the lifelong necessity of getting his ear down low enough to hear the talk of average sized men.

Mr. Fish is big all over. His face is large, his head is large, his frame is large, and his whole aspect and bearing give one the distinct impression of a thoroughly masculine type. He is not at all the sort of man one might naturally assume to be the husband of the woman who aspires to be the acknowledged and absolute queen of social swelldom in America. Yet that is Mrs. Fish's aspiration.

While Mr. Fish has been building up the Illinois Central railroad Mrs. Fish has been establishing herself as a social leader. By common consent Mrs. Astor, now seventy-six years old, is the present leader. In an interview at St. Louis three years ago, when Mrs. Astor was only seventy-three, Mrs. Fish was asked if she were a rival of Mrs. Astor. She replied:

"What? I a rival of Mrs. Astor? Why, she's eighty years old. She's more than that. She's eighty-four!"

Nevertheless Mrs. Fish for some years has held receptive shoulders for the mantle of the aged queen, and thereby hangs a part of the present tale. John Jacob Astor and Cornelius Vanderbilt are Illinois Central directors. Young Mrs. Astor and Mrs. Vanderbilt would like to lead the Four Hundred. Mrs. Fish has far outdistanced them in her strides toward the throne. Harriman needed votes to remove Fish. He became a diplomat. He is nothing of a society man himself, cannot even wear his clothes so that they look as if he ordered them to his measure, and doesn't care the snap of his finger for anything on earth except more power as a railroad man. Harriman, it is alleged, talked pleasantly to the ladies and induced them to get their husbands to vote against Fish in order to weaken the struggle of Mrs. Fish for the society leadership. All that sounds like the outline of a chapter on European court intrigue, but such is the story they are now telling in New York.

Gave a Duck Pond Dinner.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish truly is an interesting person. She is very unconventional despite her social aspirations. She set out from the start to be a reformer rather than a conformer. The first thing she did in society was to give a dinner with a pond in the center of a table whereon little live ducks floated. Ward McAllister, who invented the Four Hundred fiction, was then the official drum major of society. He was horrified by the duck pond dinner and read Mrs. Fish out of society. The lady had a spirit. She defied Ward McAllister and plunged right into the middle of society and became so popular as an entertainer that McAllister was compelled to put the Fishes on his famous list when he made it up. That was more than twenty years ago. As the Fish wealth increased the social advance of Mrs. Fish kept pace.

Mrs. Fish likes to do things differently. She required the swellest residence in New York, so she built a reproduction of the palace of the Doges at Venice, filling it with choice and costly art works. One of her first receptions there was a theatrical entertainment, "A Chinese Honeymoon" being the play. It was a social novelty. But the harvest home festival which she gave at her Newport summer home six years ago was a still greater novelty. All the guests came dressed as farmers and peasants, bringing to Mrs. Fish as the lady of the manor a suitable present. One millionaire swain brought a live pig, which escaped and ran between the feet of a milkmaid worth $7,000,000 in her own right. The milkmaid shrieked and let go of the rope which held the suckling calf she had brought to Mrs. Fish. This caused the chickens to cackle and the geese to quack, and together it was a very realistic affair.

There is something refreshing in Mrs. Fish's candor. She says what she means. "I should not like to be the wife of a president of the United States," she once remarked to a reporter, "for I might have to eat with negroes."

To the same newspaper man she gave several of her set opinions, requesting him to write them just as she said them, and here they are:

"I do not believe in equality. It would never do. There always will be classes in this country. We are coming more and more to have an aristocracy and a common people. I do not believe in being too democratic."

As to Newport, Mrs. Fish said: "Newport just now is paying too much attention to foreign lords. I think that this country is making itself ridiculous in regard to titles. I think it foolish."

First Worked as a Clerk.

Stuyvesant Fish went to work as a clerk in the New York offices of the Illinois Central railroad when he was twenty years old and just out of Columbia college. It is said that he received $3 a week at first, and his father made him an allowance of $50 a month for his living expenses. This allowance was small not through necessity of course, but as a matter of discipline. Mrs. Fish likes to tell about her husband's early "struggles." Once she was visiting the Drexel family at Nice. There was a dinner party, one of the guests being a little Saxon prince. Mrs. Fish told how her husband had worked up to the presidency of the Illinois Central, beginning as a cheap clerk.

"Why," exclaimed the prince, "I had always heard that your husband came from a fine family!"

Some of the guests gasped, but Mrs. Fish retorted quite good naturedly: "Oh, yes, he does; but, you see, in America it is not a disgrace to work. How much better it would be if those conditions prevailed in Europe! We in America would be spared so many titled nonentities."

It used to be quite the fashion for teachers and preachers and editors to point to multimillionaires as conspicuous examples of successful men, telling anecdotes relating to their humble beginnings in the business of multiplying millions. Stuyvesant Fish scarcely could serve as a model for that sort of preachment, for there never was a time when he was in humble circumstances, not even when he walked to the Illinois Central offices and back to save car fare so that he could eat better dinners out of that paternal allowance when he first began work. Back of him were Fish millions and Stuyvesant millions, for he is descended from sturdy old Peter Stuyvesant, the peg leg governor of New Amsterdam, who got in on the ground floor in New York real estate long before the Astors and the Vanderbilts came to the surface. Stuyvesant Fish, both as to finance and family prestige, was born with a silver spoon in his mouth big enough to be called a soup ladle.

So we cannot set him upon a pedestal as one who came to town with a patch and 30 cents in his pants and arose to riches and distinction. But as a man who has attended strictly to business and worked hard after getting a pretty good start by the accident of birth we may point to Mr. Fish. He seems always to have been level headed, and successes have not put his head out of plumb. Stuyvesant Fish is essentially a democratic individual, as becomes the son of one who was General Grant's close friend and adviser. He has a reputation as one of the most courteous and considerate multimillionaires in the business, and any newspaper man who has had occasion to meet Mr. Fish will testify to this fact. In his office he calls the men Dick and Jim instead of mistering them, and that is not done in a patronizing manner, but because Stuyvesant Fish is just that way. He never got stuck up.

Likes to Be Courteous.

Sometimes, when he can't help it, Mr. Fish goes to his wife's social functions. He likes to be courteous. Every day he goes to business, and frequently he stays until all the others have gone home. Just now he is busy at his new offices, having given up his old offices to his successor, preparing his case against the Harriman contingent for the recovery of control in the Illinois Central. There is every indication of a stiff fight, and Mr. Fish is not calculated to let his plans go off half cocked.

"I used to have a lawyer down south," he says, "who would say to me when there was something unusually difficult to a legal problem, 'Stuyv, I want to go out in my back lot and sit down on a log and chaw tobacker over this.' Now, I don't chew tobacco, but I sometimes go up to my farm and go out in my back lot and do some hard thinking."

His "farm" is the Fish homestead, acquired by Hamilton Fish the day Fort Sumter was fired upon. It is a magnificent place at Garrison-on-the-Hudson, opposite West Point. Mrs. Fish declares her intention of making this place a country seat of European swellness, so that she may live there instead of at Newport and do more new things when she shall become the actual leader of society. As to Stuyvesant Fish, he would rather go duck hunting any day than put on evening clothes and look conspicuous at a "function" on account of his size.

CARUSO FOUND GUILTY

Will Appeal From Sentence For Having Annoyed Woman

New York, Nov. 24.—Enrico Caruso, the famous grand opera tenor, was found guilty of having annoyed women at the zoological garden in Central park. He was fined $10 by Magistrate Baker.

Caruso's counsel immediately announced that they would appeal. The appeal will take the form of a writ of certiorori directing a review of the case by the court of special sessions. Mr. Dittenhoefer, for his client, will seek to expedite the appeal because Caruso is billed to sing at the Metropolitan Opera house next Wednesday.

The magistrate handed down his decision late yesterday, and several hours after the crowd had left the police court. Caruso last night said:

"I am naturally pained and amazed at the verdict. After all the evidence had been presented in court I took it for granted that I would be discharged instantly and honorably. I do not doubt that the verdict will be reversed on appeal."

Automobile Ran Down Cab

New York, Nov. 24.—An automobile driven by Earl Wanzer, who said that he was employed by F. M. Hoyt of Stamford, Conn., ran down a cab last night, probably fatally injuring Nicholas Sullivan, the driver. During the pursuit of the machine, in which a big crowd participated, a pistol shot was fired, and William Doran received a bullet in his neck. Wanzer is charged with the shooting.

Ravages of Prairie Fire

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 24.—Reports say that a prairie fire has swept from western Texas into eastern New Mexico and that a million acres of grazing and homestead land have been burned bare of foliage. The grass was short and the cattle stampeded back and forth through the fire, but suffered little injury.

LORD'S APPROVAL

Prophet Smith Thought He Had It In Plural Marriages

DID NOT DISCARD WIVES

Pleads Guilty to Charges Based on Birth of His Forty-Third Child and Is Fined $300--Gives His Views In Court

Salt Lake City, Nov. 24.—Joseph F. Smith, president of the Mormon church, appeared in the district court before Judge Ritchie and pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful cohabitation. A fine of $300 was imposed. The charge under which the Mormon prophet was arrested and fined was based on the recent birth to Smith's fifth wife of his 43d child.

Counsel for Smith yesterday procured a transfer of the case from Judge Armstrong's division of the criminal court to Judge Ritchie's division. After the noon recess, when the courtroom was deserted, Smith went before Ritchie, offered his plea, and the fine was imposed.

President Smith addressed the court, saying that his latest marriage occurred in 1884. All his marriages, he said, were entered into with the sanction of the church and, as they believed, with the approval of the Lord. According to his faith and the law of the church, the unions were eternal. He continued:

"In the tacit general understanding that was had in 1890 and the years subsequent thereto regarding what were classed as the old cases of cohabitation, I have appreciated the magnanimity of the American people in not enforcing a policy that in their minds was unnecessarily harsh, but which assigned the settlement of this difficult problem to the onward progress of time.

"Since the year 1890 a large percentage of the polygamous families have ceased to exist, until now the number within the jurisdiction of this court is small, and marriages in violation of the law have been and now are prohibited. In view of this situation, which has fixed with certainty a result that can be easily measured up, the family relations in the old cases of that time have been generally left undisturbed.

"So far as my own case is concerned, I, like others who had entered into solemn religious obligations, sought to the best of my ability to comply with all requirements pertaining to the trying position in which we were placed. I have felt secure in the protection of that magnanimous sentiment which was extended as an olive branch in 1890 and subsequent years to those old cases of plural family relationships which came within its purview, as did mine.

"When I accepted the manifesto issued by President Woodruff I did not understand that I would be expected to abandon and discard my wives. Knowing the sacred covenants and obligations which I had assumed by reason of those marriages, I have conscientiously tried to discharge the responsibilities attending them without being offensive to anyone. I have never flaunted my family relations before the public, nor have I felt a spirit of defiance against the law; but, on the contrary, I have always desired to be a law-abiding citizen.

"In considering the trying position in which I have been placed, I trust that your honor will exercise such leniency in your sentence as law and justice will permit."

Judge Ritchie imposed the maximum fine, but omitted the jail sentence of from one day to six months, which he might have imposed under the Utah statute.

Death Overtakes Automobile Racer

Philadelphia, Nov. 24.—Ernest D. Keeler, demonstrator and professional driver of racing automobiles, was killed, and Henry Lutton was dangerously hurt in a collision while trying out racing cars on the Point Breeze race track. Running at a 1:40 clip, Keeler attempted to pass between a machine and a repair cart. Keeler's car turned turtle. Keeler was pinned under the car and his skull was fractured, one eye was gouged out, his nose was broken and his collarbone fractured.

Gomez For Self-Government

Havana, Nov. 24.—Jose M. He believes that such a submission by Cuba to the dictation of the United States would be deplorable.

Greek King Visiting Italy

Rome, Nov. 24.—There was a gala dinner last night in honor of the King of Greece. King Victor Emmanuel and King George exchanged toasts. The Thanksgiving Pumpkins

By GEORGE COOPER.

GLOBES of gold on the upland lay
The ripened pumpkins at close of day.
Up the meadows the cows came slow,
With bells a-tinkle and gentle low.
Tommy paused by the old stone wall.
Unromantic was he, and small.
What do they see, those twinkling eyes?
Floating visions of luscious pies,
Flaky crust of the lightest brown!
Smacking his lips and looking down
Over the wall, he saw a sight.
Pumpkins were stirring, left and right!
Legs and arms had begun to sprout!
Tommy is too much amazed to shout.
How they grin at him—how they stare!
Straight on end stands Thomas' hair.

"Hold!" he hears a voice outring.
"Tremble—I'm the pumpkin king!
Bind the culprit, foot and hand;
Let him here before me stand,
Pumpkin subjects, I command!
Cut him up in crescent slices;
Chubby boy—I'm told it nice is!
Oft for him have we been sliced up,
Mashed and delicately spiced up.
Monster of the youthful brow,
Turn about is fair play now!

"Trice him up and slice him up;
Dig straightway an oven;
Roll the crust of watered dust;
Then this pie we'll shove in!"

"TREMBLE—I'M THE PUMPKIN KING!"

They lunged at him, they plunged at him,
They sat on him, fell flat on him,
Surrounded him and pounded him;
They seized him and squeezed him;
They rolled him and told him
What a pie to bake he soon would make
For their Thanksgiving dinner!
How very glad they were they had
A boy that was no thinner!

The early moonlight silvered all the hill;
Then Tommy woke and heard the cricket's shrill.
Those pumpkins lay in singular repose;
Not one of them displayed eye, mouth or nose.

"Ha, ha!" laughed Tommy. "That was droll!"
Then to the farmhouse quietly he stole,
Rejoicing that his chubby self was whole.
But on Thanksgiving day, with curious eyes,
He gazed on grandma's luscious pumpkin pies!

THE HARVEST HOME.

Thanksgiving In the Old Simple Days of England.

In the old simple days of England the harvest home was such a scene as Horace's friends might have expected to see at his Sabine farm. The grain last cut was brought home in its wagon, called the hock cart—surmounted by a figure formed of sheaf with gay dressings—suggesting a representation of the goddess Ceres, while a pipe and tabor went merrily sounding in front and the reapers tripped around in a hand in hand ring, singing:

"Harvest home, harvest home!
We have plowed, we have sowed,
We have reaped, we have mowed,
We have brought home every load,
Hip, hip, hip, harvest home!"

In the evening of harvest home the supper took place in the barn or some other suitable place, the master and mistress generally presiding. This feast was always composed of substantial food with plenty of good ale.

There is a growing tendency at the present time to abolish these old harvest festivals and to substitute a festival for the whole parish, with services in the forenoon and a dinner afterward, followed by sports and games for the men and tea drinking for the women.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Thanksgiving Days In Hungary.

In Hungary Thanksgiving days or something analogous to them used to be common, but have now passed away except on rare occasions of national rejoicing. Then a horse race of a particularly exciting description takes the place that football occupies in the American observance of the real thing in the way of Thanksgiving celebrations.

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title – Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

Christmas Presents That May Be Constructed by Clever Women—Mandarin Pincushion—Chinese Calendar

HIDDEN away in a nutshell are endless possibilities for original Christmas presents. The woman endowed with the fairy gift of imagination can make the cunningest contrivances with the aid of a handful of nuts of different species.

Doubtless many are familiar with brilliantly attired Chinese mandarins, doing duty as hanging pincushions, the ornamental pins stuck round their large, flat, circular hats forming the excuse for their highly ornamental existence. These figures are formed entirely of peanuts, threaded on fine wire, with the exception of one large walnut, which does duty as a head. If a Mongolian cast of countenance is faithfully portrayed the result is excellent. Richly dressed in oriental satins and brocades, they are very smart and can be made additionally attractive by the use of embroidery, jewels, beads, fans and any other embellishments that may suggest themselves.

Chinese Calendar.

One of the newest calendars for 1907 is decorated with a pair of Chinese figures. It is one of the "tear off" variety, and the bulky little packet of days is fastened in the right hand top corner of a narrow, upright card, measuring 12 by 5 inches, very neatly covered with art paper of a dark shade. This represents a box kite and is ornamented with silver tissue and devices cut out of tinsel. A gold cord depends from it, to which clings a terrified boy, who is evidently being borne rapidly aloft, in spite of the strenuous efforts of his companion to recall him to earth by tugging at his long black silk cue. these small people are formed of half walnuts, with the features carefully painted. Their attire is cut out of satin and brocade and gummed on. It is a good plan to paste white paper on to the back of the scraps of material made use of, sketch the shape of the tunic and trousers on this, and then cut them out with sharp scissors, allowing a little margin for the overlapping of the various parts. Tiny hands can be cut out of yellow brown paper, and shoes look best made of black velvet.

Memorandum Tablet.

A red Indian is a new and effective design. Seated before his wigwam, smoking the "pipe of peace," he appears a very picturesque personage indeed in his scarlet blanket, edged with white borders, painted with Indian devices, over which fall his heavy plaits of black hair, interwoven with strands of silk and chains of colored beads. The hand grasping the quill pipe, and also the moccasins peeping beneath his fringed leather leggings, are formed of peanuts. His inscrutable countenance is composed of a walnut shell, behind which is a headdress of feathers and melon seeds. A brown paper foundation must be cut out for a draped figure of this description, to which the costume is secured by a few stitches, the feathers being glued in place. The little model can then be mounted bodily on any background.

EXHIBITION OF TROOIS

New York Story Not Credited by Negroes of Boston

Boston, Nov. 24.—Surprised at the statements emanating from New York to the effect that friends and representatives of negroes in this city, as well as in Chicago, Philadelphia and New York were planning to have the three discharged companies of the Twenty-fifth United States infantry tour the country, Boston representatives of the race claim that if such a scheme is on foot they know nothing of it.

While admitting that such a plan might really be contemplated, they are inclined to take the New York story with a big grain of salt.

Rev. Beverly C. Ransom is outspoken in his disbelief of the story. "It seems to me," he said, "that if any such tour was intended some of us here in Boston would have heard of it. It is barely possible that members of the Suffrage league who are now in New York might have been the Boston parties referred to in the story, but I am inclined to doubt it.

"If the colored soldiers are brought here there will be a most cordial welcome awaiting them, but I don't see that there should be any talk of providing these soldiers with food, etc. Many of these discharged soldiers are young, active men, who should be able to earn a subsistence outside the army."

To Give Warning of Freshets

Concord, N. H., Nov. 24.—E. C. Vose, government observer at the local weather bureau, is preparing what will be known as a "special warning list," to be made up of persons whose property is liable to be damaged by freshets in the Merrimac river. Vose has just returned to this city from a trip to the large manufacturing cities of the Merrimac valley, during which he conferred with many millowners interested in the proposed plan.

May Restore Stolen Money

Boston, Nov. 24.—After having been confined in jail for nearly a year, Aubrey L. Rice, who pleaded guilty last December to a charge of larceny from the Puritan Trust company, having hypothecated $8000 worth of fraudulent stock with that institution, was yesterday given an opportunity to make restitution before sentence is passed upon him. Final disposition of the case will be made during next week.

Heavy Loss In Freight Wreck

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 24.—A fast freight collided with a local freight which was standing in the freight yard at Dalton. Thirteen cars of the local freight were wrecked. Two trolley cars belonging to the Berkshire Street Railway company were on the local train and were totally destroyed. They were valued at $10,000 each. The responsibility for the accident has not been placed.

Police Close Vaudeville Shows

Providence, Nov. 24.—The board of police commissioners passed an order closing two vaudeville penny shows temporarily, pending a final decision on a complaint made by a Roman Catholic priest, relative to the alleged display of indecent pictures. The places are owned by John B. Nash, who also has similar exhibitions in other cities.

Maine Increasing In Wealth

Augusta, Me., Nov. 24.—The wealth of Maine has increased approximately 16 percent since 1900, as shown by the valuation figures returned by the cities, towns and plantations, according to an announcement made at the office of the board of state assessors. No figures are given. The valuation in 1900 was $336,699,649.

Acquitted of Murder Charge

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 24.—The jury in the superior court which has tried Joseph Errico for murder in the first degree returned a verdict of not guilty. Errico was accused of the murder of Pacquale Traficanti by shooting during an Italian fight in Naugatuck.

Armed Guard For Tillman

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Chief Collins has arranged for a police bodyguard to meet Senator Tillman on his arrival in Chicago next Tuesday. The armed guard will be stationed in the hall outside his room in the hotel after he retires. Threatening letters have come as a climax to numerous mass meetings held by negroes all over the city following the announcement that Tillman had been engaged to speak for the benefit of the Chicago Union hospital next Tuesday.

Riot Over Street Car Strike

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 24.—An attempt by the Hamilton street railway to start their cars last night led to riotous scenes which the police were powerless to quell. The mayor appealed for troops and at midnight word was received from Toronto that 100 regulars were on the way to this city. The mob gradually dispersed when the report of the departure of soldiers from Toronto became known.

To Raise Steel Laborers' Wages

New York, Nov. 24.—Chairman Gary of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation announces that the wages of common laborers in the plants of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation will be increased 10 cents a day. The wages of day and turn labor will be adjusted accordingly.

New Mexico Town Without Fuel

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 24.—A special from Carlsbad, N. M., says that the fuel supply in that town is exhausted and people have been forced to burn bacon to keep from freezing. Schools have been dismissed in consequence of the terrible cold. The snow is a foot deep in town and two feet on the range.

Thayer Academy.

Three of the school-rooms have been lately furnished with new desks by the American Seating Co. of Chicago.

Dr. Gallagher recently spent two days in New York, visiting the De Witt Clinton high school, which has two thousand boys; the Wodleigh high school with its twenty-six hundred girls; attending the laying of the corner-stone of Brooks hall at Barnard college and the meeting of the College Entrance Examination Board at Columbia college.

The academy has had among its visitors this week Mr. Matthew S. Pritchard of the Boston Art Museum, Supt. Anthony of the Braintree schools and Mr. Wilbur F. Thayer of Minneapolis, Minn., whose grandfather, N. B. Thayer of Illinois was a nephew of Gen. Thayer.

The Thanksgiving recess extends from Wednesday noon to Monday morning. Dr. Gallagher's family expects to add another to the series of reunions which have been maintained more than a quarter of a century. The brothers and sisters with their families now number 37, of whom 31 expect to meet at Hotel Thorndike, Boston.

The basket ball season opened Thursday with every indication of a successful year. A game was to have been played with Brockton High but at a late hour the game was cancelled and one secured with Braintree High. The tendency to rough play, which in the past has marred the games between Braintree high and Thayer was somewhat in evidence and strong feeling was evidenced among the spectators in disapproval. On the second half all the Thayer subs were tried out. With good material and the efficient coaching of Charles Orr, Thayer men are confident of making a fine showing this year. Score: Thayer 37, High 7:

Actor's Night

The second of the series of actors' nights at the Castle Square theatre will be given next Tuesday evening in honor of John Waldron. The occasion will be a gala one in recognition of the sterling merits of this popular member of the stock company, and his friends will turn out in full force to give him welcome. A souvenir portrait, with a record of his career, told in his own words, will be given everybody in attendance. It will be remembered that this series began about two weeks ago with a testimonial to Miss Thais Lawton, the leading lady of the Castle square stock company. A card bowl is placed in the lobby and all patrons who wish to "leave cards" may be sure that their cards will reach their destination and be welcome as an evidence of friendly interest. At next Tuesday's testimonial to Mr. Waldron he will play Magnus Stephenson in Hall Caine's play "The Prodigal Son."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

KEITHS THEATRE.

Lovers of vaudeville will find ample cause for the giving of thanks at Keith's next week, as the bill arranged is a holiday affair, brimming over with gayety. "A Jay Circus" is the name given to Sherman, De Forrest and company's new production for this season. As its title indicates, it deals with the visit of a travelling show to a country town. The fun created is of the fast and furious order. John and Louis Boller, in a sensational performance upon bicycles; the Kremka Brothers, acrobatic comedians who have a number of novelties in their routine; and Spessardy's trained bears are the imported acts that will be on the bill. "How He Lied to Her Husband" is the title of the Bernard playlet to be presented by Arnold Daly and company the week of Dec. 3d. Mrs. Langtry's engagement is for the weeks of Dec. 10 and 17.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Again and again have Hall Caine's plays been given in this city and never have they met with anything but the most cordial of receptions. "The Manxman," "The Deemster," "The Christian," "The Eternal City" and "The Prodigal Son" have all proved Mr. Caine's dramatic power and they have all been royally welcomed whenever good fortune has brought them back to Boston for a revival. It is "The Prodigal Son" which is to be the attraction next week at the Castle Square and its strong plot and picturesque characters will make it an especially popular Thanksgiving attraction The scenes are laid in Iceland, a country little known to us Americans and its plot progresses amid the most interesting and vividly realistic surroundings. The cast include Mr. Hansel, Miss Thais Lawton, Mr. Waldron, Mr. Miller, Mr. Johnson and the entire stock company. James A. Herne's play of rural life, "Sag Harbor," will follow during the week of Dec. 3.

Public Interest

IS NOW CENTERED ON

The Pure Food Law.

WE Have Always Maintained that the best that money could buy was always the cheapest in the end, because it is always the bargain hunters that have to pay the DOCTOR, buying as they do IMPURE foods of all kinds, FOODS that are UNFIT for ANY PERSON'S STOMACH, being mixed as they are with different kinds of PRESERVATIVES and SECRET PREPARATIONS to take the place of GOOD PURE FOODS. And some dealers selling these goods at a GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE over the pure kind, GUARANTEE you NOTHING, but—"Poor Health to You and Your Family," and although you can buy the "just as good kind," you can save nothing as that kind is unhealthy and dangerous to the whole human family. Now our standard is to always sell the best of everything and the steady increase of our business year after year proves to us that we have the right idea, and we know it must be very satisfactory to our many customers to feel that what they buy at our store is ABSOLUTELY PURE and HEALTHFUL and the Food Laws are being strictly enforced by us. Our Goods are all GOVERNMENT INSPECTED and also carefully inspected by us before they are put on sale or sent to your homes, and although you pay perhaps a few cents more to us than some dealers charge, don't you think it is money well spent, considering all things?—YOUR HEALTH, which is the greatest blessing we can have,—think well about this and we know you will agree with us and do your trading where you know the goods can be depended upon to be absolutely Pure.

We have just received our season's pack of choice canned and bottled goods, FRESH and DRIED FRUITS, all kinds of Cereals, Ketchup, Pickles, Jams, Jellies, Prunes, Figs, Nuts, Dates, Table Raisins, Citron, Lemon and Orange Peel, Olives, Sardines,—in fact everything for your tastes and fancies. PENN'S HILL IN DARK

Wants to Know Concerning Deals and Rumors of Deals

Editor of Daily Ledger:

Will you kindly allow a reader of your paper to differ with the conclusions drawn in Friday's Ledger to the effect that the political horizon has cleared during the past week? It seems to me that the horizon is anything but cleared. From one side we hear that Commissioner of Public Works Burke has got to go to appease the wrath of the Crane followers; on the other hand we are told that city officials who stand next to the throne are betting money in public that Mr. Burke will be kept where he is if Mayor Thompson is reelected. All of which leads one to ask: First—Was there a deal? And, secondly, If there was a deal what was it, and who is getting buncoed?

According to the Ledger, and the statement has not been denied, Mr. Crane came into the fight at the solicitation of many friends and business men who were opposed to Mr. Burke. Let us presume, then, in the absence of any denial, that this is true. The day before Mr. Crane withdrew from the fight an item which seemed significantly inspired, said that if Mayor Thompson would agree to drop Mr. Burke, there would be no Independent candidate, and that Mayor Thompson would undoubtedly be reelected. The night of the day on which this statement appeared in print, a convention of Mr. Crane's friends and advisers was called together at the latter's home. The next morning there was no Independent candidate. Why?

Was a deal made between Mr. Crane, his friends and advisors, and Mayor Thompson, his friends and advisors, to keep Mr. Crane from remaining in the field by granting the demand of Mr. Crane's backers, which was the overthrow of Mr. Burke?

According to an interview with Mr. Crane, published in the Ledger, that gentleman said his withdrawal was made because the interests of good government had been served. How?

The denials made by city officials that any deal was made, backed by money offered in public, leads one to ask the last question. If Mr. Crane entered the fight because he thought Mr. Burke should go and if it is true that Mr. Burke is to stay in case Mayor Thompson is reelected, how does Mr. Crane figure it out from his standpoint that the best interests of good government have been served by his withdrawing? This would leave the matter, so far as Mr. Burke is concerned, just where it stood before Mr. Crane came into the fight.

Mind you, I am not criticising Mr. Burke at all; I am simply using his name because it has been used in the newspaper articles which have been printed; personally, I think he has been a much-maligned official and his silence under trying conditions prove that he must be a patient man.

But—the fact that Mr. Crane was willing to threaten disruption to Mayor Thompson's chances of success because his hostility to Mr. Burke and because he has withdrawn "in the interest of good government," leads the outsider, the man who is looking on disinterestedly, to the conclusion that a "deal" was made. Mr. Crane is not a natural quitter. I knew his father too well to believe that any but red blood runs in his veins. So, that leads us back to the main question again: Was there a deal; if so, who made it and what was it? We who pay the fiddler for all the municipal dancing (and we pay too much for the quality of music offered) have a right to know and there are two men who can tell the story—Mayor Thompson and Mr. Crane.

If we are going to have "deals" and other forms of political scene-shifting in this campaign, like the juggling hat trick of a campaign five years ago, the people have a right to know it. The people—I mean those who pay their hard-earned taxes and never look for office, have small bit of right under our form of government, however much the politicans would like to make us believe otherwise. For the sake of decency let somebody stop playing the hypocrite long enough to get a whiff of the air of God's truth in this campaign.

A Church That is Thankful

Sunday was observed as Thanksgiving at the Point church. Chorister Pollard had a large, well-trained choir who rendered in addition to the usual music two Thanksgiving anthems and Mrs. Page sang a solo. The pulpit and organ were decorated with our national ensign, the stars and stripes. Rev. A. R. Atwood preached a Thanksgiving sermon; he said in part:

"I see in this meeting house, the spiritual home for you all. I see its repairs and improvements being completed without a debt, and perhaps I, as no one else in the parish, realize under what sacrifice we have done what we have.

If you see some of our men with suits that might have gone to the Rummage Sale, you will understand the reason; the price of a new suit is in these repairs. If you see some of our women without brand new hats, you will understand the reason, the price of a new hat is in these repairs.

And it is better so than that we should be well robed, while this house of God remained shabby, the steeple swaying in the wind and the roof rotting. Sweeter than any Thanksgiving day desert that skilful hands may serve will be your sweeter thought of this house of God and its spiritual future.

The future of this church is an assured fact. Our future work is to reach men through their social and spiritual lives. You who are helping in any way to reach men thro' their social or spiritual lives are manifesting the spirit of the angelic race, when you labor in social or in spiritual ways to interest men in this church. For to interest men in this church is to interest men in in Christ; 'the spotless Lamb of God, who taketh away the sins of the world.' That is what men want; they want their sin taken away.",

Education Night At Unity Club

The Unity club met Friday evening, November 23, in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church. The subject of the evening was "Growth in education of the United States," Rev. E. W. Hunt presiding.

Frank E. Parlin, superintendent of the Quincy schools, gave a very clear, interesting, practical talk on "Schools and colleges." "Libraries," as treated by Fred Thayer, was found most enjoyable. Many new ideas and opinions were obtained from J. J. Henry's interesting subject "Newspapers and magazines." Mrs. W. S. Hunting rendered several solos, very beautifully, which were much appreciated and enjoyed by all.

Perhaps Quincy may have snow for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Crowell of Crescent street leave this week for a brief visit at Milford.

Mrs. Rose A. Reed and children leave this week for a few weeks' visit with her mother at Biddeford, Maine.

Mark Gordon, who has been at Biddeford, Me., the past two months, is renewing old acquaintances in this city.

"Signs of snow and sudden cold" is the prediction of the Old Farmer's Almanac for the latter part of this week.

At Polands hall Norfolk Downs Wednesday evening whist will be enjoyed for two hours, to be followed by a dance and a collation.

The City Council Committee on Licenses will meet tomorrow evening also the special committee on the High schoolhouse inquiry.

Sunday was an ideal day and there were many visitors about the High school building. Few if any, however, were admitted.

Fifteen minute time was run on the Wollaston line of the street cars on Sunday, and was greatly appreciated by Wollaston people.

The High school pupils would very much like to enter the new building after the Thanksgiving holidays, but may have to take it as a New Year's present.

Quite a number of Quincy young people attended the Tremont Temple meeting for children on Saturday morning addressed by Gipsy Smith and Rev. Francis E. Clark.

The new street railway schedule on the West Quincy, Weymouth Landing and Quincy Point lines is giving good satisfaction, especially to West Quincy people, who appreciate the fact that cars are on time.

The alarm from Box 43 at 4.47 Sunday afternoon was for a fire in a hen house on Copeland street, near Common street, owned by Mr. Cain. The building was probably set on fire by boys. There was but little damage and the recall sounded promptly.

THE FORGOTTEN DEAD.

There Are Few English Tombstones Over Two Centuries Old.

Some years ago there was a correspondence in the papers, the main argument being that there were very few tombstones in the open—that is, outside of a church—which could show a record of over 200 years. Doubtless there are many tombstones of a far greater age, but most of these are now undecipherable from the perishing material used or have sunk deep into the earth, in which case there can be small doubt as to the inscriptions having become obliterated.

The oldest record I have come across was at Godshill churchyard, near Ventnor, where the visitor can see legibly inscribed, "Annie Garde, 1592," but probably some of your readers may know of tombstones bearing an earlier date. The most surprising number of old tombstones clustered together are possibly those grouped at Bonchurch, Isle of Wight, these ranging from 1616 to 1702. In all there are seven, having these dates: 1616, 1619, 1620, 1627, 1646, 1687, 1702.

So far—that is, during a three years' search—I have found tombstones of the seventeenth century at Godshill, Bonchurch, Brading and St. Lawrence (Ventnor), in the Isle of Wight; at Wateringbury, in Kent, where there are several in excellent order; at Tonbridge, Bristol, Ipswich, Harwich, Southwold, Colwyn Bay (old parish churchyard), and at Millbrook, near Southampton.

I might note that in all I have so far found only thirty-five tombstones over 200 years of age.—London Standard.

HAD BUT TO ASK

Harry Thaw Had Unlimited Funds at His Command

THE SHOOTING OF WHITE

Involves Principals Who Had Long Figured In the Limelight--Slayer Persists In Refusing to Take Refuge In the Insanity Plea

New York, Nov. 26.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, the noted architect, which probably will take place during December or January, is looked forward to as one of the most famous cases in the criminal history of New York state.

The players in this extraordinary tragedy of real life are each of them interesting. Harry Thaw, the ever wayward son of rich and indulgent parents, had become widely known throughout the country prior to the killing of Stanford White by reason of the publicity given to many of his escapades by the newspapers. His father, the late William Thaw, was one of Pittsburg's richest men. He had early seen that Harry was not to be entrusted with a large income, so when he died he provided that Harry should have only $2500 a year. The bulk of the estate went to Mrs. William Thaw, whose indulgent love for her children was soon made apparent in the manner in which she lavished money upon them. Harry Thaw had but to ask whatever sum he chose and the mother gave it to him. He abandoned his $2500 a year income from the estate to his valet. It is said that the young man's expenditures often averaged as high as $80,000 and $100,000 a year.

Four or five years ago the Thaw family came into unusual prominence through the announcement of the engagement of Harry Thaw's sister to the Earl of Yarmouth. Since their marriage the Earl and Countess of Yarmouth have lived abroad.

Following the wedding of his sister, Harry Thaw also went abroad. When he returned to this country two years ago he remained in New York instead of going to his mother's home in Pittsburg. It was not long before he was seen always in company with a beautiful young girl, Evelyn Nesbit, who had graduated from the studio to the stage. Young Thaw and Miss Nesbit were central figures of many theatre and supper parties along Broadway, and there appeared in one of the local papers a story to the effect that Thaw and Miss Nesbit had been secretly married while abroad. The fact of the wedding had not been disclosed, it was declared, because of the fear that a displeased mother might cut off the support of her favorite son. Their affairs attracted so much attention that they were requested to move from the fashionable hotel where they had been occupying expensive suites. This called forth more notoriety. The affairs of the young people were kept constantly before the public until it was finally announced that Mrs. William Thaw had consented to her son's marriage to Miss Nesbit. Thereuon they were called to Pittsburg and in the mother's home a marriage ceremony was performed.

For a long time following the wedding the Thaw's affairs were practically lost sight of. They spent most of their time in New York, were often seen together at the theatres and the cafes and apparently their lives ran happily together.

It was late in the evening of June 25 last that the entire country was ringing with the tragic news that Harry Thaw had slain Stanford White. The setting for the fatal attack had been the Madison Square Roof Garden, where the first night's performance of a summer musical show known as "Mlle. Champagne" was being given. The place was gay in flowers and multicolored electric lights and was thronged with a fashionably dressed audience when suddenly above the music the pistol shots rang out. The music ceased, the chorus girls and actors upon the stage were terror-stricken, men and women in the audience dropped their glasses upon the tables before them. In the stillness a man was heard to say: "You ruined my wife, d—— you, and now I've got you."

Stanford White lay dead at the table where he had been sitting; Harry Thaw, in evening dress, stood with a smoking pistol in his hand. His wife, who had seen him fire the fatal shot, was led screaming away from the spot and Thaw was arrested. He made no attempt to escape.

White was vice president of the Madison Square Garden company and was the architect of that famous structure, in whose tower he had always maintained a studio. It was in this tower that Thaw had charged time and time again since his arrest that White entertained young women at the gayest of parties.

It has been brought out since the shooting that White befriended Evelyn Nesbit and her mother when the young woman first was brought to this city to enter the studios as a model. There have been reports that White sought the girl's society after her marriage to Thaw, but this has been admitted by neither side.

Thaw has sought his justification in the words he uttered to his victim on the night of the tragedy. He has claimed that under the "unwritten law" no jury could convict him of having taken the life of "the man who had traduced his wife in her innocent girlhood." To these accusations by Thaw the friends of White have declared that the architect's interest in the girl was purely of a fatherly character.

It has been constantly stated that the Thaw case would never come to trial and that the mysteries of its many intricate phases would never be exposed to the light of the public's gaze, this conjecture being based on the report that a plea of insanity might be entered and accepted.

This probability, however, it is now said, is past. Harry Thaw has himself stood in the way of any such plan. It is asserted that in his refusal to give assent to the insanity plea he has been steadfastly supported by his wife, who, it is also generally reported, has constantly urged her husband to take some action against White. Mrs. Thaw has been a daily visitor to the Tombs prison and Mrs. William Thaw, who was recalled from Europe when the tragedy occurred, has also been a frequent caller. There have been many family conferences and many stormy interviews in the young man's cell, his resentment being shown every time the suggestion of insanity has been offered.

"I prefer death in the electric chair to a life in an insane asylum," the prisoner is credited with exclaiming.

Lewis Delafield, of counsel to the Thaw family, was first called into the case. He engaged W. M. K. Olcott of the firm of which former Governor Black is a member. They had hardly been in the case a month when Thaw dismissed them. He called to his aid Clifford W. Hartridge, a lawyer who had been his friend for years. Now that the trial is approaching he has called into the case Delphin M. Delmas, one of the most noted criminal lawyers of the west, who has come on from San Francisco to New York to take direction of the trial. Delmas has been quoted as admitting that the "unwritten law" may be the defense finally decided upon.

He was arrested before he could leave the train and was placed in jail at Glasgow. At Slater the robber boarded the rear car as the train was pulling out. After the train had gained speed the man, revolver in hand, entered the car and began a systematic robbery of the passengers.

Cuban Bandits Active

Havana, Nov. 26.—Governor Magoon received a message last night that eight bandits had been captured in Cienfuegos and tranquility had been restored. Satisfied With Gompers

Minneapolis, Nov. 26.—The American Federation of Labor elected Samuel Gompers president for the 25th time in 26 years the federation has been in existence. There was no opposing candidate. Endorsement for Gompers meant endorsement for his policy and the men who had worked with him framing and executing it. The entire executive and administrative staff was re-elected by acclamation.

Vesuvius Shaken Up

Naples, Nov. 26.—Preceded by loud detonations, another portion of the crater of Mount Vesuvius on the side nearest Pompeii collapsed. WILL NOT RETRACT

Crapsey Adheres to His Notion of the Origin of Jesus

ASCENSION INTO HEAVEN

Cannot Believe That It Was With Physical Body of Flesh, Blood and Bones--Renounces Ministry of Episcopal Faith

Rochester, Nov. 26.—Bowing to the will of the church, but refusing to make a "cowardly retraction" of the belief which induced the church to terminate his ministry, Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey, rector of St. Andrew's church of this city, yesterday renounced his ministry in the Protestant Episcopal faith in a letter to Bishop Walker of the western diocese of New York.

In this letter Dr. Crapsey reaffirmed his belief that the "notion of the origin of Jesus that a Son of Man was born without a human father is without foundation in history. He also asserted that "when I say of Jesus that He ascended into Heaven, I do not mean and cannot mean that with His physical body of flesh, blood and bones, He floated into space and has for 2000 years been existing somewhere in the sky, in that very physical body of flesh, blood and bones."

Declaring that he is about to carry the case to the free intelligence and enlightened conscience of the world, he counsels the "hundreds of clergymen and thousands of laymen in the Protestant Episcopal church who have reached the same conclusion" as he has not to be dismayed and to stay where they are.

"I appeal," he says, "from those in places of authority in the church itself to the great body of people." He asserts that he does not blame his judges and that, though he bows to their will and feels that it is final for him, he says:

"I am equally certain that it is not final for the church." When the great tribunal of free thought has decided this contention, he adds, the men who administer the church on earth will conform to this decision. Having let go of the "temporary and unstable interpretations of the creed," he declares that he holds more firmly to the gospel.

Dr. Crapsey conducted the service yesterday morning at St. Andrew's as usual. A large congregation was present. He made no reference to his trial or statement. His farewell sermon will probably be preached next Sunday.

Soldiers Ready to Aid Police

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 26.—Sunday was marked by unusual quiet on the streets, contrasted to the riotous scenes of the previous two days which have marked the strike of street railway employes here. In the outlying districts some stones were thrown and blank cartridges were exploded under the wheels of cars, but there were no hostile demonstrations. The soldiers camped in the armory under arms and the police reserves were on call at the city hall.

Trolley Car Ran Away

New York, Nov. 26.—Twenty persons were injured, one man fatally, in Brooklyn, when a trolley car ran away. The controller box had blown out, throwing the motorman to the street. With the motorbox flaming so as to give the impression that the entire car was on fire, the runaway sped along while its frightened occupants fought to get out. After a dash of a dozen blocks, the car jumped the rails and landed against the curb.

Vatican Authorities Worried

Rome, Nov. 26.—It appears that King George of Greece has abandoned the idea of visiting the pope during his present sojourn in Rome, although he may still decide so to do. The feelings of the Vatican authorities will be hurt if the Grecian king does not call upon the pontiff. If he should do so today the Vatican will not be entirely appeased, as it will be a decision of the last moment.

Against Segregation of Blind

New York, Nov. 26.—A meeting of blind persons and friends of the blind was held here to discuss the recently made proposal that the blind be segregated in colonies. The meeting decided against segregation and that blind persons should associate as much as possible with persons whose eyesight is unimpaired.

THREE MEN SHORT

Did Not Answer Rollcall After Fire on Schoolship

VESSEL QUICKLY DOOMED

Excellent Discipline Displayed by Five Hundred Men on a French Craft For Purpose of Torpedo Instruction

Toulon, France, Nov. 26.—The torpedo schoolship Algesiras, stationed in this harbor, was totally destroyed by fire last night. There were 500 men on board when the fire broke out.

The burning of the schoolship created the greatest alarm throughout the city. News of the fire was first conveyed at about 11 o'clock by the firing of cannon in the harbor. The people hurriedly left the cafes and theatres and rushed to the docks, whence they could see the Algesiras, a mass of flames in the harbor. The burning vessel stood out brilliantly in the encircling darkness, and the glare of the flames lit up the other shipping and the coast.

There was terrible anxiety concerning the fate of the 500 men on board until the authorities announced that everybody had been taken off in boats and saved, with the exception of three. These men did not answer the rollcall and it is presumed they were burned to death.

The entire garrison here was called out to render assistance and the crews of the warships of this division hurriedly launched their boats to go to the rescue of their comrades who were on board the Algesiras for purposes of instruction.

Tugboats and fireboats, as well as several steamers lying in port, slipped their anchors and likewise went out to help. Organized efforts were made to put the fire out, but in vain. The flames quickly spread to all parts of the ship and she was blazing from stem to stern almost before the men had time to leave her.

As soon as the men had been taken off the flaming vessel the efforts of the authorities were directed to safeguarding the other ships anchored in the vicinity of the Algesiras, including the new battleship Patrie and the torpedo gunboat La Hire. These two warships were towed to places of safety.

The authorities came rapidly to the conclusion that the Algesiras was doomed and she was left to burn herself out. The discipline displayed on board the Algesiras was excellent. The small boats of the Algesiras were launched, filled with men and rowed away, while those who could not leave in this manner awaited the arrival of their rescuers. A few men, however, were forced by the flames to jump overboard and swim away. Six torpedoes on board the schoolship exploded while the men were leaving the vessel.

There was much fear during the height of the fire that a torpedo magazine on shore would become ignited, but this was prevented by deluging the magazine with heavy streams of water from powerful fireboats.

It is not known whether the fire originated from an explosion of powder, or broke out among the stores on board. The Algesiras had been used as a schoolship since 1894.

The Algesiras was a ship of the line, and for a number of years past she had been doing duty as a harbor vessel and employed as a torpedo training ship. She was of 5047 tons displacement and was built in 1855.

BUMPED INTO A TREE

Street Car Toppled Over, Resulting In a Passenger's Death

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Patrick Scanlon, 60 years of age, was instantly killed and six other passengers slightly injured in a railway accident in this city, the forward trucks of the car leaving the track, causing the car to crash into a tree, afterward toppling over upon its side. The accident is supposed to have been caused by a stone having become wedged between the rails.

The car was a double truck, 40-foot car weighing about 25 tons, in charge of Conductor Eagan and Motorman Maher, both of whom were unhurt. When on a 3 percent down grade the forward trucks jumped the track and the car, veering sharply to the right, crashed into a tree standing near the track, then balancing itself for a second, it toppled over on its side, having turned almost end for end. The rear trucks remained on the iron, and the car itself sustained no injury.

Mrs. Scanlon was seated well toward the front end of the car, and was thrown through a window by the impact. It is supposed that she struck the ground just before the car turned over, as she was found underneath it. Her skull was fractured and her right leg broken below the knee. She undoubtedly was instantly killed. One rail was broken at the point where the forward trucks left the track, but otherwise there was little damage to the company's property.

Pair of Bucks Held Up Boys

Lancaster, Mass., Nov. 26.—Clarence Sanderson, 16 years old, and his brother, Fred, aged 10, came upon two buck deer, fighting near a pond in the north part of Lancaster. A doe was looking on as the bucks fought. She saw the boys and ran away and the bucks ran after the boys. The older boy climbed a tree. The younger boy got into a boat and shoved out into the pond. One buck kept Clarence up the tree. The other stood guard over Fred in the boat for half an hour. Then the doe returned, the bucks renewed their fight and the boys escaped, running for their lives.

Accidentally Killed by Friend

Bakersfield, Vt., Nov. 26.—Harlow T. Pomeroy, 18 years old, a student at Bingham academy, was instantly killed in his room last night through the discharge of his own shotgun in the hands of Harlie Ovitt, a fellow student and intimate friend. As two other students who were in the room at the time declared that the shooting was accidental, no action was taken by the local authorities. Pomeroy was the son of W. J. Pomeroy of Franklin, who was killed last week on the railroad at Winsted, Conn.

Young Conroy Accidentally Killed

H., Nov. 26.—The body of Phillip Conroy, 16 years old, who strayed away from a camp in the woods where he had been with a companion named Frank Whitney, two weeks ago yesterday, was found yesterday two miles this side of the camp with a gunshot wound in the left breast. The boy was a cripple and as his gun was found near the body it is believed that he used the weapon as a cane and that he was shot through its accidental discharge.

The tablet occupies one of the prominent niches in the main part of the church, and is the gift to the church of Blackmar's widow.

Gardiner, who was one of the principal witnesses before the grand jury which returned an indictment charging Bishop Codman of the Maine diocese with criminal libel in connection with the troubles in the church at Dresden Mills, where Gardiner was warden, died here, aged 56. It is believed that with Gardiner's death the action against Codman, which is now pending, will be dismissed.

Yale Defeats Worthy Rival

New Haven, Nov. 26.—Yale's blue banners waved triumphantly over the city, the signal of another magnificent football victory over her worthy rival, Harvard, the final score being 6 to 0. The crimson went down to defeat in a desperate battle and to Yale passed the almost undisputed title of the college championship of the country, clouded only by the drawn, no-score contest at Princeton.

VOLIVA ABSOLUTE BOSS

Declares That God Selects a Leader Who Serves For Life

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Wilbur G. Voliva, successor to John A. Dowie as overseer of the Christian Catholic church in Zion, declared at the conclusion of an exciting meeting at Zion City last night that unless he was recognized as general overseer of the church for life he would abandon his present following to fate. Voliva presented his new plans for the government of Zion. They contained a clause, reading:

"Zion is a theocracy. This means that God selects a leader who serves for life, and through him God selects his successor."

Members of the church protested. Animated discussion followed. "I will not admit," declared Voliva, "that I am overseer by virtue of election, nor will I admit that there is another in Zion who could fill my place. Every hand raised against me will go down in destruction and no petty coterie of jealous plotters can oust me."

Then he threatened to reorganize the church, saying that he would rather do it now than six months hence. He announced that he would give his followers until next Sunday to accept the clause in question.

Grand Recital At Atlantic

Literary and club women throughout the city were all at Atlantic Music hall on Saturday afternoon to enjoy the treat provided by the Shakespeare club of Atlantic, they having secured Mr. Marshall Darrach of New York to give a dramatic recital of "The Merchant of Venice.

In passing through the ante-room to the hall the tickets were received by Mrs. John Carver and Mrs. Theodore Parker, and subscribers given a cordial greeting by Mrs. Charles Robinson Safford and Mrs. William Freeman Cummings.

Winthrop M. Safford and David Clinton Perry gave out the programs. The guests were ushered by Mrs. Henry W. Read, Mrs. Edward S. Tenney, Mrs. Elbridge Gerry Dunn, Mrs. Jason George Miller and Miss Elizabeth Cook.

Besides the list of well known patronesses, there were two to three hundred subscribers, present.

Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher, president of the Shakespeare club, presented Mr. Darrach, who at once made a most favorable impression. His method is to recite the main part of the play, assuming each part in voice and facial expression. He uses no manuscript depending entirely on his memory, the result being almost as good as seeing the play staged with all its characters.

In "The Merchant of Venice," Mr. Darrach's scope was fully tested, and he was equal to the demands of Shylock's husky gutturals or to the lighter parts in the scenes with Portia and Nerissa. Every character was distinct: Antonio's full bass, Gratiano's happy baritone and the Duke's quiet silvery tenor, all standing out clearly, the facial expression completing the memory picture.

Mr. Darrach's voice is remarkably flexible and pleasing and for an hour and a half he held his audience drawing forth frequent applause. At the close of the recital an informal reception was given Mr. Darrach.

The unanimous verdict was that it had been a thoroughly delightful afternoon and one that the Shakespeare club of Atlantic may well feel proud of. For a comparatively new club and of small membership, this club has done remarkable work.

Not only do they thoroughly study the works of Shakespeare, but they attend lectures and plays, and in every way add to the interest of the club routine. Twice have they had open meetings and invited others to subscribe, the first being a lecture on Julius Ceasar by Edward Howard Griggs.

The ladies of the Ward Six section of the city are certainly enterprising, and also successful in whatever they undertake. It is rumored their ambition now is to establish a reading room in Atlantic, and if they so will, it is practically a surety.

VERMONT'S GIFT

Beautiful Service Already for Battleship Vermont Built at Quincy

There is now on exhibition at the State capitol in Montpelier, Vermont, a rich and magnificent silver service which the state will present to the battleship Vermont, In the set of fourteen pieces are a punch bowl and ladle, plateau or waiter, upon which the bowl stands, two candelabra, a water pitcher, syrup pitcher—how appropriate to the State of maple sugar!—two salad bowls, a meat dish, entree dish, a serving tray, two compotes and a butter dish. It is said to be one of the handsomest services ever made for an American warship, and will be the gift of the State of Vermont to the great fighting ship which bears its name.

The Vermont Legislature of 1904 appropriated $5,000 for the present and designs were submitted by three competitors. The order was finally placed with a White River Junction concern, and the service set was made in Providence on their order. Although no money was spared, the committee having the matter in charge will be able to turn back into the State treasury $1,500 unexpended balance on the appropriation.

The punchbowl is of massive eighteenth century design and is twenty-five inches in diameter, including the handles, and fourteen inches high. The decorations are suggestive of the sea and of the State of Vermont. The handles represents dolphins, while a picture of the battleship is etched in one of the large side panels. On one side of the foot of the bowl is shown in bold relief a spray of maple leaves surrounding the seal of the United States. On the opposite side a spray of clover decoration encloses the seal of the State of Vermont. The large panel on the opposite side from the battleship picture is a scene in a maple sugar camp showing a sugar house in the backgrouud, while in the foreground appears a typical sugarmaker tapping a tree. Around him several trees are already provided with spouts and buckets may be seen.

The ladle has a generous and shapely bowl with grapevine decoration, while at the head, between crossed dolphins, appears the seal of Vermont. The plateau, upon which the bowl stands, is thirteen inches in diameter, including the handles. In the centre is a correct representation of the State House at Montpelier, surrounded with the presentation inscription: "Presented to the U. S. Battleship Vermont by the State of Vermont," The bogue of the plateau is ornamented with a wave decoration, and the spray of clover and the seal of Vermont opposite the spray of maple and the seal of the navy are shown on the flange.

The candelabra are large and important pieces, designed to be lighted by electricity. They are nineteen inches high and have a spread of twenty inches.

The water pitcher is of a large size, wide at the mouth and mounted with the borders typical of the set, the sprays and seals previously described. The feature of this piece is the fine etching of the Morgan horse, accurately portraying a product of which the State is most proud.

The syrup pitcher is the most striking piece of the service, representing a section of a maple tree, being reproduced exactly from a piece of maple bark.

The salad bowl has a wide decorated flange with the dolphin borders matching the other pieces of the service. It is sixteen inches in diameter and is gold lined.

The twenty-inch meat dish is decorated with the sprays and seals and the fourteen-inch entree dish, of similar character, has a shell decoration at either end.

Each of the compotes, which are identical in design, is in general keepwith the other pieces, although they are treated in a more liberal manner.

The butter dish is treated in a manner simillar to the flat dishes, excet the cover, which has a carefully modelled Gurnsey cow for a handle, and an etched pasture scene with another cow standing in the foreground.

The service is massive in weight, the modelling, chasing and silversmith work being of the highest grade.

WILL WAIT ON MAYOR

A Committee Of Citizens Desire Light On Appointments

It is rumored that some of those who were at the conference held last week at the home of Emery L. Crane have organized a committee of two from each ward, who will wait upon Mayor Thompson to see what his intentions are in relation to the oppointment of certain officials in the event of his election.

Should the proposed interview not result satisfactory, it is reported that they will support Mr. Shea.

Farewell Sermon Rev. W. A. Brady

The Calvary Baptist church on Franklin street, was filled Sunday evening with a large congregation of members and friends, who assembled to hear their beloved pastor and friend Rev. W. A. Brady speak for the last time before his departure.

Through the efforts of the young people of the church, Rev. Brady was given a delightful surprise the following program having been arranged by them.

In behalf of the young people Mr. Prario thanked Mr. Brady for his kindness to them in the past. He briefly told of the many blessings to the church during Mr. Brady's pastorate of five years. Not only had the church increased in membership but through the beloved pastors efforts had been cleared of debt. He leaves the church in a standing which is a credit to any clergyman.

The pastor in response was very grateful for the kind words, and spoke in appreciation of the loyalty of all the church people who have made his labors lighter and pleasant. He was sorry to say farewell, but should always remember them kindly.

Rev. Mr. Brady will enter Brown University to continue his studies, and has the best wishes of the people of Quincy.

False Alarm.

The one round from Box 32 at 12 o'clock noon today was a false alarm. Some boys on their way home from school opened the box and pulled the hook part way down. The alarm coming as the clock on the First church was striking made it possible to tell what was sounding.

Why Copeland street at West Quincy and not Crescent and Willard and others!

Why School street and not Granite street!

Why only a part of Beale street, and only a part of Brook street at Wollaston!

Why Sagamore street and not Newbury avenue!

Why not say no wooden or frame building except dwelling houses and private stable" shall be built on any street of the city! It is some of our best residential streets that need to be protected from small wooden stores quite as much as our main streets.

For instance, there is talk of a garage on Adams street; suppose the plans are for a large unsightly wooden building. In a few years some one may want to erect a wooden block for stores on on Coddington street opposite the beautiful Library grounds. Some one may want to have a large livery stable on Saville street, or Faxon avenue, or Russell park, or Whitney road. It will be too late to include these streets in the ordinance after contracts are made.

The ordinance goes too far in many respects and amounts to nothing where needed. There is no necessity of requiring brick blocks on Washington street in Ward Two, or at West Quincy, or Wollaston, or Atlantic, We would all like to see them of brick, but they are not required in the suburban sections of Boston, and Quincy cannot afford to place such restrictions.

New mercantile buildings of wood have recently been erected in Dorchester on Neponset avenue, Adams street, Dorchester avenue, Dudley street, and other main thoroughfares, which are more thickly settled than Quincy. If the city can prohibit wooden stores, they may soon prohibit one story and two story buildings for business purposes. Or they may say none of over three stories shall be erected. Possibly the proposed ordinance is unconstitutional.

No reasonable objections can be advanced against many of our wooden mercantile buildings like the store of H. H. I. Smith at Quincy Point, the Doble hall building on Franklin street, the Craig block on Copeland street at the corner of Garfield, the post office building at Wollaston, the Rice building on Sagamore street at Atlantic, or others.

To give an inspector of building authority to say that a building damaged by fire shall not be rebuilt, but must be removed, is another arbitrary measure. The writer has not read the proposed building ordinance, but sees many defects in the provision as reported, which demands careful consideration.

Interest at Quincy Point.

The vestry of the Quincy Point church was filled Sunday evening, a large part of the audience being voters, who were interested in the No-License campaign. T. B. Pollard presided, and there were strong addresses by Theophilus King and Edward Southworth portraying the evils of intoxicating liquors. Selections by the Granite City male quartet added much to the program.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put toge her, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

The Pure Food Law.

WE Have Always Maintained that the best that money could buy was always the cheapest in the end, because it is always the bargain hunters that have to pay the DOCTOR, buying as they do IMPURE foods of all kinds, FOODS that are UNFIT for ANY PERSON'S STOMACH, being mixed as they are with different kinds of PRESERVATIVES and SECRET PREPARATIONS to take the place of GOOD PURE FOODS. And some dealers selling these goods at a GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE over the pure kind, GUARANTEE you NOTHING, but—"Poor Health to You and Your Family," and although you can buy the "just as good kind," you can save nothing as that kind is unhealthy and dangerous to the whole human family. Now our standard is to always sell the best of everything and the steady increase of our business year after year proves to us that we have the right idea, and we know it must be very satisfactory to our many customers to feel that what they buy at our store is ABSOLUTELY PURE and HEALTHFUL and the Food Laws are being strictly enforced by us. Our Goods are all GOVERNMENT INSPECTED and also carefully inspected by us before they are put on sale or sent to your homes, and although you pay perhaps a few cents more to us than some dealers charge, don't you think it is money well spent, considering all things?—YOUR HEALTH, which is the greatest blessing we can have,—think well about this and we know you will agree with us and do your trading where you know the goods can be depended upon to be absolutely Pure.

We have just received our season's pack of choice canned and bottled goods, FRESH and DRIED FRUITS, all kinds of Cereals, Ketchup, Pickles, Jams, Jellies, Prunes, Figs, Nuts, Dates, Table Raisins, Citron, Lemon and Orange Peel, Olives, Sardines,—in fact everything for your tastes and fancies. All the leading brands of FLOUR. Fancy New Orleans Molasses.

OUR MARKET is complete, AND REMEMBER, we sell nothing that has been doctored or filled with Preservatives to keep it. ABSOLUTELY NOTHING but Carefully Selected Meats are on sale at OUR STORE. Stamped with the Government Inspection Stamp, that insures to you and to us the point of perfection, which we are always striving to reach for the benefit of our trade. Remember Thanksgiving will be a day of Thanksgiving to you after you have visited our store, for our stock is new, large and wholesome.

We will have a grand display of that great National Bird, THE TURKEY, the same VERMONT KIND we have always sold you,—Chicken, Fowl and Duck, direct from WILLIAM R. Councilman Nichols—This is an important matter. He did not wish to rush it through without understanding what it was. He moved to lay on the table and the ordinance be printed and forwarded to each member.

Councilman Chase, chairman of the Ordinance Committee, spoke at length. A building ordinance has been long delayed. This year the large committee soon found there were many opinions and a smaller committee would be better. Two practical builders were selected, J. W. Pratt and N. G. Nickerson, to formulate some simple rules. They worked nearly all the year upon

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The suggestion of biennial elections for this State has been tossed into the arena of public discussion once more, and strangely enough it seems to have awakened more interest in Connecticut than here. Some of her leading journals warn us against an experiment that in that Commonwealth has been productive of increased political corruption and blighting civic indifference. We have already quoted the Hartford Courant's views on the question, and the New Haven Register regards the proposition in much the same light. It says: "It is one of the strangest phenomena of the times in which we are living that at the very time when the people have need for their own protection to be nearer their Government, the proposal receives encouragement to remove them still farther away from it."—Boston Transcript.

KILLED BY BLOWS

Doctors Testify That Grace Brown Was Not Drowned

DRAMATIC COURT SCENE

Gillette's Tennis Racquet Produced--Witness Declares That Girl's Injuries Could Have Been Produced With It

Herkimer, N. Y., Nov. 27.—Two reputable physicians who were present at the autopsy held on Grace Brown's body went on the stand at the Gillette murder trial and testified that the girl received blows before entering the water that were sufficient to cause death, and which, in their opinion, did cause death in this case.

These physicians, Dr. A. O. Douglas and Dr. E. H. Douglas, both of Little Falls, but not relatives, declared under oath that Grace Brown was not drowned. It was their opinion that she died from blows which killed or rendered her unconscious before her body dropped into Big Moose lake. They declared that there was not enough water in the lungs of the body to warrant a theory of drowning.

The substance of their testimony, which occupied the entire day, was that Grace Brown received one blow that cut her upper lip and loosened a tooth, that another blow discolored her cheek and ruptured a blood vessel within it, and that a third and more severe blow on the scalp caused a bloodclot to form on the brain. The bloodclot on the brain, the physicians swore, was sufficient in itself to have caused death.

Former Senator Mills, Gillette's senior counsel, conducted the cross-examination. He spent several hours in an effort to shake the testimony of these witnesses and, while he succeeded in confusing Dr. A. C. Douglas somewhat, neither of them went back of their opinion that Grace Brown was slain before she was immersed in the waters of Big Moose lake.

The theory advanced by the defense was that the blows could have been administered after death, and their line of questioning indicated a contention that the girl in drowning rose to the surface three times and each time struck the overturned skiff and received the injuries alleged by the witnesses and state to have been inflicted before she was immensed in the lake.

Yesterday was the first time that the district attorney made an attempt to prove directly that Grace Brown was actually murdered. He had spent a week in showing a possible motive and so connecting Gillette with the case that the jury would look to him as the guilty person should murder be proved at the close of the state's case.

When Dr. E. H. Douglas first took the stand he was asked to describe the injuries he found on Grace Brown's body at the autopsy. "There was a contusion of the left cheek, the left eye was discolored, the nose was swollen and on the right side of the head there was a contusion such as could not have been caused after death," he said.

"Is it possible to distinguish marks on a body as to whether they are inflicted by mechanical force before or after death?" asked the district attorney.

"It is," was the reply.

The witness swore that an ecchymotic condition such as was found in Grace Brown's skull could not result from a blow received after death.

"Could you swear that these injuries were inflicted before the death of the subject?"

"I could."

"By mechanical force?"

"They were."

Here Dr. Douglas was handed Gillette's tennis raquet, and asked if the injuries he found could have been produced by that. A dramatic moment ensued as he swung the racquet in the air experimentally. "The injuries could have been produced by this weapon, using either end," he said.

Dr. Douglas stated that the bloodclot on the brain was as large as a 10-cent piece, and again said that it was caused by external violence before death. Dr. Douglas further said that, in his opinion, such a bloodclot would cause death, although there were cases where persons recovered from severe contusions. On cross-examination the doctor insisted that the girl did not meet death by drowning, except as a contributory cause.

Mr. Mills asked the witness if the lips of a drowned person would not swell anyway. "Yes," was the answer, "but not until 12 days after death."

The autopsy was made on the second day after Grace Brown's body was found.

KILLED BABES AND SELF

Providence Woman Left a Pathetic Note For Husband

Providence, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Charles G. Checkley and her two children, a girl of 2½ years and a 5-months-old son, were found dead in a bedroom at their home last night by the woman's husband when he went home to supper from the jewelry factory in which he is employed.

The woman, who is believed to have been despondent since the birth of her youngest child, because of continued illness, was 30 years of age. She had secured the door of the bedroom with a chair, turned on the gas from a wall bracket and, taking her two children in her arms, lay down with them to await death. On the sewing machine in the kitchen the woman's husband found a note which read:

"To the dearest man on earth: I am unhappy and want to die, so I might as well go now. You will find my pin and ring on the little girl's heart. I love my husband, my home and my children. Don't blame me. In want of thought we may do harm when we mean to do good. God have mercy on me and forgive my sins."

Many Errors In Ballot Counting

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 27.—Another change in the result of the recent Democratic caucuses may come through the recount of the vote for the candidate for mayor. On the first returns of the caucus Mayor Thurston was apparently victorious. Later it appeared that he had been defeated by his opponent, J. L. Alyward, by a few votes. Two days later there came another change and Thurston forged ahead with a lead of 109 votes. A recount of half the city last night reduced Thurston's lead to 5 votes. The balance of the city will be recounted tonight.

Woman and Child Killed

Manville, R. I., Nov. 27.—Two fatalities occurred here, Miss Mary Versailles of Woonsocket falling from a train and having her head crushed, while Margaret Miller, 4 years old, was burned and died within a few hours. Miss Versailles had been in Woonsocket and was returning home to Manville. It is supposed that she failed to get off the train when it stopped and, on discovering her mistake, jumped from the train. The Miller child set fire to herself by playing with matches.

Bank Wrecker to Leave Prison

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 27.—D. H. Lewis, cashier of the Farmers' National bank of Vergennes, which failed on April 13, 1901, will be released from the house of correction within a few days, his sentence, through good behavior, expiring at this time. The Farmers' bank was closed because of a shortage of $90,000. Lewis was sentenced to a seven-year term and his assistant, J. W. Ketchum, was given the same sentence for complicity with the cashier in wrecking the bank.

Discussed Fire Insurance

Boston, Nov. 27.—A movement, which may be the forerunner of an investigation of fire insurance rates in this state, had its inception here when 75 business men from different parts of the state met and discussed the present rates and conditions, which many of them declared to be unfair and unjust. A resolution was adopted favoring state supervision and regulation of fire insurance companies. A committee of 25 was appointed to continue the agitation.

Policeman Seriously Shot

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 27.—In arresting Anson E. Barrows, who had retreated to his back yard armed with a shotgun after threatening his mother, Officer David R. Walsh was badly wounded last night, receiving the entire charge of the gun in his right shoulder and side of the face. He rushed at Barrows, however, and succeeded in overpowering the young man. Walsh will probably survive his injuries.

The Pomeroy Inquest

Bakersfield, Vt., Nov. 27.—An inquest was held on the death of Harlow T. Pomeroy, who was killed in his room at Bingham academy by the discharge of a gun in the hands of his chum and fellow student, Harlie Ovitt. All the evidence indicated that the shooting was accidental, but Justice Blodgett did not render his formal finding.

Laborers' Lives Crushed Out

New Haven, Nov. 27.—The lives of three Italian laborers were almost instantly crushed out and five others were injured seriously by the collision of a workcar crowded with Italian laborers on the railroad and a string of three heavily loaded gravel cars in the Cedar Hill railroad yards here.

Boston, Nov. 27.—The board of aldermen passed an order directing the law department of the city to prosecute a number of contractors engaged in work for the city for alleged violations of the eight-hour law.

Million Dollar Bridge Over the Yalu

London, Nov. 27.—The Tokio correspondent of The Times telegraphs that the Japanese have decided to bridge the Yalu river at Yongampo. The span will be 3239 feet long and the bridge will cost $1,000,000. It will be completed at the same time as the Wiju-Mukden railway, thus establishing direct communication between Mukden and Fusan.

UNION OF NATIONS

The Nearest Canada Will Ever Come to Annexation

NEVER CLOSER THAN NOW

Time Has Passed, However, For Northern Neighbor to Enter Into Reciprocal Trade Relations With Us--The Newfoundland Fishery Question

Boston, Nov. 27.—That annexation of Canada by the United States is an absolute impossibility, but that a union of the two great nations was a possibility, was the keynote of the address delivered last night before the members of the Canadian club at their annual dinner by Lieutenant Governor Fraser of Nova Scotia.

"Never in the history of the world," he declared, "can annexation be made possible, but the time may come when these two countries will join in a union for the freeing of the oppressed and give liberty to all mankind."

The principal guests of the occasion and the only speakers were Fraser and A. B. Morine, ex-finance minister of Newfoundland. The guests were welcomed to the city by Mayor Fitzgerald, after which Fraser was introduced.

Speaking on the subject: "The Relations between Canada and the United States," Fraser said in part: "The relations between Canada and the United States were never closer than at the present time. Trade was never broader between them, and it should be still broader in every manner than we find it today. Our relations with the United States are the same now as always, except that wiser councils which have argued with you in the interests of reciprocity have failed in their endeavors and we have been obliged to seek other avenues for our commerce. There was a time when we were ready and willing to enter into reciprocal trade relations with you, but that time has passed, and today we do not feel that morning, noon or night we should be the first to ask you for your trade, for we seem to have nothing which you appear to care for.

"We seek the best relations possible with our cousins to the south of us, for there is no thought at home of annexation. The time may come when these two great nations may join in a union for the mutual protection of the land and sea, but annexation can never come in the history of the world. A time may come when these two great people shall see that oppression shall cease, and these two nations shall then join in a union and fire the volleys which will give liberty to all mankind.

"There is, I believe, a mission for these two mighty nations to which we belong, and that is a mission, under God, for the betterment of our fellowmen."

A. B. Morine, who spoke on "The Newfoundland Fishermen," during the course of his remarks declared that the Gloucester fishermen were all wrong when they believed that the Newfoundland fishermen would ultimately come to their terms. "Instead," said Morine, "no matter if the Newfoundland fishermen find utter ruin staring them in the face, they will not yield one minute point, and the sooner the Gloucester fishermen realize this the quicker amicable relations can be reached between the island and the American fishermen."

Mr. Morine's address was purely historical, dealing with the treaty of 1818, the Blaine-Bond agreement of 1890 and the Hay-Bond arrangement of 1904, both agreements failing to become laws, the former through the objection of Canada and the latter on account of bitter opposition by the Gloucester fishing interests.

"Newfoundland wants free entry of her fish into this country, and in return is willing to give free bait, simply because she had rather trade with the United States than any other country in the world. This is the view of the majority of Newfoundland fishermen, a view in which I do not coincide, but which, under right and proper conditions, will sooner or later bring the fishing industry of the island and America closer together."

Hoped Crapsey Would Retract

Buffalo, Nov. 27.—Bishop Walker is quoted in reference to the resignation of Dr. Crapsey as saying: "I deeply regret his declination to retract his statements. His letter simply reasserts his sayings. To me it is a source of great sorrow that Dr. Crapsey could not see his way to get back to his old teachings in which he was so able."

ENJOYED VOYAGE

Roosevelt Returns From Trip to Panama and Porto Rico

MESSAGE ON THE CANAL

President Will Give His Views In a Special Document to Congress--Uruguayan Diplomat Registers a Complaint

Washington, Nov. 27.—Completing a remarkable trip to Panama, during which he traveled several thousand miles by sea and visited not only the isthmus, but Porto Rico as well, and voicing his thorough enjoyment of the entire voyage, President Roosevelt returned to Washington at 10:42 o'clock last night.

The trip up the Potomac on the converted yacht Mayflower, to which he and his party were transferred from the Louisiana at Piney point yesterday afternoon, was made without special incident. As the Mayflower pulled into the dock at the rear of the office of the commandant at the navy yard, Miss Ethel Roosevelt, the president's daughter, and Miss Hagner, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, were awaiting to greet the party. There was also at the dock to welcome the president Captain McCoy, U. S. A., and Lieutenant Commander Key of the marine corps, the president's aides, and the commandant and other officials of the navy yard and the Uruguayan charge d'affaires.

The president landed within 10 minutes after the arrival of the Mayflower. To those who met him he stated that he had had a delightful trip and that he was feeling fine.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt reached the White House shortly after 11 o'clock. Speaking of his trip, the president said: "We had a very pleasant—very enjoyable time and I am deeply impressed with the United States navy, with Panama and with Porto Rico."

The Panama canal, it was stated by the president, will be a subject of a special message, and consequently on that subject he will say nothing at this time.

Pedro Roquena Bermudez, charge d'affaires of Uruguay, was the only member of the diplomatic corps who greeted the president upon his arrival. At the front entrance to the navy yard Bermudez was delayed by the marine guard, who refused to admit him without the consent of the commandant. After being delayed for 20 minutes he was admitted, and when the president appeared on the deck of the Mayflower the diplomat was the first to rush up the gangplank. He protested to the president against the manner in which he had been treated by the marine guard.

The usual Tuesday cabinet meeting will be held today. The president left here on his trip Nov. 8 and today's cabinet session will be the first since the elections.

An unfortunate incident occurred in the lower Potomac in connection with the president's trip up the river. The yacht Oneida, in the service of the District of Columbia naval militia, and on which were the commanding officers and others of the militia, had dropped down the Potomac to Piney point to welcome the president and was returning when a gasoline boat in tow capsized and Melvin L. Cleveland, 19 years old, boatswain's mate, was drowned.

Girl's Neck Broken by Fall

New York, Nov. 27.—Josie Grimaldi, 15 years old, lost her life by a fall in a fire in a four-story tenement house in Brooklyn last night. The fire started in the cellar of a grocery store, forming the ground floor of the tenement, the occupants of which were all Italian families. The Grimaldi girl, who lived on the third floor, climbed out on a fire escape, but the girl was too faint from the smoke she had inhaled to keep her footing. Her neck was broken by the fall.

Would Disfranchise Negro

Walthall, Miss., Nov. 27.—The new south rapid industrial development was last night attributed by Congressman Williams to the substantial disfranchisement of the negro. He said that from 1890 to 1900 Mississippi had made greater increases in manufacturing than Connecticut, and the south generally a greater percent than New England. As a solution of the negro problem, Williams favored importing white laborers.

A Job For Divers

Sydney, N. S., Nov. 27.—It has been decided to make an examination of the bottom of the Arctic steamer Roosevelt, so as to insure perfect safety on the trip to New York, and with that purpose in view divers will make an examination. There will be no general repairs, as at first anticipated.

Climate Not Bad For Americans

Washington, Nov. 27.—Not a single American died on the canal zone from disease in the last three months, according to a report from Colonel Gorgas, the chief sanitary officer on the zone. In October the deaths among the canal employes were 86 negroes and two whites.

Trolley Collision Injures Women

New York, Nov. 27.—Ten women were injured, one of them dangerously, in a collision between Eighth avenue trolley cars last night. One of the motormen lost control of his car, which dashed into the other which had come to a stop.

NEW SCALE IN OPERATION

Fall River Employes Will Get $30,000 More Each Week

Fall River Mass., Nov. 27.—The 30,000 operatives in the cotton mills of this city entered upon a new schedule of wages yesterday, 10 percent higher than hitherto, and nominally the schedule in force prior to 1893. Inasmuch as many changes have been made since that year, wages will actually be higher than in 1903 when 10 percent is added to the scale recently in force.

Throughout the city the greatest satisfaction prevails at the outcome of the wage agitation. It is reckoned that nearly $30,000 more will be put in circulation weekly because of the advance.

The era of prosperity is already accompanied by talk of new mills. Already one corporation with a capital of $600,000 has been launched, and it is stated that at least two factories contemplate the enlargement of plants to the extent of two new mills.

Moore Was In the Wrong

Washington, Nov. 27.—Complying with instructions from the president, Secretary Wilson has administered to Chief Moore of the weather bureau a reprimand for his action of urging a printer named Cooper to pay certain strike assessments imposed by the Typographical union. Following his refusal to pay and his expulsion from the union, Cooper was ordered by Moore to be transferred to New Orleans, but after a report of the civil service commission had been submitted he was ordered reinstated in the office at Washington.

Got Off With Minimum Penalty

Chicago, Nov. 27.—President Lincoln of the Pullman company said, referring to the cases brought against the company by health authorities of Pennsylvania, charging the sale of milk and cream said to contain formaldehyde: "The minimum penalty was imposed, although the court found that the preservative was not put in by the defendant nor with its knowledge, but that the law required the punishment in order to compel the exercise of greater care in respect to the sources of supply."

Kaiser Didn't Like Stablewski

Rome, Nov. 27.—Referring to the death at Posen of Mgr. Stablewski, Roman Catholic archbishop of Posen, a high Vatican authority says that no matter what complictions may arise regarding the Polish school question, the death of the prelate relieves the Vatican temporarily of a most difficult situation, as the pope had been in daily expectation of a demand from Emperor William for the removal of the late archbishop.

Magda Wreck Identified

Quebec, Nov. 27.—Captain Koenig, who was sent to Red Island to investigate reports of a wreck there, returned with the information that the vessel lost was the Norwegian bark Magda. The Magda probably was wrecked in the storm of Nov. 16. Captain Isaaksen and his crew of 14 men and Pilot Belleder perished. The Magda evidently broke in two when she struck the rocks.

Attack on Tillman Feared

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Following Mayor Dunne's refusal to preside at a meeting to be addressed tonight by Senator Tillman, because of the strenuous objection made to Tillman's appearance by the negroes of Chicago, it has been decided that the senator shall be attended by a bodyguard today from the time he arrives in Chicago until he has delivered his address and left the city.

Woman Shoots a Diplomat

Paris, Nov. 27.—Pierre Merlou, who was minister of finance in the Rouvier cabinet and who was appointed French minister to Peru last September, was shot on a boulevard here last evening by a woman named Allemagne. Two bullets struck Merlou in the leg, but the wounds are not dangerous. The woman was arrested and declared her act was one of vengeance.

Abused by Tramps

Steubenville, O., Nov. 27.—Edward Coulter, a teamster, was walking home when tramps attacked him, took his money, stripped him of his clothing and left him unconscious, with his body lying across the still burning coals of a fire. He revived sufficiently to roll away from the fire and give a description of his assailants, who have not yet been arrested.

Hungarians Want Coolie Labor

Vienna, Nov. 27.—Owing to a threatened strike of farm laborers in the county of Bekes, Hungary, the agricultural society of the district decided unanimously, in the event of the laborers proving obdurate, to hire 20,000 Chinese coolies to replace them. It is doubtful, however, if the government will permit such a step.

CHANGE NOT PLEASING

Long-Term Federal Convicts Sent to Atlanta Penitentiary

Boston, Nov. 27.—Eight long-term federal prisoners, including Mate Thomas E. Bram, convicted of the murder of the captain, his wife and second mate of the bark Herbert Fuller, eight years ago, left last night for Washington, where they will join other prisoners and eventually find lodgment in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

The convicts, who have been in the state prison at Charlestown for several years, were, besides Bram, John Davis, Dr. Robert Thompson, E. B. Wiggin, Louis Berkowitz and Morris Levenson, all counterfeiters, with several years' imprisonment before them, and Frank Webb and James F. Blake, postoffice robbers.

The prisoners left the prison dressed in new clothes and handcuffed in pairs. Nearly all of them were displeased at the change, especially Bram, who wept when told that he was included in the squad.

New York, Nov. 27.—Marshal Henkel, with several deputies, brought 24 federal prisoners from Sing Sing state prison to this city and put them aboard a special train for Atlanta. The government's plan is to transfer federal convicts from various districts to the penal institution at Atlanta, where they can be maintained at less expense than elsewhere.

Miss Farrar's American Debut

New York, Nov. 27.—Before resplendent New York, with all America's representative grand opera lovers as guests, Geraldine Farrar of Melrose, Mass., carried the great Metropolitan opera house's audience off its glittering pedestal of coldness, tinctured with expectation, and received an ovation never before accorded any artist, at the conclusion of her difficult portrayal of Juliet in the opening cast of "Romeo et Juliette." Miss Farrar never faltered, and the American stage was unanimously accorded the production of a native star.

Mayor Acts as Peace Maker

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 27.—Mayor Biggar has been endeavoring to have negotiations for the settlement of the street railway strike reopened and last night he got the men to agree to consider another proposition. What the new proposition will be those who know refuse to say. The cars ran all day yesterday and up till 6 o'clock last evening without being stoned or otherwise interfered with.

Platt Repudiates Interview

New York, Nov. 27.—United States Senator Platt says, concerning an alleged interview with him published in this city, in which he was quoted as saying that he would not resign his office as senator: "I have not said I would not resign. I saw no reporter. The whole interview about my refusal to resign is untrue. I have said nothing, nor am I going to say anything now."

Unpleasant Check to Honeymoon

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 27.—Russell W. Tompkins, who reached Savannah on the steamship Allegheny from Baltimore, was arrested, charged with the theft of $500 from A. J. Chewing & Co., real estate dealers of Richmond. Tompkins was on his honeymoon, having been married in Baltimore last Friday. He admits taking the money.

Woman an Alleged Slayer

New York, Nov. 27.—A coroner's jury returned a verdict holding Mrs. Anisia L. De Massey responsible for the death of Gustav Simon, a shirtwaist manufacturer, who was shot last week in his factory. Mrs. De Massey, who had been employed by Simon as a designer, received the verdict of the coroner's jury calmly.

Somebody Lost Fingers

Warsaw, Nov. 27.—The police yesterday searched the house in Piwna street, near the governor's palace, where a bomb exploded last Saturday, and discovered a plant for the manufacture of bombs. Two human fingers also were found, indicating that Saturday's explosion was accidental.

Trenton, Nov. 27.—The court of errors and appeals, in one of the appeals of Mrs. Lillian Duke, whose husband, James B. Duke, obtained a divorce from her, affirmed the decision of Vice Chancellor Pitney on the question of jurisdiction. This leaves the case to be tried on its merits.

MANY SUDDEN DEATHS

From Poisonous Rheumatism.

The Disease Has Its Dangers—Should Be Taken in Time.

Rheumatism has long been regarded as a trouble which, while it might be painful, was not necessarily dangerous. Very few persons, it was thought, ever died from Rheumatism. Recent investigation among scientists has proved, however, the utter fallacy of such a belief. Three-fourths to seven-eights of the sudden deaths, heart failures, etc., are due primarily to neglected rheumatism. The Rheumatic Acid Poison is allowed to stay in the system until suddenly one day it grips the muscles of the heart and all is over.

Rheumatism is curable if the proper treatment is used. Liniments, plasters and all local applications may relieve the pain for a short time, but no one ever heard of their permanently curing a case of rheumatism. The only way to cure Rheumatism is the Uric-O way. Neutralize the Rheumatic acid and drive it from the system. That is what Uric-O does. No matter what is the kind or character of the Rheumatism, it is all caused by the same Rheumatic poison. Lumbago, Muscular or Articular Rheumatism yields at once to Uric-O. The store of E. J. Murphy is the home of Uric-O in Quincy, and he can tell you all about its wonderful virtues and the many cures it has made right here in your own city. It sells for 75c. and $1.00 a bottle. If you wish to test Uric-O before purchasing, a letter to the Smith Drug Co., Syracuse, N. Y., will bring you a trial bottle free of all charges.

CITY COUNCIL

them. Was free to admit if all had a copy they would be able to find some trivial faults. The only possible w to get an ordinance this year was to pass this. It was imperative an ordinance should be passed. In succeeding years it could be amended.

Councilman Stone spoke in favor of the ordinance. The men who drew it are men of experience. He disliked to see it fail to pass this year. If you start to pull it to pieces it means no ordinance.

Councilman Nichols believed in having an ordinance, but would like to know what it is.

Councilman Chase — the gentleman would get a clear idea by its being read again. Unless he was a practical builder he would not understand the regulations. If the Mayor finds any glaring defects he will return it and it can be amended. Let us have a foundation on which we can build.

Councilman Polk thought there would be time enough at the nevt meeting. He favored the motion to print.

Councilman Bass moved an amendment to the motion of Councilman Nichols that the ordinance be printed in the Daily Ledger and Advertiser. This he later amended by making it read ordinance with appeal and penalty clauses, which he was required by the chairman to reduce to writing.

The amendment of Councilman Bass was lost.

The motion of Councilman Nichols was lost, 9 voting in the affirmative and 11 in the negative.

The order then took its second reading and upon motion of Councilman Chase the rules were suspended.

Councilman Bass believed the order provided for brick buildings in certain districts. Personally he believed this a good thing if not too extensive, yet to insist upon it will depreciate value of real estate.

Councilman Stone—Section 40 will enable persons who desire to be relieved from the ordinances to do so, if it is necessary or a hardship. He believed it would do real estate good, and in twenty years instead of buildings such as we have today, we will have good buildings. He did not think it a hardship. In fact the fire district is not as much as it looks. Today you may have a good house and a man may build a shack next to it.

Councilman Polk said he was called to vote on a measure of which he knew nothing. He believed the councilmen should have a copy. He asked to be excused from voting.

His request was refused, 9 voting in the affirmative and 9 against.

Councilman Hull felt the same as Councilman Polk. He would like to make some inquiries before voting.

Councilman Spargo was opposed to rushing the order through.

Conncilman Stone—If not passed tonight it means we do not have any ordinance.

Councilman Chase—It is a fact that the committee spent three hours debating on a minor five line clause. It means that if we begin to pick it to pieces we cannot pass it this year. On Hancock street we have many unsightly one story shacks which this ordinance will prevent in the future. The great majority of the buildings in the heart of the city are unsightly, and fire traps. It is time this was stopped. If the ordinance is shown to be a hardship there is a method of appeal. There was no intent to jam the thing through the Council but he felt delay ould mean it would not be passed this year.

Conncilman Hull moved to amend by making the penalty $500 instead of $100. Motion lost.

Councilman Nichols understood that fire district No. 1 all buildings other than dwellings shall be of brick. That does not seem consistent. I plea for more time to study the ordinance. I am not prepared to vote. The appeal clause provides it shall be made to three officials of the city. It seems to me that the tendency would be to depreciate values. There was no reason why it should be rushed through.

Councilman Chase—We are up to a place where we can have an ordinance. Why not let the Mayor have an opportunity to approve it?

Councilman Bass did not believe in shirking duty and placing it on the Mayor. He believed the appeal clause would mean one-man power.

Councilman Chase—No political aspect was considered.

Councilman Sawyer was sorry to see so much objection. He hoped the Council would get together and pass it.

Councilman Hunter hoped the order would pass.

The order was passed to be ordained, 16 voting in favor and 4 against, as follows:

YES:—Beal, Chase, Crane, Deacon, Donovan, Flaherty, Ferguson, Gilotte, Gilson, Hobbs, Hull, Hunter, Moir, Polk, Sawyer, Stone,—16.

NO:—Bass, McGilvray, Nichols, Spargo,—4.

ABSENT:—Cannon, Gross,—2.

NOT VOTING;—President Piper.

Adjourned at 9.44 until Dec. 3.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put toge her, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. ST. CLAIR CAPTURED

The Desperate Negro Run Down This Morning Near Bangor

The desperate negro, Minot St Clair Francis, who escaped from jail at Thomaston, Me., about two weeks ago, was captured this morning according to a dispatch from Bangor, Me. The dispatch says that he was captured at Glenburn about two miles from Bangor.

Francis is the same man who escaped from Bridgewater a year ago and who at one time was thought to be in Quincy. Be led his pursuers a merry chase at that time before he was captured. He did the same thing the present time.

Several times during the pursuit the posse thought they had him surrounded, and his capture was but a matter of a short time. When the net was drawn in, however, the bird had flown.

Quincy Monument Wrongfully Attached

A case of much local interest was decided Monday in the Superior Court at Dedham when the jury returned a verdict in favor of Elcock & Sons of this city against George H. Field, deputy sheriff, for $334.60, and, sustained the finding of the local court.

Elcock & Sons manufactured a monument in the spring of 1905 for one Adams of Jersey City, which was to be delivered, according to the written contract, at "Pier 50, New York," on or before March 15, 1905.

They had no sooner placed it on the cars at West Quincy, than Mr. Field attached it on a claim of Phillip F. Garrity, also of this city, against Adams. Garrity refused to surrender the monument on the presentation of Elcock & Sons, and they were finally obliged, after much trouble and expense, to cut a new monument to replace the one attached.

The verdict sustains the contentions of Elcock & Sons in every respect and Mr. Garrity, through Mr. Field, must pay them the value of the monument and the expense which they incurred.

Elcock & Sons were represented by George W. Abele, Esq., and Mr. Field by J. J. McAnarney, Esq.

Swedish Americans For Good Government

A new organization, called the Swedish Good Government Association of Quincy, has recently been organized in this city; its membership being composed of American citizens born of Swedish parents. The Sailing of The Vermont

There should be a large crowd at the Quincy Point bridge on Thanksgiving morning to see the battleship Vermont start from her berth at the Fore River shipyard for her trial trip.

High water Thursday is at 10.15 A. M., and as now planned the Vermont will pass through the bridge draw about 9 o'clock. The tugs that will assist in getting her out into the harbor are expected at 8 o'clock. They will begin at once to get her out into the channel.

When she leaves the Fore River she will have a crew of about 450 men and about 50 government inspectors and officials.

It is probable that she will not go to Provincetown on Thursday but will steam about the harbor to limber up and anchor in the harbor until Friday, when she will go into dry dock at Charlestown.

The official trials are to be held off Rockland, Maine, where the Vermont is due Dec. 4. On Wednesday, Dec. 5, she will have her standardization trial. Thursday, Dec. 6, she will have her four-hour run, and Friday, Dec. 7, her 24-hour run. She will then return to her berth at Quincy.

Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch

The annual entertainment given by the St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church, for the benefit of the fair, was held in the parish house Tuesday evening. Long before he hour every seat was taken and when the curtain went up nearly a hundred were standing in the available places. The program consisted of choral singing by members of the guild, whistling solos by Mrs. John J. Crain, and the presentation of the three act play, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

The Guild was fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Crain who is gifted with a wonderful and unique ability to whistle. She was accompanied by Miss Newcomb, and rendered the following solos: "Songe d'Amour," by C. Zilbulka; "Bonnie Sweet Bessie," "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin, "Mocking Bird" and "Danza Mexicana."

The following cast presented the drama:

Mrs. Wiggs,	Miss Alice Deacon

Aeronauts Marvel at Brazilian's Successful Flight.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA

Prediction That Achievements In Near Future Will Surpass the One Made In Paris With "Heavier-Than-Air" Flying Machine—First Important Demonstration of the Kind Made In Public—Cost Not Large.

M. Santos-Dumont's accomplishment in flying 685 feet in a "heavier-than-air" machine in Paris the other day was the chief topic of discussion at a meeting of aeronauts and men interested in aeronautics recently held at the Hotel Astor in New York.

"It marks the most positive advance yet made in the science of aeronautics," said Mr. Augustus Post. "There have been many reports of the successful performance of similar feats, but M. Santos-Dumont has publicly demonstrated the entire practicability of the 'heavier-than-air' principle. One of the features that should not be lost sight of is the fact that such a machine as his can be made for not to exceed $3,000, while $100,000 would not buy a Lebaudy airship of the gas bag design. As soon as the public becomes accustomed to the operation of these airships they will be as numerous and more popular than automobiles."

"More than anything else the achievement of Santos-Dumont will compel other inventors to come into the open and make public what they have accomplished," said Mr. J. C. McCoy, who made many ascents in Paris last summer in company with Lieutenant Lahm and as his own pilot. "It marks the beginning of a new era in aeronautics," he added.

Stimulated by the feat of Santos-Dumont, Dr. Julian P. Thomas has renewed his experiments with aeroplanes, which he abandoned last summer for ballooning. Dr. Thomas was associated with Mr. Israel Ludlow in the experiments which resulted in the almost fatal accident to the latter in Florida last spring when his airship collapsed.

"Without in any way discounting the achievement of M. Santos-Dumont," said Dr. Thomas, "I believe I have discovered a more correct principle of maintaining equilibrium than his appears to be. I know from my experience in ballooning that one is more than anything else anxious to know how he is going to land. When that problem is solved the rest is easy. I have already set to work carrying out my own ideas. Like all other inventors, I expect of course to succeed, but at least I have enough confidence in my plan to risk my own neck in trying it out. I shall have the aeroplane finished within a few months, and by next spring at the latest I shall probably either have succeeded in proving my theory or disproving it to my own cost."

A. M. Herring, who has been experimenting for a dozen years with gliding machines and aeroplanes, said that M. Santos-Dumont's feat was chiefly of importance as having been the first public demonstration of the practicability of flying with a machine without the aid of a gas bag.

"It is furthest from my thoughts to appear to disparage M. Santos-Dumont's performance," he said, "and he deserves extreme credit for what he accomplished, but the fact remains that the Wright brothers in this country have far exceeded his feat, although not in public tests. I do not blame the public for being suspicious of claims which are made without proof, however, and the fact that thousands of persons saw with their own eyes the flight of M. Santos-Dumont entitles him to all the praise which has been accorded to him.

"With the experience of additional flights he ought to gain confidence and a greater facility in guiding his airship. He is proceeding on the same general principles as almost all aeroplane inventors nowadays, and his ship is probably the type of what will finally become the standard airship when the automobile and even steam and electric lines are displaced for all except freight hauling and short distance runs.

"M. Santos-Dumont regulated himself in light air all right, but the machine of the future must be largely automatic in adjusting itself to the air currents if it is to be at all safe. By many accidents it has been determined that the mind of man is not quick enough to act in these sudden emergencies."

M. Santos-Dumont's aeroplane feat brings the problem of aerial navigation no nearer to solution than it was a year or two ago, according to the opinion of Orville and Wilbur Wright of Dayton, O., inventors of probably the first successful flying machine.

"The latest flight made by M. Santos-Dumont does not appeal to us with the same degree of importance that it does to the people on the other side of the water, where the aeroplane is comparatively new in the problem of aerial navigation," said the Messrs. Wright. "In fact, the flight does not equal one which we made nearly two years ago at Kittyhawk, N. C., with our machine and which we have bettered several times since. At that time, with a twelve horsepower gasoline engine, we covered twenty-four miles in fifty-nine seconds in the face of a wind above the normal velocity. Our motive power, furnished by a gasoline engine, was only one-fourth that used by M. Santos-Dumont, while our ballast exceeded that carried by the Brazilian several hundred pounds."

ARE POTATOES FRUIT?

This and Like Query About Melons Puzzle Commerce Commission.

Are melons fruit? Are potatoes fruit? What is fruit? These and a number of analogous questions have been propounded to the interstate commerce commission, and, although the members of that august body at first supposed that some practical joker was trying to enjoy himself at their expense, they have found out that the questions are asked in all sincerity, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune. It appears that the railway rate law provides that railways may furnish transportation for caretakers to travel with "fruit" and may also furnish transportation to such caretaker to return to the point of shipment.

The intention of congress appears to have been to provide for the proper care of perishable fruit which requires to be watched assiduously in order that it may not freeze or become overheated. But now the great potato carrying roads come forward and say that they have been in the habit of furnishing transportation to caretakers accompanying carloads of potatoes, and they gravely ask, "Are potatoes fruit within the meaning of the law?"

The Colorado melon growers insist that their product requires as careful handling as any fruit that goes to market, and the roads which handle the Rockyford and other melons demand of the interstate commerce commission "Are melons fruit?" How many other varieties of fruit the antipass provision of the railway rate law will ultimately develop the commissioners decline to predict, but they have determined to hold a special session to define "fruit" as the term is used in the law, and their decision seems likely to furnish a new and extraordinary definition for a word which has usually been regarded as one of the most easily defined in the English language.

GIFT FROM CANTERBURY.

Ambon For National Cathedral Constructed of Historic Stones.

Randall Thomas Davidson, archbishop of Canterbury, will commemorate his visit to Washington two years ago by presenting to the National Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul at Washington a valuable and historic gift, says a Washington special to the New York World. During the recent repairs made on Canterbury cathedral the archbishop garnered some of the oldest stones in the edifice and had them made into an ambon, or pulpit. These, sculptured by William D. Caroe, architect in charge of the cathedral, will be given to the American cathedral in memory of the Christian martyr Stephen Langton, once archbishop of Canterbury.

The ambon stands ten feet in height and nine feet in length. The left hand bas-relief represents the venerable Bede, the earliest Christian author, dictating the last chapter of the Anglo-Saxon translation of the gospel of St. John on his deathbed, A. D. 735. The right hand bas-relief represents the martyrdom of William Tyndale, translator of the first printed English Bible, 1525.

The ambon will be placed in the little sanctuary, which is now being enlarged.

MICHIGAN GIRL'S CONSTANCY

Her Promise Kept After Her Fiance Had Lost Eyes and Hands.

A notable case of constancy on the part of a girl is shown by the presence recently of a bridal couple, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nelson of Ishpeming, Mich., at the Plankington House in Milwaukee, Wis., says a correspondent of the Kansas City Star. Mr. Nelson is blind and has lost both hands, but that did not deter his bride from keeping her promise, and they were married a few days ago in the Michigan city and soon after started on their wedding trip.

Mr. Nelson was the superintendent of a mine in Ishpeming. His fiancee was the daughter of a man in comfortable circumstances. They had been engaged about a year. Mr. Nelson while carrying a box of dynamite caps fell, and the entire box exploded, destroying both his eyes and tearing one hand off and one arm at the elbow.

Tree Smuggling.

Smuggling of trees seems a peculiar action, but several women have engaged in it—not as a business, of course, but on their return from European trips, says a correspondent of the New York Press. The trees are those attractive little Dutch cedars for Christmas. In American cities their price is high, whereas over in Rotterdam fine, fat little trees in the most showy of majolica pots may be bought cheap. A thrifty matron from the Quaker City who was abroad recognized the possibility of such importations, and she bought a round dozen before she left Holland. When she disembarked on this side with her little forest she suavely explained that she was passionately fond of green things and sympathizing friends had presented the plants to aid her in passing the time on the ocean. The customs inspector did not have the courage to suggest the lumber duty applied to such trifles, so in they came. Friend are following Mrs. Penn's example.

Gold Mounted Cabbage Head.

Tightly encircling the root of a cabbage which he recently pulled up in his truck patch, George Weil, a farmer of New Columbus, Pa., found a gold ring which he lost early in the spring, says a Wilkesbarre special dispatch to the New York World. It had fallen in such a way that the young shoot had grown through the center of it and the full grown cabbage had overlapped and nearly hidden it.

WHOLESALE POISONING

Alleged Killing of Five Persons to Secure Insurance Money

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—Bridget Carey, aged 32, was arrested late last night, charged with having poisoned her husband, Patrick, her two children, Mary, aged 8 years, and Annie, aged 6, who died a week ago, and Patrick and Cecelia Cook, tenants in the Carey house. All of the alleged victims died within 11 months and the police allege that Mrs. Carey benefited by their deaths to the extent of $1000 through the collection of insurance.

The woman's arrest followed an investigation made into the death of her two children, which occurred last week. An analysis of the stomachs of the children was made and it was found that the little girls died from arsenical poisoning.

According to Detective Donaghy, it was learned that the children were insured for $125 each, and that Mrs. Carey collected this amount after their deaths. The police officials say that they learned that the woman had secured rat poison, and, on further investigation, it was found that Patrick and Cecelia Cook, brother and sister, who lived with Mrs. Carey, had died under suspicious circumstances. Miss Cook died on Aug. 13 and on Sept. 17 her brother died suddenly in much the same manner as his sister. The police officials say that Mrs. Carey secured the insurance on both persons.

After the death of the children the police learned that the woman's husband died suddenly about 10 months ago, and, from physicians who were called in at various times during the illness of the victims, they were urged to make a rigid investigation.

Great Pressure on King George

Rome, Nov. 28.—King George of Greece, who has been visiting King Victor Emmanuel, has left Rome for Greece. Rumors are current that King George's hesitation before finally calling on the pope resulted from an international struggle in the matter. France urged him not to go, and in this she was supported by Great Britain and Russia, while the Vatican pressed the advisability of the visit through Austria-Hungary and Germany. Italy was the only power indifferent.

At Least Twenty-One Lives Lost

Owensound, Ont., Nov. 28.—All hope that the steamer J. H. Jones, missing since last Thursday, was sheltered somewhere along the Georgian bay, was abandoned when word came from Penetang that Indians had found one of the Jones' boats on Christian Island, together with some wreckage. Twenty-one people were on board the Jones when she left here and others may have been picked up before the disaster occurred. All are probably lost.

THE DOUGHTY TILLMAN

Delivers Speech at Chicago and Shows No Fear of Threats

Chicago, Nov. 28.—The efforts of the Negro citizens of Chicago to prevent Senator Tillman from delivering an address here last night was unsuccessful. When the senator arrived in Chicago he was told of threatened injunction proceedings to prevent him from appearing on the platform and of a money consideration that had been offered if he would cancel his engagement, but Tillman expressed scorn for both. Until he left for Fond du Lac, Wis., today, Tillman was guarded by police nd private detectives, in accordance with an order issued by Mayor Dunne.

Senator Tillman gave his address protected by 40 detectives. In anticipation of trouble, a number of policemen were kept at nearby stations in reserve, but they were not called for. Six negro policemen mingled with the crowd which blocked the street in front of the hall. In the audience were many negroes, but they listened to Tillman's remarks good naturedly, and, although he was interrupted many times, the meeting passed off without trouble.

"No matter what the people in the north may say or do," said Tillman, "the white race in the south will never be dominated by the negro, and I want to tell you now that, if some state should ever make an attempt to 'save South Carolina' we will show them in their fanaticism that we will make it red before we make it black.

"God Almighty made the Caucasian of better clay than the Mongolian or the African or any other race. The Ethiopian is a burden carrier. He has done absolutely nothing for history, nor has he ever achieved anything of great importance. There are no great men among the race. No doubt many of you have listened to the oratory of the greatest colored man of this country—Booker Washington. He had a white father, however, and his brains and his character he has inherited from that father."

Senator Tillman then told his audience of the attacks on white women by negroes in the south and declared that the people of the north were in a great measure responsible for this state of affairs.

French Warships Go to Morocco

Toulon, Nov. 28.—The French squadron, commanded by Admiral Touchard, left here at 12:30 o'clock this morning for Tangier upon the receipt of instructions from the ministry of marine. The fleet is composed of the battleships Suffren, Saint Louis and Charlemagne, and is accompanied by the transport Lanive.

London, Nov. 28.—In a dispatch from Tangier, the correspondent of The Times describes the attack on his house. He says the fighting occurred in full view of the French and Spanish warships, but no assistance was given or offered. Owing to the manner in which French officers have been insulted by natives when ashore in uniform, they have been ordered always to land in civilian dress.

Alleged Bank Cheats Indicted

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—W. F. North, treasurer, and M. S. Collingwood, cashier, of the Real Estate Trust company at the time of its failure, have been indicted by the grand jury for complicity in the alleged crimes which brought about the collapse of the institution. North is charged with perjury in making false statements as to the financial condition of the bank and accepting deposits when he knew the company was insolvent. Collingwood is charged with accepting deposits under the same circumstances, and also with embezzlement.

Laborers Caught In Quicksand

New York, Nov. 28.—Several laborers were caught in a cavein at Claremont Park, the Bronx, last night. Two men are known to have been killed, and it is believed that three others were buried under the falling earth. The men were working in a sewer excavation 25 feet below the surface when they struck a bed of quicksand. The creaking of the timbers which supported the earth on either side of them, warned the laborers, many of whom hurried up ladders and escaped before the quick moving sand covered their companions.

Negro Soldiers to Make Appeal

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 28.—Sergeant Harris, Jacob Frazier, Mingo Sanders, Thornton and Holly of the negro troops discharged at Fort Reno, are in this city on their way to make an appeal to President Roosevelt. Harris said: "We do not go so much to ask for reinstatement as to ask that our discharge papers carry with them a record of service. Some of the men have served 25 years and we believe that much is due them."

DAY FOR DOCTORS

Four on the Stand at the Gillette Murder Trial

TESTIMONY FOR STATE

Efforts to Show That Miss Brown Died From Blows on Head and Not by Drowning--Clergyman Contradicts Own Testimony

Herkimer, N. Y., Nov. 28.—An abundance of technical testimony, along the lines of conditions ordinarily found in the bodies of persons who have met death by drowning, marked Tuesday's sessions of the Gillette murder trial. Four of the five doctors employed as experts by the state to perform the autopsy on the body of Grace Brown, Gillette's alleged victim, were on the stand during the day.

Some of the questions put to the experts by counsel brought out further confirmation of the claim that there were bloodclots on the girl's brain and under the scalp. Other questions were put to the doctors by Mr. Mills, Gillette's senior counsel, to bring out opinions tending to show that the conditions found in the dead girl's body were similar to those sometimes found in the bodies of drowned persons and that the conditions they found at the autopsy are recognized by medical authorities as indications of drowning.

A wordy war between opposing attorneys resulted from the district attorney's effort to introduce in evidence the foetus taken from Grace Brown's body at the time of the inquest. District Attorney Ward succeeded in getting the exhibit admitted in evidence, although it was shown to no one except Dr. E. H. Douglas, who identified it.

An interesting point was reached when Attorney Thomas of the defense extracted from Rev. Cuthbert Frost, a Lowville clergyman, a contradiction of a very important statement made by him on the witness stand last week. At that time Frost swore that Gillette broached the subject of the Big Moose tragedy to some guests at Arrow Head inn, where he stayed after leaving Big Moose, where the Brown girl died. Yesterday Frost admitted that he was not sure whether Gillette or someone else spoke of the Big Moose incident.

The defense laid great stress on whether or not there was water in the girl's stomach, how much, if any, and what indication of drowning such conditions should be. The doctors swore that only two tablespoonsful of fluid were found in the stomach.

Dr. Hayes testified that he made an examination of the stomach a few days ago, the organ having been preserved. "There was a very small quantity of liquid in the stomach and it had no odor about it. There was no sand or mud in the stomach."

On re-cross-examination Hayes swore he made the latest examination of the stomach about Nov. 20. He did not know where the stomach had been since July, but it was in a sealed package. The fluid would not disappear or evaporate in that time, he said, but the fluids would keep unchanged indefinitely in such a case.

Dr. S. S. Richards, called to the stand just before closing time, stated that the injuries to Grace Brown's body were inflicted before death. He enumerated the injuries, as had the physicians preceding him on the witness stand.

No Shooting Over Heads

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 28.—The street railway strike has not yet been settled. The men met to consider a proposal to settle the dispute by arbitration, but no definite conclusion was reached. Colonel Hemming, in command of the troops, issued ball cartridges to his men and instructed them that if there was any more rioting they were to shoot straight into the mob and not over their heads.

An Odds and Ends Dressing Table Box. Parisian Workbag Which Resembles a Melon

AN "odds and ends" box is an ideal thing for a dressing table, inasmuch as it does away with the rather finicking little trays and boxes generally found there.

To make this most useful ornament you will require a medium sized round cardboard box from which the lid has been taken, divested of its rim and cut into four equal parts. The interior of the box is lined with quilted silk and divided into four compartments corresponding with the sizes of those cut from the cover by means of satin covered cardboard fixed inside. The outside of the box is covered with any pretty material you like and the top edged with cord. Each piece cut from the lid must now be carefully lined with quilted satin matching the lining of the box and covered on the outside with the material used, embroidering on each piece respectively the words "Fancy Pins," "Hairpins," "Pins," "Trinkets." In order to give a slightly raised appearance cover the outside of each piece of cardboard with a little wadding and put the material over it, finishing off with cord used round the box. Each piece has a little loop at the extreme end, by means of which it can easily be lifted up, and is attached to the box as shown in the illustration.

Of course such a box can be greatly elaborated. It makes a pretty jewel case and can be decorated with painting, applique, embroidery or ribbon work.

Parisian Workbag.

Workbags are always popular presents, and the "melon" workbag, which is a Parisian creation, is one of the prettiest. To make it you must take eighteen long shaped pieces of cardboard measuring about two inches wide in the middle and gradually tapering off at the ends. The length of the pieces depends on the size of the workbag.

These pieces of cardboard must now be covered with satin that is a near match to the tints of a melon and lined with pale green silk. When completely covered sew them all together, with this proviso—that three of them, although joined, are left free at the outer sides, being sewn, however, a little way up from the bottom. The joining of the pieces must be very neatly done, and you can shade the outside in oil painting to imitate the markings of a melon. Draw some leaves on velvet and cut them out, stiffening them at the back by means of a little black muslin pasted on; this, of course, being done before the leaf is cut out to obtain nice sharp edges. These leaves are arranged at the top of the melon, a few falling down one side, and the vinelike tendrils and stalk are imitated in thick green silk wire. The "slice" cut out serves as an opening through which work can be placed in the bag and fastens at the top by means of a silk loop at the end and a velvet covered button hidden under one of the leaves. If one of the wire tendrils is bent into a round it will be found useful either for carrying the bag or to hang it up by.

Melon bags are really most artistic, and in small sizes are invaluable for holding pieces of crochet or knitting.

Garland of Ribbon Roses.

For the young woman who has a fondness for pretty evening gowns make as a Christmas gift a garland of ribbon roses. This is done by making a rosette of loops of narrow ribbon and tying a knot in the top of each loop. In the center fasten a few pieces of yellow silk to make the stamens, the ends being knotted. These roses are from one to three inches in diameter and may be connected by strands or knotted wired stems of narrow green ribbon. Fasten the whole on a strip of stiff white bobbinet or scrim, and my lady can bedeck herself in the gayest and prettiest fashion.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Tomorrow is the day of family gatherings and renuions. Relatives who have perhaps not met for a year will gather about the festive board and make merry. If you have guests from out of town, especially former residents, kindly notify the Daily Ledger.

Now that the directors of the Woodward Institute have notified the School Committee that they desire their building all day, it is up to the city to push to completion the new High school building. It was not expected when the privilege was granted that the High school pupils would stay at the Woodward as long as they have, and the Woodward pupils are suffering as well as the High school pupils.

If the building ordinance receives the signature of Mayor Thompson, and becomes a law, it will probably stop the building of store property in the outskirts of the city, especially at Quincy Point, West Quincy and Atlantic. Even in the vicinity of City Square there will for some time be but little building. This will not remove any of the unsightly buildings, but will cause rents to advance. We need a building law, but not one as strict as the one passed by the City Council.

When too late, yesterday, it was discovered that there were not pages enough in the regular edition of the Daily Ledger to contain the feast of news which was in type, and it was necessary to omit, very much against our wishes, several columns of live local news of importance. The Councilmen had talked so much, and had transacted such a gist of business, and there was so much timely advertising which had to be inserted, that there was no alternative. Not to be caught twice the same way, we promptly announced eight pages for today, and the balance of the week, and each issue will be of unusual interest. There will be twice as much reading as usual, and several political "ads."

Drift of Opinion.

☞In a city like Boston, for example, is there any reason why there should not be erected in the congested district industrial schools which shall be opened to the youths who must soon close their school career? Here instruction can be given in the industrial arts. These building might be used in alternation by different classes, and children also continuing their membership in other "regular" schools. Such buildings could be occupied from nine o'clock in the morning until nine in the evening, the classes succeeding one another according to schedule and the equipment being in constant use. Here boys and girls alike may be actively employed in genuine tasks—which prepare the way for active participation in some paying industry, when their school days are over.—From "Home and School," by Sarah Louise Arnold in the New England Magazine for December.

Birthday Remembered.

James D. Kelley, the well known South Quincy fish merchant, passed the 57th milestone in his life on Tuesday. In the evening nearly one hundred of his friends took occasion to call upon him at his home to extend congratulations. There were numerous addresses of a congratulatory nature, also singing. During the evening he was presented with a handsome pipe.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucuos surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

MASONIC INSTALLATION

Grand Lecturer F. L. Putnam Makes It Very Interesting

There were no dull moments on Tuesday evening at the public installation of the new officers of Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., for the work was done by Wor. Frederick L. Putnam, the Grand Lecturer of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, had a ritual of his own, and embellished it with witty stories which were always appropriate.

The attendance was unusuall large, numbering about 200 members of the order and ladies. For many of the guests it was the first time that they had had an opportunity to inspect the commodious and beautiful Masonic apartments, and they envied their husbands and fathers and brothers because thereof, and said now it was not surprising that they were so late home when they went to lodge.

Plants from the greenhouses of William Patterson and beautifully gowned ladies, added all the charm that the pretty hall required, and selections by the popular Harvard Quartet embellished the ceremonies, being particularly good on this occasion, It is only once in two years, when a new master is installed, that there is a public installation and they are grand events.

The lodge was very fortunate in securing Grand Lecturer Putman as installing officer, and he was assisted by Wor. Bro. Charles M. Shute, who is master of the lodge at Melrose. Among the specially invited guests were Rt. Wor. Francis E. Pope of Brockton, a past deputy, and the masters of the lodges in the 24th Masonic district, with ladies.

These officers were installed:

W. M.,—Hartley L. White.
S. W.,—Charles Sampson.
J. W.,—Albert M. Parker.
Treas.,—Alexander Falconer.
Sec.,—Walter E. Simmons.
Chap.,—Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood.

J. D.,—Arthur W. Stetson.
S. S.,—H. Everett Crane.

A pleasing incident of the evening was the presentation of a past masters apron to Wor. Joseph P. Prout, the retiring master, and reference was made to his ten years of faithful service as an officer of the lodge.

A banquet was served by Westover & Foss, which included escalloped oysters, salads, cold meats, ices, cake, coffee, etc.

Settlement in Perry Will Case

The last issue of the Inquirer and Mirror of Nantucket contains an account of the compromise in the Perry will case which is of interest to Quincy people, the contestants being the sons of the late Edward H. Perry, Edward H. Perry, Jr. and Maurice G. Perry, both well known in Quincy, the former now residing here and holding a position with the Fore River Ship and Engine Company in the painting department.

Mr. Perry left an estate of approximately $180,000. The will gave numerous legacies and provided that only a portion of the estate should go to the sons to be held in trust for them. The boys took exception to the will and the Inquirer says that their counsel, Paul R. Blackmur of Quincy, has been busy preparing to contest the allowance of the will. The executor was represented by C. H. Fiske and C. H. Fiske, Jr., of Boston. John B. Sullivan, Jr., in Mr. Blackmur's office was associated with him. Each side had secured eminent medical experts to testify on matters touching the testator's mental responsibility, besides numerous other witnesses, and the case was set for hearing on Wednesday.

The contest promised to develop some sensational features and to occupy several days' time of the court, and it looked as though there probably would be four or five years bitter litigation before the case was finally settled inasmuch as there were three wills, all made within a brief period, to which the sons objected. Happily, however, on the evening before the trial, the two sides met in friendly conference and a compromise satisfactory to the heirs and principal legatees was effected through the efforts of counsel, and the disagreeable contention above referred to averted, much to the relief of all concerned.

Under the terms of the compromise an adequate sum is set aside for the benefit of the testator's widow, the residue to go to the sons at her death. All of the real estate goes to the sons as well as all the household effects and personal property. The sons also receive ten thousand dollars each in cash, absolutely.

All of the principal legacies were scaled down one-half except that to the First North Congregational church, the old Nantucket church, which, at the request of the Perry boys, is to be paid in full. All legacies of $500 or under are to be paid in full, and among them is one to Myra Spear, now Mrs. Joseph C. Morse of Quincy. The sum of ten thousand dollars is placed in trust for the benefit of certain cousins, and in certain events to go to the boys. All the rest of the estate is to be held in trust for the benefit of Edward H. Perry, Jr., and Maurice G. Perry, sons of the testator. The trustees to be appointed to hold all these trust funds are Albert G. Brook, cashier of the Pacific Bank of Nantucket, and Paul R. Blackmur, ex-city solicitor of Quincy.

Prizes for Trolley Trippers

The current issue of Tri-State Tourist, the monthly publication gotten out by the Passenger Department of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony street railway companies, announces a very interesting trolley trip story contest.

It expresses a realization of the fact that the nearly 900 miles of track of these two systems pass through some of the most interesting and delightful scenery and historical places in the country and that thousands of people during the past season have enjoyed trips through these places. It now asks that these trolley trippers shall put some of their most pleasant experiences on paper.

The Passenger department wants to know what are generally considered the most delightful trips that can be made on the lines of these two systems, understanding that different people see things differently. The contest which has been started will close March 1, and is not to be judged entirely on literary merit. Everybody except employees of the two systems are eligible to enter and the best stories of the best trips taken by the contestants over these lines will receive some very handsome cash prizes.

Public Interest

IS NOW CENTERED ON

The Pure Food Law.

WE Have Always Maintained that the best that money could buy was always the cheapest in the end, because it is always the bargain hunters that have to pay the DOCTOR, buying as they do IMPURE foods of all kinds, FOODS that are UNFIT for ANY PERSON'S STOMACH, being mixed as they are with different kinds of PRESERVATIVES and SECRET PREPARATIONS to take the place of GOOD PURE FOODS. And some dealers selling these goods at a GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE over the pure kind, GUARANTEE you NOTHING, but—"Poor Health to You and Your Family," and although you can buy the "just as good kind," you can save nothing as that kind is unhealthy and dangerous to the whole human family. Now our standard is to always sell the best of everything and the steady increase of our business year after year proves to us that we have the right idea, and we know it must be very satisfactory to our many customers to feel that what they buy at our store is ABSOLUTELY PURE and HEALTHFUL and the Food Laws are being strictly enforced by us. Our Goods are all GOVERNMENT INSPECTED and also carefully inspected by us before they are put on sale or sent to your homes, and although you pay perhaps a few cents more to us than some dealers charge, don't you think it is money well spent, considering all things?—YOUR HEALTH, which is the greatest blessing we can have,—think well about this and we know you will agree with us and do your trading where you know the goods can be depended upon to be absolutely Pure.

We have just received our season's pack of choice canned and bottled goods, FRESH and DRIED FRUITS, all kinds of Cereals, Ketchup, Pickles, Jams, Jellies, Prunes, Figs, Nuts, Dates, Table Raisins, Citron, Lemon and Orange Peel, Olives, Sardines,—in fact everything for your tastes and fancies. All the leading brands of FLOUR. Fancy New Orleans Molasses.

OUR MARKET is complete, AND REMEMBER, We sell nothing that has been doctored or filled with Preservatives to keep it. ABSOLUTELY NOTHING but Carefully Selected Meats are on sale at OUR STORE. Stamped with the Government Inspection Stamp, that insures to you and to us the point of perfection, which we are always striving to reach for the benefit of our trade. Remember Thanksgiving will be a day of Thanksgiving to you after you have visited our store, for our stock is new, large and wholesome.

We will have a grand display of that great National Bird, THE TURKEY, the same VERMONT KIND we have always sold you,—Chicken, Fowl and Duck, direct from WILLIAM R. DRAKE of Braintree, and he knows how to dress them so as to please the eye as well as the palate. They don't grow nicer than he has. Fruit and vegetables in abundance, and don't forget our famous LA TOURANE COFFEE, no dinner complete without it.

Yours Respectfully,

JOHNSON BROS., CITY SQUARE

A Candidate For Reelection

The name of Councilman Otto Gelotte will appear upon the official ballot of Ward One, as Republican Independent, for the office of Councilman from the Ward, and should receive the careful consideration of the voters who believe in looking carefully after the interests of the city. It has long been an established custom to return to office, for a second year, those who have served faithfully and desire to be returned. There seems to be no valid reason why this custom should be deviated from in the case of Councilman Gelotte.

As a member of the City Council of 1906 he has a clean record. He has been faithful and conscientious in all matters. He served upon two of the most important committees of that body, namely the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds and the Committee on Fire Department and Police. It is in the committee room where the worth of a councilman is made manifest and it is here that he has done his best work. All matters that have been referred to the committee of which he is a member have had his careful consideration and if faithfulness to the trust imposed upon him deserves recognition then he should be returned to the City Council of 1907 with a handsome vote.

Many matters of the greatest importance have come before his Committees the present year notably the Building Ordinance, Atlantic school building, etc., necessitating much of his time as frequent meetings have been held. He has given freely of his time for this purpose and there has been no meeting of the City Council or of his Committees at which he was not present.

One of the matters that he has been deeply interested in, is the erection of a new school building to replace the present Coddington building on Coddington street. Early in the present year he introduced an order in the City Council calling for the procuring of plans for a new building for the Coddington district. He worked hard in favor of the order but was overruled in the Committee as the weight of opinion was that Atlantic should be the section provided for this year. His order is still before the City Council however and should be reported favorably upon next year and his presence in the Council would tend to hurry this much needed object along.

All of the matters before the City Council the present year have had his careful consideration and his vote has always been as he thought best for the welfare of the city. Councilman Gelotte has always been affiliated with the Republican party and a hard worker for the election of its candidates both as a private citizen and as a member of the ward committee upon which he served a number of years.

Athletic Meet At Coliseum

What promises to be the event of the season in the Athletic world is the open indoor athletic meet which will be held in the Coliseum, Tuesday night, Feb. 26 under the auspices of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association.

The usual list of field and track events will prevail, such as shot put, high and running broad jumps, 440-880 yards run, mile run and relays.

There will be special events open to the boys' departments of the associations and relay races between the church clubs of the city, besides the inter. Y. M. C. A. and inter-scholastic relay races.

Several dual collegiate relays are being arranged which will bring some of the fastest track men in this vicinity here for that night.

A special board track will be built and some very fast time should be made.

The local men have already begun to work up for the meet, and with careful training, should hold their own against a large field of competitors.

The meet will be under the direction of Physical Director Long, who has had considerable experience handling meets, having participated in several around Albany and Troy, N. Y.

Final Tests of The New Jersey

The battleship New Jersey returned to Boston harbor Tuesday after completing her 24-hour endurance test. This is the last of the series of government tests.

The tests this week not only included the official examination of her engines, but also the first actual test of her guns. Just where the gun test will take place is not known, but it will be out in the bay, far from the sight of land and out of the course of any of the Atlantic coastwise steamers.

The New Jersey is in command of Capt. W. W. Kimball, and as she is now in commission, she has her full complement of officers and crew.

Besides these officers, there were also on board the members of the official board of inspection and survey of the navy department from Washington. The great battleship is expected to return to the navy yard today.

As the beautiful white battleship left the navy yard, says the Herald, she was given a shrill send-off by the many tugs and steamers in the harbor. With great volumes of black smoke pouring out of her three huge funnels, the New Jersey started on what looked like a 12-knot clip out of the inner harbor.

Just as she was passing Union wharf the new turbine steamer, Gov. Cobb, left her dock, and the two beautiful craft left the harbor side by side. Together they sailed seawards and watchers on shore at first looked for a race between them. But on reaching the quarantine station the New Jersey turned her nose eastward, while the Gov. Cobb went through Broad sound.

New Study.

Superintendent Elson of Cleveland, O., has introduced a new course of study for pupils in schools of the elementary grade. The children are to be taught just what are the duties of the mayor, the city council, the police department, the board of health, and so on. These are things that coming citizens need to know about, and an early start is desirable. "Such a course," says Mr. Elson, "should be particularly valuable in a city like Cleveland, where there is a large foreign element."

Who Under Mayor Shea?

Editors Ledger:

I am wondering if the committee composed of the friends of Mr. Emery L. Crane "who will wait upon Mayor Thompson to see what his intentions are in relation to the appointment of certain officials in the event of his election," will ask Mr. Shea what gentlemen he intends to put in their places before they decide to vote for him, in case "the proposed interview should not result satisfactory."

It appears to me that it is quite as necessary to know what men Mr. Shea will appoint as it is to find out if the present Mayor will retain his appointees. "Square Deal."

STOMACH REMOVED

Authorities Probing the Death of Boy Who Was Kidnapped

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 28.—Attorney General Eastman in investigating the death of Clyde Hayward, 14 years old, who was kidnapped from a schoolhouse yard at Hampstead six weeks ago. A suit instituted by a Hampstead farmer named Williams, with whom Hayward was living, for the return of the boy, was to have been heard at Exeter today.

The lad had been placed in the Williams home by his mother. Other relatives who desired to care for him forcibly carried him off while the lad was at school and he was taken to the home of William Bremner, an uncle.

Last Saturday Hayward died suddenly. When an undertaker went to the Bremner place to prepare the body for burial he was obliged to withdraw on account of an order issued to Medical Referee Davis by Attorney General Eastman to hold an autopsy.

Dr. Davis has removed the stomach and has sent it to Professor Kingsford of the Dartmouth medical school. No further proceedings will be taken until Kingsford submits his report.

Remarkably Close Caucus

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 28.—James L. Alyward was declared the nominee of the Democratic party for mayor at the conclusion of a recount late last night. Last week, at the close of the primaries, Mayor Thurston was said to be the winner, but a few hours later it was announced that Alyward had won. On the night following the primaries the city clerk announced that an error in the tabulation of the returns had been found and the mayor was declared to be the successful candidate. Alyward demanded a recount which, when completed last night, gave him a lead of one vote over Thurston.

Francis Gives Pursuers the Slip

Bangor, Me., Nov. 28.—The state prison authorities have about given up hope of catching Minot St. Clair Francis, the notorious negro desperado who broke Thomaston jail two weeks ago, and who since has led armed posses merry and futile chases over many a weary mile of woods along the Penobscot. It is feared that the negro now is well on his way to Canada and freedom, if he doesn't conclude to stay in the Maine woods and seek work in a lumber camp.

Vote of Censure For Alderman

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 28.—Alderman Allen was last night censured by his fellow members of the board on the recommendation of Mayor Casey, and following the report of a special committee which considered the case whereby he was charged with using a hack for personal pleasure and charging it up to the committee on lighting, of which he is a member. Mayor Casey held the bill up.

More Operatives Are Benefited

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 28.—The Globe yarn mills and Sanford spinning mills of this city, controlled by the New England Cotton Yarn company, announce an advance in wages of 10 percent. The two plants employ 1100 operatives. At the Barnaby gingham mills the employes will be advanced from 5 to 10 percent. The Barnaby mills employ 450 hands.

Slashed by Highwaymen

Providence, Nov. 28.—Michele Detray, an Italian, was followed along a dark road at Cranston last night by two unknown Italians, who finally stopped him and demanded his money. When Detray gave them all he had, $2, they became angry and one slashed him with a knife. The assailants escaped. Detray's wounds are serious.

"Inherited Impulsiveness"

Berlin, Nov. 28.—The report that Prince Eitel Frederick, son of the kaiser, telegraphed his sympathy to Caruso is causing a lot of talk among the German people. The prince's friends say, in extenuation, that if a telegram was sent the action was probably due to his inherited impulsiveness.

Citizenship For Porto Ricans

Washington, Nov. 28.—The president believes the people of Porto Rico are entitled to American citizenship and will recommend that this be granted to them, in a special message to congress. The president has expressed the opinion that it is lamentable that they do not enjoy this right.

Bondsmen Superseded

The personal bondsman is fast becoming obsolete; the risk to private fortune is too great.

The corporate bond is just as rapidly supplanting the old form; and, in time, men will marvel that they were ever called upon to incur the danger of personal suretyship.

In point of safety, convenience and propriety, there can be no comparison between the two; the one is just as weak and perilous as the other is strong and safe.

The time will be when it will be thought as reasonable to borrow the key of a friend's safe as to borrow his name for surety purposes.

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title – Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

A TALK TO SAILORS

President Tells of His Experience on the Louisiana

SEES MUCH TO PRAISE

He Says Navy Has Made Great Strides and Gives Advice on Turning New Pages In Long Honor Roll of Our Country

Washington, Nov. 28.—President Roosevelt, on his trip to and from Panama on the battleship Louisiana, mixed freely with the officers and men, of whom he speaks in the highest commendation. He participated in the chief petty officers' mess and visited the branch of the Army and Navy union, which has an organization of about 50 members on the Louisiana, and whose meeting place was way down in the hold of the ship.

As the ship was passing Hatteras on the way home, the president had the engineer department steam up for three hours. The vessel made a run of 18½ knots, which is half a knot in excess of the contract requirements. On the homeward trip a vaudeville entertainment was given by the men. President and Mrs. Roosevelt and the officers of the ship were the guests of honor and occupied the front seats. There was a program of 16 selections, made up of songs, sketches, solos and monologues. Sunday, as the vessel was nearing the Virginia capes, the president delivered a speech to the men, saying:

"I wish to thank you for as pleasant and interesting a trip as any president has ever had on land or sea, and a profitable trip, too. This is the third of our great ships on which I have spent some time. I am very proud of the ships; I am even prouder of the men aboard the ships.

"I want especially to thank the engineer's force for what they did this morning. I wanted to see myself what the ship could do and I wanted them to let a link out of her, and it is more than gratifying that at the end of a three weeks' trip we should be able to do from a half to three-quarters of a knot better than her contract speed, for we went over 18½ knots. That speaks well for the engines and it speaks even better for the engineers' force.

"There was another thing which I have seen which particularly interested me, and that was the drill in loading the seven-inch guns. I did not suppose it would be possible to load these great shells with such extraordinary speed and precision.

"I want to thank you for another thing—the entertainment the other night. It was first-class; I have been with soldiers myself and as I have boys at boarding schools and college, it pleased me to see that there is so much human nature everywhere.

"Now, in closing, I hope that every man here, officer and enlisted man alike, will remember that his profession sets him apart from all other men in the country not in the army or navy by putting upon his shoulders a peculiar responsibility. You enlisted men, if you stay in the service 30 years and have taken reasonable advantage of your opportunities during that time, can then, perhaps, at the age of 50 or 55, retire on what is practically a pension of in the neighborhood of $900 a year. You have from our people a measure of hope and belief and affection such as, rightly enough, is yielded to no others.

"In return, remember that each of you is in honor bound so to fit himself in time of peace that in time of war he and his comrades can render such an account of themselves as to turn a new page in the long honor roll of United States history. It will depend on how you have done your duty in time of peace whether or not, should war come, the nation will have cause to feel pride or to feel shame.

"Your effectiveness in war cannot be acquired after war has begun. Your effectiveness will then depend upon the way in which you officers have learned to handle the ships, singly and in fleet formation, day in and day out, month in and month out, by actual practice on the high seas; it will depend on the way in which you enlisted men, under the officers, under your warrant and petty officers, have learned to handle yourselves in the gun turret and engine room.

"The navy has made astounding advances in marksmanship during the past five years and it has made it not only by developing the high quality of the individual man, but by developing the team play, without which that individual man's prowess counts for nothing. It is a revelation to any man to see how our people afloat are learning to work together so as to have, in addition to the work of the gun pointers, a perfect system of fire control, just as the ships are learning to maneuver together at a speed and a distance which 10 years ago would have given the captains heart failure if they had tried it.

"I congratulate you on your progress. Remember that the instant you become contented with it and think you have gone far enough and remain still that very instant you will begin to go back. In conclusion, let me say how glad I am to be with you, how proud as the chief executive of the American people I am of you, and how heartily I believe in the character and quality of the officers and enlisted men of the American fleet."

THE CASH BOY TALKS.

His Father's Idea of the Delights of Municipal Ownership.

"Say, boss," remarked our cash boy this morning, "my paw is red hot for minniesickle ownership. I don't know what that is, but paw says everybody is going to own everything and divide up the profits. He was telling ma about it last night.

"Ma asked him where the people would get the money to buy those things, as they would cost millions of dollars.

"Paw said, 'Issue bonds.'

"'Yes,' said ma, 'but how will you pay the bonds when they are due?'

"'Issue more bonds,' said paw.

"'But how about the interest?' said ma. "Won't you have to tax the people for that?'

"'Why, no!' said paw. 'Pay the interest with bonds.'

"'I don't see how you could do that,' said ma.

"'You don't, eh?' replied paw. 'Now, when we went to housekeeping, didn't I pay for all our furniture by giving a note, and when it came due didn't I give the man another note? You women know nothing about finance. You wait until the minniesickle ownership gets in power, we will divide the profits among the people, and no one will have to work. We will all be Vanderbilts. Won't you be proud of your hubby when he becomes part owner of all public utilities? You see, madam, there are some things you don't know.'

"And then paw looked wise. Ma stood and gazed at him for some time and then said:

"'Yes, there are some things I don't know, and one of those things is this: If there is a man more fit for the lunatic asylum than you, I don't know him.'

"Then I commenced to whistle 'Everybody Works but Daddy.' Say, boss, you see that lump on the back of my head? Paw has had that tune poked at him before, and I wasn't looking when his old shoe came flying my way."—Yonkers Statesman.

LONG LIVE THE BOSS!

Municipal Ownership Would Make His Position Impregnable.

Referring to the recent announcement that 51,146 persons are on the payroll of New York city, the Newark Advertiser declares that in the event of municipal ownership of street railways, electric light and gas plants, ferries and other public utilities the city employees would constitute a political army that would make a change of administration impossible.

It recalls the fact that 25,000 city employees in Philadelphia kept Philadelphia in the hands of the corrupt Durham machine for years, and only a great popular uprising overthrew the grafters.

"If Durham had had control of the street railroads and other public utilities in Philadelphia through municipal ownership," it observes, "he could have laughed at popular uprisings. He would have been as absolute in his authority as the czar."

The point is well taken.

In other cities the political situation under public ownership would be as it would in Philadelphia and New York.

Bosses may be overthrown and grafters turned out whenever the public will it at present. Public ownership of all public utilities would end this. It would bind the people hand and foot and deliver them into the hands of political grafters.—Long Branch Record.

HOW CITIES LOSE MONEY.

Municipal Plants Pay No Taxes and Reduce Tax Receipts.

The subject of lost taxes is one that deserves far more attention than it usually receives from advocates of municipal ownership. There is scarcely a municipal plant in this country which mentions this item in its reports, although it is just as much an element in cost of production as coal and wages. The omission is readily overlooked, because it is a negative expense involving no direct payment, but only a loss of income to the city.

If you own a store for which you are receiving a good rental and dispossess your tenant in order to occupy it yourself the rental value of the store becomes a charge against your business, just as it was previously a charge against your tenant's business, and you are out of pocket unless your profits exceed the rent you formerly received. Similarly if a city buys out or otherwise dispossesses a public service corporation the real, personal and franchise taxes formerly paid by the corporation become a charge against the operation of the municipal plant that succeeds the corporation, and the city is out of pocket unless the profits of its plant exceed the taxes lost.

M. O. In Chicago as Dead as Caesar.

One of the most remarkable reversals of public opinion on record is that which has taken place in Chicago in the past year in the matter of municipal ownership and operation. The municipal ownership theory, which a little more than a year ago flourished here with so much vigor as to attract the attention of the entire civilized world, is now the deadest duck in the pond. Apparently nobody believes in it any longer. Certainly nobody ever talks any more about it.—Chicago Journal.

When Officials Are Efficient.

When the administration of the departments now in charge of our local public officials show better results in economy and efficiency, it will be time, and not until then, to consider an enlargement of their responsibilities.—Everett W. Burdett.

PEARY'S FAILURE

Was Due to Six Days' Storm and Open Weather

NO PLANS FOR FUTURE

Explorer Thinks Relay Station System For Finding Pole Is Superior to Use ot Canvas Canoes, as Tried by Nansen

Boston, Nov. 28.—Commander Robert E. Peary paused a couple of hours in this city last night on his long journey from the farthest north, 87.06, to Washington, where he hopes to spend Thanksgiving with his family. He was accompanied by Mrs. Peary, who met him at Sydney when he landed from the Roosevelt last Saturday.

Commander Peary said that he should stop a few hours in New York today in order to see members of the Arctic club and would leave for Washington in the afternoon. He will report at the navy department later in the week and may see President Roosevelt.

He said that he could not say whether he would make another attempt to find the pole. He reiterated his statements that his failure this time was principally due to the six days' storm and the unusually open weather last spring in the Arctic.

He was asked if he could not have made better progress by using canoes, as did Nansen. In reply Peary said that it was not feasible to use canvas canoes with so large a party, and that he was satisfied that his method of attacking the pole by a series of relay stations was the best. He pointed out that Nansen in his dash had only a single companion and the two were able to cross the open flow in their canvas canoe. The Peary expedition this year had a large force of men and dogs. He said that he had no plans for the future as far as Arctic expeditions were concerned.

Commander Peary and his wife stopped long enough in the railway station after alighting from the train to have their pictures taken by a couple of newspaper photographers, after which they went to a hotel for dinner and then went to the South station, where they boarded the midnight train for New York.

Commander Peary appeared in excellent health, strong and rugged, with considerable tan on his face. Mrs. Peary also seemed to be enjoying good health.

Bullet Through His Head

Newark, N. J., Nov. 28.—R. L. Barrington was found dead on the floor of his office in this city. A revolver lay beside the body and a bullet had passed through the head from left to right. Miss Carrie Utter, who was in Barrington's employ, was temporarily detained as a witness pending a determination of whether the case was one of suicide. According to Miss Utter, Barrington had been despondent because he was losing money at his business of teaching women to decorate china.

Pettingill Loses Attorneyship

Washington, Nov. 28.—President Roosevelt has directed the dismissal from office of Noah B. K. Pettingill, United States district attorney for Porto Rico. While district attorney he had, in the capacity of a private attorney, entered suit against another government official, charging gross misconduct in office. The action of the district attorney, the president said, amounted practically to malfeasance in office.

Suicide of Oil Magnate's Wife

Pittsburg, Nov. 28.—While hospitals were being searched and the police were seeking for Mrs. Addison H. Gibson, 41 years old, wife of a wealthy oil operator of this city, the woman lay dead on the third floor of her handsome residence, where she had committed suicide. Mrs. Gibson had been ill and despondent. She had shot herself twice and had also taken a quantity of arsenic.

Two Thousand Dollars Reward

By C. B. LEWIS

Copyright, 1906, by P. C. Eastment

Had you asked any inhabitant of the village of Glendale over ten years of age about the widow Clifton and her daughter Bessie you would have received the following summary:

"Been a widow several years; husband didn't leave her much; house and lot are mortgaged for $1,500, and how they are ever going to pay it off I can't see. They used to be stuck up, but have had to come down; widow sews and Bessie gives painting and music lessons. Some folks say that the girl expects to marry a rich man, but she'll die of old age first. She may be good looking, but what does a rich man want with a poor girl?"

It was true that Bessie gave lessons, as stated, and that dresses were made in the house. There were no relatives to come to their financial assistance when the husband and father died, and the mother and daughter had to work or starve. But for the mortgage they could have pulled along fairly well. It was their horror. They knew they never could pay it. It was so near the value of the village house and lot that if any one bought the place there would be very little left over and above.

Bessie had an artistic nature and had taken some lessons in drawing and painting, but she knew that her work would not stand criticism beyond a certain point. She had been going into the city twice a week to get beyond this point, but amid all her harassments this was discouraging work. It meant, with other things, a pinching of the family purse until mother and daughter were sometimes hungry and found nothing in the cupboard to satisfy the feeling.

On this particular day and date as Miss Bessie was returning home on the trolley after a rather discouraging day she read in the evening paper an account of a robbery at a first class hotel. The robber had got away with considerable money and a large amount of jewelry, and the victims had combined and offered a reward of $2,000 for his arrest. What purported to be a good description of the man was given.

"If I only could come across that man!" sighed Bessie as she let the paper fall. "Fifteen hundred dollars of the money would pay off the mortgage, and the other five hundred would surely put me on the road to success. I am sure I'd know him from this description, and if I got eyes on him he should not escape. I'd"—

And then she began to wonder whether he would surrender at discretion or make a fight for it. She was almost oblivious to her surroundings when a voice at her elbow said:

"Excuse me, miss." And a man sat down beside her. He was privileged to, as the car was crowded, but she felt a little nettled that he had broken in on her thoughts. It was two or three minutes before she glanced at him, and then for an instant her heart almost stood still.

"A middle aged man, smooth face, benevolent look, blue eyes, prominent nose, scar of an old burn on the left cheek, large hands, two front teeth filled with gold."

That was the description of the robber in the paper still lying on her lap. Her eyes had been caught by the scar on his face. She saw the prominent nose, the smooth face, the scant hair, the large hands. She gasped for breath and was all a-tremble.

The man had a small satchel on his knees, and there was no doubt that he was leaving the city with his plunder. He presently turned to glance out of the window, and she saw the benevolent look. Miss Bessie Clifton had her man! Fate had walked him right into the car in which she sat.

It was a suburban trolley line, and she had fifteen miles to ride. She had planned in imagination what she would do if she ran across the man, but now that she was face to face with the problem things were different. He looked like a strong man, and notwithstanding his benevolent look he might not submit to capture without bloodshed.

There were about a dozen people on the car, men and women. Some were getting off at intervals and others getting on. Miss Bessie sized up all the males, from motorman to the little country tailor with a bundle, and she couldn't say that any of them looked heroic. On the contrary, if menaced with a revolver and warned to keep hands off they would probably sit still and let the man escape. She looked at the conductor a second time to see if she had missed anything heroic in his looks, and he grinned in reply and started to start a flirtation. She realized that there was only one way to do, and after a long breath and a bracing of her feet she started in to do it. She sought to make her voice very determined as she said:

"Sir, I know who you are, and it will be useless for you to try to escape. You had better submit quietly."

"Yes?" replied the stranger as he turned to her with a look of surprise on his face. "You know me then?"

"Your description is right here in this paper, and you answer to it exactly."

He took the paper from her hand and read the article, or, rather, skimmed it over like one who had read before. Then he handed it back with a smile and queried:

"So I am caught, eh, and that by a girl?"

"You are the robber mentioned, and when we get to Glendale I shall call an officer to arrest you. If you try to leave the car before that I shall denounce you and call for help."

"I see. It appears that you are a very determined young lady. May I ask how long you have followed the detective business and whether you are a private officer or attached to some regular force?"

"I—I just saw your description in the paper, and then I saw you," she faltered, wondering when his desperate resistance would begin.

"And you wanted the reward, of course. If this is your first detective work, let me compliment you on your perspicacity. The plunder is, of course, in this satchel."

"It is, sir. Don't talk to me in this honeyed way, as I am on my guard. The paper says you are slick, but you are fairly caught this time."

The benevolent robber chuckled in his throat. He did more. He laughed outright and seemed real pleased. It was three or four minutes before he said:

"As you are the only one who has the least suspicion of me, and as I do not care about a term in state prison, suppose we make a compromise. Let me have you $2,000 and slip quietly off the car."

"You needn't try anything of that sort with me," answered the girl. "I want the money badly enough, but I don't propose to become your accessory."

"I was in hope you might see the thing in a different light. Are we quite certain to find an officer at Glendale?"

"Quite, sir."

"Then I suppose I shall have to submit quietly, but it does seem hard for a man who has gone through what I have to be arrested by a girl just as I was clear of all entanglements. I shall not seek to get away. It seems to be my fate."

He seemed to speak in honest tones, but Bessie did not relax her vigilance, and as soon as the car stopped at the terminus she clutched the robber's sleeve while she looked for a policeman.

There was one present. He came forward, and, to her astonishment, he smiled at the robber and said:

"I see he was on the car. I have got a man to follow him all right."

"This—this man is the robber!" exclaimed Bessie as she tightened her hold.

The policeman laughed, the other smiled, and it was a minute before the officer said:

"That's a pretty good one. Miss Clifton, let me introduce you to Detective Banker."

"But, if you aren't the robber, who is?" she asked of the man whom she had terrified for ten miles of the trip.

"He was on the same car with us, my dear girl. The description given out to the newspapers was a blind. He came out here and hid the plunder and is now here to get hold of it again and clear out. I didn't want to arrest him until he had the goods on him. You simply made a little mistake, but I shall not hold it against you."

Poor Bessie went home with tears in her eyes. She had felt that the money was as good as in her hand, and to lose it and be humiliated besides hurt her feelings dreadfully. It was a fortnight before anything else happened. Then the man holding the mortgage on the home announced that it had been satisfied, and a messenger boy left a letter at the house containing a $500 bill. In substance the letter said:

"I am not exactly a detective, but one of the victims of the robbery. I, like you, was doing a little detective work on my own account. I made more out of it than you did, as I got the man and the plunder. I am willing to divide the honors with you. As it was the first time I ever arrested a robber or was ever arrested for one, please excuse the liberty I take and believe me sincerely yours."

And the name signed at the bottom was that of a philanthropist who had done hundreds of good deeds before that one.

The Chivalrous Red Man.

Near the end of a brilliant match between our oldest university and the Carlisle Indians one of the Indian backs suddenly got away with the ball and was off down the field with nothing between him and the goal posts but one man. If the runner succeeded in getting by him it meant everlasting athletic glory for himself and perhaps a victory for his small college over this mighty institution of learning, containing the flower of the civilization which had swept his forefathers away from the lands they once possessed. The crowd in the stands had arisen, gasping in their excitement, as crowds always do at such moments. But just as he had almost gained the coveted line that one man, a famous sprinter, brought the runner down with a beautiful tackle. The stands rocked with relief, and the usual "piling up" of other players took place. As the two lay there together, the fair haired representative of New England, while still clasping the dark skinned descendent of American savagery, felt something fumbling and presently became aware, at the bottom of the heap there, that his right hand was being shaken. "Good tackle," muttered the Indian.—Jesse Lynch Williams in Outing Magazine.

Useless Salutes.

"I wonder," said the man of a statistical turn, "I wonder how much powder is destroyed daily in useless salutes?"

"There must be a lot," said the frivolous girl, "but I suppose women will go on kissing one another just the same."

A Rare Treat.

Lovers of Shakespeare in goodly numbers enjoyed a rare treat Tuesday afternoon at The Tuileries, Boston, when Honorable William Everett of Quincy read "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Calmly seated throughout the reading, Dr. Everett held the audience to closest attention. Having a flexible and well modulated voice and rare mimetic ability, he was able to put the scenery in the lines and with change of voice and facial expression command the character to appear. While Mr. Everett was notably good in the shorter dialogues, the longer passages were especially well read, being frequently greeted with applause.

Old Times Recalled

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

Through the kindness of a friend I received a copy of the Ledger of Nov. 18 which announced the death of Charles Lewis Badger. Mr. Badger being older, I was not a school mate, but a life long friend. He, his brother Leone and myself were California forty-niners. We three mined together at Morgan's bar on the Tuelornne river in the season of 1850. Mr. Badger's death calls up a great many memories of early days in California.

There were quite a large number went out from West Quincy in the year when gold was discovered in California of which number I can now recall none that are alive. Among those who went in the early days were the Badger brothers; the Corliss brothers, Joseph, Clark and Elijah; John Johnson, a brother-in-law of Elijah Corliss; David Gibson, a brother-in-law of Leone Badger; Iver Knox, William Glennon, and others. Joseph and Clark Corliss, David Gibson and Iver Knox died in California.

Clark and Elijah Corliss, with Johnson and myself cut the first granite that was quarried in California.

This we cut for the Adams Express company in Sacramento. The granite was quarried at Mormon island on the American river, 24 miles from Sacramento and transported by mule teams. This was in 1853. In the same year, eighteen of us organized the Stone Cutters' Union of San Francisco, it being the first union of the kind on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Badger being mentioned as the first clerk of Granite Engine Company No. 3, recalls many of the good old days of that company when we used to run to fires anywhere within a radius of ten miles, and some times start out when the moon was rising, and calling it a fire, and not finding our mistake until we had run a mile or more. And then the clam chowders we used to have in the winter months, having as guests firemen from the other companies in town. Those were good old days of long ago.

Charles Lewis Badger, as I knew him, was a genial companion, a true friend, and a gentleman, and we all mourn his loss.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

The December meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery association will be held on Tuesday afternoon Dec. 4th, at the Women's club house. The Upland road entrance will be found most convenient for members attending.

At the home of Miss Edith Randall, Wibird street will be held the regular meeting of the Junior Friday club, on Monday, Dec. 3d. Mrs. Alfred Thompson of Wollaston has arranged the program which will be a study of the life and works of James Russell Lowell.

The Mothers' Meeting will be held in Bethany chapel on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 5th at three o'clock. Mrs. John Kearst will conduct the devotional exercises and Mrs. J. Paul Wiexler will read a paper on District Nursing. Mrs. Richard L. Tappenden will contribute songs.

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution for its December meeting is to hold a Christmas party at the John Adams birthplace. Fires will be started early in the big fireplaces so that the house will be comfortably warm. Each member is asked to take a gift costing not more than ten cents. If guests are invited members inviting them should provide extra gifts so that none will be left out in the distribution. After the regular business meeting Mrs. Isabelle Davis is to read colonial Christmas stories, and tea and a social time will follow. It promises to be a very jolly meeting, a little out of the regular routine. The meeting is called for half past two Monday afternoon, Dec. 3d.

An executive board meeting of the Quincy Women's club will be held on Thursday morning December 6th at ten o'clock in the committee room of the club house,—entrance by basement door, Upland road.

In all the city, Atlantic surely has the most progressive women's club, as was demonstrated last week when the Shakespeare club drew an audience of nearly 300 to the dramatic recital of "The Merchant of Venice" given under their auspices by Marshall Darrach. They were equally successful last year in presenting Prof. Griggs who lectured on "Julius Cæsar." No undertaking seems too large for them.

A regular meeting of The Social Sience and Literary club of Atlantic was held at the home of Mrs. Eastman, Hancock street Nov. 20th. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Emily T. Turner, Hancock street on Dec. 4th.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

After a short business meeting the Quincy Women's club at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon had an Italian program arranged by Miss Edith Randall. Music and lace being identified with that sunny country they were naturally interesting subjects. Each year at Naples there is a song contest when the best song is selected from the many submitted and the writer given a prize. Two of these were sung in Italian by Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur. The first, "Funiculi Funicula," was of a rollicking nature, telling of an Italian peasant and his girl going up the mountain railroad called in that country the funicula. The other was "Adieu to Napoli," a pathetic song of the Neapolitan about to leave his beloved city. Mrs. Blackmur entered into the spirit of the songs with pleasing results and her singing was much enjoyed by the club.

After the songs Miss Randall gave a talk on lace making in Italy going back to the beginning and ending with her recent visit to a lace factory near Naples.

Without doubt other countries are indebted to Italy for originating lace making as well as the art of cooking. Miss Randall talked for an hour and made her subject interesting, especially to lovers of good lace and to those who have traveled in Italy.

Several guests were present and in the absence of the president, Mrs. Smith, first vice president, presided.

The hospitality committee announced the need of urns in the serving of the monthly teas and that a cake and candy sale would be held on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 8th, at the home of Mrs. Emery L. Crane, Whitney road, to raise funds to purchase some. Members were asked to contribute and to attend the sale.

The next meeting on Dec. 11th will be one of the most enjoyable of the season, monologues by Mrs. Belle Temple Priest.

CLUB NOTES.

The last meeting of the Philergians of Braintree proved interesting to its members, Miss Maria W. Howard giving a chafing dish demonstration.

Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker president of the General Federation sends Christmas greetings through the Christmas number of the Federation Bulletin. Her three wishes for Christmas day are: "Never frown, never sigh and keep step."

Milford, Mass., has a most progressive club in the Quinshepaug Woman's club, which opened the season this month with a membership of 300 and a long waiting list. Its opening lecture was on "Tolstoi" by Professor Howard Griggs.

Rev. William H. Morrison of Brockton who recently gave an interesting paper on Paul Jones for Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution of Quincy, was a recent speaker at Bridgewater addressing the Ousamequin club, taking as his subject "The Empress Josephine."

Cantabrigia club had a very practical meeting the middle of the month when papers were given on "Modern Sanitary Cleaning Methods" "Gas as a Fuel for Cooking" and "How Modern Laundry Methods are Helping to Solve Domestic Problems." The latter was illustrated by the stereopticon.

John Harris Gutterson of Weymouth recently gave a musical talk to the N. H. Somersworth Woman's club on "Famous Songs and why they Become So." After the talk Mr. Gutterson played several hymns and national airs, every one joining in the singing of them.

Holiday Magazines.

In the New England for December Edward H. Clement, the veteran editor of the Boston Transcript, recalls his experience as "carpet bag" editor of a southern paper in war-time, as well as his acquaintance with Henry A. Clapp, Epes Sargent, E. P. Whipple, and other great men of that time. There are several entertaining articles including a prettily illustrated Christmas poem by Nixon Waterman, whose humerous poems as so deservedly popular.

The Christmas Everybody's is full to overflowing with the holiday spirit, as indicated by the character of fiction, essay, and verse, but at the same time the serious undertakings of a purposeful magazine are not neglected. A notable contribution is the first instalment of Thomas W. Lawson's story, "Friday, the 13th," a dramatically interesting romance of Wall Street and its ramifications.

The December Delineator is a typical Christmas number. It is sufficiently premature to assist Christmas-makers with its hints for Christmas gifts and holiday entertainments' besides containing an abundance of seasonable literature calculated to fit in from now until New Year's Day.

Christmas and the Metropolis—the Yuletide Spirit and the spirit of the City-of-Four Millions are charmingly reflected in the December Broadway. The magazine presents a most attractive appearance and is now entitled to be considered both typographical and from a literary standpoint one of the best in the field. The December number contains stories by Rupert Hughes, L. Frank Tooker, Emery Pottle, Annie Warner, Eugene Wood, Katharine Roof, Porter Emerson Browne and Robert Elliot; a strikingly interesting article "The Treasures of New York" by Charles De Kay.

Suburban and city life are sharply contrasted in the leading article in the November number of Suburban Life. All in all, the suburban side seems to have the best of the argument. "Why," one woman is quoted as saying, "nothing could tempt me to go back to the city to live. The women who have not tried the suburban life do not know what it means. I used to be fussy and nervous all the time; now it is altogether different. I never could stand city life again." In the course of the article pretty nearly every phase of the question from railroad fares to church accommodations is taken up in a highly entertaining way.

The December number of the Metropolitan Magazine is a Christmas number of great merit. It is seldom that a magazine is put together so artistcally and entertaingly and as wholesomely as this. Was Crane "Jollied"

By Political Manipulators?

Whole Truth Requested Regarding the "Good of the City Deal."

Voters Puzzled by Mayor's Assurance That He Has Made No Pledges About Appointments.

Editor of Quincy Daily Ledger:

It seems to me that the political situation in Quincy is somewhat muddled.

What has become of the Crane-Thompson understanding? Are the people being fooled by a few expert political manipulators?

Has Mr. Crane been jollied?

We are told by Mr. Crane that a small and select committee waited on him, and first pledging him to secrecy, thus having placed him where he could not later make any uncomfortable disclosures, and then subjecting him to proper hypnotic treatment, gave him, Proper assurances, etc."

Mr. Crane's papers are withdrawn; the time for filing other independent papers expires, and then, where are the voters at?

The Mayor has informed the Citizens' Association committee that he has given no pledges. The committee have investigated, and the association notifies the public that the Mayor has not made or authorized anyone in his behalf to make any promises, pledges or give any assurances as to whom he would appoint if elected.

Rather early for the Mayor to repudiate his committee it seems to me. Where does this leave Mr. Crane?

I know that Mr. Crane is not bluffing, but what does he say to the open repudiation of the authority of the committee that waited on him at his home?

It is no longer a secret who the committee are. The committee itself has talked too much.

Now I want Mr. Crane or the small and select committee to come out into the open and tell the voters the whole truth, or in my next article I shall give the names of each of the few men who for the "good of the city" offered their services as peacemakers.

The activity of one of these gentlemen can easily be accounted for. As to the balance I will for the present only observe that "blowing hot and cold" is only successfully done in the fables.

No. "1"

EMPHATIC PROTEST.

Parent Says High School Delay is Shameful.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

As the father of a High school pupil, I desire to assert my emphatic protest against the shameful, needless and criminal manner in which the present High school situation is in. The system which has become necessary of dividing the pupils into small parcels and crowding them into an old unsanitary and unsafe building, at all hours of the day and evening, is enough to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of any citizen, be they the father of pupils there or not.

The addition to the High school was begun last February—when it will be finished no one knows. In the length of time, Mr. Editor, that this addition has been under construction, skyscrapers have been completed in Boston. As to the cause of this unnecessary delay, the citizens themselves will have a chance to point the finger of disapprobation in a few days. The present administration says it is not to blame, but that the blame belongs on the School Board; the School Board points to the City Hall administration, and the contractors point to the sub contractors. It seems like an endless chain or a loop-the-loop to fool the people.

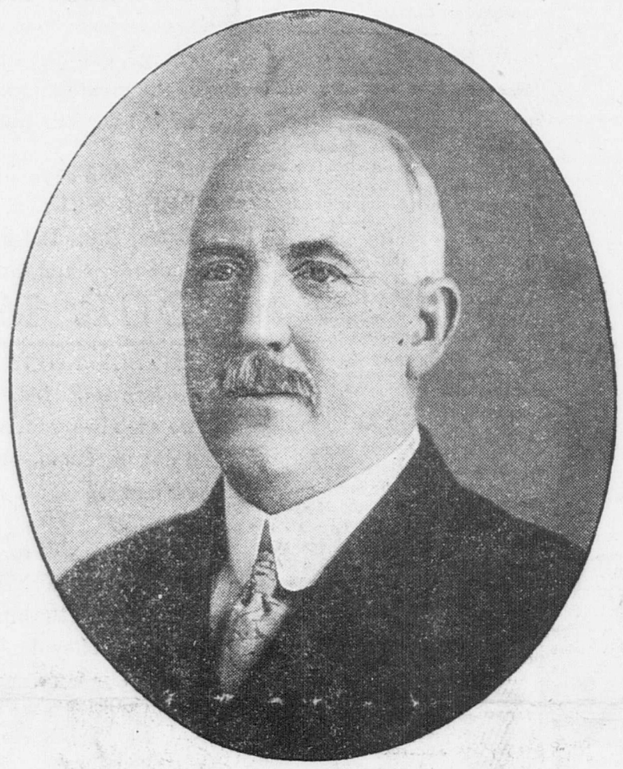

In conversation with an officer of the Central Labor Union a few days ago he told me the union had asked the Mayor to appoint a competent union inspector, who would be guaranteed to look out for the interests of the city, and that the Mayor never replied to the proposal sent him. These labor union men blame the Mayor, but of that particular incident I know nothing. The contractor says the sub contractors delayed him, and John L. Miller of the School Board at one of the meetings reported by the public press, said that the sub contractor who delayed the head contractor was one whose bid was awarded by the Commissioner of Public Works, and was $500 higher than the bid of another Quincy man, Mr. Hazen E. Ricker. Mr. Miller further said, the bid was awarded because the sub comtractor was a friend of the Commissioners. This statement has never been replied to through the columns of the press. I understand it was commented on at the Board of Trade dinner at Nantasket beach, and that Mr. Miller reiterated his statement made at the School Board meeting. It seems to me that Mr. Miller had exceptional opportunities for knowing something about the contract.

For my own part, from a reading of the City Charter, I cannot see where the School Board is to blame. They can approve the plans but not expend a cent of money on the construction of a building. The City Charter says that the erection of all public buildings is under the sole care of the Commissioner of Public Works. Perhaps the City Charter may be right, who knows? But those parents who have little girls tramping the streets of our city after dark these winter nights because of the lack of High school accommodations, take this matter to heart more than do the men who are trying to throw the blame on each other. Let us hope there will be no epidemic of assaults as have occurred in cities adjoining Boston this week, and if the election of Mr. Shea or any other new man can hasten the completion of this building so that we can have our girls of tender age around the supper tables once more and safe within our home, I say God speed the day!

CANDIDATE WITH GOOD RECORD

William T. Shea, Able and Efficient Business Man.

WILLIAM T. SHEA,
Democratic Candidate for Mayor.

Strong on No-License Question,---Has Acquitted Himself Well in Offices of Public Trust.

In William T. Shea the citizens of Quincy have a chance to elect an honest, upright, honorable man as Mayor of the city; a man who was born and has lived in Quincy all his life; a successful business man who started in life with nothing but honesty and a desire for work to recommend him and who by adhering to those principles has become an honored and respected resident of the community in which he lives.

And not only is Mr. Shea known as a successful business man. He has represented the citizens of Quincy before in offices of public trust to the credit of himself and the benefit of the citizens who elected him. In addition to these qualifications it is important in a city like Quincy, which for over a generation has voted for the riddance of the liquor saloon from our city, that the man who represents the people in the office of Mayor should be a man who rings true on this important question.

In Mr. Shea we have the highest type of such a man. For over 30 years, or since he was 18, Mr. Shea has been a member of a society formed for the sole purpose of pledging its members to abstain from intoxicating liquors in any form. Such a record as that is in itself enough to inspire confidence and respect.

Mr. Shea was born in Quincy in 1857, and is the son of the late William Shea, who was a gallant soldier in the Crimea war and was awarded the Victoria cross, the highest badge of honor which can be bestowed on its soldiers by the British government, and is never given except to those who have performed some signal act of bravery on the field of battle.

In one of the best-known battles of the Crimea, the charge at Balaklava, Mr. Shea's father took a prominent part, being a member of the famous "Light Brigade" immortalized by Lord Tennyson. In this charge, so well known to every school boy, the light cavalry went into action against the Russian breastworks with 607 men and came back with only 198. The survivors were presented with the Victoria cross for their bravery.

Mr. Shea came to this country after the Crimea war and settled in Quincy, where he lived until his death.

The present candidate for Mayor went to school in the west part of the town and was graduated from the old Willard school. After leaving school he went to work at the granite trade, then the all-important business of Quincy. By industry and constant application to business, Mr. Shea developed into a business man on a small scale and later those qualities which told in his early life served to make his business extensive until today he is one of the largest contractors dealing in paving blocks in the city and for several years past has handled the contracts for many Massachusetts cities.

In his early life, three years before he was able to vote, Mr. Shea joined the St. Mary's C. T. A. society, an organization of young men who banded themselves together to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquor. That was 31 years ago, and Mr. Shea has continued a member of the organization up to the present time. For five years of that time he has served as president of the society.

When Quincy became a city in 1888, Mr. Shea was elected a member of the first City Council, and was reelected the following year. During those two years he served on important committees and proved himself a valuable man in those years when great care had to be taken in shaping the policies of the young city.

In 1895, when the sewer system was started in this city, Mr. Shea was appointed a member of the Sewerage Commission by the late Mayor Hodges, and continued in office till 1900, serving under Mayors Hodges, Adams, Sears, Keith and Hall. It was during his term of office, or in May, 1899, that the pumping station of the Quincy sewerage system was opened at Merrymount park. This plant, one of the most important in the city and one that is least heard of, is one of the best plants in any city of the size of Quincy. One of the principal reasons it is heard of so little is that it is built in a manner that calls forth no criticism, but does its work day in and day out without any friction. The building was completed during Mr. Shea's term as chairman of the board of Sewerage Commissioners.

As a citizen Mr. Shea is so well known to the people of Quincy that it hardly seems neccessary to give him a formal introduction. He is a member of several fraternal and social organizations; is a valued member of the Quincy Granite Manufacturers' Association and the Quincy Citizens' Association. He is also a trustee of the Quincy City Hospital Corporation, and a member of the Granite City Club.

Mr. Shea is a man of definite ideas and does not hesitate to express himself fairly and squarely on all questions put to him for judgment. He is courteous and affable at all times and easy of approach. He is a man whom the humblest citizen could meet and be sure of a fair and impartial hearing.

His record as a respected and upright citizen, a successful business man, a man who has had experience with public affairs, coupled with his splendid record as a private citizen of Quincy, should appeal to every voter who desires an honest, clean government for Quincy and an administration that will be run on business principles; the same principles which have made his own private business a success in this city and a credit to himself.

These days when so many citizens are opposed by the burden of high taxation, and so many business men are calling for a city government run on the principles of a private business industry as near as can be done, it is encouraging to know that there is in the city a business man who is willing to accept the election to the mayoralty office if tendered him. To all who are desirous of maintaining the good name of Quincy in this commonwealth they can do so in a no no better way than by electing as Mayor on Tuesday, Dec. 4,—William T. Shea.

PROMISE vs. PERFORMANCE.

"A divorcement of pernicious political methods from the business conduct of election affairs, and a change for the public good in those officers who have neglected their duty to become active politicians."—Extract from Mayor Thompson's declaration of principles, Dec. 3, 1904.

Mayor Thompson did you not break faith with the people who elected you when you made the following appointments.

Commissioner of Public Works, Thomas F. Burke.

Overseer of the Poor, Frederick F. Green.

Why did you allow the Commissioner of Public Works to use the city employees of his department, and city teams, to drive voters to and from the polls on the last city election day while he personally superintended the work

Why did you permit one or more drivers of city teams to work from the opening to the close of the polls on the day of the recent municipal caucus, Nov. 13, in the interest of your candidacy instead of at their regular city work?

Won't you kindly enlighten the taxpayers whether the men so employed were paid by the City of Quincy from the Public treasury?

What changes have you made since your first year in office for pernicious political activity?

GIRL OF COURAGE

She Defended Home of Parents Against an Intruder

HER WARNING UNHEEDED

Fired Five Shots From Revolver, Every One of Them Taking Effect and Causing Death--Youthful Slayer Has Sympathy of the Community

Thornton, R. I., Nov. 30.—Ethel Smith, the 15-year-old daughter of Special Policeman Leander Smith, is under arrest at the home of Chief of Police Kimball, charged with killing Elmer Briggs, a resident of this town. The circumstances of the killing were such that after being obliged to arrest the child Kimball took her to his house, gave her a Thanksgiving dinner and declared that she would not go to jail so long as she was under his jurisdiction.

The tragedy was the culmination of an estrangement between Briggs and his wife. About two weeks ago Briggs is alleged to have deserted his wife, leaving her without means to support herself and her three small children. Smith, who is a farmer, took pity upon the destitute woman and he and his wife received Mrs. Briggs and her children into their home and were arranging to send them to the home of Mrs. Briggs' brother, who lives in Niantic. Among the members of the Smith household was a negro servant named Mollie E. Manuel, who had been received into the Smith home under similar conditions as Mrs. Briggs.

Briggs returned to Thornton Wednesday and learned the whereabouts of his wife. Yesterday afternoon, during the absence of Smith, Briggs came to the Smith house. He demanded admission of Charles Halliday, a negro cook, who was the only man about the premises at the time. Halliday refused to admit him and when Briggs threatened to make trouble, Halliday started to bring Chief of Police Kimball to the scene, leaving in the house Mrs. Briggs and her children, Mrs. Smith and Ethel. The women and children, fearing that Briggs would force an entrance, locked all the doors and windows and built barricades of chairs.

As soon as Halliday was out of sight Briggs again demanded admittance. This being refused, he drew a large carving knife from beneath his coat and cut away the netting from the screen on the front door. He then smashed a pane of glass in the door, reached his arm on the inside, turned the key in the lock and threw back the bolt. As he started to enter the house Ethel warned him that she would shoot, but he persisted. Briggs paid no attention to the child's words and as he forced the door open the girl fired two shots from a revolver at him, both bullets lodging in his body. Briggs hesitated for a moment and then kept on. The child fired three more shots, every bullet taking effect, and Briggs staggered back and fell dead on the steps.

A moment later Halliday and Kimball appeared at the house. The chief was obliged to arrest the child, but took her to his own home and declared that she would not be taken to jail.

Nearly all the residents in the neighborhood offered to go on Ethel's bonds. An attempt will be made to have the child released on bail, pending a hearing of the case.

All of those who were at the house at the time of the shooting are unanimous in saying that when Briggs approached the house he was muttering threats to kill his wife and children.

Salvationist Colony In Africa

London, Nov. 30.—A report is current in this city that the British South Africa company has offered the Salvation Army 1,000,000 acres of land in Rhodesia free of charge for colonization purposes, with the stipulation, however, that in the event of the colonizing scheme proving a failure the land should revert to the company. General Booth admits that there is a certain amount of truth in the rumor, but says that the plan has been prematurely disclosed.

Negroes Denounce Roosevelt

New York, Nov. 30.—At a union Thanksgiving service at Mount Olivet Baptist church, in which congregations of four negro churches participated, President Roosevelt was denounced for dismissing three companies of negro soldiers from the United States army. Many present contributed to a fund being raised for the relief of the dismissed soldiers.

Richmond Cathedral Dedicated

Richmond, Nov. 30.—With dedicatory ceremonies participated in by the most distinguished Catholic prelates in this country, the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, took its place as a monument of the church in the south. The church occupies an entire block in the heart of the fashionable part of Richmond.

Heavy Seizure of Gambling Devices

New York, Nov. 30.—Three wagonloads of gambling devices, valued at more than $18,000, were seized in a police raid at the Tully's Express company office. The outfit bore the address of a house which is said to have been occupied as a gambling place by Frank Felton, who shot Guy Roach on Thanksgiving day two years ago.

DRESSING FOR DINNER.

A Habit to Be Cultivated by All Classes of Persons.

"Dressing for dinner" is regarded by some as a piece of arrogance and as evidencing merely a desire to appear superior to somebody else. They observe no dignity in the custom and perhaps do not realize the fact that the change of clothes is consistent with personal comfort and cleanliness, whether the new garments donned be of the evening dress pattern or not. The most important meal of the day affords to those who dine in the evening an excellent opportunity of exchanging their workaday clothes for a suit which has been brushed and aired.

The bracing effect of a change of clothes is well known. Many a man, being almost too fatigued after an arduous day's work to change his clothes, finds himself considerably refreshed when he experiences a feeling of cleanliness and preparedness for his dinner, and good digestion invariably waits on healthy appetite. The changing of clothes may even thus favorably affect nutrition. Nor need the changing of clothes be the exclusive luxury of the persons who dress for dinner. The hard worked clerk, the shopkeeper and the workingman would all be better if they would cast off their workaday clothes and put on clean clothes for the evening meal after the day of toil is over. The change freshens the body, gives a gentle stimulus to the wearied hand and head, and a brighter view of things is thereby engendered. The habit is, besides, cleanly, dignified and becoming.—Lancet.

NEEDLESS NOISES.

Maddening Effect of Some Sounds That Assail One's Ears.

It is the needlessness of most noises that renders them insufferable. You sleep very well through the roar of a wintry storm, but if some one has forgotten to fasten a blind and it begins to bang then you are lost. You might as well get up and locate that blind and fasten it first as last. The manifold noises of your steamer's plunge through the night, with the perpetual wash of the sea, unite in a lullaby to which the worst conscience sinks into repose, but a snore breaking from the next stateroom recalls the memory of all one's sins. The rush and leap and incessant but varied grind and clang of the sleeping car become soothing at last, but a radiator, beginning to fizz and click after the steam has been turned off, seems to leave the would be sleeper no resource but suicide. If you could get at the second engineer and leave him weltering in his gore, you could snatch a few cat naps before morning. But you cannot get at the second engineer after midnight in most hotels. Continuous noises and necessary noises are things you can adjust senses or your spirits to, but the noise without a reason, without an apparent right, like the gnawing of a rat in the wainscot, is what drives so many to perdition.—W. D. Howells in Harper's.

Claude Duval.

This gallant robber of men's purses and ladies' hearts was of French extraction. Duval became so rich with his ill gotten gains that he was enabled to retire from the profession and return to France. But a quiet life, free from the excitement of his old career, did not agree with his adventurous spirit. He returned again to England and resumed his avocation. At length he was captured at the Hole in the Wall, in Chandos street. While in prison awaiting his doom many ladies of position visited him and endeavored to obtain his release, but justice was inexorable, and he was hanged at Tyburn in January, 1670. His epitaph in St. Paul's church, Covent Garden, speaks of him as "Old Tyburn's glory, England's illustrious thief," and tells us:

Here lies Duval. Reader, if male thou art,
Look to thy purse; if female, to thy heart.
Much havoc has he made of both.

—St. James' Gazette.

Bismarck's Resentment.

The Hamburger Nachrichten contributes the following to the stories relative to the relations between Emperor William II. and Bismarck. "If the kaiser wished to ride alone," said Bismarck, "I could have found no objection. That he drove me away, though, wounded me. If he wanted to get rid of me he should have told me so frankly, and I would have taken six months' vacation. If things got along without me I would have remained away. Otherwise I should have returned. But this! I was nearly thrown out of my house in the Wilhelmstrasse. I had to pack my belongings in haste, for Caprivi was waiting at the door."

Walter Pater's Way.

I remember telling Walter Pater about "The Story of an African Farm" and the wonderful human quality of it. He said, repeating his favorite formula, "No doubt you are right, but I do not suppose I shall ever read it." And he explained to me that he was always writing something and that while he was writing he did not allow himself to read anything which might possibly affect him too strongly by bringing a new current of emotion to bear upon him.—A. Symons in Monthly Review.

After Dark.

Mrs. Gayboy (severely)—What time did you get home last night? Gayboy (cautiously)—Oh, a little after dark. Mrs. Gayboy—After dark! Why, it was daylight when you came in! Gayboy—Well, isn't that after dark?

A Greater Light.

Teacher—Which is farther away, England or the moon? Pupil—England. Teacher—Why? Pupil—Because you can't see England, and you can see the moon.

Public Interest

IS NOW CENTERED ON

The Pure Food Law.

WE Have Always Maintained that the best that money could buy was always the cheapest in the end, because it is always the bargain hunters that have to pay the DOCTOR, buying as they do IMPURE foods of all kinds, FOODS that are UNFIT for ANY PERSON'S STOMACH, being mixed as they are with different kinds of PRESERVATIVES and SECRET PREPARATIONS to take the place of GOOD PURE FOODS. And some dealers selling these goods at a GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE over the pure kind, GUARANTEE you NOTHING, but—"Poor Health to You and Your Family," and although you can buy the "just as good kind," you can save nothing as that kind is unhealthy and dangerous to the whole human family. Now our standard is to always sell the best of everything and the steady increase of our business year after year proves to us that we have the right idea, and we know it must be very satisfactory to our many customers to feel that what they buy at our store is ABSOLUTELY PURE and HEALTHFUL and the Food Laws are being strictly enforced by us. Our Goods are all GOVERNMENT INSPECTED and also carefully inspected by us before they are put on sale or sent to your homes, and although you pay perhaps a few cents more to us than some dealers charge, don't you think it is money well spent, considering all things?—YOUR HEALTH, which is the greatest blessing we can have,—think well about this and we know you will agree with us and do your trading where you know the goods can be depended upon to be absolutely Pure.

We have just received our season's pack of choice canned and bottled goods, FRESH and DRIED FRUITS, all kinds of Cereals, Ketchup, Pickles, Jams, Jellies, Prunes, Figs, Nuts, Dates, Table Raisins, Citron, Lemon and Orange Peel, Olives, Sardines,—in fact everything for your tastes and fancies. All the leading brands of FLOUR. Fancy New Orleans Molasses.

OUR MARKET is complete, AND REMEMBER, we sell nothing that has been doctored or filled with Preservatives to keep it. ABSOLUTELY NOTHING but Carefully Selected Meats are on sale at OUR STORE. Stamped with the Government Inspection Stamp, that insures to you and to us the point of perfection, which we are always striving to reach for the benefit of our trade. Remember Thanksgiving will be a day of Thanksgiving to you after you have visited our store, for our stock is new, large and wholesome.

We will have a grand display of that great National Bird, THE TURKEY, the same VERMONT KIND we have always sold you,—Chicken, Fowl and Duck, direct from WILLIAM R. DRAKE of Braintree, and he knows how to dress them so as to please the eye as well as the palate. They don't grow nicer than he has. Fruit and vegetables in abundance, and don't forget our famous LA TOURANE COFFEE, no dinner complete without it.

Yours Respectfully,

SAFE ROBBERS GOT AWAY

Quiet and Successful Job, After Disposing of a Watchman

New Haven, Nov. 30.—After binding and blindfolding the watchman, seven masked men entered the store of A. N. Farnham, a market gardener of Westville, blew open the safe, secured $500 in money, and made their escape without leaving a clue to their identity.

The watchman, Frank Krozucki, says that he was making his rounds when he was seized by three masked men, who bound, gagged and blindfolded him and then carried him to a pile of wood, to which they secured him by ropes. In the meantime four other men came up and secured from his person the key to the store, entered and proceeded to blow the safe open with nitro-glycerine.

Not more than 125 feet distant is the residence of Farnham, but so quietly did the robbers work that no hint of their presence was given the inmates of the house, and it was not until more than an hour after the men had departed and when the watchman had succeeded in releasing himself from his bonds that Farnham was notified. Word was at once sent to the police and they set to work on the case, but they have no clue to the identity of the safe breakers.

Rhode Island Loses Honored Son

Providence, Nov. 30.—Mayor Elisha Dyer of this city died suddenly of heart trouble last night. Dyer was born in Providence 67 years ago and was the son of Governor Elisha Dyer. His political career began in 1878, when he was elected to the state senate. Three years later he was sent to the general assembly, but after one year was appointed adjutant general of Rhode Island. He was elected governor of Rhode Island in 1896 and was twice re-elected by the Republicans. While active in Republican politics after his retirement from the gubernatorial chair, he did not again hold public office until elected mayor of this city a year ago.

Railroad Wreck In Connecticut

Meriden, Conn., Nov. 30.—At Holls hill bridge two large engines, running light, crashed into the rear of a slowly moving freight train, demolishing the caboose and three cars and killing Conductor Leahy, besides seriously injuring Brakemen Fowler and Wyzansky. Engineer Easton was in charge of the two light engines, which were being hurried to Springfield to relieve congestion caused by an accident. He is believed to have run by a signal set against him at the Yalesville station, which is a short distance below the place where the wreck occurred.

Had Two Years of Freedom

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 30.—William Carpenter, who escaped from the insane asylum at Middletown two years ago, was arrested last night in this city and will be sent back to Middletown. Carpenter was committed to the asylum for the attempted murder in Norwalk of a young woman who had declined to marry him. He afterwards married a young woman at Portchester, N. Y. Last night Carpenter and his wife came here and Carpenter was recognized and placed under arrest by a police officer.

Alleged Breach of Promise

Medford, Mass., Nov. 30.—As a balm for her wounded affections, Miss Mary Pillsbury, a middle-aged woman, has brought suit for $10,000 against John F. Coolidge, 70, a prosperous retired farmer, for alleged breach of promise of marriage. The unexpected affair has stirred up the residents in the section where they lived, for both are prominently known and their love match was never even guessed.

Quarreled Over Their Son

Williamsville, Conn., Nov. 30.—Alexander Marterelli is under arrest, charged with shooting his wife at their home. The woman may live. The shooting, it is said, was the result of a dispute over a statement of a 16-year-old son, who declared that he wanted to give up his position with a local concern. The father wanted the boy to continue working there, but the mother took the boy's side.

The Vermont "Shaken Down"

Boston, Nov. 30.—After having a successful "shaking down" on her test trial, the 16,000-ton battleship Vermont, built at the Fore River shipyards, steamed up the harbor late yesterday afternoon and anchored off the navy yard. Today she will be dry-docked and prepared for her trial trip off Rockland, Me. She is the biggest battleship that ever entered Boston harbor.

Salvationists' Workshop Burned

Boston, Nov. 30.—Misfortune came to the Salvation Army at the close of Thanksgiving, for, after feeding several thousand people in different parts of the city, the big storehouse and workshop for the unemployed was badly damaged by fire, the loss being about $25,000. The fire will throw several hundred poor people out of employment for several weeks.

Mellody a Champion Fighter

Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 30.—Honey Mellody won the welterweight championship of the world from Joe Walcott here last night. In the 12th round Walcott quit. He said that his left arm became disabled in the ninth round and that it was impossible for him to continue fighting. The men fought at 142 pounds.

Brakemen Seriously Injured

Meriden, Conn., Nov. 30.—Two coupled mogul engines crashed into a stalled freight train above Yalesville, demolishing the caboose and three cars. Brakeman Lee is probably fatally hurt and Brakeman Fowler is in bad shape but is expected to recover.

THUNDER.

Odd Beliefs That Used to Exist In Days of Old.

Thunder just because it is a noise for which there is no visible cause, has always excited the imagination of the unscientific, so it is natural that the most outrageous superstitions about storms should date back to the time when everybody, more or less, was unscientific. One old writer explains the belief of his day that "a storm is said to follow presently when a company of hogges runne crying home," on the ground that "a hogge is most dull and of a melancholy nature and so by reason doth foresee the raine that cometh." Leonard Digges, in his "Prognostication Everlasting" (1556), mentions that "thunder in the morning signifies wind; about noon, rain, and in the evening, a great tempest."

The same writer goes on to say, "Some write (but their ground I see not) that Sunday's thunder should bring the death of learned men, judges and others; Monday's, the death of women; Tuesday's, plenty of grain; Wednesday's, bloodshed; Thursday's, plenty of sheep and corn; Friday's, the slaughter of a great man and other horrible murders; Saturday's, a general pestilent plague and great dearth." After this the gay and lightsome manner shown by Lord Northampton toward these grave matters in his "Defensative" is most cheering. "It chaunceth sometimes," he writes, "to thunder about that time and season of the years when swannes hatch their young, and yet no doubt it is a paradox of simple men to think that a swanne cannot hatch without a crackle of thunder."—London Chronicle.

A STUDY IN MILEAGE.

Almost Every Country Has a Standard of Its Own.

English speaking countries have four different miles—the ordinary mile of 5,280 feet and the geographical or nautical mile of 6,085, making a difference of about one-seventh between the two; then there is the Scotch mile of 5,928 feet and the Irish mile of 6,720 feet—four various miles, every one of which is still in use.

Then almost every country has its own standard mile. The Romans had their mille passuum, 1,000 paces, which must have been about 3,000 feet in length unless we ascribe to Caesar's legionaries great stepping capacity. The German mile of today is 24,318 feet in length, more than four and a half times as long as our mile.

The Dutch, the Danes and the Prussians enjoy a mile that is 18,440 feet long, three and a half times the length of ours, and the Swiss get more exercise in walking one of their miles than we get in walking five miles, for their mile is 9,153 yards long, while ours is only 1,760 yards. The Italian mile is only a few feet longer than ours; the Roman mile is shorter, while the Tuscan and the Turkish miles are 150 yards longer. The Swedish mile is six and a half times and the Vienna post mile is four and a half times the length of the English mile.—Pearson's Weekly.

Wonderful Monastery.

At Solovetsk, in the Russian government of Archangel, is the most remarkable monastery in the world. The monastery of Solovetsk is inclosed on every side by a wall of granite bowlders which measures nearly a mile in circumference. The monastery itself is very strongly fortified, being supported by round and square towers about thirty feet in height, with walls twenty feet in thickness. The monastery consists in reality of six churches, which are completely filled with statues of all kinds and precious stones. Upon the walls and the towers surrounding these churches are mounted huge guns, which in the time of the Crimean war were directed against the British White sea squadron.

Too Energetic.

"Last Saturday," said the flat dweller, "I went out into the hall and saw a woman on her knees scrubbing the marble very well, making it a beautiful dead white. I thought to myself, 'This is a good scrubwoman; I'll ask her to scrub my kitchen and clean my windows.' I did. She scrubbed all the paint off the floor of my kitchen and washed the panes of two windows entirely out.

"I was glad I didn't ask her to wash my face," she finished.—New York Press.

When Honeymoon Ends.

"How," said the young man who had been in the matrimonial game for nearly a week, "can I tell when the honeymoon is over?"

"It will be over," answered the man who had been married three times, "when your wife stops telling things and begins to ask questions.'"—Chicago News.

Social Danger.

So long as we have at the bottom of our social fabric an army of vagabonds, hand to mouth livers and slum dwellers, half starved, dirty, foul mouthed, so long are we in imminent danger. And it is want of work which makes recruits for this army.—Mirror.

Tart Retort.

"Young man, you are better fed than taught," said the professor angrily.

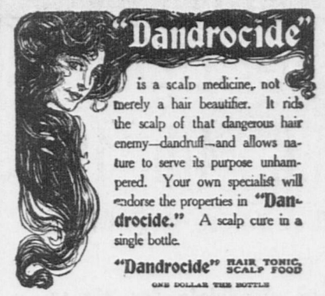

"Quite right, sir. My father feeds me," answered the student.—London Tit-Bits.

Generous.

"You said that when we were married you would refuse me nothing."

"I'll be still more generous. I'll not even refuse you nothing. I'll give it to you."

GOVERNMENT WAGES LOW.

H. T. Newcomb Gives Facts of Interest to Wage Earners.

From 1896 to 1904 the average retail cost of the ordinary articles of food used in the United States advanced no less than 17 per cent (16.96, to be more exact)—that is, the purchaser of food for a family had to pay $1.17 in 1904 for the same quantity and quality of food that $1 would purchase in 1896. These are official statistics compiled by the highly skilled experts employed by the federal government, and every housewife knows that they do not overstate the advance. Other necessities of life have advanced in cost with approximately equal rapidity.

Unquestionably wages ought, generally speaking, to have advanced somewhat in proportion to the increase in the cost of living. In private employment this has apparently taken place, the average wages per hour reported by the federal bureau of labor being 17.36 per cent higher in 1904 than in 1896 and the average weekly earnings 12.76 per cent higher. The advances thus represented are spread all over the country; they characterize every private industrial enterprise and have benefited all classes of workmen employed in private undertakings.

How is it with public employment? A few undertakings conducted under public ownership employ labor like that similarly serving private employers in the same communities, and in these cases the public rate of wages has slowly been advanced somewhat in proportion to the advance in the wages privately paid. But where any American government, municipal, state or national, is the sole or by far the largest employer of a particular class of labor the advances to meet increased cost of living have been so few that the ordinary investigator will be unable to discover a single instance.

Throughout the postal service, among the 25,000 clerical employees at Washington, in the customs and internal revenue services there have been no advances in pay to meet the rise in cost of food, clothing and shelter. The pay of letter carriers, for example, remains precisely where it was fixed twenty years ago by an act approved on Jan. 3, 1887.

The largest printing office in the world is that maintained at Washington by the government, and there the federal government employs a large force of intelligent and highly skilled workingmen. A change in the basis of payment in 1899 from the piece work to the per hour system prevents comparisons with dates prior to the change, but wages have remained stationary since March 3, 1899, although the official statisticians report that the cost of food has advanced since the rate of wages was fixed by statute fully 12.25 per cent. During the same years the wages of printers in private book publishing or job printing establishments advanced throughout the United States as follows: Compositors, male, 14.67 per cent; compositors, female, 20.30 per cent; press feeders, male, 22.41 per cent; press feeders, female, 21.27 per cent; pressmen, 11.75 per cent.—H. T. Newcomb.

DO YOU OWN A HORSE?

Electric Light Plants Are Like Horses In Some Respects.

The subject of depreciation is well worthy of the careful consideration of those who are prone to ignore that item in estimating the cost of lights supplied by municipal plants. But as more people own horses than lighting plants it may be helpful to consider depreciation as applied to horses.

You pay $250 for a five-year-old horse. That's original cost. If you borrow the money you must pay interest on it. If you don't borrow it you lose the interest you would get if you didn't buy the horse. Either way it's interest. You feed the horse, and perhaps hire a man to take care of him. That's operating expenses. You get him shod occasionally and call in the veterinarian when he is sick. That's renewals and repairs. After a few years, in spite of the best of care, the horse is no longer capable of doing the required work and is sold for $50, a loss of $200 as compared with the original cost. That's depreciation. If you haven't laid that by year by year out of the horse's earnings, you've got to borrow it to buy a new horse, and you may not find it easy to do so if you haven't repaid the original loan. That's what happens to municipal plants that don't provide an adequate depreciation fund.

Making Peter Pay For Paul.

Whether a public utility be administered by the government itself or by a private corporation, we hold that every person who uses it should be held to pay the cost of the service which he receives and that no man should be compelled by taxation or otherwise to bear any part of his neighbor's expenses for light and power, for telephone service or for transportation of himself or of his goods.

Every proposal that a municipality assume operation of all public utilities and reduce rates to persons using them, regardless of what the service may actually cost, is an attempt to force some men to bear the expenses of others, because where the outlay for operation exceeds earnings the deficit must be made up by taxation, and this we denounce as socialistic and therefore hostile to justice and subversive of democratic government.—Bourke Cockran.

Senator Sorghum In Doubt.

"Do you think that municipal ownership would eliminate graft?"

"I am not quite sure," answered Senator Sorghum, "whether it would eliminate it or simply originate a new kind."—Washington Star.

A Republican Who Thinks Mayor Thompson Has Violated it

To the Editor of the Ledger:

The City Election draws near, and it is well for the citizens to look the situation squarely in the face. The present Mayor aspires to be elected for a third term. Has his administration for two years been a success? Are the people satisfied? Under date of Dec. 3, 1894, if elected he states his position as follows:

1—"A strict compliance with the provisions of the City Charter, and a maintenance of the personal responsibility of the several Administrative Officers and Boards, according to the provisions of that document.

2—"A reduction of the City Debt and all City Expenses.

3—"The strictest economy in expending every appropriation made by the City Council, so that for every dollar spent the city shall receive an equivalent return.

4—"Merit and capability to be the chief essentials in the appointment to office.

5—"Courteous and fair treatment to all our citizens.

6—"A divorcement of pernicious election methods from the business conduct of public affairs, and a change for the public good in those officers who have neglected their duties to become active politicians.

7—"The enforcement of all laws without discrimination or favor."

And he adds:—"When in public opinion changes for the best interests of the community in city officers are required, they will be made without fear or favor in the event of my election to the office of Mayor."

A strong and well written statement.

No. 1—The heads of departments have overrun their appropriations.

No. 2—Have you seen any reduction in the debt or running expenses?

No. 3—Have you noticed any rigid economy in expenditures? On the contrary, is it not the general sentiment of the people that an equivalent has not been received for every dollar spent by the city?

No. 4—As soon as the Mayor made his appointments there was a hue and cry, and,—"as weak as the Mayor's appointments"—was a by-word all over the city.

Do you think the present City Solicitor can compare in ability to the one that preceded him, or to any of those who have held the position?

Do the people consider the Commissioner of Public Works a star in his profession? The Mayor was informed by his intimate friends that did not have the training and the capability for the office, but he was reappointed. The machine said so,—not the best interests of the city.

No. 5—The City Clerk is a gentleman of the old school, courteous and polite; let this member go without any adverse criticism.

No. 6.—Have you seen any divorcement in the last two years? At the last caucus almost every man that held office was on deck, and those who were lukewarm were whipped into line, and they were all there, and at the present time the Mayor and his officers are circulating papers for signatures for his election for the best interests of the City of Quincy. Well is it?

No. 7.—The enforcement of the liquor law is not satisfactory to the temperance people, and the annual address of the Mayor at the No-license rally at Music hall next Sunday evening will be conspicuous by its absence, and in connection with No. 5, when the police make a liquor raid they politely state, very sorry but complaint has been made and we are obliged to do it.

When the annual budget was made up $2,000 was appropriated for the enforcement of the liquor law, and it was stated more could be used, but only $1,600 was spent, and an order went in to the Council to transfer $400 to special police. Liquor saloons on wheels are not in favor at the present time, and the Mayor's position ditto.

So much for the past. Now for the present condition of affairs.

At the caucus held Nov. 13, without any organization, campaign fund or machine, 600 voters placed themselves on record as against the present administration, while the machine, well organized in every ward; plenty of money; officers working to hold their positions, secured 1,200 votes. As soon as the caucus was over, opposition to the present Mayor appeared, and nomination papers in the interest of Emery L. Crane were in circulation, and a meeting was called to endorse him, but what should have been open and above board to the people was changed into a secret session. A delegation approached Mr. Crane and satisfied him that the Mayor if elected, would not appoint certain men to office. Mr. Crane so reports to his friends. They are satisfied and all go home happy. But the people are not so easily satisfied. They would like to hear from Mr. Crane, also from the delegation which played between the Mayor and Mr. Crane.

Are the people entitled to know anything? Or are they to submit to anything the Mayor chooses to give them. This bluff game has about reached the limit. It is understood that the committee appointed to wait upon the Mayor, report no promises made. That he will or will not appoint certain persons evidently. Mr. Crane was fooled in the interview.

The city of Quincy is in the grip of a machine, as powerful as Tamany in New York in comparison to its size. They openly state no one can whip Thompson and the machine, and any one who apposes them is brow beaten, laughed at and ridiculed, and this is the home of the Quincys the Adams and Mr. Bowditch. If any of their henchmen get into court they help them out. They find places for them in the various departments, and their influence is seen in the appointment. There is a power being the throne, and when the Mayor, in his letter endorsing Mr. Cunningham for County Treasurer, signed himself "Yours to command," there was more truth than poetry.

In State politics, it is sometimes deemed wise to spank the Republican party, and vote for the other man. The people of Quincy have the remedy in their own hands, if they choose to use it.

If you find things going wrong,

Just unloose a good strong

Do not let things go awry

WRONG DONE TO PUPILS.

Those Attending High School are Deprived of Full Benefits of Their Course.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

There are several kinds of evil in the High school situation, but the paramount one is that inflicted on the pupils Pedagogical authorities all agree that early and continous sessions of study and recitation are productive of the best results in High school pupils. Early in the day the pupil's mental and physical conditions are in a harmony which does not obtain later. The morning finds the brain alert and active ready to deal with the problems connected with the day's work, but these powers diminish as the day progresses and are not renewed until the quiet of evening. For these reasons the rule throughout the educational world is to have the High school sessions begin at earliest hours of convenience in the morning, and end early in afternoon. Then comes the period of relaxation, when in play or in other form of diversion the brain receives the stimulus necessary for the evening study.

Do the Quincy High school pupils have the benefit of this ideal arrangement? Are they obtaining the best results from the hours devoted to their lessons? Are they and their parents, to whom their children's educational uplift is one of the objects nearest their hearts, receiving a square deal? It is not too strong to term as criminal the neglect which has permitted the development of the present conditions. The pupils have been deprived of the mental advancement which is their due, and have been subjected to an inconvenience the only bright side of which is the toleration shown them and their parents.

Library House Sold for $182

The old house on the Thomas Crane Library grounds know as the New Adams house, was sold at auction Wednesday afternoon by Auctioneer Johnson. There were quite a number present, but few bidders.

The terms of the sale were cash the building to be torn down and removed inside of thirty days. The property was sold in four parcles, viz., the shed, the L, the chimney and the foundation and the main house.

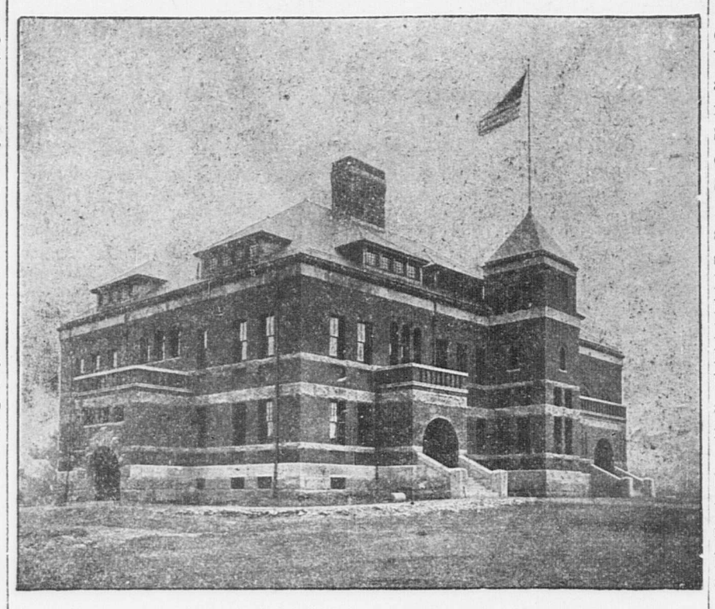

G. B. Bates was the purchaser of three parcels, and James M. Nowland of the fourth, which was the main house.

The shed sold for $8, the L for $37, the foundation for $65, and the main house $72, or a total of $182.

—The railroads west of Chicago have decided to ask the interstate commerce commission to act as an arbiter in all disputes with their employees. The interstate commerce commission bids fair to be the busiest public body in the United States. THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Mayor Thompson Explains the Contract and the Situation.

Editors Daily Ledger:

As the date of the municipal election draws near much inspired criticism and many unfounded rumors and misleading statements and advertisements made and circulated for campaign purposes are heard and seen regarding the enlargement of our High school.

I desire to give to the public some pertinent facts in regard to the situation relating thereto.

For a period of about three years prior to my assuming the office of Mayor the City Council had been at issue relative to enlarging the High School building and no solution of the problem appeared to be in sight. During all this time no very great public outcry was heard about inadequate school accommodations or the delay in procuring better. Immediately upon assuming office I took up this matter and owing to certain efforts made by me in certain directions and along certain lines the atmosphere cleared and an enlarged High School building became not a theory but a reality.

The City Council then passed an order providing for an enlargement of the then existing building according to plans bearing the approval of the School Committee, the one board which by the provisions of the City Charter must make an approval of plans, before an appropriation for a school building can be made.

Bids were then called for and it was found to be impossible to construct the building according to the plans within the appropriation made by the Council. An additional appropriation was then made by the Council, the same becoming available in the early part of the current year, and but two bids were received within the limit. The contract was then awarded on January 19, 1907 to Rufus E. Lord who came before us with very high recommendations.

By the terms of the contract all the new building, including sanitaries, steam heating system, and that portion of the first and second floors of the old building now used for class rooms was to be completed on or before September 1, 1906, and the remodelling of the assembly hall in the old building was to be completed on or before October 20, 1906.

A clause was inserted in the contract providing for a per diem payment as liquidated damages for failure to complete the work upon the dates named, and a bond in 25 percentum of the cost was required from the contractor for the faithful performance of the work. Further the contractor could only receive 85 percentum of all labor and materials furnished during the progress of the work.

Everything possible that could be done to safeguard the interests of the City and to expedite the completion of the work has been done by this administration.

As to where the blame attaches for the failure to have the work completed within the times specified a committee of the City Council is now investigating and until its report is made it ill-becomes me to say, but I challenge any one to show where an iota of blame can be placed upon the executive department. I will further state that I requested the Committee to investigate fully and report as speedily as possible

A careful study of the financial statement of the City will show a large balance still available toward construction of the building, it being my desire and aim to prevent a repetition of the Willard school affair where the city was called upon to take the work from the contractor and finish the building at an enormous additional outlay.

As matters now stand, within a very few days the building will be ready for occupancy. The furniture has been ordered and part of the same is already in transit.

Certain rumors having gone forth that preference was given to certain sub-contractors upon the request of this administration, I desire to brand the same as unqualifiedly false and malicious, excepting a request was made of the contractor that preference be given to Quincy labor and Quincy sub-contractors, all other things being equal.

In conclusion I wish to say that were it not for the efforts by the Mayor, already referred to, it is most probable that even now no construction of the enlarged building would be under way.

James Thompson.

Confirmation by Bishop Lawrence

The Rev. William Lawrence, D. D., preached and confirmed sixteen persons in St. Chrysostom's church on Wednesday evening, one candidate for confirmation coming from Christ church Quincy. Bishop Lawrence preached from the text, "Thy statutes have been my songs in the house of my pilgrimage"—Psalms 119:54. He brought out the point that no matter what our occupation or vocation, the man who goes about his labor with a song on his lips is the man who does well. And the bishop laid emphasis on the famtly life being one in which the singing heart should predominate, making home a place of harmony and peace.

The fall term of the public schools and the Woodward Institute will close Wednesday Dec. 19, and the new year will begin Wednesday, Jan. 2. This gives the High school pupils but fifteen more days at the Woodward building.

Citizens Associaton Pass on Candidates

A largely attended meeting of the Citizens' Association was held Wednesday evening, and the special committee to consider candidates for the City election reported through their chairman, Hon. Russell A. Sears.

After considerable debate the report was amended relative to both candidates for Mayor, and as adopted read as follows:

CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR.

William T. Shea, Democratic candidate for Mayor is a general contractor. He was born in Quincy and has lived here all his life. He bears an excellent reputation in his business; is personally a man of easy approach and popular among those to whom he is known. He has been for years prominent in Democratic politics and is today a member of the State Committee, of which organization he has been a member for the last eight or nine years. He was a member of the first Council and of the Sewer Board for five years.

He is a man of good character and a believer in the principles represented by the no-license voters, has always been a total abstainer and has said to your committee that he believes in a firm enforcement of the liquor law; that he is opposed to the further and indiscriminate granting of licenses for the transportation of liquor into Quincy, and that if elected Mayor he will closely scrutinize all applications for licenses which come to him for approval, and will require that the applicant shall have been in business as a bona fide expressman for such a period of time preceding his application as will satisfy him that transportation of liquor is simply an incident to his business.

He states openly that in the advent of his election he will not be bound by party ties, but will attempt to appoint to office only those men who by their training and temperament are fitted for office, and has intimated strongly that there will be a change in the personnel of the present city officials so far as one or two of the more important officers are concerned.

James Thompson, Republican candidate for Mayor, is in the granite business and has been a resident of Quincy for many years. In business, his reputation is excellent, his personal character without stain. He has been a member of the first City Council; served three years in the Legislature where his record is to be commended; has been Mayor for the past two years and has with some exceptions given a satisfactory administration. He is personally honest and efficient. It appears that the Mayor has not made or authorized any pledge or promise in his behalf to be made concerning whom he would or would not appoint to office if re-elected Mayor. He has said to your committee that he is a firm believer in the enforcement of the liquor law; that he is oppossed to the further granting of licenses for the transportation of liquor; and that he will use his best endeavors if elected to enforce the law in those localities in the city that are suspected of indulging in the sale or traffic of liquor.

Maiden Trip of Vermont

A large crowd was at the Quincy Point bridge Thanksgiving morning to see the battleship Vermont start on her maiden trip. The weather was bitter cold, and the wind swept across the bridge, making it extremely uncomfortable for the crowd. Had it been warmer a much larger number would probably have beenpresent.

Four tugs from T wharf, viz., Confidence, Active, Juno and Peter W. French, arrived about 8 o'clock, and immediately began their work of getting the Vermont out. The tugs were in charge of Commodore Edward Evans of the T wharf fleet, and Capt. Francis Cleverley was in the pilot house of the Vermont.

It was about 8.40 when she began to back out of her dock. She was backed up the river so that her bow pointed toward the bridge. As she started to move forward the shrill sirene whistles on the Vermont sent out the signal. She moved along gracefully and at 9.10 o'clock passed through the draw.

She went through as easily as could be, without touching either side. She was so near the bridge, however, it looked as though one could easily have leaped on board.

The job of getting her out through the crooked channel into deep water was fully as difficult a job as getting her through the draw. It was accomplished without a hitch, however.

The Vermont steamed about the harbor all day and behaved beautifully. She anchored in the harbor over night, and went into dry dock at Charlestown Navy Yard at 11 o'clock today. Her official trials will be held off Rockland, Me., next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Blaze on High School Grounds

The alarm from Box 28 at 5.48 this morning called the department to a fire in the High school yard among some crates filled with straw. The crates were originally filled with plumbers fixtures, which had been removed, and it was the intention of the plumber to ship the crates back to Boston. Someone applied a match to one of the crates and the fire resulted. They made quite a blaze but the fire department soon extinguished it.

Rheumatism Badly Cripples A Baldwinsville Farmer

URIC-O Quickly Cured Him.

Treated 2 Years With a High-Priced Physician With No Success.

Mr. Frank Howe, a prominent farmer it the town of Van Buren, says: "I visited the best physician in Syracuse, who treated me for about two years for rheumatism. I spent in that time several hundred dollars and sermed to grow worse instead of better each day. Being on crutches and forced to drive to the train and hobbling to the doctor's office became very discouraging, let alone the sleepless nights and fearful hours of pain. I was advised to quit doctoring and try Smiths' Specific Uric-O. I purchased a seventy-five cent bottle, took it home and used it that day as directed.

"Those fearful sciatic pains left me, my blood seemed to let loose and flow freely. I felt different and knew the next morning I had found a cure, as I slept and rested well all that night, something I had not done before in two years. I used in all six bottles of Uric-O and have never felt a return of the disease, had no use for crutches or cane since the first day's treatment. I know that Uric-O does not contain Alcohol or opiates and that it works in a wonderful way on the blood, bladder, muscles and kidneys and is the only way on earth to cure rheumatism."

Frank Howe.
Baldwinsville, N. Y., R. F. D.

Uric-O is sold at seventy-five cents per bottle, is a liquid internal treatment good for rheumatism only, and will cure each and every case of rheumatism if properly used. Samples and circulars will be cheerfully sent free by addressing The Smith Drug Company, Syracuse, N. Y.

Uric-O is sold in Quincy by E. J. Murphy, who highly recommends the remedy.

ON HIS OWN ROAD

President Spencer of the Southern Railway Is Killed

SIX OTHERS MEET DEATH

Philip Schuyler, New York Capitalist, and Other Guests of Railway King Become Victims of Rear End Collision

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 30.—Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern railway, and recognized as one of the foremost of the railroad kings of the United States, ranking with Harriman and Hill in the magnitude of the railroad interests controlled by him, was killed in a wreck on his own road.

He was the intimate friend of J. Pierpont Morgan, who is reported on the verge of collapse since he heard of Spencer's death.

Mr. Spencer's private car bore the brunt of a rear-end collision between two fast passenger trains 10 miles south of here, and most of his guests, who were going with him on a hunting trip, were killed, including Philip Schuyler, one of the most noted capitalists of New York, and a member of one of Gotham's most famous families.

Immediately after the collision Spencer's car caught fire and his body was burned almost beyond recognition, as were those of some of the other victims. In all, seven people were killed and over 15 were injured, some very seriously.

The dead: Samuel Spencer of New York; Charles D. Fisher, Baltimore; Philip Schuyler, New York; Francis T. Redwood, Baltimore; D. W. Davis, Alexandria, Va., private dispatcher to Spencer; William Pollard, porter on Spencer's car, who died in a hospital here; an unknown person, with head and limbs burned off short, believed to be the third porter on the private car, who is missing. His name cannot be learned.

The collision was between the Jacksonville express and the Washington and Southwestern vestibuled limited. The Jacksonville train stopped on the top of a very heavy grade a mile north of Lawyers to repair a slight breakdown and before a flagman could get back to protect the train, the limited dashed into it.

The heavy engine of the train plowed into the private car of Spencer, which was attached to the rear of the Jacksonville train, in which he and his guests are supposed to have been sleeping. Immediately the private car caught fire. The wreckage was piled around the engine as though placed there by human hands to be consumed. Every portion of woodwork on the engine was burned and the monster machine stands there torn and twisted.

President Spencer's body was lying directly under the big locomotive of the rear train. So great was the force of the impact that the forward train was sent at least 150 feet ahead, the locomotive going over and upon the body of Spencer. Until after the debris burned itself out and the engine cooled off the bodies could not be removed.

The impact drove the combination car forward and the express car lifted up, together with its trucks, and crushed the car 40 feet, leaving the remainder of the car strewn with tons of baggage and negro passengers, who were pushed back like rats as the express car crushed the combination car.

The Jacksonville train was composed of a mail car, combination day, baggage and passenger coach, two Pullmans and Spencer's car, which was at the rear. The sleeper in front of Spencer's car was wrecked, but not burned. The regular day coach and a forward Pullman were practically uninjured, but the combination coach, second from the engine, was crushed, and it was in this car that all the negroes among the wounded were hurt. They were unable to escape from the baggage hurled on them, and many would have died but for the prompt rescue work.

Several cases were reported in which persons ransacked the wrecked cars for plunder. Some of the passengers are said to have participated in this and a large amount of valuables and money scattered about the debris was taken.

The Jacksonville express had the right of way in the block and the engine broke away from the train and proceeded two miles, one of which was beyond Lawyers, before the engineer noticed he was without his train. It may be that when he passed Lawyers that the operator gave Rangoon a clear block without noticing whether the rear end markers were to be seen before he did so.

In the absence of an official statement, excepting that the operator at Rangoon was at fault, that statement is being accepted here. It is possible that a railway investigation may develop that the Rangoon operator let the Atlanta train into the block on an order from Lawyers that the block was clear, the operator there thinking the trainless engine cleared the block, and the rear train was past Rangoon before it could be stopped when the mistake was discovered. Should the investigation show that the Lawyers operator gave a clear track after the engineer passed his station without noticing the rear end markers, then the cause of the accident was at Lawyers and not at Rangoon. Only an official investigation will reveal this.

D. J. Maddux, the operator at Rangoon, who was on duty at the time of the accident, has disappeared and he cannot be found, although railway officials have made an effort to locate him.

President Spencer's destination was Friendship, N. C., where he was going on a hunting trip with Messrs. Schuyler, Fisher, Redwood and Merrill as his guests.

Morgan Shocked by Spencer's Death

New York, Nov. 30.—News of the death of Samuel Spencer reached J. P. Morgan just as he was about to enter Grace church to attend the special Thanksgiving day services. He was so overcome when informed of the tragic death of the man with whom he had been so closely associated that friends were obliged to assist him to enter a carriage in which he was driven directly home. He trembled until his limbs gave way.

TWO SCORE KILLED

Explosion of Roburite Factory May Have Been an Outrage

Dortmund, Nov. 30.—The explosion of the reburite factory near Annen resulted, so far as is known, in the deaths of 40 persons. Many others were so seriously injured that there is no hope of their living. Many persons have not yet been accounted for. Among the wounded are about 200 employes of the factory, and the total of persons dangerously and slightly injured amounts to several hundred.

Pioneers succeeded in removing the roburite from the vaults beneath the factory and there is now no danger of further explosions. The damage is estimated at $500,000.

The concussion was felt for a radius of eight miles. Owing to the bursting of their ear-drums by the concussion, a number of persons have been totally deprived of their hearing. The physicians in attendance regard the condition of 38 of the wounded as hopeless.

On the main road to Annen all the houses were razed to the ground, the bodies of the killed being terribly mutilated. The surviving parents dragged their sleeping children from their beds, collected their portable possessions and fled from the collapsing houses.

Experts declare that, considering the great precautions with which the explosives were stored, the disaster can only have resulted from some outrage. Emperor William has directed General Von Scholl to visit Annen and Witten and has subscribed $6250 for the relief of the sufferers.

Hunter Loses Both Hands

Keene, N. H., Nov. 30.—George Burns, a farmer of Sullivan, was seriously injured in a mysterious manner while out hunting. It is believed, however, that there were some dynamite cartridges in the pocket of a borrowed overcoat which he wore and that they exploded. It was found necessary to amputate both of Burns' hands. The man also received serious injuries to his legs, head and face, but the doctors say that he may recover.

Strangled and Skull Crushed

New York, Nov. 30.—With her skull crushed and the finger prints of a strangler plainly marked on her throat, the body of Mrs. Catherina P. Bellamo, an Italian, aged 24, was found in her home in a rear tenement here. She had been dead several hours. Vincenzo Bellawo, a brother-in-law of the dead woman, who found the body, has been detained by the police as a witness.

New Northwestern Settlement

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 30.—A contract has been entered into between the Canadian Pacific with the Vancouver Island Development company to clear 150,000 acres of land in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway grant on Vancouver island, recently acquired by that railroad The work will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.

Turkey Needs Sharp Prod

Tangier, Nov. 30.—The American minister, Mr. Gummere, is reported to have left Fez, the capital, without obtaining satisfaction from the sultan in regard to the claims for indemnity made by citizens of the United States for alleged outrages, or assurances regarding the safety of American citizens resident in Morocco.

Detained In Port by Storm

North Sydney, N. S., Nov. 30.—The Arctic steamer Roosevelt is now ready to sail for New York, but, owing to a heavy storm which is now raging along the coast, Captain Bartlett has decided to remain in port until the storm abates.

Sinking Island Yarn Untrue

Mexico City, Nov. 30.—Eugene Motz, Chilean consul to Mexico City, has received an official notice from his government to the effect that the report that Juan Fernandez island had sunk into the ocean was untrue.

Famous Trotter Changes Hands

New York, Nov. 30.—Sweet Marie, the famous trotting mare, with a record of 2:02, was sold at the Old Glory horse sale for $14,000, E. T. Stetesbury, a Philadelphia banker, being the purchaser.

Schooner at Bottom of Lake

Rochester, Nov. 30.—Schooner Queen of The Lakes sprung aleak and sank in Lake Ontario. The crew of six reached shore safely, but in an exhausted condition.

Hawaiian Solons Want More Pay

Honolulu, Nov. 30.—The members-elect of the Hawaiian legislature will ask the United States to raise their pay to $1000 a session.

PEACE SUBJECTS

Submitted to President Roosevelt For Consideration

HIS INFLUENCE IS ASKED

Efforts by Peace Society to Have Delegates to The Hague Conference Act Upon Half a Dozen Specified Subjects

Boston, Nov. 30.—The American Peace society made public in this city a letter which has been forwarded to President Roosevelt in connection with arbitration on matters of international dispute and dealing also with the reduction of armaments by international agreement. The letter follows:

The directors of the American Peace society, in common with their fellow citizens of the whole country, believe that the foundations of peace among the nations, which were established by The Hague conference of 1899, can be further materially strengthened by the approaching conference of 1907.

We appreciate the high service rendered by you in taking the initiative in calling the conference, and in throwing the weight of your personal influence and of the great position which you occupy to make the conference when it meets a conspicuous success. It is our wish to support the government in every way towards this end, and we hope to see the United States representatives in the conference take a leading position in its deliberations.

The demands of an enlightened public opinion on this great subject have been expressed in many ways, notably through the interparliamentary union, the Mohonk arbitration conference, the peace congresses and many other organizations. We venture respectfully, on behalf of the American Peace society, to suggest that the following important subjects should constitute a part of the program of the conference, and we hope that the delegates from this country may be instructed to use their best efforts to see that these subjects are given careful consideration:

1—The further development of the permanent court of arbitration and the conclusion of a treaty of obligatory arbitration, as general as possible, to be signed by all the powers of the world.

2—The creation of a periodic congress or parliament of the nations, either by asking The Hague conference, itself permanent, periodic and automatic, or in whatever other way the wisdom of the conference may determine.

3—The limitation and, if possible, the reduction of armaments by international agreement, as proposed by the British government and house of commons, and supported by the governments of France and Italy.

4—The creation of an international commission for the codification of the generally accepted principles of international law, and the study and development of those principles about which there is disagreement, thus raising the law of nations to a higher status than it now occupies, and making it a true body of world law for the better guidance of international relations hereafter.

5—Provision that differences which nations exclude from arbitration the cause affecting vital interests or national honor shall, before recourse to hostilities, be referred for examination to a commission of inquiry, who shall make a public report of their judgment thereon.

6—The immunity from capture of all unoffending private property at sea in time of war.

Steamer Had Rough Voyage

New York, Nov. 30.—Steamship Italia arrived here several days overdue, owing to her having encountered tempestuous weather, which resulted in several persons being painfully injured. The Italia sailed from Naples Nov. 6. On the 18th she met with a violent storm, which lasted the greater part of seven days. One of the incidents of the voyage was the rescue of a baby which had fallen from the arms of its mother and was shuffled about the deck of the pitching vessel. Half a dozen sailors saved the child with difficulty. The baby's arm was broken.

Firebug In Tenement Houses

New York, Nov. 30.—Two fires, believed by the police to be the work of an incendiary, broke out last night in tenements within a block of each other in Columbus avenue and drove the 40 families in the buildings to the street in a panic. In one fire two aged persons were rescued by the police with great difficulty. In the other three firemen were overcome by smoke and one was hurt by a fall.

WEAK AND FOOTSORE

Francis Surrenders After Long Baffling His Pursuers

Bangor, Me., Nov. 30.—Driven to seek assistance at a habitation by the pangs of hunger and the ravages of exposure, Minot St. Clair Francis, who escaped from the state prison at Thomaston Nov. 12, was captured without resistance at Glenburn, a small town 10 miles north of Bangor.

Although the officers were right on his trail from the start, the fugitive, by an exhibition of marvelous cunning and almost superhuman endurance, succeeded in baffling them for two and a half weeks, and was only captured when physically unable to continue.

Francis was in a weak condition, due principally to the lack of food and loss of blood from blisters on his feet. Both feet had been frozen badly, so that he walked with difficulty. Because of his inability to find shoes large enough for his swollen feet, Francis was forced during the past few days to wear lumbermen's gum rubbers, which caused great discomfort.

The capture was affected at the house of A. L. Grover. Francis called there and, after admitting his identity, asked for something to eat. He was given breakfast and then granted permission to sleep in the barn. Mrs. Grover sent the information that the much hunted man was in the vicinity to the city. The officers were hurried out and surrounded the barn, whereupon Francis surrendered without objection.

Not an American Citizen

Hirbour had been visiting here and was returning to his home in Waterbury when he was stopped by United States inspectors. Hirbour, who was born in Canada, is unable to produce naturalization papers.

The governor of Nizhni Novogrod has been summoned to answer the charge of standing sponsor for Lidvall.

Arbitration Agreed Upon

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 30.—The street railway strike was practically settled last night when the company and strikers signed an agreement to leave all matters in dispute to arbitration. The members of the Ontario railway and municipal board will act as arbitrators. It is understood that the company will take back a majority of the strikers, pending a settlement. The company has promised to improve its system and equipment.

EDUCATION TODAY

Address of Headmaster C. F. Harper At Wollaston

Charles F. Harper, Esq., headmaster of the Quincy High school, was the principal speaker at the Men's Club of the Wollaston Congregational church on Tuesday evening and is reported as follows:

Herbert Spencer says education is preparation for complete living. A better definition is that education is training for social efficiency.

He who is socially efficient must be alive physically and intellectually; must be able to command all his facilties and to make them do his bidding; must have the disposition and will to make him work as hard as any honest man ought to work; must be the master of his part as well as of the whole of his vocation; must have the tendency toward sound and appropriate conduct which we call character; and must possess culture.

Young men and women must live in a many sided world; act a special part related to other parts; have a vocation; use general intelligence in the affairs of society; and acquire knowledge both for the sake of discipline and that they may be able to reason accurately and act wisely in all emergencies of life.

From education should come strong bodies, independent characters, ability to form intelligent opinions, taste for the finer things of life, good manners and the ability to bring out the best in those who are friends or associates.

Power as well as knowledge should result from the education of today. Difficult subjects must be taught in attractive ways; but the young mind must do mental tasks which are difficult, if it wishes to become a deep thinker, just as the boy must take vigorous exercise if he wishes to make an athlete.

Every pupil should have opportunities to acquire general culture; to train his hand by manual training taught for its educational value as well as for preparation for immediate usefulness; and to gain an insight into business through commercial courses of educational value and which prepare him for usefulness in some business career.

In this country, at this time, when indifference to public concerns, false ideals of patriotism, perverted conceptions of the meaning of public office, have gained some hold, education alone will make safe voters, legislators and citizens by giving instructions in the principles which underlie the complex problems of political, commercial, and industrial life.

When this country was young, the little red school house with its traditional 3 R's, met the demand for education. Much of the credit given to this series of subjects belongs to the lessons which were learned through privations, sufferings, and hard labor. Since then everything has changed—buying, selling, traveling and means of communications. Education alone can not remain unchanged and unchangeable.

The time of high school education is from 13 to 18, when the child is changing into manhood and womanhood, and when he is beginning to solve the riddles of the universe; when the standards, ideals and restraints of childhood are going and self-control and self-mastery have not come; and when through love of adventure, courage and hardship, he is ready to try great feats of strength, endurance, skill and daring.

To the boy or girl at this age the High school brings a blending of knowledge and discipline called culture; aids the family in developing habits of order and obedience; helps the child to relate himself more intelligently and fruitfully to the forces about him; teaches the real value of health, property, work and man; gives a knowledge of political, industrial, commercial and enducational activities, and prepares for good citizenship.

Today at graduation from the High school, the youth has had opportunities to gain an appreciation of literature, to acquire the use of English with something of ease, vigor and accuracy; to secure a knowledge of history; to experiment in science; to study classical and modern languages; to use his hand as well as his mind; and to develop a strong body through physical education.

Modern education has erred when it has demanded that those who are to be doers should be taught to do at once. Things once neglected have been greatly overdone. Practical subjects have pushed aside others which train and demand rapid, consecutive, accurate thought. Although it is desirable for a boy to have an ambition to fill high places, his studies should be arranged with the conviction that the chances are that he will be obliged to follow one of the humbler occupations of life.

While the school has a right to expect much from its teachers, the limitations of pupils must not be overlooked.

Two courses of the greatest importance are omitted from the program of subjects offered in our high school—manual training and physical culture. They both prepare the youth directly for lives of usefulness and for work or leadership among workers. The serious purposes of life ought to receive full consideration. Preparation for them is as honorable and important as art, literature or science.

Today the working boy or girl needs that combination of qualities which will enable him to turn with facility from one occupation to another, as fast as industrial evolution deprives him of means of earning a living when so called practical courses are placed side by side with intellectual courses; and when due weight is attached to the scope and meaning of each, then they are dignified and made worthy of choice by pupils from any social class.

Formerly men lived out of doors, worked hard, and did hard work. Today they live mostly indoors and are losing the strength and suppleness of body which they used to possess. Perfect physical development is rarely found and nervous diseases are prevalent. Some physical educations in every school should point out weaknesses and defects, and prescribe and require corrective exercises for all pupils. Spinal curvature, narrow chests, round shoulders and delicate appetites should be banished from the school room.

Every course should be preceded by an appropriate general as well as technical education. Social classes and social distinctions cannot exist in this country if the purpose of the nation remains unchanged. The rich and the poor, the professional and the laborer, must secure their training side by side. Equal opportunities for all must be the motto at all times.

Finally, all boys and girls should receive a high school education, because their chances for usefulness, happiness and success are greatly increased, and because those who go through life without such an education are liable to fail to come even into the slightest relation with the higher elements which constitutes life itself.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTIONS.

Why Not Make a Lamp Shade For a Gift?

Lamp and candle shades, whether purchased in the shops or made at home, are mighty nice Christmas gifts for the woman who entertains. The following suggestions may be helpful to those in search of novelties in this line: The newest shades for candles are of a thin metal substance perforated in more or less elaborate designs and lined with silks of different colors. These are most effective: The silver metal over pink or light blue and the gold over yellow or even over red, which gives almost a gaudy appearance.

These metal shades seem to have come as a reaction from the craze for beads, for not only beaded fringes, but whole shades made of tiny beads, have been universally seen. The reaction, however, seems to be by no means complete, for beads are still very much in evidence. Many of the shades of metal are finished with bead fringes that match the silk lining in color, while others are simply cut in rather deep points and have no trimming at the lower edge.

In spite of beads and metals, however, the candle shade of the fluffy "frilly" variety still obtains, and silks and ribbons and even tulle combine to make the daintiest shades imaginable. Of white and pink and blue and yellow they are charming in effect. The flower shades are very attractive. The lamp shade shown in the illustration is not difficult to make and is sure to prove an acceptable gift. It is made entirely of paper.

ed by wires which pass through holes in the cardboard and are then pinched firmly to hold them in place. It is a good plan to run another wire around the top band. Fig. 2.—Tie the bead on to the strip of paper two or three times to make it firm, and then cut the ends neatly and screw up the paper to hide them. NOVEL LAUNDRY BAG.

Christmas Gift That the Orderly Housewife Will Appreciate.

A novel laundry bag convenient and easily made has just appeared. It has two compartments, is flat and does not draw up like other receptacles for this purpose. To make this useful contrivance, two pieces of any desired material, as denim, cretonne, chintz or gingham, not necessarily alike if they will contrast well, are cut to form a bag, except that one piece is cut four inches longer than the other and is then slanted off to a point, this extension much resembling the flap of an envelope, and coming at the bottom of the bag. A third piece of white muslin is cut the same size as the part without the extension, and is placed between the two colored portions.

The bag has no mouth, as it is understood, the even edges of the three parts being basted together, then bound with a braid or ribbon, sewing up what would ordinarily be the mouth of the bag. The sides are then bound, taking in the three straight edges, and, lastly, the flap is bound. About three inches below the top of the bag a couple of rows of stitching are taken about an inch apart, forming a runner, and through this is run a short length of a wooden lath, acting like a draw string. Just below this runner in the center a vertical slit is cut on the two colored pieces, which must also be bound on their edges. Through these the soiled clothes are slipped. Then the flap is brought upward in the same way as you would seal an envelope were it inverted, and is secured by buttons and buttonholes, one on each corner of the flap. A cord is fastened at each end of the lath and forms a hanger. You will now discover the bag to be really two bags, the white intersection forming a partition.

When it is desired to remove the contents of the bag all that is necessary is to open the flaps, and everything immediately drops out—no pulling or tugging at draw strings, either in filling or emptying, the slits are most conveniently placed for slipping things into quickly, and only a moment is consumed in releasing the flaps, revealing at a glance the contents of the bag,

AUTO HUNTING CAMP.

Ingenious Vehicle Which Boston Sportsmen Will Use In Maine.

Automobiles are being used for about everything nowadays, but a party of Boston sportsmen have started on a trip which will put their forty horsepower motor car to a unique use, says a special dispatch to the New York Tribune. They will use it as a traveling hunting camp, eating and sleeping in it while in the Maine woods. Mr. Roy A. Faye is the owner of the car, which has been remodeled above the chassis to meet the requirements for the hunting trip. A piece of canvas has been sewed to the extraordinarily large hood, to be extended out fourteen feet in front of the machine and staked down to the ground, providing, with the car, a camp twenty-seven and a half feet long. This arrangement is only to be used in wet weather, however, when a fire may be started in a portable stove and the cooking done under cover.

Inside the car are four bunks, two on each side, made to offset from the side of the car so that all four beds may be made up, straps placed across them and then the bunks folded up like sleeping car berths. There is a pneumatic mattress for each berth. A pair of army blankets, a thin rubber blanket and a pillow complete the outfit for each berth.

The driver's seat contains the storage or dry batteries for ignition and for lighting the car. An ingenious device is used on the storage cells. A small dynamo generates electricity and stores it while the car is running, and when the car is stopped there is plenty of current for lighting and other purposes. In the other seat are stored tools, spare parts, inner tubes and ammunition. In the back of this seat are the provisions, carried in tin boxes made especially to fit this space. The icebox, which slides under the chassis, is made to pull out like a drawer. In this the meat and game are to be kept.

Though the body of the car is strong, yet it is as light as is consistent for the work expected. The frame is made of hickory strips about nine inches apart as far up as the top bunk and then weatherproof canvas painted black from there over the top. There are four iron rods inside to keep the canopy from spreading. The back is made to open in order to unload or store from each end. Heavy curtains are placed at the end of each bed to protect the sleepers in rain or cold winds.

The car is also equipped with a small radiator heated by the hot water circulation of the engine. A complete aluminium camp outfit of plates, frying pans, pots and kettles is carried.

QUENTIN IN NEW ROLE.

How President Roosevelt's Youngest Son Confused Class Room.

For a few seconds the other day Quentin, youngest son of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, created an uproar in one of the class rooms of Force school, on Massachusetts avenue in Washington, where he is enrolled as a pupil, says the Washington Post. It is said he assumed the prerogatives of his teacher for a brief period while she was out of the room.

The teacher had been making an effort to impress upon the pupils the evil of overindulgence in certain beverages.

"All those who drink coffee for their breakfast may stand," she said.

A large portion of the school arose, and then the teacher said:

"Now, all those who take tea either in the morning or evening may arise."

Again a part of the school stood.

Just at that moment the teacher was called from the room. As she disappeared through the door Quentin jumped to his feet, held up his hand to command attention and said:

"All those who take champagne for their lunch may now stand on their heads."

The Red Man's Signature.

Indian chiefs treating with the government now have to append their thumb prints to the documents instead of cross marks, as hitherto, says the Chicago Journal. The reason is that chiefs have frequently repudiated the cross marks and the obligations involved. The first document was recently signed by thumb print. It was a treaty between the government and the Umatilla Indians of Washington to allow cattle to cross the Indian reservation unharmed.

Meadows Around the Pyramids.

A progressive Arab of Cairo is sinking wells and installing irrigation pumps at the foot of the pyramid of Cheops, and the sphinx, after gazing thousands of years on sand wastes, soon will be looking out on green fields, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. This is one of the many demonstrations of the change from the old to the new Egypt.

Automania In Cactus Land.

Have you seen a whiskered miner,
Whose name is Pocket Mike?
He's burnin' up the desert
In a smelly, four wheeled bike.
He struck a pocket somewheres
That paid diamonds to the ton,
And he yells: "Bring me an auto.
I have long been needin' one.

"I'm tired," he says, "of punchin'
Them burro beasts o' mine.
So fetch me a red devil
That can go one-forty-nine.
Don't give me no blamed chuffer,
But let me take the wheel.
I'll play this game lone handed,
So jest watch me make the deal."

He's stampeded seven roundups,
And he's wrecked an ostrich farm,
And f'm Cactus clean to Kyote
He has left a trail of harm;
So we're huntin' with a posse
For this benzine crazy cuss,
And he'll see a day of sorrer—
If that thing don't stampede us!

BASKET FISH.

When Dried, the Queer Arms Closely Resemble Plaster of Paris.

At its marine residence, away down in deep water, the name on the door plate would be "Astrophyton," and it belongs to a species called ophiurans. It has a well marked control disk, not unlike a clam, but has no shell. From this central body radiate arms, five in number, like those of the familiar starfish, and these arms are divided into minute branches, like the twigs on a tree, until they number in some cases a thousand separately defined hairlike tendrils. While the body is not large, the branches when extended measure about eighteen inches in diameter. The creature has the power of incurling these branches until it closely resembles a shallow dish. This it does when caught and about to die, remaining in that shape when dried.

It has been given the name of basket fish. It frequently (when caught by a dredge, for that is the only way it can be taken) throws off these arms or parts of them, so that a perfect specimen is hard to be procured in its natural condition.

These arms and their subdivisions are almost white when dried and closely resemble plaster of paris. They are very brittle, easily broken and cannot be repaired. The fish live among the roots of seaweeds and are supposed to feed upon these, moving about by wriggling and clambering with their arms or fastening upon the roots and pulling themselves along.

Most of the knowledge regarding their habits is conjecture, for none have been taken alive and kept for sufficient time to give them proper examination and study.—St. Nicholas.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG.

Be Hopeful, Avoid Worry and See the Amusing Side of Life.

Women more than men are possessed with a dread of growing old, not realizing that maturity has its charms and compensations. We wish young people oftener had it impressed upon them that they may provide for a happy old age by laying up a reserve of sound health and a store of happy memories as well as by cultivating tastes and resources which will outlast youth. As for those who are already approaching middle age, there is no surer way to grow old prematurely than to dread the future. It is essential, if we wish to keep young, to cultivate that hopeful habit of mind so characteristic of youth—the hope which makes one able to say with Browning, "The best is yet to come," and with Lucy Larcum, "Every year life is larger and deeper and more beautiful in its possibilities." Allied with this attitude of expectancy must be the ability to see the amusing side of life. Worry and vexation over what would better be laughed at result in disfiguring wrinkles. Above all, if the years bring us, as they should, a better understanding of ourselves, a broadening of active human sympathies, a firmer faith in Providence, we shall find life abundantly worth the living, no matter what may be the number of our birthdays.—Western Review.

The Heart of a Child.

That which disparages us and quickens revolt is no less a factor in a child's emotional life. But there is this difference—we have the better opportunity to defend ourselves and to obtain reparation. So there is a certain pathetic pleasure in standing with humanity where its joys, its longings, its embarrassments and its disappointments are simplest and newest, and, perforce, where impotency is absolute. Give me this most uncommercial, this divinest of enterprises for my own! Give me a child to be at home with, to be in absolute confidence with! If I cannot refashion my warped, wrinkled and discolored old soul into the unbiased graces and the ethereal purity of the spirit of the child, let me now and again open that little door and shut myself in that little heart, just for the sheer delight of it.—Patterson Du Bois in Success Magazine.

Bad For Tall Hats.

New Year's eve, which is sacred to St. Sylvester, is celebrated in Berlin by the blowing of tin horns, the ringing of bells and all other devices for making a noise. The only horse play indulged in is at the expense of the wearer of the silk tile. Any one on the street is privileged to bring his cane down on the crown of the offending headgear as hard and as often as he can. When the man with the dilapidated hat complains to the police the only consolation he gets is, "It serves you right for wearing it on Sylvester night."

Low Down.

"You are anaemic," says the physician after thumping and prodding. "You should practice deep breathing."

"Deep breathing!" retorts the patient. "Why, doctor, that is just what I do all the time. I work in a subway cellar sixty feet below the street level."—Judge.
